AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 29.

An Act to provide for the expenses of the Extraordinary Session of the Legislature assembled May fourth Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-six in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor of the Commonwealth dated April twenty-seventh Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-six

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 5, line 14, by inserting after the figures "($250)" the words and figures "each five hundred dollars ($500)."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. WALL asked and obtained leave of absence for the balance of the week after today's session.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HARKINS, from the Committee on Education, reported as amended, House Bill No. 44, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred and one of the act, approved the twenty-second day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 853), entitled "An act relating to taxation; designating the subjects, property and persons subject to and exempt from taxation for all local purposes; providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of persons, property and subjects of taxation for county purposes, and for the use of those municipal and quasi-municipal corporations which levy their taxes on county assessments and valuations; amending, revising and consolidating the law relating thereto; and repealing existing laws," making the real estate of public service companies, with certain exceptions, subject to taxation for school purposes.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 29.

An Act to provide for the expenses of the Extraordinary Session of the Legislature assembled May fourth Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-six in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor of the Commonwealth dated April twenty-seventh Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-six

HOUSE BILL No. 14.

An Act ratifying confirming and validating the transfer of money from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund and providing for the subsequent return from the General Fund of the transferred money

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

RESOLUTION

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 14, Printer's No. 82

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas The sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund The State Stores Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund the sum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Fund and the sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000.00) from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) for unemployment relief purposes and

Resolved That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after

May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Resolved That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution (2) appropriating or re-appropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend House Resolution No. 14, Printer's No. 82 to read as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
May 25, 1936.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Whereas, The sum of [six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00)] four million six hundred fifty-five thousand dollars ($4,655,000.00), in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Whereas, There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of money from the Motor License Fund, the State Stores Fund, and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund, the sum one million five hundred [eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00)] eighty thousand dollars ($1,580,000.00) from the Motor License Fund, and the sum of [two million dollars ($2,000,000.00)] five hundred seventy-five thousand dollars ($575,000) from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund, and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of [six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00)] four million six hundred fifty-five thousand dollars ($4,655,000.00) for unemployment relief purposes; and

Resolved, That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution, (2) appropriating or re-appropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of [six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00)] four million six hundred fifty-five thousand dollars ($4,655,000.00), and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not know whether you heard the Clerk read all of this amendment, but simply it reduces the amount of the original appropriation which was eight hundred forty-five thousand plus six million eighty thousand or something over six million nine hundred thousand for the month of May to the sum of five million five hundred thousand dollars that is, it utilizes the eight hundred forty-five thousand of the unexpended balance of relief money and adds to that transfers from funds in the total sum of four million six hundred fifty-five thousand dollars.

Now, the sum of five million five hundred thousand dollars is not an arbitrary sum that has been capriciously arrived at by us, but is taken from the figures as they appear.

There are at the present about one hundred and eighty thousand cases of relief, and according to the statistics for the last couple of weeks, there seems to have been a decrease below the one hundred and eighty thousand level, because while there have been a large number discharged from WPA, they have not as yet been entirely of the total amount discharged from the WPA put on the relief rolls.

I have before me a complete table or series of tables of all the expenditures and payments and cost of relief from the beginning of the SERB in September of 1932 down to and including April of 1936. It is an astounding and very interesting series of figures, and it shows to a great extent what is the trouble with this whole relief situation, and I would like to just point out this to you briefly: back in 1933, in the months of January, February, March, April, and all through the entire year of 1933, the largest amount expended for direct relief was seven million three hundred twenty-three thousand dollars and in that time the largest amount expended for work relief was eight hundred thirty-one thousand or approximately eight million dollars was the largest amount expended for relief throughout the year 1933 in any one month, and in those same months of 1933 the relief load ran from thirty thousand and ninety-one dollars up to as high as four hundred and forty-nine thousand, which is practically more than double the amount of the relief load at the present time. In other words, between direct and work relief the total top expenditure was eight million dollars, and if within that time the number of cases was over double the amount we are now carrying, it seems to me that five million five hundred thousand dollars is an extremely generous amount.

In the second place, if you will take the figures of the Relief Administrator, as to the average grant for relief per month at the present time, it is about twenty-six dollars per month. If you multiply that by one hundred and eighty thousand cases, you will find that you have a figure of somewhere around four million eight hundred thousand, and that would leave, in addition to that, some seven or eight hundred thousand dollars for administration which has been running close to eight hundred thousand dollars a month in spite of the fact that the number of relief cases has fallen from four hundred and thirty-one thousand in September of last year to one hundred and ninety-five thousand in March and one hundred and eighty thousand in April.

The percentage of the cost of administration—this is interesting, too—for 1933 has risen from the figures of 236 and 315 (I am taking these amounts at random) in that year to the figures of this year of 1163, 1184, 1206 and 1256, so that I do not believe that any one who has carefully followed or studied those figures can help but come to the conclusion that the administration cost, as much as it has been reduced in the last few months, is still too high, that the percentage cost of administration in comparison to the large number of cases that we had in 1933 is out of proportion. Therefore, I believe that if we allowed the sum of five million five hundred thousand dollars for the month of June—I am not saying that I am convinced that that is the minimum that we can take, because this is a large organization, it is a large machine, it is a large project, and you can not down a million dollars overnight. You must move along carefully and cautiously, but five million five hundred thousand dollars as opposed to seven million dollars is a large item in these times when we are hunting for money so hard. Therefore, I ask you to vote in favor of the amendment.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. we are this afternoon back exactly at the same position that we were at the very inception of this session, namely, in an effort to determine the amount of money which should be made available for the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes.

Irrespective of how much money we transfer, this Commonwealth has an obligation to provide for the maintenance, the food and the care of the unemployed and, on the other hand, the State Emergency Relief Board has an obligation to the citizens and the taxpayers to provide that unemployment relief in an efficient and able manner.

At the beginning of this session, after a lot of debate and haranguing, we passed a transfer bill, which provided for a transfer for the month of May of six million nine hundred and sixty-one thousand dollars. That appropriation was based upon the estimate upon which the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth had to rely, and was concurred in by the Republican members of the State Emergency Relief Board. Mark you, six million nine hundred sixty-one thousand dollars was transferred and made available for unemployment relief purposes.

Now, how did the State Emergency Relief Board conduct itself in the trust that had been imposed upon it in administering that fund? Did the State Emergency Relief Board say "Because we have six million nine hundred sixty-one thousand dollars to spend we should spend every last penny of it?" Did the State Emergency Relief Board say "Because we have obtained that sum, we should dish it out indiscriminately?" Did they say "We should violate the trust that has been imposed upon us by the citizens of the Commonwealth and the General Assembly?" No; they did not. The State Emergency Relief Board with an available fund of six million nine hundred and sixty-one thousand dollars over the month of May has been able to save in relief expenditures the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, and that is not just a momentarily conceived idea of administering a public trust, because in the month of April the same State Emergency Relief Board, under the same administration, saved from the appropriations that had been conveyed to them the sum of three hundred and forty-five thousand dollars, and when you add these two figures together, five hundred thousand dollars and three hundred and forty-five thousand dollars, you get the figure of eight hundred and forty-five thousand dollars, which is the figure set forth in the resolution, which we are asking this Assembly not to lapse. This resolution provides, among other things, that we will pass legislation that will prevent the lapsing of those particular funds from May 31, 1936, and to carry those funds over to be utilized and to be applied as part of the moneys which we seek to transfer to the State Emergency Relief Board for the conduct of their administrative duties during the month of June.

We do not say that the figure of six million nine hundred thirty-one thousand dollars, which is the figure that this resolution calls for, is the amount of money that will be expended, but we do say that in order to play safe with the unemployed, in order to administer that public responsibility, in order to administer that public trust, our estimates indicate that we will require six million nine hundred thirty-one thousand four fundred forty-six dollars.

We ask you not to tie the hands of those administering unemployment relief. We ask you not to see that the thirty thousand people who have been relieved of WPA employment, of which thirteen thousand are again enrolled on the State Emergency Relief rolls, leaving a back log of thirty-seven thousand cases—we ask you not to see that those thirty-seven thousand cases are again in the month of June thrown onto the State Emergency Relief rolls until we have the money to provide for them. We do not want the State Emergency Relief Board to be hamstrung in the operations of its public duties and its public trust. On the other hand, if this fund is not required to be expended, we expect the State Emergency Relief Board to turn it back, and make it available for the months of June, July, August, in addition to other sums that they will save in administering their duties.

This resolution is based upon an estimate of one hundred and ninety-one thousand cases. At the present time there is an actual amount of one hundred seventy-six thousand cases as of May 16th, upon the State Emergency Relief rolls. A pad, a cushion, a foundation to take care of a possible increase of fourteen thousand cases is what this resolution calls for.

Now, members of the House, in administering to any of our wants, in administering to any of our desires, we always take into consideration the problem of insurance, but in this case the insurance premium doesn't cost the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, doesn't cost the taxpayers one cent. This insurance premium will be held by the State Emergency Relief Board and returned for further relief purposes at the end of the month in case it is not necessary to so make these expenditures.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have tried to listen with a great deal of attention to my friend from York, and I regret to say publicly, because I usually have the greatest regard for his opinion on things, but I do not believe that the gentleman from York fully understands the relief problem and just what is happening to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

I had hoped to avoid discussing some of these things at the present time, because I did not believe that this was just exactly the moment to discuss them.

In the first place, when the gentleman from York says that the Republican members of the Emergency Relief Board were in accord with the appropriation for the month of May, I would call his attention to the fact that the resolution as originally introduced in the House for the balance of May and June was something over eleven million dollars, and that the State Treasurer, who is a member of the Relief Board, said that he thought that nine million five hundred thousand dollars would be sufficient. I do not believe, however, that we in the House should be bound by what either the Republican or the Democratic members of the Relief Board think about this problem. I believe that we should gather the facts and then endeavor to arrive at our own conclusion.

In the second place, the gentleman from York has said that the Board would only expend that which is necessary. I would like to call the attention of the gentleman from York to the meeting of that harmony committee, that bipartisan committee that had a meeting with the Relief Board before this session, and the gentleman from Philadelphia and the gentleman from Allegheny, who were members of that committee, were there at that time and undoubtedly remember that the statement was made by the members of the Board and by its Administrator that the Board conceived its duty to be to spend the money that was given to it by the Legislature, that it was not their function to determine how much should be spent, but that when they received an appropriation from the Legislature, it was their duty to expend that appropriation and, therefore, since the dispute here upon the resolution, that finally was put through for the month of May, if there has been a reversion of opinion in the Relief Board, and they are now determining that they are going to save some money, this is the first time in the history of the operation of relief in Pennsylvania that any money has been saved for the taxpayers out of the administration of relief.

Again, if I may refer to the tables I have before me, if you will take the tables that appear in all of the reports that have been put out on relief, you will find that there has been a steadily mounting cost of relief, not only in the total amount but in the average appropriation or the average grant per case, in the cost of administration, and so forth except that which has happened in the last couple of months.

The gentleman from York has made a great deal of the fact that eight hundred thousand dollars was returned or was saved by the Board and was available for appropriation. Well, I would like again to call his attention to some figures that I gave to this House the other day when I told you that on April 1, the Relief Administration had in the State Treasury and in the district offices about fifteen million nine hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars, that if you took the budget for the month of April of seven million three hundred seventy thousand dollars, they had on the first of May eight million six hundred thousand dollars approximately, and yet they came in here and asked for three million six hundred thousand dollars, which gave them over twelve million dollars on hand at the first of May, and if their budget for the first of May was approximately seven million dollars, they have about five million dollars on hand, less of course whatever committments they may have had in between times, so that I think that the eight hundred thousand dollars is not a saving by the Board but is an accumulation of money that has been in hand, which it has been very difficult to check and get any determination of until this time.

Now, the difficulty in this whole relief proposition is this: the trouble with our friends on the other side of this House and a lot of other people that I hear talking here and there is that the minute you mention relief, they think that you are attacking the helpless and the poor, that you are attacking, as my friend from Northampton would say, the starving babies, the poor starving people in the State, and he will drag those dead bodies up and down the aisles of the hall of this House in order to create the impression that we on this side of the House are hard-hearted, reactionary, horse and buggy Republicans, who have no sympathy for anybody else.

The chief trouble with this whole relief problem I submit, is this: the vast majority of people on relief, and I think it will be borne out, are people who are not entirely without means of support, and if you could take off the chiselers, if you could take out the ones who are not entitled to relief and we all know of the reports, the gentleman from Philadelphia would immediately arise after I am through and say that of course every time you hear of one of those cases, it is repeated one hundred-fold, so that one case becomes one hundred cases, but there are enough of those cases, and it has been shown and proven time after time that there are a lot of chiselers on relief.

In the second place, we know under this subsistence budget there are families on relief that are getting more money today than they ever earned in their history, that there are families on relief today whose subsistence is at a higher standard than it has ever been in the history of their lives, and the people who are administering relief do not deny that. They say that they want to raise the standard of subsistence of these people, that they are entitled to a higher standard of living than they have had at any other time, that they are entitled to a better standard.

Now, I think everyone of us here today believe they are entitled to a better standard of living. I have heard it mentioned here and there that I am out of sympathy with these people, but I want to say that I live close to a lot of them, and a large number of them come to my door, to my office, as they come to anyone who is a member of the Legislature or in political life, and I have not only relied upon my own knowledge of these things but I have made some private investigations of my own, and I can not see where there is any obligation upon the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, when we are now increasing the tax levy in Pennsylvania, and are increasing our general fund appropriations over two hundred percent by reason of our welfare and other appropriations—I can see no obligation upon the taxpayers of Pennsylvania to raise the standards of living of our people at this time by the expenditure of money from the public coffers. I believe that we owe it to the people who are out of employment, I believe we owe it to the decent, respectable people of Pennsylvania, many of whom are making such a terriffic, heroic struggle to get along—we owe them that which they need to carry on—yes—and I don't believe that they should have to help a lot of people who are unwilling to work, to help a lot of people who are taking advantage of this situation, that they should have to pay them the increased amounts of money that this record sets forth. I believe that when the people of Pennsylvania fully understand what this relief problem means, I believe that when they understand that they could receive a greater amount of support if they would get rid of these people who are not entitled to relief, when they understand that problem and the problem of the subsistence budget, upon which we expect people to live, that the people who are without means of relief are really the people for whom we started to make appropriations in Pennsylvania under the first Talbot Act—I want to say that when they understand that they will sweep this whole relief problem either out of the door and off the boards or into something else or they will take it over in an entirely different way. We have come to the crossroads in this session. If you will check up the figures of our general fund appropriations made in the last session of 1935, when some two hundred and forty-five or two hundred and forty-nine million dollars was appropriated, you will see that Education takes eighty-five million dollars, you will see that Welfare takes fifty-nine million dollars, you will see that unemployment relief takes sixty million dollars, that judicial expenditures take about five million dollars and the Legislature a million and a half, and you will find that there is only about thirty-five million dollars out of the whole two hundred and forty-five million dollars expended by the State that went to the general operation of the government of the State, and now they are heaping other burdens upon business, upon the taxpayers, upon the home owners and all individuals in Pennsylvania for relief. No one is going to complain about expenditures for relief when they are proper expenditures, no one is going to deny relief to those persons without means of support, without means to get along, no one is going to deny them, and we stand here ready to fight for them the same as anybody else, but we are not going to see this thing continue, this incurring expenditures to the point where the people of Pennsylvania will not be able to bear it much further.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House,

(Expunged on motion of Mr. Van Sickle.)

MOTION TO EXPUNGE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the remarks of the gentleman from Northampton, which made reference to the gentleman from Delaware as being well fed and making a joke out of the relief situation, be expunged from the record, because the gentleman from Delaware did not make a joke out of it, but gave a very constructive and serious talk on the subject. Whether or not the gentleman from Delaware is well fed is none of the business of the gentleman from Northampton.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, a motion to expunge is not in order at this time, but must be made after the gentleman from Northampton has finished his remarks. The gentleman from Northampton will proceed.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. I ask the Speaker to direct the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Van Sickle, in his debate, to make no personal attack upon any member of this House.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Northampton and the other members of the House, personal reflections on any member are prohibited according to the rules. I believe the gentleman from Northampton understands that and will conduct himself accordingly in the rest of his remarks. The gentleman from Northampton will proceed.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I did not say that the gentleman from Delaware was well fed and made a joke of this proposition. I simply said that a man as well fed as the gentleman from Delaware should not make a joke out of the proposition. We have an old Dutch saying, "When a shoe fits it is generally pulled on.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman from Northampton evidently does not know what the Speaker stated he should know, that is, he should not make any personal attacks upon any of the members. He is repeating a personal attack that he started to make, and which I ask to be expunged from the record, and I now ask the gentleman from Northampton to conduct himself in accordance with the ruling of the Chair and to refrain from making any personal attack.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has already ruled that personal reflections are not permitted either directly or indirectly.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I will not use the name of any man as an example, but I will say that in this relation take any man in this Assembly who pays a room at the Penn-Harris or the Harrisburger of —

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, it is none of the business of the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Van Sickle, whether we live at the Penn-Harris or whether we live at the Harrisburger, for we do pay our rent on this side. I object to his remarks to any member of the House, whether it be the gentleman from Delaware or not, as to where we live or what we say or what we do, and I ask the Speaker, because apparently the Speaker's request has not been complied with, to direct the gentleman from Northampton to conduct his arguments in a gentlemanly fashion and not resort to the gutter in order to make his argument.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the members of the House the Chair wishes to read rule 63:

"When a member is about to speak in debate, or to communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise, and respectfully address himself to 'Mr Speaker,' confining his remarks to the subject before the House, and avoiding personal reflections."

The gentleman from Northampton will proceed.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we must consider that in the State of Pennsylvania there are different conditions, and any man who lives at the Penn-Harris or the Harrisburger and pays the sum of three dollars per night—

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman should confine his remarks to the question before the House.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker, if the Chair will bear with me for just a moment, I believe that he will see that my remarks are proper, and if I am permitted to speak without incessant interruption, I believe the Chair will agree that I am in order.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as I said, in the State of Pennsylvania there are varying conditions, and I am glad that there are people in the State of Pennsylvania who can afford to pay three dollars a night at one of our hotel rooms. The only thing we ask is that a family of four be permitted to receive six dollars and seventy cents a week to exist. My friends, in order to have that existence they must have the necessary money appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board. I am not here to drag anyone up from the gutter or down to the gutter, but I am here to say, as a decent American citizen, I want everyone else to have a decent American living standard. If that means dragging the gutter in, then I will drag the gutter in.

My friends, there is no need of all this debate, and I dislike to take up your time on the matter. Last night rather personal remarks were made about practically every member of the Democratic Party. However, we are big enough to take it. If it is the truth, all right. If it is not the truth, then it won't harm us, because I remember that old sign what said, "Never explain because your friends don't need it and your enemies don't believe it." Allow them to say anything. If it is the truth we need it; if it is not the truth it won't hurt us. I think it will be well for the other side to take that into consideration in these debates. Let us stop the talk. I will conlude my remarks. What we want is some action.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his question of information.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, during the preceding debate I made a motion to the Speaker to expunge certain remarks from the record. I now seek recognition in order to make that motion unless I can make it subsequent to the Chair recognizing any other person or member of the House.

Mr. Speaker, if I may, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, a motion to expunge can only be considered after the amendment and the resolution before the House has been finally disposed of. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard will proceed.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. TURNER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware if in his investigation of relief cases, and so forth, which he has intimated in his remarks he has made, he has discovered any chiselers on relief, that is, people who were on relief, who should not have been there.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia is very ardoit. I think I know where he is trying to go and where he is trying to lead me. I did not say that I had investigated cases on relief. I said I had some investigation of my own. If I had investigated a case and learned that anyone was a chiseler I would have most certainly reproted it to the Relief Administration immediately.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, then, of course, I shall understand from that that the gentleman does not know that there are chiselers on relief,—he doesn't know of any.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I say that I know that there are chiselers on relief. If you mean, do I know of a specific person who is a chiseler on relief, I would say I don't know the name of that person.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we have listened for the better part of a month to argument pro and con upon resolutions dealing with relief. Most of the time which has been taken up in argument is in reference to so-called chiselers and high administrative costs. It is admitted by the opposite side of the House that there are chiselers on relief. In order to eliminate chiselers you must have investigators; in order to eliminate chiselers you must have men for supervision; in order to have supervision and investigations you must have high administrative costs. In one breath you ask us to increase the cost of administration, and in the other breath you accuse us of having chiseled. We cannot possibly with any other organization, eliminate the evils of that organization if it doesn't have proper supervision and investigation, and in order to have that you must admit that we have got to have high administration costs. I might take at this time the opportunity to teach my dear friend from Delaware a little logic in regard to the higher cost of relief to the family, as he has found it opportune at this time to attack the increased cost. I might say to him that some families have been without visible means of support for a period of five years. We all understand that at the beginning those families had a reserve in the way of clothing and other supplies, which have gone by the way. We understand that the families at that time, at the beginning of relief, when the cost of relief was so low, probably had a pair of shoes, with a good pair of soles, but those shoes have worn out in five years. We must give some consideration to that item. The increased cost of relief is brought about simply through the increased cost of material, by the people on relief. You cannot go into a family, just as Mr. Van Sickle has pointed out to you, with six dollars and twenty-five cents for a family of four, and state on the floor of the House that they are living to a better living standard than they ever lived before. I do not believe that any family that is trying to keep itself within the respect of all of its neighbors could possibly live at a better standard on such a low rate. I do not think that there is anything in this argument other than trying to make political fodder. Whether on one side or the other makes no difference. It depends on whom you are listening to. I am not so much interested and do not know much about the figures. But I do know that when we insinuate that there are thousands of people in the State of Pennsylvania who won't work, I believe, in my own opinion, it is unfair and untruthful, because you heard the spokesmen of the unemployed themselves state that they want work and not relief. I have never yet in my little experience in the investigation of relief in Westmoreland County, found anybody who would rather accept a relief dole or a charitable dole given by the Government, than take a job. I think if the gentleman from Delaware will kindly go back and make a real investigation of the relief cases he will find that ninety-nine percent of the cases that he himself has investigated will take a job in preference to accepting a relief dole. I do not believe that this question needs further threshing out. You may not agree with the increased cost, but don't let us drag the people of Pennsylvania before us time after time and week after week, with the same arguments which are of no avail, inasmuch as they must eat, and we in our responsible positions must feed them.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I apologize for rising again to speak on this question, but I feel so strongly that the gentlemen on the other side of the House and the people of Pennsylvania in general do not understand the issue, and my two friends who have just spoken have demonstrated that they do not understand the problem. I would like to say that I have talked to Dr. De Schweinitz and he understands the problem, he knows the issue and he knows where the line should be drawn. He differs with me but he doesn't accuse me of wanting to deprive people who are entitled to relief of relief. He differs as to the degree. I have tried to bring home to you,—I don't know why you stand up and always try to defend this thing,—if there was any way of reducing the cost, you men on the other side of the House ought to be for it. In the 1935 session I remember you men running up and down the aisles of this House decrying the terrible conditions that existed in relief. I remember that almost everyone of you had a resolution to investigate relief in your own county. I have before me an excerpt of the committee in Westmoreland County, with a recommendation made by the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, to cut down the cost of administration, and speaks of ways of reducing this so-called chiseling. I think you fellows ought to be behind this thing and not against it. If you believe that six million dollars are necessary, and I don't blame you for wanting six million dollars, but why go out and throw bricks and stones at the rest of us and try to accuse us of being overfed and unsympathetic. In that respect, I think there is no better example than the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Van Sickle himself.

I say we should approach this thing sanely and sensibly. This is not a political issue. Why should the Democratic Party take upon its shoulders to bear the burden of the cost of relief in Pennsylvania and to maintain the high cost. You have already retreated from a position that you took in March. You were then talking about nine million dollars for monthly relief you cut it down to seven million four hundred thousand dollars, and now you cut it down to something below seven million dollars per month, and you will undoubtedly keep on cutting it down, and yet all the time you are battling to keep it up. I don't understand that. The issue here is not that we do not intend to give to those who are without support, those who need it, we ought to give them more than they are now getting under these schedules, and they could get it, as I have tried to tell you, if you will change the relief policy. But you can't change the relief policy and I have this from one who has investigated and who has been in a position to know from working in relief since it was started,—you can't change the policy when the policy of the people at the head of relief is, "Here is a lot of money in the basket. Come and get it all ye who will." You can't get people off these relief rolls and cut down the chiselers and the people who don't belong there if you are going to say to the people, "If you can't get as much on WPA as you can get on relief, don't go to work on WPA." You cannot get people off these rolls, you cannot get people who deserve to be off the rolls, if they know they can earn a little more and get a handout and get more per week than they ever earned before. The contention I am trying to make and I am trying to put across to you on the other side of the House, because we have to have your votes on this measure—I am trying to prove that if you will take these people off you can give the deserving people for whom the heart the gentleman from Northampton bleeds so easily, you can give them more money and more subsistence than they are now getting, you can give them more clothing and shoes than they are now getting. You can take the rest off and you can save the taxpayers a lot of money.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, since the gentleman from Delaware requests a sane, deliberate consideration of this problem and since he has accused this side of the House of missing the point, I want to call to his attention one very salient point that the gentleman from Delaware has missed, namely, that this House is not committing itself by this resolution to a specific time appropriation. We are only transferring to the State Emergency Relief Board these funds beginning from the first of June to last until they are exhausted. It is not a question of six million nine hundred thousand dollars for the month of June or a question of five million five hundred thousand dollars for the month of June, as the gentleman from Delaware suggests. This resolution merely transfers these moneys to the State Emergency Relief Board for their use until they are exhausted.

How has the State Emergency Relief Board conducted itself since January, 1935, with the advent of the Democratic Administration? I just ask you to pay attention to these figures. In January, 1935, there was a total number of relief recipients on the relief rolls amounting to one million six hundred seventy-eight thousand three hundred seventy-seven. In March of 1936 there was six hundred and fifty thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight. The total amount expended including administration, and so forth, in the month of January, 1935 was $21,541,184.28. In the month of March, 1936, that amount was reduced from a high of twenty-one and a half millions to $7,397,886.84, and if you will indulge in a little mathematical computation, if you will divide the number that were on relief in January of 1935 into the amount of money that was spent for relief in January of 1935, you will find that there was expended $12.85 per person, for the individual on relief in January, 1935, and if you will again make a mathmetical calculation and divide the six hundred and fifty thousand in March of 1936 into the amount expended in March of 1936, you will find that there was expended, including administration and all costs, the sum of $11.37 per person.

Now I again wish to impress upon the membership of this House that it shows a gradual decline, it shows a decline in the number of employes for administration from a high of fourteen thousand down to March of seven thousand three hundred twenty-five—almost a fifty percent decrease in the number of employes administering unemployment relief. You will find the cost of administration falling from January 1935 from one million four hundred thousand dollars plus down to March of 1936 of eight hundred and ninety-two thousand. You see that gradual decrease occuring in the administration of relief, and it is further indicative of the fact that when the State Emergency Relief Board had available eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars for expenditures, they didn't go and spend it.

I again wish to impress upon this House that if you will read the resolve clause, the resolve clause on page 1 and the two resolve clauses on page 2 and ending with page 3, you will find that this money is transferred to the State Emergency Relief Board, and that there is no time limitation, no time limitation whatsoever on the expenditure of the money, although one of the whereas clauses might indicate that the money is for June of 1936. Nevertheless the appropriation is governed by the resolve clause and the money that you appropriate will not necessarily be expended for June unless it is necessary, and will continue to remain in the coffers of the State Emergency Relief Board until that amount is expended and until we make the required appropriations from the new tax bills that are being passed to care for unemployment relief until the end of January, 1937.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has already spoken three times on the question.

The SPEAKER. Under the rules, no member is permitted to speak more than two times on any subject before the House. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, press his point of order?

Mr. BURKE. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, yields to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

Mr. TUMELTY. I move the previous question, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The motion for the previous question has not been properly seconded.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, will state his point of order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I was on the floor and had the floor at the time the motion for the previous question was made. I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia for withdrawing his motion. I do not want to take the time to make a speech but merely desire to correct the statement made by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, in which he said there were twenty-one million dollars for relief in January, 1935, which is correct, but eleven million dollars of that was on direct relief and eight million two hundred sixty-three thousand on work relief. The percentage for administration for that month was 6.84 percent. The number of cases in that month on direct relief was three hundred twenty-two thousand nine hundred and twenty-two and the average weekly grant was $7.38. The average number of cases on work relief was one hundred nine thousand. In the month to which he refers—January of 1936—the percentage of administration in that month, the amount spent was seven million four hundred twenty-nine thousand by direct relief and no work relief and the percentage of administration was 11.84 as against 6.84 mentioned above, and the number of cases was two hundred and six thousand seven hundred and twenty-eight as against three hundred twenty-two thousand plus one hundred and nine, the relief cases were almost half as many. The percentage of cost was almost twice as much for administration.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. TURNER and Mr. J. W. PATTERSON.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if it is in order I ask for a verification of the affirmative roll.

The SPEAKER. The entire roll will have to be verified.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE ON RESOLUTION NO. 14

Mr. GATES offered the following reason for his vote:

I voted "No" on this Resolution for the following reasons:

1. I have consistently voted against the transfer of Motor License Fund for any purpose.

2. I have already during this Session voted for bills which will give over $60,000,000 for Relief and will vote for other bills which see that no man, woman or child shall suffer in any way, due to unemployment.

Mr. KANE filed the following reason for his vote:

I will not vote for resolutions to transfer money out of the motor funds.

I will vote adequate tax and relief measures, but I am against voting special funds continually on the grounds of emergency. The special session was talked of for nearly a year by the Administration and there is no reason why an adequate and carefully prepared legislative program should not have been before us to provide money without transfer of motor funds.

Mr. TERRY filed the following reason for his vote:

Reason: taking funds from Motor Funds.

MOTION TO EXPUNGE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Northampton, I do not think, intended to say that which the record shows clearly he did say. The stenographer's record reports the gentleman from Northampton saying as follows: These remarks on motion of Mr. Van Sickle were expunged from the record.

In the belief that the gentleman from Northampton did not intend any personal reflection on the gentleman from Delaware, I move that those remarks be expunged from the record, in fairness to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, who argued the subject matter of relief situation ably and capably, never intended to make a joke out of the relief situation. I ask the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Van Sickle to agree that the remarks be expunged from the record.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it being so unusual to find a politician so sensitive to what has been said about him, if the gentleman from Delaware feels that there was any personal reference in my remarks, if the gentleman from Philadelphia will withdraw his motion, I will make a motion to have that portion stricken from the record.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have no feeling in the matter whatsoever. What is said about me in debate at any time in this House makes no difference to me. I always try to debate matters entirely upon the basis of trying to stick with the question, trying to have the facts, and trying to base my argument upon logic. I, therefore, am not offended in any way. I think the question is entirely up to the gentleman from Northampton. He should have a proper sense of propriety. If he does not feel that that sense of propriety has been in any way involved, if he does not feel that he has transgressed, then I certainly would in no way ask him to withdraw his remarks. However, I will say that if I were in the position of the gentleman from Northampton, if a gentleman from this side of the House felt that the remarks did transgress, I would certainly withdraw them, because in that generous gesture you can not in any way be hurt.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman upon the question of personal privilege will be spread upon the journal.

REMARKS EXPUNGED FROM RECORD

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to extend that generous and kindly feeling towards the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and I move that that portion of the remarks quoted be expunged from the record.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, due to the fact that this motion has been made orally, can I amend it orally?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order provided he only changes—

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I have no intention to kill the motion with the amendment. If you will let me state my amendment maybe you can rule better on it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will listen to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tumelty.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend the motion of the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Van Sickle, to include the remarks, made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, in which he practically said that the Democrats do not pay their bills, when he said they (the Republicans) do pay their bills. I move that that also be expunged from the record.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion as amended?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION NO. 8

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 8, Printer's No. 49.

The resolution was read by the Clerks as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The primary purpose of the appropriations for unemployment relief is to care for residents of this Commonwealth who are unemployed and without means of support; and

Whereas, The money expended for administration come from the moneys appropriated for unemployment relief; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board be directed to furnish to the House of Representatives, as early as possible, a list of the employes of the State Emergency Relief Board, including those employed in counties and districts, (a) whose residence at the time of appointment was outside Pennsylvania (b) the home address of such persons, (c) the positions they fill, (d) the length of time they have been employed, and (e) the compensation to each, averaged monthly.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board by the Chief Clerk of this House.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. I think, Mr. Speaker, that the motion to refer this to the committee for further study is somewhat of a reflection on the intelligence of this House, as the resolution itself is very short, and I think that anyone even out of the fourth grade in school could read the resolution and would easily understand it. The purpose of the resolution is only to knock out some of the rough spots off the administration of relief. It is not a political question at all. As the relief is set up in Pennsylvania both parties will have to take some credit for that. Of course we make mistakes, people always make mistakes, parties make mistakes, and it is only for the purpose of correcting some of those mistakes that I have introduced this resolution. I ask you to vote against the motion to recommit.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this resolution, from its language, would evidently require the furnishing by the Relief Director of an immense amount of data. It would either require the employment of a large number of persons to assemble the data asked for in the resolution, or else require the taking off from regular work some of the employes of the Department. I believe inasmuch as there has been a good deal of criticism of the administration expenses of the Emergency Relief Administration, that this matter should be duly considered by the Committee on Appropriations.

I therefore ask the members to vote to recommit it to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I will Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman from Allegheny to say that the adoption of this resolution would require the gathering together of a great and vast amount of data on the part of the State Emergency Relief Board?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, the assembling of the data would require an immense amount of work.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, in other words I take it that the gentleman from Allegheny means that if the resolution were adopted and the State Emergency Relief Board were required to give us the information that it would require a great deal of work on their part?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Allegheny if he is familiar with the fact that the only thing this resolution calls for is the names of those persons whose residence at the time of appointment was outside of Pennsylvania, and if that is so, does the gentleman still believe that that requires a vast amount of data?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I am still of that opinion, Mr. Speaker. The Emergency Relief Board employees or outside help brought in, would of necessity be required to go over every application of every employe, and perhaps a good many of those applications do not state on their face whether or not the employe was originally outside of the State at the time of his employment. You will notice that there was no time specified. Some of these emergency relief employes have probably been on the payroll for five years, and that question may not have been entered on the application. The Emergency Relief Board would then be under the necessity of making inquiries of the employes.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the gentleman from Allegheny is not of the opinion that we ought to know the number of persons who came from outside of Pennsylvania, and who possibly if they were appointed from outside of Pennsylvania, are still outside of Pennsylvania, and that it is an important matter for this Commonwealth to know how many persons whose home address in Section B is other than the State of Pennsylvania's today?

Mr. Speaker, I am perfectly satisfied to have the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Mentzer, answer the question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is interrogating the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia kindly repeat his question?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I could not do that. We will have to ask the stenographer. What I asked is this, does he not think it is of sufficient importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the Legislature knows the number of persons who are employed, whether they live inside or outside of Pennsylvania, and that we have their home address,—do you not think that is of vital importance to us?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, it might be important in some instances, and may not be important in other instances. For that reason I believe that the Committee on Appropriations should have an opportunity to study this resolution first.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, how any one can consistently argue that a thirteen-line resolution that has been in this House since May 12, 1936, requires further study is beyond my power of comprehension. Here is a resolution which simply says that they want to know who the employes of the State Emergency Relief Board are, so that they can get the addresses at the time of appointment, the home addresses, the positions they fill, the length of time they were employed, and so forth. It seems to be very simple. The State Emergency Relief Board undoubtedly has that information. There is no use of telling us that they will have to compile it. They have a list over there in their office which sets forth definitely and specifically who the employes are and where they live, what counties they come from. I am sure that the Secretary of the Commonwealth, my good friend Dave Lawrence, can give us this information, and I suggest that there is no purpose in having this resolution go back to the committee. Let us get the information. For once I am with my Democratic friend, Mr. Brown. When our Democratic friends put forth a good resolution I am with them. We will go along with them and not send it back to committee.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. JOHN E. BROWN.

The roll was called by the Clerk.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask how the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky, are recorded as having voted?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, is not recorded as voting.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter is recorded as voting "aye."

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky, did not vote.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SUMNEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SUMNEY. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to make some remarks concerning the waste of time, and apropos of this I would just like to relate a little story.

Back in Washington County, the county that produced such statesmen as Mr. Carson, Mr. Patterson, Mr. Hindman and my friend Mr. Brown, during my boyhood there was an old lady whose conversational powers were unlimited. Now we sat here and we listened to Mr. Van Sickle and Mr. Turner doing the Alphonso and Gaston act, and it just struck me that a little story relative to that old lady might do the House some good.

As I said before she was a wonderful conversationalist. She could talk more and say less than anybody we ever know. One day she cornered an old farmer and she talked and she talked and she talked and talked. He tried to get away from her unsuccessfully. Finally, however came his chance, he broke loose and he came back to the crowd and he said, My God! That woman can talk three bushel and if you boil it down three minutes it wouldn't fill a thimble. 'Nough said.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

STATEMENT BY MR. BLUMBERG

Mr. BLUMBERG asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement.

Mr. Speaker, during the past four weeks of this special session, hours and hours of the time of this House have been consumed in debating resolutions, motions, and bills, all, it seems to me, pointing toward one end. That particular purpose is to determine the exact amount of our relief needs for the balance of this year. I desire to call to the attention of the members of the House that six weeks prior to this session a non-partisan committee, a bi-partisan committee met in Harrisburg day and night, to consider, first, the items of the call for this special session, and also to try to approximate the amount of money that would be necessary to take care of our direct relief needs. This committee was unable to determine just as this House finds itself unable to determine what amount will be necessary. The Committee found that the information before it was inadequate, and they had no means of securing the real information that it needed. This House has been moving very slowly, encumbered by hours of debate toward arriving at the same position.

Now, I introduced into this House a Resolution No 12, which on May 14 was referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special. This resolution in the preamble called to the attention of the House the fact that the most important crucial question is the determination of how much we must appropriate for the destitute and needy. This resolution can be found on page 35 of the House History This resolution is by no means political in its nature, and was carefully worded so that nobody can take offense; so that it would not appear as emanating as a personal measure. The resolution requests the State Administrator of WPA to furnish this House six different items of information so that we would be able to determine from thosee figures how many we would have to provide for on direct relief. As you gentlemen know there is a direct connection between the number on WPO and the number on direct relief, and as one goes up the other goes down, and vica versa.

This resolution did not attempt to do what the Senate resolution is now attempting to do. It does not provide for an investigation of WPA; it does not have for its purpose the disclosure and the broad casting of all of the manifest abuses in the administration of WPA, that we have been hearing about and been reading about in the newspapers.

In the last week I asked the Chairman of the Judiciary Special Committee, and I also sent him a letter, calling his attention to the urgency of this information and the necessity of prompt consideration of that resolution and reporting to the House. Last night I was informed that on Wednesday of last week that Committee met, and indefinitely postponed consideration of this House Resolution No. 12. When I inguired the reason for that action, the Chairman told me that the Turner Resolution had been released and the men there thought that the two resolutions were much the same or the same. Nothing could be further from the actual fact. The Turner Resolution which is on the floor of the House merely provides that the Federal Relief Administration will return to Pennsylvania ten million dollars which the State Emergency Relief Board paid to those who took WPA jobs during the time they did not receive their WPA checks. That in substance is all it does.

My resolution, however, requests information in a spirit of cooperation in order to determine how much we shall appropriate for direct relief. Now all of us know from the public press that the Senate Investigating Committee has met with a rebuff from the State Administrator, Mr. Jones, and I just want to call your attention to the concluding paragraph of Mr. Jones' letter to Senator Gelder in connection with the attempted investigation. He says, "In conclusion you may assure your committee that WPA in Pennsylvania would welcome an impartial inquiry, but WPA in Pennsylvania cannot and will not be tried by a fixed jury." It seems to me therefore that the resolution that I produced is most timely and important. If the State Administrator of Pennsylvania has come to the conclusion that the Senate Investigating Committee is a fixed jury, he certainly can find no fault in submitting the information which we request ad seriatin one after the other, because he is not subject to investigation, he is merely giving us information. If that Senate Committee is blocked in its attempt to get information by the attitude of the Administrator, and if our own House Committee is going to prevent my resolution from being considered on the floor of the House, then I say to you that the reason behind it is not an accidental one and is not merely because there was confusion between the two House resolutions. I have the right to assume that some higher power behind the Legislature is dictating what should and what should not be done, in our attempts to arrive at a real figure necessary for relief.

I am not altogether unjustified in coming to that conclusion because I have had handed to me photographic copies of letters which were used in the distribution of WPA jobs. While I do not want to trespass too long on the time of the House, I still think that this question being so important and being necessary to a decision before we adjourn, that we ought to analyze and think of just where we are going to go, or whether we are going to stop without getting any information.

I have here a photographic copy of a letter on the stationery of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Philadelphia, addressed to Mr. Herbert McGlinchey, 936 East Geneva St., Philadelphia, which reads:

DEMOCRATIC CITY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
409 FRANKLIN TRUST BUILDING
PHILADELPHIA

JOHN B. KELLY, Chairman — JOHN E. SHERIDAN, Secretary

January 20th, 1936.

Mr. Herbert McGlinchey,
936 East Geneva Street,
Philadelphia, Penna.

My dear Mr. McGlinchey:

Will you be good enough to talk to Mr. Schmidt who is in charge of the City Inventory Project and tell him that Mr. Kelly would like to have Mr. Fred P. Buob, Jr., of 1014 West Indiana Avenue, given a position at $125. a month, if this is possible.

Thanking you for your courtesy, I am

Sincerely yours,

s L. B. DuVal
(Mrs. R. L. DuVal),
Secretary to the Chairman

The Mr. Kelly referred to is Mr. John B. Kelly whose name appears on this letter and is Chairman of the Democratic City Executive Committee.

In addition I have another photograph of a letter on the stationery of the Federal Works Progress Administration for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania addressed to Mr. Henry R. Schmidt, 7th Floor, Board of Education Building, 21st and Parkway, Philadelphia, which reads as follows:

FEDERAL WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION FOR THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

John H. Rankin, Director,
Districts 4-5

Architects Building, Philadelphia, April 7, 1936.

Mr. Henry R. Schmidt,
7th Floor, Board of Education Building.
21st Street & Parkway,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mr. Schmidt:

We received your requisitions 24 and 25 this morning and will put them through at once.

I intended to write you before about your last requisition. You will notice that I added one timekeeper, Mr. Samuel Sheridan. He is a general office man and was requisitioned by Harrisburg.

It is necessary for me at times to take care of certain people at the request of the Harrisburg Office and the openings are so very scarce now that I have to watch them closely. As a matter of fact, I am only able to place one out of every five that they send down and they sometimes get upset over it. I hope you will cooperate with me on the few placements I am compelled to make with you.

With kindest personal regards, I remain

Very truly yours,
E. R. YARNELLE,
Supervisor
Division of Employment.

I don't know whether this Samuel Sheridan is or is not related to the John E. Sheridan who appears to be Secretary of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Philadelphia.

Now in addition to that I have a photograph reproduced in one of the newspapers of a letter on the stationery of the United States, Senate Committee on Finance, signed by R. H. Bailey, Secretary to Senator Guffey, which reads as follows:

United States Senate Committee on Finance

April 13, 1936.

Mr. Thomas M. Kerrane
6202 Baynton Street
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Kerrane:

This will acknowledge the receipt of your letter of April 7th.

Senator Guffey has nothing to do with the filling of positions in the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania. This matter is handled entirely by Honorable Edward N. Jones, State Administrator, Works Progress Administration, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

I would therefore suggest that you contact your local Democratic leaders with a view to having them recommend your appointment to Mr. Jones who will, I feel sure, give your application and their recommendation every possible consideration.

Sincerely yours,

R. H. BAILEY,
Secretary to Senator Guffey.

Then I have this one further letter, also a newspaper reproduction, dated Philadelphia, Pa., March 14, 1936, as follows:

Philadelphia, Pa., March 14, 1936.

Dear Committeeman:

Contact all houses in your division and get the names of all men on relief, also those holding WPA jobs. Urge them to register Democrat on March 25, or else lose position.

Sincerely yours,

CHARLES McDONALD.

Charles McDonald is the Democratic leader of the Fourteenth Ward. I say to you that I am not altogether unjustified, therefore, in believing that there is some sinister motive behind our failure to get information.

In addition to these letters we have all read in the Press, there are any number of allegations of debauchery or misconceptions in the administration of WPA. In Philadelphia there was a project administrator by the name of Henry R. Schmidt who had charge of the City Inventory project, and he resigned recently. When asked why he made this statement: "Message came to me by letter, telephone, and personal visits asking and begging or ordering me to put persons with political influence to work. Occasionally they were well qualified for the work and I was satisfied to place them on the project. Other times I found that they were unqualified. More than once when interviewing their applicants, I found they could neither read nor write. I tried to run the project in a businesslike way, showing no political favoritism but my policy did not meet with sympathy. Pressure became increasingly great, personnel problems took nearly all of my time, finally I felt I would have to return to my private business."

Back in December of last year in Pittsburgh at a meeting of WPA foremen and administrators, the public press reported this statement made at that meeting by one of the district superintendents in the presence of Mr. Jones: "I will tell you right now that any WPA worker who is not in sympathy with the WPA program and the Roosevelt Administration will be removed from the payroll in this district as quickly as he can go. I want all you men to report all such cases to me immediately.

I don't want to take up the time of the House to go into all the allegations with reference to this misadministration, except as all of us know that reports have been published that WPA workers have had to pay a political assessment of thre per cent up to twelve hundred dollars and five per cent on accounts in excess of twelve hundred dollars. We have seen the public papers tell us of three people in one family holding WPA jobs, getting a total salary per month of three hundred and forty dollars; in another case three people received a salary of two hundred and sixty dollars; in another case two people received a salary of two hundred dollars. It is not altogether an accident that all these people happen to be registered as Democrats, and if there is any question since some member asked for specific information, I think it was the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepherd, about these instances, I will gladly supply him with the names and addresses if he will come to my desk.

These are not isolated instances. This entire situation smells, it smells to high heaven, to the detriment of the people who are entitled to relief and adequate relief. The needs of these people are being prostituted, they are being compelled to pay assessments, they are being kept out of adequate relief because people who are not entitled to relief are on those rolls.

The resolution which I introduced does not attempt to attack the WPA administration, it does not attempt to give publicity to these evils to which I have referred, but it does ask for information which will let us know how many people who are now on WPA do not properly belong there, so that we can take off our direct rolls people who are not entitled to WPA jobs and put them there, either creating a saving to the taxpayers or permitting us to make more adequate and more liberal grants to those who are on relief.

Now, that brings me to the resolution. It is absolutely important that we have this information. We can not get it through the Senate investigating committee because that is a "fixed jury". Are we going to sit here in this House and permit a committee of the House, on so vital a question, on such urgent information, to prevent that resolution from being aired. I personally am not in favor and have never during my long service here in the House been in the habit of making motions to discharge committees. I have on rare occasions, when the issue was very clear cut, and the need extremely great, voted along with the motion to discharge committees. I take it we are now in exactly that position. Unless this resolution reaches the floor, we are being withheld information that is vital, and therefore, I have made these remarks merely as a prelude to introducing a motion to discharge the committee on Judiciary General from further consideration of House Resolution No. 12, Serial No. 14.

STATEMENT BY MR. BURKE

Mr. BURKE asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there is a connection between the number of persons on relief and the number of persons on WPA, who are taken from the relief rolls. As you gentlemen fully know, there is a requirement that to get a relief job, you must be on relief. The State Emergency Relief Board has been troubled for some time because immediately before a project has been announced or before it has been started, people attempt to get on relief, so that they may get a job.

Now, of course, it is perfectly proper for a member of the House, acting in the capacity of a public official, who might contact the relief people in an attempt to say that a just claim is really right, but I don't think it is really proper, since the relief office is open, for a member of this House to intervene for a person who wants a job by first getting him on the relief rolls.

I wish to call the attention of the members of the House to a copy of a letter which I have here. Before I read this letter, I wish to say it is a copy. As a member of a joint committee to investigate relief, I issued a subpoena for certain letters, and I had very little time to wait for the letters, but I have here copies of those letters. If there is any objection, if there is any doubt as to the accuracy of the letters I can later produce the originals.

This letter is dated July 25, 1935, from the House of Representatives, Republican Steering Committee Morton Witkin, Chairman, 911 Finance Building, Philadelphia. The letter reads as follows:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Republican Steering Committee, July 25, 1935.

Morton Witkin, Chairman
911 Finance Building
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Beatrice Beals,
112 N. Broad Street.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Beals:—

May I call your attention to the case of Mr. Benjamin Pollock, 458 N. 6th St., Philadelphia? This man, as I understand the situation, made application to your Board a long time ago—your visitor was there but he has never heard anything concerning relief.

This man is not working and needs help badly. May I ask you to please invesigate this matter and let me hear from you.

Thanking you

Yours very truly,

M. WITKIN.

Of course, that is a letter from a public official intervening for a person who might be on relief.

I shall read you a letter dated August 8th, from the House of Representatives Republican Steering Committee, Morton Witkin, Chairman, 911 Finance Building, Philadelphia.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Republican Steering Committee, August 8, 1935.

Morton Witkin, Chairman
911 Finance Building
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Beatrice Beals,
112 N. Broad St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Beals:—

I wrote you on July 25th, with respects to Mr. Benjamin Pollock, 458 N. 6th Street, but as yet I have received no reply. Mr. Pollock was just in here and tells me that he applied to the Welfare for a job but they informed him they could not get him work unless he was on the welfare.

This man needs help badly and I would certainly appreciate your giving this matter your attention.

Thanking you to look into this matter, I am

Yours very truly,

M. WITKIN.

Members of the House, incorporated in Mr. Blumberg's resolution are several things that are of no concern to the members of this House, they are not connected in any way with the cause of relief. His first three requests are for salaries of people who have non-relief jobs, who have no relation at all to the amount of the appropriation for relief.

Now, we did find instances of people who tried to use their influence and tried to intimidate others, and I say they wrongfully did so, in order to get a person on this work project, to get them on the WPA. I say that that system can not be condemned because of a few letters that Mr. Blumberg produces. If I went far enough I might be able to produce letters from every member on the Republican side of this House. Because of these isolated instances the system can not be condemned. If you find that in your particular county there was an instance of graft, would that justify you in turning out the whole government of the county? You will find after looking into these things that certain people are trying to abuse the privilege which they might have by virtue of their official position. Do not let that deter us from looking at the fair side of the question. Consider the amount of good which is done by these things, don't be so narrow as to condemn a whole system for just a few isolated cases.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOLLAND

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as one of our political writers of Pittsburgh wrote in the Sunday paper, "The pot is calling the kettle black and the kettle is calling the pot black," and if the Socialist member of this House was present I feel he would put the frying pan on the fire and call both of them black.

If you will go back just a few years when the Republican organization was running public relief and the public relief administration in Pennsylvania, you will find that under that administration every rule of decency was broken. They didn't even write letters, they met men on the streets and gave them cards to go to work, and that, gentlemen, was before I got religion, because I was a Republican at that time. I do not say that it is a crime to try and get a job for a man who is out of work. I think it is the duty of any men to help another who is not working to receive employment instead of going on relief. If that man wants to work let him work, and don't tell him that he must go on relief in order to get a job.

When the Republican organization in Pittsburgh promoted a works relief program before an election, let me tell you what they did. A woman, who owned a big hotel, was being carried as a timekeeper at that time at one hundred and eighty dollars a month, because she was the Chairlady of my ward. She never went out on a job, but she drew her check. Another man who was a ward chairman and who owned a whole square of property on the south side of Pittsburgh received two hundred and eighty dollars a month, which he turned into the campaign fund. You say that some WPA workers have made donations to the Democratic cause. I would say that any WPA worker who does not voluntarily give a few dollars to the cause that has put him to work would be a foolish man. If you go to an employment agency and get work, you give them ten per cent of your salary for the entire year.

I think it is time for us to get down to honest-to-God work and do something to relieve this situation instead of merely making political propaganda. The Republican party, when they were in power, used every means possible to control relief. The Democrats are pikers compared to them, because every day men come to my house and tell me that under the Republican regime, when they had control of the works program administration, they just merely walked in and went to work.

STATEMENT BY MR. WITKIN

Mr. WITKIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, first of all, the gentleman from Philadelphia need not present the originals of these letters. Not only that, but if he comes into my office, I will show him hundreds more of these letters. Let me say to him that I think that when a man is down he is entitled to grab on to the first thing that comes his way, and if that happens to be a board or a straw, that is not strong enough to stop him from drowning, he grabs nevertheless and he drowns just the same. When Mr. Burke read these letters, I think he sealed his own doom, because I am going to read the letters, and if there is any one within the hearing of my voice, or any one in the whole Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who can object to the remarks or the wording of any paragraph in these letters, and point out to me wherein they are wrong, unethical or improper, or not judicious, I will be glad to bow my head and bend my knee.

First of all I may say to you that on July 25, 1935, I wrote on behalf of one Benjamin Pollock; which letter reads as follows:

"May I call your attention to the case of Mr. Benjamin Pollock, 458 N. Sixth Street, Philadelphia,"—Certainly there is no objection to saying to this welfare board "May I call your attention to the case." Nobody can disagree with me. "This man, as I understand the situation,"—you will notice that I did not say it was a fact, but I say "As I understand. It continues, "made application to your board a long time ago." He was a Republican, that is not in the letter, but a long time ago made application and he has never heard of it. Can it be because he was a Republican? Use your own judgment. "Your visitor was there but he has never heard anything concerning relief," in other words, the visitor came a long time ago,—a Republican. "This man is not working." Is there anything wrong in my statement that the man is not working. "And needs help badly." Why, I could even shed tears myself, the man needs help badly. Do I say "May I ask you to give him relief?" No. I say, "May I ask you to please investigate?" In other words, don't take my word for it, the man may be a chiseler just like a lot of people on relief. Therefore, I ask you, don't take my word for it but please investigate. "May I ask you to please investigate this matter and let me hear from you. Thanking you." There is nothing wrong in saying "Thanking you," is there? "Yours very truly.

I am chairman of the Republican Steering Committee, honored by my colleagues to be their Chairman. About two weeks went by, and here is a letter from a Republican,—don't pay any attention to this letter, he was a Republican out of work, and we will pay no attention to Witkin.

On August 8, 1935, a little chagrined at the fact that they paid no attention to me, and Mr. Pollock came back to my office and he told me he was hard up against it and out of work with a family,—I think that is correct. I got hold of my stenographer, and there is no objection to having a stenographer, 'I wrote you on July 25 with respects to Mr. Benjamin Pollock, 458 N. Sixth Street, but as yet I have received no reply." Do you blame me for getting a little peeved. After all, I am a member of the House. "Mr. Pollock was just in here and tells me,"—I don't tell it to the board but I was complaining and if Mr. Burke will read the letter he will find out I was complaining. "Mr. Pollock was just in and tells me that he applied to the Welfare for a job but they informed him," they didn't mean me,—"They could not get him work unless he was on the Welfare." In other words, they said to him, "Mr. Pollock get on relief, we might get you a job." In other words if he was a Democratic worker in his division he would not have had to go on relief to get a job, I would not have had to write this letter, "this man needs help badly." He is out of work and he needs help badly. I am telling them the same thing I told them in my letter of July 25, "I will appreciate your giving this matter your attention." When a man needs work badly and he is up against it, and everything else, is there anything wrong in my saying, "Thanking you to look into this matter."—And I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, and I say it with some degree of conceit, that I have more intelligence than to write the letters that your friend wrote, I am not that stupid or dumb. I did not tell him anything about committeemen, I did refer him to Jack Kelly, or probably the man would have got relief if I had. I did not tell him that he would loose his job, if he did not register. I want to say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, and I say it without any personal reflections upon him that the endeavor to read those two letters in the light of interference with the administration of relief is in my opinion a sign of unfairness. I resent it. I resent it because if you read those letters you would know, you are a lawyer, you are intelligent enough to know, there is nothing improper in them, except that you want to put across to the newspapers the fact that the Chairman of the Republican Steering Committee—or did you want to fool them or fool the people that he wrote letters like the letters Mr. Blumberg read? You know that is not so. Do you think it is good sportsmanship, do you think it is fair play, do you think it is proper to read my type of letter alongside of that type of letter? I say to the membership of this House, it riles me. I say it is a trick long played, but seldom played by members of the House of Representatives, and in my judgment beneath the dignity of any member of this House.

I want to say in conclusion, this: I don't care, my files are open. I will write and will continue to write on behalf of any friend in Philadelphia who comes to me, who is badly in need of work, and I will write to the relief authorities and tell them when they are neglecting their duties. My letters were letters calling their attention to neglect. I say it is an indictment of their administration of relief that they did not answer Pollock, but it is a greater indictment when they did not even answer me, when I interceded as a public official on behalf of a man who was endeavoring to get that which the Democrats could give,—a job. Now, what is this? It is a cloak to enable you to keep in your committee the resolution. When Mr. Blumberg said that it smelled to the high heavens, he uses mild language. I say that when the Democratic chieftains and moguls of this Commonwealth persist in their present course, they are going so far as to endeavor to defraud the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, because every man improperly on WPA takes the place of recipient of relief who could get a job, and thereby reduce the relief payroll for direct relief. There is a great connection between the two.

His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, said the other day that Mr. Jones,— he praised him to the skies,—I won't quote him because I don't remember the exact words, but at the Democratic convention,—does the Governor of Pennsylvania, the Governor elected by the Democrats, stand for and endorse the concealing of information concerning WPA workers in Pennsylvania? Does he praise an official who has refused to give to us information concerning the number of employes, whether they are on relief or not, what their wages are, whether it exceeds ten per cent. I say that if his Excellency praises the man, he praises the thing he stands for. I say that we are going to fight on this side until we get this information, and I say that you ought to help us to get it. We need it. As the gentleman from Philadelphia has said, we are not investigating. We are asking for what. For facts. Facts concerning what? Facts concerning those things that the taxpayers of Pennsylvania and of this nation are paying for every day. Jones isn't paying this bill. He is not omnipotent; he is not a god in and of himself; he is not all powerful; he is not beyond the realm of an investigation or questioning. He is not so great that we can not even ask him to let us have his files. When a man conceals his files, I say he has a motive for the concealment, and if he conceals his files on matters, important public matters, then I say the motive is apparent,—it reeks with debauchery. I say that the refusal of the Federal Administrator to appear before the Senate Committee, and the refusal of this House to let us ask him for informaion, may be an endorsement that Governor Earle gave this man, but if the Governor of the Commonwealth and the Democratic membership of this House want to stultify themselves, if they want to go before the people of Pennsylvania concealing the facts, then I am satisfied. But we are going to get the opportunity of getting this resolution out, and when it comes out you can either kill it or pass it. That is within your province or within your control. But the next time you want to quote my letters, Mr. Burke, take letters that say something. Don't pick letters of that kind and they are the only kind of letters you will ever be able to find.

STATEMENT BY MR. BURKE

Mr. BURKE asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I make no apology for what I just did. During the time I have been a member of this House, there is no member who can accuse me of having ever been unfair, and I strongly resent the inference that the gentleman might have created when he so suggested it.

The gentleman made a very significant remark, when he said he apologized for appearing to have been conceited, when he said he was too smart to write some of the letters that Mr. Blumberg read. He does not have to apologize for that. I concede that. But when he said he is too smart to write a letter like that, did he differentiate between the intent that was clearly manifes in the letters that Mr. Blumberg read, and the intent that could have existed in the letters that Mr. Witkin wrote. I say that a member of this House who advises upon matters of relief should know all the procedure connected with getting a job on WPA, and I say that when he asks in one breath that a person gets on relief, even though that is proper, and then two weeks later he wants a job, he should be on welfare, then I say we could inquire into the intent which was not so manifest in Mr. Witkin's letter.

I resent the fact that the gentleman has mildly charged, that I have been unfair. If the members of this House tonight thought I was unfair I would gladly call that letter back. I am not playing to the newspapers. I do not care whether the newspapers print it or ignore it. I want the members of this House to have a fair idea of what everybody does in trying to get either people on relief or to get them on the WPA. I want all the cards opened up, both the Republican and the Democratic cards. I don't want charges made against the Democratic members for the same thing that is done by the Republican members.

I ask the members of the House to vote "no" on the motion of Mr. Blumberg, because I believe the gentleman who is the Chairman of that committee, will later explain the action which he has taken, but just because a resolution happened to reside in a committee for two weeks does not necessarily infer that the resolution has merit. Sometimes a member wants to get a resolution out for personal reasons. I don't think we should take away that deliberation we allow a committee in considering these things. The committee has a perfect right to study that resolution, and I don't think if it happens to run one day over the number of days that are allowed under the Rules of the House, that it should be subject to the censure which the minority members are meting out.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Mifflin will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask for leave of absence for the balance of the week, the reason being that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibboney, of Belleville, are today celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary, and we are going to have a dinner in my home tonight for them, with relatives and friends.

The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the journal.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, it is not my purpose—

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman ask unanimous consent to make a statement?

Mr. SIMON. I am speaking on the motion, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The motion has not been presented to the House as yet.

COMMITTEE DISCHARGED

The SPEAKER. The Chair now lays before the House the following motion which the Clerk will read.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

Moved by Mr. BLUMBERG, seconded by Mr. MASON. That the Committee of Judiciary Special be discharged from further consideration of House Resolution No. 12, Serial No. 14, said Resolution having been referred to said Committee on May 14, 1936.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is not my intention to burden you with any long talk. I don't have to bet that off my chest, like some of the other members. Nor is it my intention to cast any aspersions on the ideas of certain members who were criticizing the WPA administration, because we all realize that those members who come from Philadelphia are absolutely unacquainted with anything that even would indicate that political parties have anything to do with jobs. They never heard anything of that kind in Philadelphia, so that those of us who come from the rural counties, where it has been heard of, should be a little lenient in judging them.

Now, I want to bring before the House the fact that this resolution was properly considered by my committee, a committee, I want to say, of which I am very proud. They acted in a very intelligent manner, and not as the gentleman from Philadelphia has intimated, that there was pressure brought from the outside. That is not the case. I also want to state the fact here, and I don't think I am betraying anything that happened in committee when I say that the meeting at which this resolution was considered was exactly even, as far as parties were concerned. There were six Democrats and six Republicans.

There were three resolutions considered at that time. The Turner resolution was reported out. Two other resolutions were read. The Blumberg resolution was not read in full. It was by unanimous vote decided to postpone it indefinitely.

If the members of the House wish to discharge this committee from further consideration of this resolution, that is all right to me. It seems to me that this resolution has received all the attention it deserves. All the information it asks for is obtainable by anybody at any time, and the Senate is now marking time with such a resolution as this; they are holding up necessary legislation concerning WPA. They did the same thing in the Pinchot administration. All this talk has no effect upon me because I have listened to it for eight years, but I think it is about time for the House to cut out this foolishness,—doing a thing that does not mean a thing.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as one of the few members who attended that meeting, I would like first of all to say that I have no intention of criticising Mr. Simon in any respect whatsoever. I think he has always been fair, but I think that one statement should be corrected.

The first resolution considered was that of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner. There were certain changes made in that resolution and it was reported out. The resolution introduced by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, was then brought up. It was then partially read—it was read to a point before the whereas clause. A statement was made at that time, or rather I should say that I was informed that the resolution really covered the same subject matter and the same ideas as set forth in the resolution of the gentleman from Delaware. For that reason it was suggested that it be set aside. I did not agree to that. I feel that it is a very important resolution, that if it is to be considered at all, it should be considered immediately, and I do not believe that any member on either side of this House should be supersensitive on a subject of such great importance. I want to say that I have no feeling whatsoever in the matter, and I intend to vote "aye" on the resolution to discharge the committee.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I merely want to reply to the intimation that some member of the House desired to secure the release of their resolutions for personal reasons, and on that point, in order that the House may be acquainted with the contents of this resolution, I will just read these four paragraphs: "Whereas the most important and crucial problem"—

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to state that the gentleman is out of order in discussing the resolution. The motion to discharge is the only question before the House.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I am not discussing the resolution. I am reading portions of it for the information of the House.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is not before the House. The gentleman is out of order. The question on the motion to discharge the Committee is the only question that is before the House at this time.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, may I request the Clerk to read the resolution for the information of the members.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is still of the opinion that it is out of order to discuss the resolution. The resolution is printed in full in the history on page 35 of the History, a copy of which is on each member's desk. The contents of the resolution is available to them. At this time the only question we have before the House is the question on the motion to discharge the Committee. That is the only question upon which there can be debate at this time.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to discuss or argue the merits of the resolution, but in order that the House may intelligently vote on a motion to discharge a committee from further consideration of a resolution, I take it that the House ought to know the contents of that resolution, and for that reason I suggested to the Chair that it would be fit and proper for the Clerk to read the resolution merely for the information of the members of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to state again that it is not proper to discuss this resolution at this time, but it is proper to have it read for the informaton of the House. If the gentleman insists upon that, the Clerk will read the resolution for the information of the members.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, in the interest of saving time and because during the interim I believe the membrs all have read the resolution, I shall not now press my request.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. BLUMBERG and were as follows:

Section 19 Swearing Viewers Assessment of Benefits Notice Hearings The viewers having been duly sworn or affirmed faithfully justly and impartially to decide and a true report to make concerning all matters before them or to be submitted to them and relation to which they are authorized to inquire and having viewed each parcel of private property and each municipality which according to the official State plan or Federal plan or program is to be benefited shall hear all parties and their witnesses and shall determine the benefits if any to accrue to each such parcel of private property and to each municipality and shall prepare a schedule of such property and a municipal schedule and the amount of benefits assessed against each piece of private property and against each municipality

No assessment of benefits shall be made against public property No assessment of benefits shall be made against any private property unless in the opinion of the board of viewers such property will be benefited by the prevention or lessening of future flood damage No assessment shal be made against any municipality unless in the opinion of the board of viewers the municipality will be benefited because its buildings roads streets parks water supply plants and other public property and works will be protected from flood damage The fact that public and private property and works have been damaged by flood shall be deemed conclusive evidence that benefit will accrue to such property or municipality by reason of the public works and improvements authorized by this act or provided by the Federal Government or its agencies or instrumentalities No exemption from assessment of benefits shall exist for any private property or any municipality by reason of the fact that the same does not abut on any improvement or on the river or stream carrying the flood waters

The viewers shall give notice to all persons and municipalities against whose properties or against which benefits have been assessed of a time when and place the viewers will meet and exhibit their schedules and hear all exceptions thereto Such notice shall be given by registered mail addressed to the last known post office address of the owner or reputed owner of the property and to the corporate authorities of each municipality and by publication once a week for two weeks in at least two newspapers of general circulation in the county where so many are published in the county The failure of an owner or municipality to receive the registered mail notice shall not be deemed to invalidate the proceedings but in such cases the notice by publication shall be deemed sufficient.

Section 20 Revision of Schedules and Filing Notice Thereof After hearing all parties and after making whatever changes are deemed necessary the viewers shall prepare a revised schedule of benefits to private property and a revised schedule of benefits assessed against municipalities and file a copy of each in the court of common pleas of the county When the reports of the viewers are filed they shall be confirmed nisi When the reports are filed notice thereof shall immediately be given by the board of viewers by publication once in the newspapers publishing the notice of the hearings before the viewers Such notice shall state the date of the filing of the reports contain the schedules of the benefits assessed and shall state that unless exceptions are filed thereto or an appeal to the court of common pleas is taken therefrom within thirty days from the date of filing the reports will be confirmed absolutely

Section 21 Filing of Exceptions and Appeals Within thirty days after the filing of the report of viewers any person or municipality interested may file exceptions to the same or may appeal to the court of common pleas and demand a jury trial

Each person or municipality filing exceptions or taking an appeal shall except to or appeal from so much of the report only as affects property in which he has an interest or as affects the municipality and the part of the report of the viewers not excepted to or appealed from shall be confirmed absolutely after said thirty day period

Section 22 Procedure on Exceptions and Appeals Where exceptions to a report of the viewers are filed the court shall proceed to hear and determine the same in the manner exceptions to the reports of viewers are generally proceeded within the county Where an appeal is taken it shall state the grounds upon which the appeal is taken and shall be accompanied by an affidavit that it is not taken for the purpose of delay but because the appellant believes that injustice has been done

Upon the trial of any appeal or the hearing of any exceptions in case the appellant or party excepting does not obtain a verdict or decree more favorable than was the report of the viewers he or it shall not recover any costs

The court of common pleas shall order what notices shall be given in connection with such proceedings by exceptions or by appeals and may by rule or otherwise prescribe the form of the pleadings

The court may also in proper cases consolidate proceedings by exceptions or appeal into a single proceeding but exceptions or appeals involving municipalities shall not be consolidated with those involving private property

Section 23 Appeals to Superior and Supreme Courts Any person or municipality aggrieved by an order of court on exceptions filed or determination of the case where a jury trial was demanded may within thirty days after such final order or determination and not thereafter appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court as the case may be

Where any appeal is taken to the Supreme Court and an appeal is also taken to the Superior Court and the appeals in both cases are substantially the same or involve the same questions the Superior Court may certify such appeal to the Supreme Court to be heard with other appeals from the same report

The Supreme or Superior Court shall consolidate all appeals coming before it from the same report and hear them as one case except that cases arising from exceptions shall not be consolidated with those arising from appeals and demands for a jury trial and those involving municipalities shall not be consolidated with those involving benefits to private property

Where any appeal is taken to the wrong court such court shall certify the same to the court to which it should have been taken

Section 24 Due Date for Payment of Benefits Discounts for Prompt Payment Interest All assessments of benefits shall become due and payable to the board when the State or Federal public flood control works and improvements have been completed which date shall be fixed by the official order of the board notice of which order shall be published by the board in the newspapers in which notice of the preliminary and final plans were published by one insertion

Any person or municipality may pay any part or all of the benefits assessed against him or it to the board before the due date thereof If such payment is made within six months after the amount of the benefits have been finally ascertained a discount of ten per centum of the amount thereof payable shall be allowed All benefits or any part thereof paid after such six months' period and within one year from the time the benefits are finally ascertained shall be subject to a discount of five per centum of the amount payable All assessments of benefits or parts thereof remaining unpaid when the improvements are completed shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the completion of the improvements until paid

The board shall send by registered mail addressed to the last known post office address a statement of the amount due by each person after the same has been finally ascertained together with notice of the discounts allowed by this act for prompt payment and when interest will be added to the amount due

Section 25 Liens and Filing Thereof Procedure Thereon to Collect All assessments for benefits against private property shall remain a lien thereon from the time report of the viewers is filed in court until paid unless the lien thereof be lost by failure to revive the same It shall be the duty of the board within six months after its order that the public works and improvements have been completed to file through the Department of Justice in the name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the office of the prothonotaries of the proper counties liens for all benefits assessed which remain unpaid by persons and municipalities But no such lien shall be filed unless the board shall first notify by mail addressed to the last known post office address of the owner or reputed owner of the property or the municipality against which an assessment has been made of its intention to have said lien filed if payment of the amount due is not made before a time prescribed by the board Such liens shall be filed in the same manner as is provided by law for the filing of municipal claims and shall have priority over all other liens except taxes and municipal claims or liens and except also mortgages and judgments of record prior to the time the report of the viewers was filed in court

Such liens shall be revived prosecuted to judgment executed and collected by the board through the Department of Justice in the same manner in all respects as is provided by law in the case of municipal claims except that in the case of municipalities judgments recovered on such liens shall be collected in the same manner as judgments are collectible by law against municipalities

Section 26 Increase of Municipal Debts Appropriations Any municipality may incur or increase its indebtedness in the manner provided by law for the purpose of appropriating moneys to the board to assist in carrying out the purpose of this act and for the purpose of paying benefits assessed against it by the report of viewers or as finally adjudicated and may make appropriations from current funds for such purposes

Section 27 Special Flood Control Fund Created Appropriation of Moneys Therein A Special Flood Control Fund is hereby established in the State Treasury into which shall be paid all moneys appropriated by the Commonwealth and received from the Federal Government and other states and its political subdivisions for flood control work and projects and all moneys arising from gifts or donations from persons and municipalities and recovered from benefits assessed against persons and municipalities under the provisions of this act

All moneys in the Flood Control Fund from time to time are hereby specifically appropriated to the board for the payment of any and all costs and expenses properly payable under the provisions of section seventeen of this act for repayment to the General Fund of excess appropriations made by the Commonwealth pending the collection of assessments of benefits and for payments on account of any moneys which the board may have agreed to contribute to aid and assist in the erection and construction of any Federal flood control works and improvements and in the erection and construction of flood control works and improvements under compacts and agreements with other states

Where more than one flood control district is created separate accounts shall be kept for each district and payments from the special Flood Control Fund for or on account of any one district shall not exceed the amount credited to such district in said fund.

Section 28 Additional Appropriations to Cover Delayed Payment of Assessments If in the construction and erection of the public works and improvements authorized by this act it becomes necessary for the Commonwealth to advance additional State moneys by appropriation to the Special Flood Control Fund because of a failure of owners of property and municipalities to pay benefits assessed within the time and in the amount estimated by the board then and in that event the General Fund shall be reimbursed by the board from future moneys collected from assessments of benefits to the extent of such additional appropriations The General Assembly shall in its appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of this act state the amount or amounts of appropriations so made which shall be so repaid to the General Fund

Section 29 Cooperation With Other States The Water and Power Resources Board is hereby designated as the agency of the Commonwealth with power to enter into reciprocal compacts and agreements with other states in developing flood control projects and works and shall have authority to expend moneys made available and appropriated by this act for interstate flood control works and improvements located within or without this Commonwealth on rivers and streams entering into or flowing out of or along the borders of this Commonwealth and to receive for payment into the Flood Control Fund from other states and their political subdivisions any moneys to aid and assist in the construction of flood control works and and improvements located in this State which are deemed beneficial to the inhabitants of other states Payments on account of such interstate works and improvements may be made by the board direct to the contractor or to the agency of such other state which let the contract or is performing the work of constructing such works or improvements or to the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies supervising the construction of such works or improvements or to the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies supervising the construction of such works or improvements

The board is further authorized to empower the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies to supervise the construction of such interstate flood control works and improvements

Section 30 Constitutional Construction The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any of the provisions shall be held to be unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions had not been included therein

Section 31 Appropriation The sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated from the General Fund into the Flood Control Fund created by this act for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 71, as follows:

An Act providing for the appropriation of certain waters of the Commonwealth to the Commonwealth for the benefit of the people thereof declaring void certain condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons providing for the ascertainment of the validity and the recording of certain condemnations and appropriations of water by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and appeals therefrom conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County in relation thereto providing for future condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and compensation therefor and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Water and Power Resources Board

Whereas An adequate supply of water is a matter of primary concern affecting the life health and comfort of the people of this Commonwealth and the supervision and equitable allocation thereof is an essential part of the police power of the State which no Legislature could rightfully impair or barter away and

Whereas All of the flowing water of the State by right belongs to the State in trust for the benefit of all of the people thereof and all uses of such flowing water must be regarded as subject to this sovereign right and

Whereas The increase of the population of the State makes it necessary that the available supply of water be apportioned equitably and allocated for the best interests of all concerned

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all of the water of this Commonwealth now unappropriated by any municipality corporation copartnership or person is hereby declared to be appropriated to the Commonwealth, for the benefit of all of the people of this Commonwealth subject only to such existing rights and uses as may now be lawful and no municipality corporation copartnership or person whether heretofore or hereafter created or which may now possess the right to take condemn and appropriate by eminent domain the waters of this Commonwealth shall hereafter take condemn or appropriate any water except as provided in this act

Section 2 Any condemnation or appropriation of waters heretofore made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person heretofore authorized to condemn water which appropriation has not been followed by an actual taking thereof heretofore or within a period of two (2) years after the effective date of this act is hereby declared null and void and of no effect. Where condemnation proceedings are pending in any of the courts of this Commonwealth at the date when this act becomes effective the actual taking of the water shall be within one year following the final determination of such proceeding otherwise the condemnation shall be null and void and of no effect.

Section 3 No condemnation or appropriation of water heretofore made under the power of eminent domain claimed by any municipality corporation copartnership or person authorized to condemn and appropriate water shall be valid or binding unless within six (6) months after the date of approval of this act said municipality corporation copartnershp or person shall produce the record upon which such appropriation or condemnation is founded or prove to the satisfaction of the Water and Power Resources Board that such condemnation was lawfully made in accordance with law at the time said condemnation and appropriation was made and shall thereafter file a transcript or certificate of the resolution or record upon which said condemnation or appropriation is claimed duly acknowledged by the secretary and president of the municipality corporation copartnership or person in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or the several counties as the case may be in which the water claimed to have been appropriated flows Any party aggrieved by a decision of the Water and Power Resources Board may within sixty (60) days appeal therefrom to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County and the taking of such appeal shall operate as a supersedeas

Section 4 Hereafter no condemnation or appropriation of streams or the waters thereof for water supply shall be made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person possessing the power of eminent domain except as follows

Municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons desiring additional water supply for present and future needs shall first make application to the Water and Power Resources Board for leave to appropriate or acquire the designated waters of the State setting forth

1 The present source or sources from which water is now taken listing the streams and the quantity of water appropriated therefrom designating as near as may be the point or points from which water is taken or used and the amounts of water stored

2 The necessity for such new or additional source of supply and the river stream or other body of water from which it is proposed to be taken

3 The location and the population needing the supply

4 The amount of water which it is proposed to take

5 The plans for development of the water resources of the streams to maintain the stream flow and to utilize flood runoff including the locations and capacities of any proposed impounding reservoirs

6 The names and addresses of the owners who may be affected by the proposed developments

7 Such other provisions as the Water and Power Resources Board shall deem necessary

Section 5 The Water and Power Resources Board shall upon such application make such investigation as may be necessary and grant such hearing as may be required

The Water and Power Resources Board is hereby given authority upon such application or on its own initiative to allocate all or any part of the waters of the Commonwealth to any municipality corporation copartnership or person

No allocation of the waters of this Commonwealth shall be for a longer term than fifty (50) years and such allocation shall be subject to such terms conditions and stipulations as the board shall deem to be necessary and proper to protect the present and future interests of the Commonwealth in the use and distribution of its water resources

The board shall have the further power to revoke any grant made in case the source of water supply is not developed in the amount or to the extent set forth in the application or required by the order of allocation of the board or if the work is not begun or completed within the time fixed by the board's grant

The Water and Power Resources Board shall further have the power to impose a reasonable charge for the water to be taken at the rate of not less than one dollar ($1.00) nor more than five dollars ($5.00) per million gallons and provide for the collection of the same and shall impose such terms and conditions as may be reasonably necessary bearing in mind the character and navigability of the stream and the need of water for other purposes All moneys collected from such charges shall be paid into the General Fund by and through the Department of Revenue

Section 6 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein

Section 7 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1936. No. 13.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, May 27, 1936.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Our God and Father, as we stand at the threshold of another Memorial Day, we thank Thee for the brave and fearless men who laid their all upon the altar of their country. In whatever wars they fought we honor their memory and pay silent tribute to their prowess. These heroes have left us a goodly heritage. All we possess is ours because they lived and sacrificed.

"Lord God of hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget, lest we forget."

Grant that we of today may not only be proud of our national inheritance but that we may realize our responsibility to maintain and administer it. Help us to defend and protect the principles of liberty and true Americanism against foes from without and from within our borders, thus handing down to future generations, unsullied and multiplied, that which past generations have entrusted to us.

We ask this in the name of Him who built His kingdom upon the foundation of humility and self-abnegation. Amen.

RESOLUTION No. 12

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 12, Printer's No. 91.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The most important and crucial problem before this Extraordinary Session of 1936 is that of relief for the unemployed, the destitute and needy, and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the maximum amount of relief possible under present circumstances should be afforded to this unfortunate class of our citizenship, and

Whereas, Under the terms of the agreement entered into by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the United States Government in 1935, the Federal Government agreed to provide by work projects for all employables in the aforementioned class of citizenship and the State Government was to provide by direct relief for all unemployables, and

Whereas, The State Government has been compelled from the time of said agreement to the present to continue to provide for the unemployables among the needy by means of direct relief grants, despite the said agreement, and

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is maintaining a large administrative agency operating under the State Emergency Relief Board for the distribution of direct relief at a present administrative cost of approximately $12,000,000 per year, and

Whereas, It has been impossible to determine the cost of administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania, although it has been reported that same exceeds many times the high cost of administration of direct relief by the State Emergency Relief Board, and

Whereas, Allegations have been made and charges have appeared in the public press of the Commonwealth to the effect that the administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania has been entirely political, that persons not entitled to relief and whose sole qualification is political activity have been given lucrative administrative positions and white collar jobs; that preferences exist to the detriment of those in need of relief for the benefit of the political parasite, and that vast sums of money which should properly go to the unemployed, the destitute and the needy of this Commonwealth are being diverted to those not in need of relief who receive the political plums of WPA, and

Whereas, A direct relationship exists between the sum to be appropriated by the Commonwealth for direct relief and the number of persons properly employed on WPA projects, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania request the State Administrator of WPA projects, Edward N. Jones, furnish to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania not later than May 19, 1936, the following information:

1. The total cost of administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, for the period beginning January 1, 1935 and ending May 1, 1936.

2. The number of administrative positions in WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, and the salaries of same.

3. The names and addresses of those holding administrative positions in WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, and the respective salaries.

4. The number, by counties, of those working on WPA projects in Pennsylvania not taken from the relief rolls of the State and the percentage of same to the gross number of employables on WPA projects in Pennsylvania.

5. The names and addresses, by counties, of those not taken from direct relief rolls of the State of Pennsylvania holding positions of County Administrator, supervisors, superintendents, secretaries, foremen, assistant foremen, time keepers and disbursing officers on WPA projects in the State and the respective salary of each.

6. The total amount allotted and spent on WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, for the period beginning January 1, 1935 and ending May 1, 1936.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend line two, page three, by striking out the words "May 19" and inserting in lieu thereof "June 15."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed.

Ordered, That the resolution as amended lie over for printing.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 44, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred and one of the act approved the twenty-second day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred fifty-three) entitled "An act relating to taxation designating the subjects property and persons subject to and exempt from taxation for all local purposes providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of persons property and subjects of taxation for county purposes and for the use of those municipal and quasi-municipal corporations which levy their taxes on county assessments and valuations amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto and repealing existing laws" making the real estate of public service companies with certain exceptions subject to taxation for school purposes

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 74, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section eight article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the resolution, Mr. Holstrom.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Holstrom, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOLSTROM. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of the resolution to explain it to the House.

Mr. HOLSTROM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, all this does is to allow the cities, counties, boroughs, and townships, and so forth to borrow three percent in excess of the present limitation, for sewage projects only. That is the whole intent of it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 76, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of the act approved the nineteenth day of January one thousand nine hundred thirty-four Special Session of one thousand nine hundred thirty-three one thousand nine hundred thirty-four Pamphlet Laws two hundred eighty-six) entitled "An act making appropriations out of the State Stores Fund to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct relief work relief and expenses including reimbursement of municipal subdivisions for certain expenditures in connection with work relief projects defining the purposes for which such moneys may be expended providing for the audit of such expenditures and prescribing the powers and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and of Certain State departments by imposing a time limit within which counties cities boroughs incorporated towns townships school districts and poor districts may obtain reimbursements for premiums on workmen's compensation insurance covering persons engaged on certain work relief projects

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, during the period between January 1st and June 2, 1933, a number of the school districts and municipalities of this Commonwealth employed labor for which they have to pay Workmen's Compensation. This labor was obtained and paid for by money which was appropriated for relief. We then passed a bill which appropriated $250,000 from the moneys realized by the Liquor Control Board, for the purpose of repaying the districts for the money which the State paid, and the State Workmen's Insurance bond, and this compensation insurance money. As I understand it, there are still a number of these districts in the State which have not received their money. In other words, the State would not repay the districts until after they had paid the insurance company and received a receipt therefor. A number of the districts have been handicapped ever since that time and did not have sufficient money on hand to make this payment. As a result some of these insurance bills have not been paid by the municipalities or the school districts, and as a result they have not collected their various sums from this $250,000. As I understand the bill which is before us it is to lapse that sum—I realize not until January first, 1937. But it seems to me that as long as there are these districts who will have to have relief therefrom, the funds which they would be entitled to under this former act, we should not lapse this appropriation at this time.

I have before me a letter from one of the districts in my legislative district involving the sum of $2,747.60, which is a substantial sum for a number of the districts.

I am wondering if the sponsor of this bill would not agree to place it upon the postponed calendar until this matter could be looked into further by the members of this House. I believe that possibly the matter could be ironed out and made satisfactory. Personally I think it is just as well for the matter to go over until the next session, but I see no reason why it could not be placed upon the postponed calendar, and I respectfully request the sponsor of the bill to so agree, in order that we may have an opportunity to look into the matter a little further.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. DILLEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 25, as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there are times when I wish it were possible that when a member arises on this floor to address this body, we would not have our attention drawn to the fact, "Oh, that man is a Republican," or "He is a Democrat," and consequently what he says is prejudiced by the way his party may feel or think about the general subject under discussion. I would like, in considering this bill to have each one of us think of the things that he promised when he ran for the office he now holds, when he told his constituents," I will do the things for you which I believe will be best for you and for your county, if and when I am elected." With this in mind I ask you to consider that there are in our districts three great groups, the group who works, the group who invest and the group who at present are receiving relief. If our promises which we made mean anything, they mean that we will not do anything which will injure these groups. When we pass legislation which injures one of the groups, we are not living up to our promises, and when we pass legislation which injures two of them at one time we are not living up to our promises.

This bill imposes a tax on utility company production, and it is a tax bill which injures directly two of those great classes. The first is those who work in that industry, and as a part of that same group, those who work in the coal mining industry in this State. The others are those who invest. It happens that in my county, a county in which a great deal of coal is produced, the miners have not see fit to support me, despite the fact that I felt and still feel that I have been doing what is best for their interests. This bill is one which will very directly injure the miners in Huntingdon and Cambria and the various other coal counties in this State. It is useless to argue that we can impose a tax on utilities of the State, and not get that money from the only source of income that the utilities have, mainly, the consumer of power. These companies will either increase their rates, they will curtail the work which they have planned, or they will dismiss or cut down the payrolls that they now pay. The first thing that they will do will be the easiest, that is to cut down the men now working for them, and the result will be something that none of us want. Additional men will thrown out of employment. They will latter endeavor to have their rates increased. .They must do this if they are to continue paying the same rates of wages, continue with the work they have planned, continue to increase as organizations, and eventually do as they have been doing namely, give us lower power rates.

So, I say that the first result will be the lessening of the amount of payrolls of the corporations. Our present low electric rates result very largely from the great blocks of electricity sold to industry at extremely low rates, low because of the very competitive field, rates that are so low that this proposed increase, that we speak of, which seems to us perhaps small, being only three-quarters of a mill, amounts to ten per cent of the rate which the company charges. These great blocks of currents consumed by industry give the companies a fixed income that they can depend on, which goes a great ways towards paying the fixed charges of the corporations. Consequently the rate of every individual who uses electric power, the rate he pays is directly bound and tied up with the amount of income that the company receives from these great industrial blocks of current. If this tax goes on a great amount of those large blocks will be totally wiped out, great masses of those blocks will be so eliminated that the companies will have to find some other source of income. They can do it in only two ways, by cutting down employment or increasing the rates. This, I submit to you, will greatly affect your position in your community.

The Governor in his program submitted seven tax bills, and of those seven, six applied to one class, namely, the utility corporations. Many of them apply to you and to me, but here is one group, one industry, which is affected by six of the seven proposed tax bills.

Gentlemen, I come back to the point at which I started, namely, the affect of this tax on our coal miners. The Pennsylvania power plants are located near the great coal fields of our State. The reason for this is obvious, the coal is there and it is cheap, the miners are there, and the power is produced and transmitted by wire to the industrial centers where it is used. It requires eleven and one-half percent of all the power produced in order to force enough electricity to the consumer. Under this bill, a tax is imposed upon this eleven and one-half percent. And that, I submit, is unjust. I cannot tell you the total amount of power produced in Pennsylvania, which is sold to companies doing business outside of Pennsylvania, but I can tell you of one large corporation that buys coal from Cambria and Huntingdon Counties to the extent of one hundred thousand tons a year, which will be forced to stop buying that coal because the corporations in Maryland will furnish electricity or the electric power and will not buy the coal from Pennsylvania. Who will suffer? The Pennsylvania coal miners, and the West Virginia miners get the work. This will be terrible for our miners.

In addition, gentlemen, the public service corporations suffered a loss of six and a half million dollars due to the flood. There was no thought that this body would raise money to pay back the utility corporations for their loss. No, they are forced to assume that loss, along with the additional tax imposed last year and the tax suggested here. One comparatively small corporation with which I am familiar, supplying electric power in six counties of Pennsylvania, has thirteen thousand stockholders in the area, has two thousand employes and many, many thousands of miners in the area. The passing of this act will result in a great loss of wages to employes, very serious loss to miners, serious loss to the stockholders and an eventual increase in rates to every electric power user. I submit to you that for us to support this tax, those of us in particular from the central part of the state, will be doing a thing which will be nothing more or less than selling out the coal miners in central Pennsylvania. Gentlemen, I ask that this bill be defeated.

HOUSE BILL No. 25 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be made a special order of business on final passage on Monday, June 1, 1936, at 10:00 P. M.

The motion was agreed to.

Section 20 Revision of Schedules and Filing Notice Thereof After hearing all parties and after making whatever changes are deemed necessary the viewers shall prepare a revised schedule of benefits to private property and a revised schedule of benefits assessed against municipalities and file a copy of each in the court of common pleas of the county When the reports of the viewers are filed they shall be confirmed nisi When the reports are filed notice thereof shall immediately be given by the board of viewers by publication once in the newspapers in which the notice of the hearings before the viewers was published Such notice shall state the date of the filing of the reports shall contain the schedules of the benefits assessed and shall state that unless exceptions are filed thereto or an appeal to the court of common pleas is taken therefrom within thirty days from the date of filing the reports will be confirmed absolutely

Section 21 Filing of Exceptions and Appeals Within thirty days after the filing of the report of viewers any person or municipality interested may file exceptions to the same or may appeal to the court of common pleas and demand a jury trial

Each person or municipality filing exceptions or taking an appeal shall except to or appeal from so much of the report only as affects property in which he has an interest or as affects the municipality and the part of the report of the viewers not excepted to or appealed from shall be confirmed absolutely after said thirty day period

Section 22 Procedure on Exceptions and Appeals Where exceptions to a report of the viewers are filed the court shall proceed to hear and determine the same in the manner exceptions to the reports of viewers are generally proceeded with within the county Where an appeal is taken it shall state the grounds upon which the appeal is taken and shall be accompanied by an affidavit that it is not taken for the purpose of delay but because the appellant believes that injustice has been done

Upon the trial of any appeal or the hearing of any exceptions in case the appellant or party excepting does not obtain a verdict or decree more favorable than was the report of the viewers he or it shall not recover any costs

The court of common pleas shall order what notices shall be given in connection with such proceedings by exceptions or by appeals and may by rule or otherwise prescribe the form of the pleadings

The court may also in proper cases consolidate proceedings by exceptions or appeals into a single proceeding but exceptions or appeals involving municipalities shall not be consolidated with those involving private property

Section 23 Appeals to Superior and Supreme Courts Any person or municipality aggrieved by an order of court on exceptions filed or determination of the case where a jury trial was demanded may within thirty days after such final order or determination and not thereafter appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court as the case may be

Where any appeal is taken to the Supreme Court and an appeal is also taken to the Superior Court and the appeals in both cases are substantially the same or involve the same questions the Superior Court may certify such appeal to the Supreme Court to be heard with other appeals from the same report

The Supreme or Superior Court shall consolidate all appeals coming before it from the same report and hear them as one case except that cases arising from exceptions shall not be consolidated with those arising from appeals and demands for a jury trial and those involving municipalities shall not be consolidated with those involving benefits to private property

Where any appeal is taken to the wrong court such court shall certify the same to the court to which it should have been taken

Section 24 Due Date for Payment of Benefits Discounts for Prompt Payment Interest All assessments of benefits shall become due and payable to the board when the State or Federal public flood control works and improvements have been completed which date shall be fixed by the official order of the board notice of which order shall be published by the board in the newspapers in which notice of the preliminary and final plans were published by one insertion

Any person or municipality may pay any part or all of the benefits assessed against him or it to the board before the due date thereof If such payment is made within six months after the amount of the benefits have been finally ascertained a discount of ten per centum of the amount thereof paid shall be allowed All benefits or any part thereof paid after such six months' period and within one year from the time the benefits are finally ascertained shall be subject to a discount of five per centum of the amount paid All assessments of benefits or parts thereof remaining unpaid when the improvements are completed shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the completion of the improvements until paid

The board shall send by registered mail addressed to the last known post office address a statement of the amount due by each person and municipality after the same has been finally ascertained together with notice of the discounts allowed by this act for prompt payment and when interest will be added to the amount due

Section 25 Liens and Filing Thereof Procedure Thereon to Collect All assessments for benefits against private property shall remain a lien thereon from the time report of the viewers is filed in court until paid unless the lien thereof be lost by failure to revive the same It shall be the duty of the board within six months after its order that the public works and improvements have been completed to file through the Department of Justice in the name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the office of the prothonotaries of the proper counties liens for all benefits assessed which remain unpaid by persons and municipalities But no such lien shall be filed unless the board shall first notify by mail addressed to the last known post office address of the owner or reputed owner of the property or the municipality against which an assessment has been made of its intention to have said lien filed if payment of the amount due is not made before a time prescribed by the board Such liens shall be filed in the same manner as is provided by law for the filing of municipal claims and shall have priority over all other liens except taxes and municipal claims or liens and except also mortgages and judgments of record prior to the time the report of the viewers was filed in court

Such liens shall be revived prosecuted to judgment executed and collected by the board through the Department of Justice in the same manner in all respects as is provided by law in the case of municipal claims except that in the case of municipalities judgments recovered on such liens shall be collected in the same manner as judgments are collectible by law against municipalities

Section 26 Increase of Municipal Debts Appropriations Any municipality may incur or increase its indebtedness in the manner provided by law for the purpose of appropriating moneys to the board to assist in carrying out the purpose of this act and for the purpose of paying benefits assessed against it by the report of viewers or as finally adjudicated and may make appropriations from current funds for such purposes

Section 27 Special Flood Control Fund Created Appropriation of Moneys Therein A Special Flood Control Fund is hereby established in the State Treasury into which shall be paid all moneys appropriated by the Commonwealth and received from the Federal Government and other states and their political subdivisions for flood control work and projects and all moneys arising from gifts or donations from persons and municipalities and recovered from benefits assessed against persons and municipalities under the provisions of this act

All moneys in the Flood Control Fund from time to time are hereby specifically appropriated to the board for the payment of any and all costs and expenses properly payable under the provisions of section seventeen of this act for repayment to the General Fund of excess appropriations made by the Commonwealth pending the collection of assessments of benefits and for payments on account of any moneys which the board may have agreed to contribute to aid and assist in the erection and construction of any Federal flood control works and improvements and in the erection and construction of flood control works and improvements under compacts and agreements with other states

Where more than one flood control district is created separate accounts shall be kept for each district and payments from the special Flood Control Fund for or on account of any one district shall not exceed the amount credited to such district in said fund.

Section 28 Additional Appropriations to Cover Delayed Payment of Assessments If in the construction and erection of the public works and improvements authorized by this act it becomes necessary for the Commonwealth to advance additional State moneys by appropriation to the Special Flood Control Fund because of a failure of owners of property and municipalities to pay benefits assessed within the time and in the amount estimated by the board then and in that event the General Fund shall be reimbursed by the board from future moneys collected from assessments of benefits to the extent of such additional appropriations The General Assembly shall in its appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of this act state the amount or amounts of appropriations so made which shall be so repaid to the General Fund

nated as the agency of the Commonwealth with power to enter into reciprocal compacts and agreements with other states in developing flood control projects and works and shall have authority to expend moneys made available and appropriated by this act for interstate flood control works and improvements located within or without this Commonwealth on rivers and streams entering into or flowing out of or along the borders of this Commonwealth and to receive for payment into the Flood Control Fund from other states and their political subdivisions any moneys to aid and assist in the construction of flood control works and and improvements located in this State which are deemed beneficial to the inhabitants of other states Payments on account of such interstate works and improvements may be made by the board direct to the contractor or to the agency of such other state which let the contract or is performing the work of constructing such works or improvements or to the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies supervising the construction of such works or improvements

The board is further authorized to empower the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies to supervise the construction of such interstate flood control works and improvements

Section 30 Constitutional Construction The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any of the provisions shall be held to be unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions had not been included therein

Section 31 Appropriation The sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated from the General Fund into the Flood Control Fund created by this act for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 71, as follows:

An Act providing for the appropriation of certain waters of the Commonwealth to the Commonwealth for the benefit of the people thereof declaring void certain condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons providing for the ascertainment of the validity and the recording of certain condemnations and appropriations of water by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and appeals therefrom conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County in relation thereto providing for future condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and compensation therefor and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Water and Power Resources Board

Whereas An adequate supply of water is a matter of primary concern affecting the life health and comfort of the people of this Commonwealth and the supervision and equitable allocation thereof is an essential part of the police power of the State which no Legislature could rightfully impair or barter away and

Whereas All of the flowing water of the State by right belongs to the State in trust for the benefit of all of the people thereof and all uses of such flowing water must be regarded as subject to this sovereign right and

Whereas The increase of the population of the State makes it necessary that the available supply of water be apportioned equitably and allocated for the best interests of all concerned

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all of the water of this Commonwealth now unappropriated by any municipality corporation copartnership or person is hereby declared to be appropriated to the Commonwealth, for the benefit of all of the people of this Commonwealth subject only to such existing rights and uses as may now be lawful and no municipality corporation copartnership or person whether heretofore or hereafter created or which may now possess the right to take condemn and appropriate by eminent domain the waters of this Commonwealth shall hereafter take condemn or appropriate any water except as provided in this act

Section 2 Any condemnation or appropriation of waters heretofore made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person heretofore authorized to condemn water which appropriation has not been followed by an actual taking thereof heretofore or within a period of two (2) years after the effective date of this act is hereby declared null and void and of no effect. Where condemnation proceedings are pending in any of the courts of this Commonwealth at the date when this act becomes effective the actual taking of the water shall be within one year following the final determination of such proceeding otherwise the condemnation shall be null and void and of no effect.

Section 3 No condemnation or appropriation of water heretofore made under the power of eminent domain claimed by any municipality corporation copartnership or person authorized to condemn and appropriate water shall be valid or binding unless within six (6) months after the date of approval of this act said municipality corporation copartnership or person shall produce the record upon which such appropriation or condemnation is founded or prove to the satisfaction of the Water and Power Resources Board that such condemnation was lawfully made in accordance with law at the time said condemnation and appropriation was made and shall thereafter file a transcript or certificate of the resolution or record upon which said condemnation or appropriation is claimed duly acknowledged by the secretary and president of the municipality corporation copartnership or person in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or the several counties as the case may be in which the water claimed to have been appropriated flows Any party aggrieved by a decision of the Water and Power Resources Board may within sixty (60) days appeal therefrom to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County and the taking of such appeal shall operate as a supersedeas

Section 4 Hereafter no condemnation or appropriation of streams or the waters thereof for water supply shall be made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person possessing the power of eminent domain except as follows

Municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons desiring additional water supply for present and future needs shall first make application to the Water and Power Resources Board for leave to appropriate or acquire the designated waters of the State setting forth

1 The present source or sources from which water is now taken listing the streams and the quantity of water appropriated therefrom designating as near as may be the point or points from which water is taken or used and the amounts of water stored

2 The necessity for such new or additional source of supply and the river stream or other body of water from which it is proposed to be taken

3 The location and the population needing the supply

4 The amount of water which it is proposed to take

5 The plans for development of the water resources of the streams to maintain the stream flow and to utilize flood runoff including the locations and capacities of any proposed impounding reservoirs

6 The names and addresses of the owners who may be affected by the proposed developments

7 Such other provisions as the Water and Power Resources Board shall deem necessary

Section 5 The Water and Power Resources Board shall upon such application make such investigation as may be necessary and grant such hearing as may be required

The Water and Power Resources Board is hereby given authority upon such application to allocate such part of the waters of the Commonwealth to any municipality corporatin copartnership or person as said application may show to be reasonably necessary to the purpose of the application

No allocation of the waters of this Commonwealth shall be for a longer term than fifty (50) years and such allocation shall be subject to such terms conditions and stipulations as the board shall deem to be necessary and proper to protect the present and future interests of the Commonwealth in the use and distribution of its water resources

The board shall have the further power to revoke any grant made in case the source of water supply is not developed in the amount or to the extent set forth in the application or required by the order of allocation of the board or if the work is not begun or completed within the time fixed by the board's grant

The Water and Power Resources Board shall further have the power to impose a reasonable charge for the water to be taken at the rate of not less than one dollar ($1.00) nor more than five dollars ($5.00) per million gallons and provide for the collection of the same and shall impose such terms and conditions as may be reasonably necessary bearing in mind the character and navigability of the stream and the need of water for other purposes All moneys collected from such charges shall be paid into the General Fund by and through the Department of Revenue

Section 6 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED RESOLUTION No. 14 RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced returned resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Whereas, The sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month if June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Whereas, There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of money from the Motor License Fund, the State Stores Fund, and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund, the sum one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Funl and the sum of two milion dolars ($2,000,000.00) from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund, and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) for unemployment relief purposes; and

Resolved, That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution, (2) appropriating or re-appropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend on page 1, second whereas clause in first line by striking out after the word "of" the word "six" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "four"; also in next line, by striking out after the word "dollars" the figures "($6,086,211.00)" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "($4,086,211.00)".

Amend on page 1, third whereas clause, in third line, by inserting after the word "Fund" the word "and"; also in next line by striking out after the word "Fund" the words "and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund".

Amend on page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "fund" the word "and"; also in lines 6 and 7 by striking out the following: "and the sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000.00) from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund"; also in line 9, by striking out after the word "of" the word "six" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "four"; also in line 10 by striking out after the syllables 'lars" the figures "($6,086,211.00)" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "($4,086,211.00)"; also in line 25, by striking out at the beginning of said line the word "six" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "four"; also in line 26, by striking out at the beginning of said line the figures "($6,086,-211.00)" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "($4,-086,211.00)".

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am just in receipt of a communication from Dr. De Schweinitz, Director of the State Emergency Relief Board, written to me as the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, indicating the following:

"I understand that the House has before it an amended resolution from the Senate providing for transfers of funds in the amount of $4,086,211, and making available any balance existing on May 31st for unemployment relief during the month of June. This involves an amount less than the budget approval for June by the State Emergency Relief Board. If in view of this the House should fail to act all of our funds will lapse at the end of this week. and there will be a complete stoppage of relief money. This would entail such suffering for the needy and unemployed that I earnestly hope that the House will concur in the resolution adopted by the Senate. If these funds should not be sufficient I shall ask for a further appropriation later in the month of June."

In view of the letter from Dr. Schweinitz the House finds itself in the position at the present time that we are confronted with the problem of either concurring in the arbitrary amount set by the Republican Senate, or else be confronted with the stoppage of relief after the thirty-first of this month. Again this House finds itself in a position where they have to either accede to the arbitrary figure of the Republican Senate or else take the result of the stoppage of relief after May 31st. We are again faced with the position of either concurring, and being forced so to do with the gun at our heads. This figure of four million plus, arrived at by the Senate is not based upon any actuarial accounting or any definite figure. This figure, as I have indicated before is an arbitrary figure arrived at by the Senate in an effort apparently to hamstring the operation of the State Emergency Relief Board. As I told you yesterday, the State Emergency Relief Board is capable of exercising its trust to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to the taxpayers. Over the months of April and May the State Emergency Relief Board, was able to save out of the allocation of funds made to them, in the month of April $345,000, and in the month of May approximately $500,000. But, nevertheless, irrespective of the possibility of any increased relief load, irrespective of the possibility that over fifty thousand cases have been dropped by the WPA, and that thirteen thousand of those cases are now on the State Emergency Relief, irrespective of the fact that there is a back load of thirty-seven thousand cases that mignt possibly be turned on the State Emergency Relief Board, irrespective of any emergency or any possibility that might exist in this Commonwealth, the Senate fixed that arbitrary figure of four million dollars plus, for the relief requirements for the month of June.

There has been some indication of the ideas of the Republicans in the Republican press. The Philadelphia Inquirer carries an account which would indicate as follows:

Although the resolution authorizing the $4,931,211 appropriation expressly reads that the funds should last for the entire month of June, a gentlemen's agreement was reached between the Senate Republican and Democratic blocs that if more money is necessary for the period it probably will be advanced.

We realize by that statement that the figure is purely an arbitrary one. It is not based upon any accounting or compilation. They, nevertheless, put this House in a position whereby we must either concur in the resolution as presented, and the amendments made by the Senate, or else be confronted with the possibility of the stoppage of relief in this Commonwealth after May. I know, in speaking for the Democratic members of the House, that we do not feel we are bound as to the relief requirements for the month of June, as indicated by this figure that is arbitrarily fixed. I know, in speaking for the Democratic members of the House, that we expect to provide funds as are necessary for the relief requirements of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, irrespective of the sum arbitrarily fixed by the Senate. But, nevertheless, in view of the emergency and in view of the exigency that now exists, it is with a great deal of reluctance on my part and on the part of the Democratic members of this House, that I move you, Mr. Speaker, that we concur in the amendments inserted by the Senate.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am rather amused at the great deal of trepidation and surprise on the part of my friend from York, when he tells you that the Senate arbitrarily acted yesterday. In the first place, he reads a letter from Dr. De Schweinitz, in which the statement is made that should this amount prove deficient he will come back to the Legislature and ask for more. Apparently Dr. De Schweinitz has much more confidence in the House and Senate than Mr. Cohen has. All of us know that regardless of party lines, we will not permit relief to stop in Pennsylvania, not for one day. If any amount that we appropriate proves insufficient, we will immediately supply the deficiency. Was this figure an arbitrary figure? Well, pensonally, I don't know. Was Dr. De Schweinitz's figure arbitrary? I don't know. When the harmony committee met with the Relief Board, we asked them how much money they needed for a particular month, and the members of the board said, "We don't know, we don't attempt to find out, we take whatever amount you people give us, then we take the estimate of the director and we try to make it fit the cloth." Now, gentleman, that is exactly the situation. They will, of course, utilize what we give them and they might use it. In some instances they might not be able to use it, and you have a lapsed sum, as you have at the present time, of eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars. But the function of the board itself is merely to administer the funds that we appropriate. Now, the director does submit to the board his estimate of relief needs, but the director is not infallible, as our experience in the latter part of the months of April and May has disclosed. The figures have suddenly dropped from nine million dollars to below seven million dollars. The Senate yesterday, in considering this resolution, apparently did not act on party lines, because as I read the same article that my friend from York, Mr. Cohen, referred to, this resolution, as amended to four million dollars plus passed the Senate unanimously. That means that both the Democrats and Republicans voted for the amendment and sent it back to us for concurrence. So it does not seem to me as though partisan lines dictated the action of the Senate, and no more than that will partisan lines dictate our action here. We on this side of the House are just as sensitive to the needs of the people as you are, and we on this side of the House have been as liberal as you, but we do say this, that we are not going to sit by and permit excessive sums to be used for administrative costs, for padding payrolls, and call that relief. Dr. De Schweinitz will have to cut his administrative costs. It will not be necessary to take one cent away from a single recipient of relief in Pennsylvania during the month of June, and this sum will be sufficient, if he pays as much attention to efficient administration as Mr. Cohen does to the needs of relief recipients.

I ask the gentlemen on this side of the House to vote to concur in the amendment of the Senate.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. I do not care to take the time of the House to ask for a roll call, but I want to be recorded as voting "no" and opposing this compromise. I am certainly of the opinion that the majority of members of this House should end the program of staging a schottische, three steps forward and one step back. I am most emphatically of the opinion that now would be as good a time as any other to determine the relief budget, and I do not believe that this House or the Senate would permit relief to lapse next Monday, if this House refused to concur. I, for one, stand for the policy of stopping the game. I would call the Senate's bluff, I would see whether relief would lapse Monday. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, that we have declined to force the issue and face it now.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in addition to what the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, has said to the members of the House, and in partial answer to my colleague from Cambria County, Mr. Andrews, I want the members of the House to very carefully read the second whereas clause of this resolution. You will notice that it says:

"Whereas, The sum of six million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($6,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-six."

Now, that does not say, members of the House, that that is the entire sum that will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes during the month of June. It does not say that that sum of money will last out the entire month of June, 1936. It merely says that that much will be necessary. On the same basis you might say that the sum of one hundred thousand dollars will be necessary for the month of June. For that reason, ladies and gentlemen, I say that we should vote to concur in this amendment, with the understanding that we are not committing ourselves to the proposition that this sum is all that is necessary. This amount of money may run out in the second or third week of June. The understanding, it seems to me, should be, when we vote to concur in the amendment, if the money does run out in the second or third week of June, that we will immediately furnish the director of relief with a sum sufficient to carry the balance of the month.

Yesterday, I believe, or the day before, an amendment was offered from the Republican side of the House to this resolution, wherein they asked for the sum of $655,000 more than this resolution now asks for. That in itself would indicate that the Republican members of the House believed that this sum that we are concurring in is not sufficient for the entire month.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, made the statement that the relief director will cut the cloth to suit the appropriation. I will vote for this concurrence on that assumption and on that basis because the relief director, as I understand it, intends to continue the same standards of relief that have been in existence for some time past. It is based on the same amount of grant to individuals, the same grant per case and the same grant per month. It is only on that basis that I vote to concur in this amendment, and I trust that the members of the House will take my explanation and the explanation of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, and vote to concur in this resolution.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker and colleagues of the House, I intend to vote for this resolution with a great deal of reluctance, but it seems to me there is one element that has not been spoken of yet, and that is these investigations which have been started. There is an investigation going on by members of the Senate at the present time, and I understand one is to be started by this body. I believe that the situation will be taken care of by the great mass of statistics that these gentlemen will gather as to the underprivileged and unemployed, until about the fifteenth of June and I think that will take care of the situation very well.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I desire to be placed on record as concurring just one hundred percent in the remarks made by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews. I agree with him distinctly that this House should not bend the knee to a recalcitrant Senate. I say without hesitation that I feel incensed when any member of this House without warrant takes the floor and insinuates that the administrative cost of the State Emergency Relief Board is unwarranted and tries to intimate that those expenses should be cut, and I say without hesitation that that Board shows more charity to that body of men than they are entitled to when they say, "We will accept this amount," and it is only because that Board says so that I am willing to vote for the amendments, but I say without hesitation here that I am going to support that Board one hundred percent in their efforts to take care of the poor and the needy of this Commonwealth, and I say that we will invite them back at any time, when they feel they are short of funds, regardless of what may be said on the other side of this House. I am saying that they should not hesitate to expend as much in funds as they deem necessary in administering to their wards, and that they should not be intimidated by the members on the other side of this House in properly administering to their wards and relieving the poor of this Commonwealth. If it is necessary to have a showdown with the recalcitrant Senate, then we are going to have it. I have stated the reason why I am voting for the amendment, not with reluctance, but with a challenge to the other side of the House that they shall and will have a showdown at the time that these funds are exhausted.

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I wish to be recorded as voting in favor of this amendment, not because I think it might be the political thing to do, but I feel as a representative of an industrial district, where there is a lot of distress by reason of unemployment, that it is the humane thing to do, while the Shylocks are playing politics over dollars and cents.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and member of the House, I merely want to reply to the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman. He seemed to be a little bit exercised about my intimation that the administration costs were too high. I made that statement advisedly because I have in front of me the reports of some of the House investigating committees. They were Democratic investigating committees of the regular session of 1935. For instance, the report by the Westmoreland county committee states that they should eliminate the exhorbitant administration costs. The report from Washington and Greene counties states that a reduction of at least one third in the cost in these counties could be effected. Gentlemen, I merely call that to your attention to show you that the statements made on this side are made advisedly, and given to you for what it might be worth. They are your reports, not ours.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I remember very vividly the report of the Westmoreland County investigating committee, made to the House on relief. I understand that we made certain recommendations, and I am certainly glad to see that at least one Republican has seen fit to read that report. I had my doubts as to whether anybody would read it. I will say for the information of the House that the administrative costs have been cut in Westmoreland County, as per the instructions of the resolution.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I very reluctantly get on my feet today to make a very brief statement. We have seen one of the greatest side shows in this session that has ever been pulled in Pennsylvania, especially on Monday night. Last Monday night, the minority floor leader made the keynote speech of the Republican campaign for 1936, and we have had several other keynote speeches since that time.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think we have reached the stage or the point where we should have a showdown. We should not concur in this resolution amended by the Senate. We might as well have that showdown here today as have it in June; we might as well have it today as to probably have it in July or August, because we are going to have to have a showdown sooner or later. This relief problem is nothing more than a political football, and I, for one, am not going to concur with anything that the reactionary Senate sends over here.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if we were poker players, I would say that as far as I am concerned, the Senate has pulled its last bluff, and I am calling right now, and I will sit here until they are ready to talk business. If the rest of you have any nerve, you will do the same.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as one of those who is perfectly willing to vote for this or even a larger sum, if necessary, I do not think it is fair for you over there to place on the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, or the opposite faction, or any one else, the blame, on the one hand, for refusing sufficient money and charging them with ignorance as to the facts, upholding the relief board as the court of last resort as to how much money is needed, and then on each and every occasion trying to block any attempts to get adequate information. Your constituents, as well as ours, are going to hold you responsible for the amount of money that is spent, and you are not going to be able to explain to them that Director De Schweinitz was the man who was responsible for the amount of money that was spent. I think that most of the men on this side of the House will be perfectly willing to stay here the rest of this week, or this session, or the rest of the Summer, before they will let anybody starve for lack of adequate relief. According to the newspapers at least, the appropriation of the Senate, this agreement for this sum was carried unanimously with the understanding that a sum would be appropriated later if necessary. I do not think that the remarks with regard to the Republicans playing football with relief, or this House playing football with relief was at all warranted. I for one will be very glad to stay here as long as necessary, speaking for myself only. I don't think that a person who votes to appropriate this money, rather than have the poor shut off from the relief next week can be accused of playing football. I think it is well for those who consider having a showdown at this time at the expense of the people on relief, to consider well who will be suffering during the showdown, whether it will be the fighters in the House of Representatives or whether it will be the people of Pennsylvania on relief.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker and members of this House, I listened very closely to the remarks by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, concerning the reduction of administrative cost in the operation of relief. He cited recommendations of certain legislative investigating committees of the last session. I was a member of a legislative investigating committee which he did not cite, and I will say to the members of this House that our report likewise made recommendations that the cost of administration could be reduced and should be reduced. However, we are coming to a point here on Wednesday, just a few days away from the time that relief will stop in Pennsylvania, and asking by reduction of approximately thirty-three and one-third per cent of the revenues asked for, for June, to reduce administrative costs thirty-three and a third per cent in a matter of four or, five days. I admit to the membership of this House that it would be a miracle, yes more than a miracle to attempt to perform a surgical operation or disembowelment as it would really be, to adjust the administrative forces of the State Emergency Relief Board to a reduction of thirty-three and a third per cent in a matter of five days, and for that reason, and that reason alone I do not expect to concur in the amendments made by the Senate. As previously stated, I expect to urge with every possible means at my command as a single member of this House, to bring about a reduction in the administrative cost of emergency relief, and I am confident it can be so done, but I again want to call to your attention the fact that it would be an impossibiliy to try to perform the disembowelment in a period of five days.

I for one am going to vote to non-concur in the amendment of the Senate.

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I too am one of the members who are tired watching a political relief football kicked around on the floor of both the House and the Senate. I have come to the conclusion that the Republican members of both the House and the Senate are not so vitally interested in the continuance of relief in Pennsylvania. To begin with they tried to discredit the relief administration by saying there were too many chiselers on relief. Now they are hitting at the top-heaviness of the relief forces. To begin with, as far as the chiselers on relief are concerned I am willing to admit that there are some. However, I sincerely feel that there are more chiselers on the floor of both the House and the Senate than in the entire relief setup in the State of Pennsylvania.

As I said, we might as well have the showdown right here and now. The people who are on relief in Pennsylvania probably are not given any more than eleven cents a meal a day. I am very sure that they would much rather starve than continue with the allowance that is given them, so I say let us fight it out here and now; let us hold out,—we are not going anywhere, and bring this to an end.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as we have been complimented on reading these reports of the investigating committees of the House in the past session, I want to read this statement of Mr. Tronzo to the other members of the House from the report of the Allegheny County committee: "A serious condition undoubtedly exists on what has been referred to as chiselers, namely the acceptance of relief funds by people not entitled to them." And for the information of the gentleman from Franklin, I read from the report signed by him—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, will state his point of order.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the subject before the House.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is not well taken. The question before the House is relief and the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in the report of the House Committee investigating Franklin County, the home of Mr. Moomaw, with reference to the administrative costs, the folowing is said: "After the investigation started we discovered that effective April 1st increases were made in the salaries of the administrative personnel. We do not believe this should have been done, particularly at the time when practically all the work relief projects were suspended due to the shortage of relief funds. A check of the record reveals these increases were given to approximately ninety per cent of the administrative employes and the average increase on those affected was approximately nineteen and a half per cent."

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am one of the fellows who is going to concur in this resolution because I want the unemployed to eat after next Monday, and I want the Democratic members of the House to help us so that they will eat, because the Senate has already adjourned, and if you do not concur in this amendment, they will go hungry, and I will have to go back home and tell my people that the Republicans in both the House and the Senate passed this resolution, and the Democrats in the House refused, and let you go hungry after next Monday.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will state his point of information.

Mr. COHEN. Will the Chair inform the membership of this House, Mr. Speaker, whether or not the Republican Senate is in session?

The SPEAKER. The information that they have adjourned has not been conveyed to the desk. The Chair is unable to inform the gentleman.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I request that the Sergeant-at-Arms be sent to ascertain whether or not the Senate has adjourned, so that the House will have official notice of what action the Senate has taken?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, the Secretary of the Senate has informed the House that the Senate has adjourned until next Monday night at 9:00 o'clock.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York, Mr Cohen, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COHEN. Will the Chair inform the membership of this House the exact time at which the Senate adjourned?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has not been informed on the exact time the Senate adjourned. That is a matter of Senate record only, and we do not have that available.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, would it be possible to send the Sergeant-at-Arms directly to the Senate to the record of the Senate, to ascertain the exact official time at which the Senate adjourned?

The SPEAKER. The Chief Clerk informs the Chair that the exact time that the Senate adjourned will be found out and submitted to the House.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, might I also request the Chair to ascertain through the Chief Clerk whether the vote on the motion to adjourn was unanimous or not?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia the Chief Clerk will be instructed to ask the Secretary of the Senate the vote on the motion to adjourn.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe it is possible in parliamentary history to find a precedent for the present action. It is inconceivable that one chamber of this Legislature should presume to amend a measure of such major importance, passed in this House and then insolently to adjourn, taking our acquiescence for granted. I say, Mr. Speaker, that there is no parallel for such action and I arise to ask you, Mr. Speaker, what power there is resident in this House to compel the Senate to reconvene for the consideration and for conference, if necessary, if this House in its wisdom and by means of its constitutional rights shall refuse to concur in the amendments of the Senate?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been advised that the Senate adjourned at 12:25. There was no record of a roll call and no discussion on the motion to adjourn.

In answer to the question of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, I wish to read Section 14, Article II, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania:

"Adjournment. Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting." In accordance with this provision the House and the Senate adopted a resolution agreeing to adjourn until next Monday night at 9:00 P. M. Therefore, the House has no power to compel the Senate to reconvene.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, what would be the procedure if this House refused to concur in the amendments of the Senate and appointed a committee for conference?

The SPEAKER. Replying to the question of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, if this House should non-concur in the amendments offered by the Senate, this information would be conveyed to the Senate, but it could not be conveyed until they are officially in session next Monday night.

In order to more fully answer the question of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, when this resolution is conveyed to the Senate officially, which would have to be next Monday night, they are in the position of either receding from or insisting upon the amendments to the resolution. If they insist upon the amendments, then it would be up to this House to appoint its members of the conference committee.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the majority leader, the gentleman from York.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask whether it is not true that the relief needs of the relief clients have been cared for for next week by money and checks now in the mails or now in the process of transmission?

Mr. COHEN. My understanding, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, is that the relief requirements for the month of May have been met. Next week is the month of June. The eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars which the State Emergency Relief Board has been able to save will lapse, and will not be susceptible of expenditure by the State Emergency Relief Board after or on the first of June.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, will not the eight hundred and some thousand dollars, however, be available for immediate appropriation?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars will be available for immediate reappropriation after an appropriation bill has been read in the House on three days, and the same in the Senate and has been passed.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask, is it not true therefore that no one will go hungry next week if this House refuses today to concur in the amendments of the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I hoped I had made that clear. On the first of June all dispensation of relief by the State Emergency Relief Board will stop. These recipients of relief who would have received their checks on June 1 or June 2 will not be able to so receive those checks and will not be able to receive those checks until proper enabling legislation has been passed both by the House and the Senate.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I can not conceive of a situation such as the majority leader outlines. If the people of this State are to receive any aid next week, the checks must be already written and in the process of being transmitted. Surely by all of the mechanics of the system as I know of them,—and if I am wrong I hope I will be corrected,—the checks that go out the first week in June are not for the first week in June; they are for the second week in June or for some other period. Certainly you can not care for the first week in June with the checks that are going out sometime during that period.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, inconceivable as it might seem to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, nevertheless the facts are these, that the relief payments for the month of June are made during the month of June from funds that have been appropriated and are available for the month of June. After June 1 and on June 1 and thereafter there is no money available to the State Emergency Relief Board upon which checks can be drawn.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I understand that the leaders of the Democratic party and the Republican party got together before the Senate adjourned and agreed that the Senate pass the resolution that it passed, and that should more money be needed during the month of June to take care of unemployment relief, that money would be voted in due course. Yesterday I wanted this House to meet at 9:00 o'clock. I kind of thought that some of my friends on the other side would need extra time in order to explode and speak.

It is about time that we close on this subject. It seems to me it is merely bluff, bluster and blunder.

I move you, Sir, the previous question.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman insist on his motion for the previous question?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, will you tarry just a few moments until my Democratic friends make up their minds.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, under Section 14 of Article II of the Constitution it reads: "Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting."

"I wish to inquire whether or not since the Senate has adjourned and will not meet until Monday evening, since there will intervene four days, namely, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, I wish to inquire whether or not the Senate has adjourned in violation of that Section 14 of Article II of the Constitution.

The SPEAKER. In answer to the parliamentary inquiry of the gentleman from Allegheny, the gentleman will find by reading Section 14 that, Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days—." This house has already agreed to a resolution giving its consent to the Senate to adjourn until next Monday night, at nine P. M. Does that answer the question of the gentleman from Allegheny?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, if I have the decision of the Speaker, that there will not intervene more than three days, that does answer that question. But the question on which I specificaly asked for a ruling was whether or not from today and that time that the Senate has adjourned there will intervene more than three days, until the Senate reconvenes.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct. That there will intervene more than three days, but the question of the number of days is not an issue, because the House has given its consent for the Senate to adjourn.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, some serious accusations have been made during this debate, some accusations which may transcend the very question that we are interested in, and those accusations, as I understand it, came from members who accused certain leaders of this House, without naming the leaders, of entering into some secret agreement or some agreements that this matter would be carried in this House, and I presume the gentleman meant that the agreements were made between probably the Republican leaders and the Democratic leaders.

I, for one, am not willing to sit in this House without ascertaining, first, whether or not those accusations are correct, and if they are correct to state to the members of the House just how I feel about such agreements.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I should like the opportunity to interrogate Mr. Cohen, the majority leader of this House.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, if I understood correctly the statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, he intimated, and I do not want to say anything that he did not intend to say—I do not remember his exact words, but I think he intimated that there had been an agreement made to the extent that this matter would be concurred in by the House.

Do you know, Mr. Majority Floor Leader, of any agreement that was made either late yesterday or made today concerning an agreement whereby this House would concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this morning, at approximately nine thirty o'clock, I came to the floor of the House and ascertained that the Senate had amended Resolution No. 14, cutting off two million dollars from the appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, and I proceeded to the Senate, where we were confronted with Senator Buckman, Senator Gelder and Senator Homsher.

At that time I tried to prevail upon those gentlemen so that they would strike from the second whereas clause, "For the month of June, 1936." I felt that the membership of this House should not be bound by the arbitrary figures of some four million dollars plus, which the Republican Senate had indicated would be the relief requirements for the month of June. I felt that by striking from the second whereas clause "For the month of June, 1936" that we could then concur in these four million dollars plus and not put this House on record as feeling that that arbitrary figure represented the relief requirements of the SERB for the month of June. They refused so to do, and as we left the conference, it was indicated at that time by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, that the House would non concur in the amendments inserted by the Senate.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I should like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, whether he yesterday, today or at any other time made any agreement that this House would concur in the amendments made by the Senate to this resolution which is before us at this time.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, I can say definitely and positively that I did not either yesterday or today or at any other time agree with the members of the Senate that this House would concur in this resolution.

The facts are substantially, or I might even say exactly, as recited by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The last words which I said on leaving that conference this morning were these: "I do not see how we can concur in this resolution."

Further than that, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as I mentioned in my remarks on this resolution, it was argued by the Republican Senators at the time we were trying to reach an agreement on this proposition—it was argued by them that the statement in the second whereas clause should not mean that the sum of four million dollars was all that was necessary. In other words, the members of the House who voted to concur in those amendments would not be committing themselves to the proposition that that was the total amount required.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I should like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, whether or not I am correct when I say that I understood him to say that there was some agreement whereby the House would concur in these amendments.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is partially correct and partially incorrect. I said it was rumored around here that such an agreement was made and the corroborative evidence of it is that the Democratic Senators and the Republican Senators all voted for the resolution. The additional corroborative evidence is that Mr. Cohen, your floor leader, got up and started to pave your way by reading a letter, and it appeared to me and would appear to any reasonable person reading between the lines that such an agreement existed, and then when you, yourselves, revolted. I noticed that your State leader, David Lawrence, came in and put you back in your places.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, in all seriousness I should like further to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, if it gives my friend Mr. Brown of Allegheny County any pleasure, I will be glad to accommodate him.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers this question: Whether or not he has any information other than what he just stated, which was a mere rumor, that there was any agreement on the part of any of the members of this House to the effect that the House would concur in this resolution.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I have had a little experience around this place and I can read between the lines; I can see; I can understand. I do not know why my Democratic friends are revolting against their leaders.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, answer the question and answer it yes or no and explain afterwards, after he has answered the question?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman frame anew his question?

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Yes, Mr. Speaker. The question is: Does the gentleman have any information other than that based upon mere rumor that there was an agreement by any members of this House that this House would concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has never been a squealer.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has just referred to the fact of our leader coming in. I wonder if he is cognizant of the fact that the minority floor leader, with his hat in his hand, has also just come in?

Mr. CAPUTO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, just made a statement that all of the members of the Senate voted to adjourn this morning. I want to correct that statement. I have talked with at least one member of the Senate, a Democratic member, and he voted "no" when the question of adjournment came up, and I have spoken to another member of the Senate, also a Democrat, and he was not present on the floor of the Senate when that vote was taken, but that if he had been present he would have voted "no" on the question.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my personal reaction is that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, is entitled to such information along the lines of his inquiry that we can give to him, and I do not believe that I am violating any personal confidences when I tell you that this morning I went over to the desk of the majority floor leader, and I asked Mr. Cohen whether any arrangements had been made or any agreement made as to the action of the Democratic majority in this House on the Senate amendments. Mr. Cohen told me that the Democratic contingent in this House would vote to concur on the resolution, but that he would make a statement or a stinging speech, and I then told him that he would get a reply.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, since it has gone this far, I think that I might as well go a little further. When we left the Republican Senate, as has been indicated by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, it was indicated to the Senators then present that we would not concur.

I consulted with Mr. De Schweinitz, and after consulting with him he explained to me the exigencies that would exist if we would not concur. I felt, under the circumstances, that the advisable thing to do was to make the motion, which I have made, for concurrence.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, came over to my desk, and I saw him surreptitiously reading the letter on my desk, and at that time I indicated to him, after he had read the letter, that it was my inention to make the motion which I did make.

As far as any agreement with the Republican Senate, as far as any agreement with Mr. Blumberg, or with any Republican in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is concerned, there is no agreement from this side of the House as to what action would be taken.

I made the motion for concurrence relying upon the exigencies as they exist and as explained to me by Dr. De Schweinitz.

I made that motion, because I feel that the exigency does exist, and I further feel that with the present exigency, if the Senate can adjourn, knowing that there is a possibility of this House non-concurring, and still be so devoid of their responsibility of public dutes, then I say that there should be some means, some method whereby the Senate can be brought back to this city, in order to provide the necessary relief for the unemployed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am not so particularly worried about the remarks made a while ago by one of the representatives, that he would have to go back to his party and shout to the high heavens or words to that effect, if we didn't start relief, inasmuch as I know from experience that you must be on relief before you receive a check. Therefore, you would have to be on relief all week of June first and the following week—you must be on relief the entire week before you got any money for relief for that week. So, there will be no starving children in Pennsylvania on Monday if we do not concur. The only thing that I want to particularly stress upon the Democratic members is this: This resolution or the amendment itself to this resolution will tend to give to the taxpaying public of Pennsylvania the idea through the newspapers that the Republican Senate has succeeded in cutting down the cost of relief in Pennsylvania by the sum of two million dollars.

That has not been proved, because the statement has been on the floor of this House by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, that more money can be given to the relief administration if they need it. If the newspapers want to print this fact they can say that the relief expenditures were cut by the Republican Senate, but that is an absolute falsehood, because they themselves admit that they don't know what it will cost, they say "If you need more, we will give it to you."

I am going to ask the Democratic members not to concur in this resolution.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, particularly those members on this side of the House, while we have enjoyed the confusion and the unusual spirit of independence that has so suddenly appeared on the other side, I want you to remember the statement made by the majority floor leader, to the effect that if this resolution is not concurred in today, there will be no money available for relief on June first. Therefore, I urge all you men on this side of the House to vote to concur in the resolution.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Dent, you just made the assertion that no one would go hungry in the first week of June if this amendment was not agreed to?

Mr. DENT. I did, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know that on the 28th, the primary election, two days after that, there were 3000 PWA workers laid off in Luzerne County and that another week after that there were 1250—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, will state his point of order.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not discussing the resolution before the House.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine himself to the amendments before the House.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, what I am trying to find out, or trying to show this House is that we have 4,250 people that absolutely will get their check in June—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. BURKE. The gentleman has the floor for the purpose of interrogating the gentleman from Westmoreland and not for the purpose of making a speech.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman from Luzerne will proceed with his interrogation.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am through with the interrogation.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman insist? The previous question has been moved by the gentleman from York, Mr. Moul.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for recognition.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield for just a moment?

Mr. WITKIN. No, Mr. Speaker, I will not yield, because I desire to obtain some information before the Speaker puts the previous question.

I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. Is the information that the gentleman desires on the motion before the House?

Mr. WITKIN. It is, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

Mr. WITKIN. Did I understand that the Speaker recognized, prior to the previous question being, the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jones?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. WITKIN. And at the time of the previous question do I further understand that the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jones, had the floor?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman did have the floor.

Mr. WITKIN. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

The motion for the previous question was seconded by Messrs. Stank, George E. Downey, Pfaff, Melchiorre, Reising, Cochran, Frank P. Hamilton, Decker, Arnold, Klinger, Holland, Holstrom, Kilroy, Kobelak, Tronzo, John J. Baker, Moran, Bradley, Cohen, Westrick, Finnerty and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. NOTHNAGLE and were as follows:

YEAS—92

Achterman,	Dilley,	Kilroy,	Reising,

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

(During the calling of the roll.)

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask how the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, voted.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is out of order until after the roll has been called.

(After the calling of the roll.)

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The Clerk read the affirmative roll.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask whether Mr. Sumney is recorded, and if so, how he is recorded?

The SPEAKER. The negative roll has not been verified. He is not on the affirmative roll.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask how the gentleman, Mr. Finnerty voted?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's name is not on the affirmative roll.

Mr. WITKIN. May I ask whether the name of Mr. Achterman was called on the affirmative roll?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded on the affirmative roll.

The affirmative roll was verified.

The Clerk read the negative roll.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I note that the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, was in the Hall of the House, but he is not on the roll, and I ask, if under the rules of the House, he is required to vote?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I was not in the Hall of the House when the roll was called, regardless of what the gentleman may say.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not entitled to vote.

MEMBER GIVEN PERMISSION TO VOTE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House give the gentleman unanimous consent to vote.

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I object.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, with the kind consent of the gentleman from Philadelphia and the other members, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye." I do that with the greatest reluctance.

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the gentleman will be so recorded.

The negative roll was verified.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. SIMON filed the folowing reason for his vote:

I am voting "aye" although I am opposed to the reduction in the amount of money specified, because I want to avoid the serious consequences that may follow if relief should be stopped even temporarily.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jones, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I gave my word back home, to a lady back there, with seven children, last week who had come to my house, who were hungry, that I would do everything in my power to see that at the end of three weeks, they would get their relief. That was the question I was trying to bring up before, that these people had to be three weeks on relief before they got their checks, and they are hungry. You fellows over there, I am going to ask you to reconsider that vote, because we have got to give them relief, with their families, and they are going to be hungry next week if you don't give them relief. If we concur in it, it is going to carry us over for three weeks. Good God, gentlemen, don't let us set here and let those people go hungry. I would be ashamed to go back and tell them that my friends on the Democratic side turned down their relief, and to say they will have to go hungry. Men, reconsider before it is too late. Your own floor leaders have told you that it would be too late next week. That is why I am asking you—this little lady who came to my house—all right, laugh, laugh, you Democrats—but they are hungry, and you are the fellows who made them so.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 29, Printer's No. 80, entitled, "An Act to provide for the expenses of the extraordinary session of the Legislature assembled May fourth Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-six in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor of the Commonwealth dated April twenty-seventh Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-six."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 14

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, May 27, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 14, Printer's No. 62, entitled, "An Act ratifying confirming and validating the transfer of money from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund and providing for the subsequent return from the General Fund of the transferred money."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 1

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, May 27, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Resolution No. 1 creating a committee to personally urge upon the President and Congress of the United States the necessity of the immediate adoption of adequate Federal flood control measures designed to eliminate future floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere, and to make a report to this session of the General Assembly.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. FALKENSTEIN. RESOLUTION No. 18.

In the House of Representatives, May 27, 1936.

Whereas, The Judges of the Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia have the authority of appointing masters in divorce proceedings; and

Whereas, It has been charged from time to time that some of the judges of the said Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia have shown favoritism, political preference and nepotism in the naming of masters in divorce proceedings; and

Whereas, In one instance, it was charged that one of the judges of the said Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia, during a comparatively brief period, did name his son as master in twenty-seven divorce actions; and

Whereas, In another reported instance, a certain court stenographer receiving a salary of five thousand dollars ($5,000) a year, in addition to thousands of dollars for extra stenographic work done by him, was named as a master in eight-one divorce cases, which, at the minimum fee of one hundred dollars ($100), would amount to a total of eight thousand one hundred dollars ($8,100); and

Whereas, The distress among members of the legal profession has reached such proportions, some method of distributing masterships in divorce cases, as well as the distribution of receiverships and other appointive positions by the judges of the Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia must be arrived at; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Speaker appoint a committee of five members of this House whose duty it shall be to gather accurate information as to (1) the method, if any, of the making appointments in divorce cases, receiverships, and other appointments over which the judges of the Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia have jurisdiction, (2) the number of the various types of appointments and how the appointments have been made, (3) to list all instances in which there are numerous appointments to the same person and to obtain the reason therefor if available, (4) to gather such additional information as is pertinent to the purposes of this resolution.

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

Resolved, That said committee shall report to the next session of the House of Representatives.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication which was read by the Clerk as follows:

Wardeman Park,
Washington, D. C.

Mr. W. P. Gallagher
Chief Clerk
House of Representatives
Harrisburg, Penna.

My dear Mr. Gallagher:

Will you be kind enough to express to the House of Representatives my heartfelt appreciation of the beautiful resolution they passed in reference to the recent death of my beloved husband, A. Mitchell Palmer.

Yours very sincerely

(Signed) Margaret Fallon Palmer.
Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer
May twenty-first—1936.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, June 1, 1936, at 9:00 P. M.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call on the motion to adjourn.

Mr. WINNER. I second the call for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be called.

REQUEST TO MAKE STATEMENT

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the consent of the House to make a statement.

The SPEAKER. There is nothing in order but the motion to adjourn.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, to make a statement? Is there objection? The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the rule requiring unanimous consent to permit me to make a statement be suspended.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY PRIVILEGE

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of Parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, is there any motion in order when a motion to adjourn is before the House?

The SPEAKER. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, is well taken. The motion is not in order while a motion to adjourn is pending before the House.

The Chair will read from Jefferson's Manual as follows:

"A motion to adjourn simply takes place of all others; for otherwise the House might be kept sitting against its will, and indefinitely. Yet this motion can not be raised after another question is actually put and while the House is engaged in voting."

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I second the appeal.

The SPEAKER. Two members having appealed from the decision of the Chair, the Chair calls to the rostrum the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

MR. ANDREWS IN THE CHAIR

The CHAIRMAN. The question before the House is,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the decision of the House?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, in asking you not to sustain the decision of the Chair, I do so because the issue that presents itself to this House this afternoon is of vital importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and particularly vital to those who, on the first of June, will require money for relief—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, will state his point of order.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, the question before the House is simply a decision of the Chair: Whether that decision is according to the rules of the House, the Constitution of Pennsylvania, the acts of the Assembly and Jefferson's Manual is in order. The gentleman from Philadelphia is attempting to digress from those channels of debate and injecting his contemplated statement into the record.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine himself to the discussion of the question before the House. The Chair is of the opinion that perhaps a trifle of latitude in debate will hasten the proceedings. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the question.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Presiding Officer, may I thank you for your ruling?

As I was saying to the membership of the House, we are assembled here in Special Session because of the importance of the problem that we have to consider, and in taking an appeal from the decision of the Speaker, one ought to have not a mere capricious desire to take an appeal, but there ought to be fundamentally back of that appeal something real, something important to everybody in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I feel that a word of explanation as to why this appeal was taken ought to be made.

The explanation that I have to make is that there are many thousands of persons in Pennsylvania—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, will state his point of order.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I do not think the gentleman is discussing the appeal. This House is not concerned with the gentleman's reasons for taking the appeal; we are not concerned with his explanation or his desire to take the appeal. The only question before the House is whether the decision of the Chair is correct.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is inclined with the general position that has been taken by the gentleman from York, but on the other hand the gentleman from Philadelphia has a statement which he is very insistent upon making. I would like to give him a reasonable latitude in debate, but I would ask the gentleman from Philadelphia to keep within the confines of the question.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, may I call the attention of the Chair to the fact that we have before us only the appeal from the Speaker's ruling, and I insist that the debate be restricted to that particular question.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair would request the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, to assist the Chair, and conserve the time of the members from Philadelphia who want to get back home.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Philadelphia is very much inclined to assist the gentleman who now presides over this House.

The gentleman from York—may I ask the gentleman from York to please remain seated while I have the floor.

The CHAIRMAN. For what purpose does the gentleman from York arise?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, to explain to the Chair and the membership of this House the reason why I am on my toes—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I am not interested in his reason, all I want him to do is to sit down.

The CHAIRMAN. The House will be in order, and I hope the gentleman, the minority floor leader and the majority floor leader, can agree as to which wants the floor at a particular time.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of information.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia yield to the gentleman from York?

Mr. WITKIN. Yes Mr. Chairman, I will and sit down.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from York will state his question of information.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, when the gentleman from Philadelphia yields the floor, does he expect to reclaim the floor after I am finished?

The CHAIRMAN. He simply yields to your parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, the Chair is misinformed. I arose to a question of information.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I desire to know if when the gentleman from Philadelphia yields the floor, he does so definitely or expects later to retrieve it?

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair, not being a mind reader, cannot possibly anticipate what is on the mind of the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I might say that is the reason why I am standing near this michrophone.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Chairman, is a motion to move the previous question in order at this time?

The CHAIRMAN. A motion to move the previous question is in order at any time.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Chairman, I move the previous question.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I yield the floor to the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair cannot be rushed either by the gentleman from Philadelphia or the majority leader. We desire to consult the parliamentarian of the House. The Chair desires to read rule 64 as follows:

"No member when speaking shall be interrupted, except by a call to order by the Speaker, or by a member to explain, or by a motion for the previous question; nor shall any member be referred to by name in debate, unless for transgression of the rules of the House and then by the Speaker only."

Then from Jefferson's Manual:

"When any question is before the House, any Member may move a previous question: 'Whether that question (called the main question) shall now be considered?' If it is in the affirmative, then the main question is to be put immediately, and no man may speak anything further to it, either to add or alter."

We are now in the procedure of seconding the motion of the previous question.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I believe that I am correct in stating that when the Chair asked me whether I would yield to the gentleman from York and so did, I did not yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and that I am entitled at least to have the floor back. I am frank to say that after I get the floor back, if I open my mouth or if I say two words, I believe that under the rules the presiding officer of this House would be in the unfortunate position of having to decide the previous question was in order, and I regret that the presiding officer is being placed in such an embarrasing position by the majority of this House, but I am entitled to have the floor back before the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, can be recognized. Then, if they want to stop me, they have the votes and they can stop and gag me if they so desire.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair desires to make a statement. The gentleman from Philadelphia had the floor. The Chair asked the gentleman from Philadelphia to yield to the gentleman from York. The gentleman from Philadelphia has not lost the floor by yielding temporarily to the gentleman from York. The gentleman from Philadelphia has the floor, but can be interrupted by a motion for the previous question at the pleasure of the members of the House. I hope the members will assist the Chair in working out this particular situation and restoring the Speaker to his function in the House.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, if the members of this House let the people of Pennsylvania go hungry, it will be the responsibility of the Democrats.

The motion for the previous question was seconded by Messrs. Welliver, Falkenstein, McDermott, Powers, Siegel, Hindman, Yourishin, Barber, Hirsch, Fitch, Ferko, Coolahan, Piole, Stank, George E. Downey, Cliff Patterson, Panton, Melchiorre, Pfaff, Nagle, Shaw, Shugarts, Frank P. Hamilton, Decker and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, is it in order for me or any other member at this time to move to suspend Rule 88 for the purpose of enabling the minority floor leader of eighty-eight members of the Republican House to speak in this House of Assembly, where free speech predominates?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia is himself such an excellent parliamentarian that he knows that at this time no such motion would have parliamentary status.

On the question recurring,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. WINNER and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the ruling of the Chair was sustained.

The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair).

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes for the second time to thank the minority leader of the House for the consideration shown the Speaker in allowing him a short period of rest during these strenuous times.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I reply to the Speaker by saying, with all due and proper respect to the Speaker, that that was not my purpose in taking the appeal—it was merely to help the hungry and the needy in Pennsylvania.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to adjourn?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BLUMBERG and Mr. WITKIN.

Mr. JAMES W. PATTERSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. MOOMAW filed the following reason for his vote:

I voted "Aye" on the motion to adjourn inasmuch as no further progress can be made on the resolution providing relief due to the Senate having adjourned, and also due to the fact I have made an appointment at my home for treatment of an infection with which I have been suffering this week.

Mr. WEISS filed the following reason for his vote:

I desire to be recorded as voting "Aye"—as I have a case scheduled for trial in Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County. Otherwise I would stay here until the Senate passes the Resolution for $6,000,000.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. MOOMAW asked and obtained leave of absence for the remainder of the week, to return to his home for medical treatment.

RECESS

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now recess for thirty minutes.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would ask you to vote down this motion for the reason that there is very important business that ought to be considered by this House, which permits of no delay whatever, and in order than you may intelligently vote upon the motion for a recess, you ought to know that which is most important, and I shall now state what I consider important, and to be considered at once.

The Republican membership of this House intends to offer a motion to suspend Rule 81, in order that they may immediately reconsider the vote by which House Resolution No. 14 was not concurred in by this House. When that is done and you vote to reconsider it, then it will mean that you will again have an opportunity of correcting your improper vote, improper manner of voting upon the question of concurrence or non-concurrence in the amendments of the Senate, and if in your judgments, you should change you minds and pass this resolution, then on the first of June, 1936, the people of this Commonwealth will know that they need not go hungry—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, will state his point of order.

Mr. HALUSKA. The gentleman is not speaking on the motion, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is not well taken. The gentleman is giving his reasons why we should not recess, and, therefore, he is discussing the motion before the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of this House, if we are given the opportunity promptly to suspend Rule 81, in order that two members of the Republican party, who voted "aye" upon the motion of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen—

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not hear any second to the gentleman's motion, so the gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my thought is this: This Resolution No. 14 is at the present moment the most vital and important piece of legislation that has come before this House. If we reconsider our vote and correct our mistake, it will mean what? It will mean by prompt action, we can supply to the State Emergency Relief Board four million nine hundred and some odd thousand dollars, more or less, for relief needs in Pennsylvania. What does that mean? That means that the relief problem at least for several weeks shall have been settled. The Emergency Relief Board, to use the language expressed by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen yesterday, can use this money on the first of June, and if that doesn't last, and if they use the proper discretion in the distribution of that money, it will certainly last for a portion of June.

What right have we to take a recess, what right have we to adjourn permanently until that problem has been disposed of? On Monday you reach the deadline. By the time you come here on Monday, the deadline will have been reached and passed. Have we, the representatives of the people, the right to say because we can't get six million and nine hundred and some odd thousand dollars, we won't take four million nine hundred and some odd thousand dollars for immediate use? I say that we have no right to do so, and I say that the Democratic majority ought to vote down this motion for a recess, in order that the responsibility that attaches itself to both the Republican Party and the Democratic Party to provide relief as soon as we possibly can may be met and that legislation ought to be enacted as promptly as possible and without delay, and it is for that reason that this House was opposed to the motion to adjourn and I thank you for your vote not to adjourn.

We are now on similar ground and I ask you not to recess, but to stay here and reconsider this resolution. and pass it, and maybe you will be forgiven for your vote in not concurring in the amendments of the Senate.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, apparently the hour of retribution has come for the Republican minority. Apparently the Republican Party is attempting by a display of forensics to make up for the last of intelligent action on the part of the Senate.

When this resolution went over to the Senate, it went over there in a manner that was acceptable to this House, it went over there in a manner that was acceptable to action on the part of the Senate, not political action but honest action. But what have they done? Rather than accede to the resolution as presented in this House and voted for by the majority of the House, the Republican Senators attempted, as I have indicated before, in an arbitrary manner, without any sound basis of intelligent thought, to indicate to this House how much should be appropriated for relief for the month of June. If that conclusion had the least semblance of intelligence or constructive thought, I would say that this House was incorrect in the stand that they took. But no, the action of the Senate was entirely arbitrary. The action of the Senate is akin to maliciousness. The action of the Senate was an attempt to indict the State Emergency Relief Board, when the contrary is the truth. The action of the Senate would indicate that whereas the State Emergency Relief Board had made proportionate savings during the months of April and May, that they are not to be considered honest any further and that they should be struck down in their attempt to administer relief to the needy. The vote of the Senate majority, the vote of the Senate Republicans is responsible for the dilemma in which this House finds itself now, irrespective of what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, has to say. We are now confronted with a very simple problem, a problem that does not require any great amount of intelligence, to reach the proper solution.

Are we going to stay in session until the Senate returns. If we are, then, every last man here is willing to stay, but are we willing to stay in session when the Senate has folded up its tents, at the very moment when this House was arguing that resolution? Are we going to stay in session when the Senate beat a hasty retreat themselves and adjourned at the very moment that this House was non-concurring in the amendments of the Senate? Are we going to stay here and dilly dally and accede to the wishes of the Senate whereby they want us to say that there is only required for relief for the month of June four million dollars plus? This House will not do that, They will not tie us down to any restricted measure. Only this morning we spoke to the gentlemen of the Senate. They said that the action of their appropriations committee was to the effect that four million dollars plus was all that was required. They said that as individuals they might think that more was required, but that the action of the committee, the action of their Appropriations Committee indicated that all that was required was four million dollars plus. Are we to say in non-concurring in this resolution that the Senate appropriations Committee is correct or are we to say, no; that the responsibility rests upon Republican shoulders.

If the Republicans had given the subject the proper intelligent aspect, if they had indulged in accumulating the proper figures affecting the unemployed for the whole month of May, if they had applied themselves to research rather than politics this House would not be here. And I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia and I say to the entire Republican minority, the responsibility is upon your shoulders, upon the shoulders of the Republican Senate, and until the gentlemen on the other side of the hall can arrive at proper fair, honest, non-political figures, until that time arrives and up until that time the responsibility rests upon you, the Republican minority in the House and the Republican majority in the Senate.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from York, in my judgment, cannot possibly back his vote upon the resolution which was in the affirmative, in accordance with the Republican minority, and his speech and digest them both without getting indigestion.

I want to call his attention to two facts. First of all, he is entirely incorrect, and I think when I call his attention to them, he will admit it. He argued very much at length yesterday that the sum of six million eight hundred sixty-one thousand two hundred and eleven dollars was for unemployment relief purposes, and he spent a great deal of time in telling this House and in pointing out to this House that that did not mean it was for the month of June, that it simply meant it was for the State Emergency Relief Board, and I say that was a very proper argument. When he made that statement I didn't dispute it because I knew he was right, because although the whereas clause on page 8 said something about it being necessary for the month of June, Mr. Cohen told us that we could not possibly construe that to mean that the moneys were for the month of June, and if there was any left over it could be added thereto.

Now, by the same argument the Senate did not change that paragraph, the Senate left it as it was, and they agreed with the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, and his resolution and all they did was to appropriate a certain sum of money for unemployment relief purposes, not necessarily for the month of June.

Now the gentleman can't blow hot and cold. He can't argue upon a certain verbage one day and change that argument to suit his convenience. As a matter of fact, he argued it yesterday and argued it today. He also lays great stress upon the Republican Senate, and for reasons of his own used language which in my judgment, referring to another body of this Legislature is improper, but he forgets to say that it was not the Republican Senate that passed this resolution. He forgets to tell you that this resolution, as has been told you, was voted on in the affirmative, the change of six million and some odd dollars put through in the Senate by a thirty to nothing vote. Every Democrat voted—every Democratic senator voted in favor of cutting this figure down. So, holler all you want, use all kinds of language you want, the facts speak for themselves. Thirty to nothing. There are not thirty Republican senators in the Senate who voted upon this measure. Why didn't the Democrats in the Senate oppose this resolution? Why didn't the Democrats in the Senate put up one dissenting vote? Not a one, it is all a hotch potch about the Senate walking out, and calling it a Republican Senate if the facts mean nothing, but that is not important. The important thing is this, that the Democrats and the Republicans in the Senate passed this resolution and they have gone home. They have adjourned until next Monday night, now you have to make up your minds about one or two things. If you want to play politics, if you want to be stubborn, if you want to be asinine, if you want to play upon the misery of the poor and have no relief checks on June first, then you simply put your backs up against the wall any say, "Well, if we can't give them six million dollars, we will give them nothing." I do not subscribe to the theory. I subscribe to the theory that at this moment there rests in our hands—the Senate has gone—that at this moment there rests in our hands the question: Shall the people be fed on June first? I am for feeding them whether the Democratic Senators were right or whether the Democratic Senators were wrong, whether the Republican Senators were right or whether the Republican Senators were wrong. I don't think that I have a right to sit in judgment upon the members of the upper House. What is our problem? Our problem is—if I wanted to paint a picture, I would say there is a great multitude in Pennsylvania that don't care whether the Senate was right or whether the Senate was wrong. They know one thing and they are going to know it tomorrow morning—they know this, that we must act today or before Monday and give this four million dollars to the State Emergency Relief Board. For what? Not for the month of June, because the argument of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen is right, it is simply for unemployment relief purposes. Now, what do we do? We give them four million dollars and some odd dollars. You gentlemen on the other side have the right to say it is not enough. I grant you that that is your privilege. You may say we look after the interests of the taxpayers and do not want to overburden them with more taxes. That is ridiculous. That is your argument. You may be right, you may be wrong. If you are right you will come back here on Monday and you will immediately use common verbiage, stick in another resolution. You stick in on Monday that resolution and you provide in the resolution for the difference. If you want to put people on the spot, use your intelligence in putting them on the spot, but that is not the problem today. You cried from the house tops when we appropriated money for May. You said the time to do it was now. I am a politician, I am for the Republican Party, I am against the Democrats, and reason dictates that you are interested in your Democratic Party, and I say to you, seriously, if you are interested in your record, you should reconsider this resolution and immediately pass four million dollars for such time as it lasts, to use the interpretation of the sponsor of that resolution, and then we can go home, and come back and then if you want to put the resolution in, you can do so and we can act upon the resolution.

I say to every member of this House that that is the logical and sensible thing to do. You say you are not playing politics. I say that a stubborn and ridiculous attitude is the attitude that you have taken on your other vote and I ask you to defeat that motion for a recess in order that we can promptly move to reconsider, and I will be glad to have the gentlemen of the Democratic Party go along, reconsider it, and pass it, and the people will be fed on June first, and we will come back here on Monday and fight it out some more.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House I still feel the same as I did when I said a little while back that Monday is June first. There is no argument about that, and to my mind June first is June first until midnight of Monday. If the question of relief is so vital, on Monday the Republican Senate returns here at nine o'clock and reconvenes for the week. There is nothing to stop them in the three hours elapsing between nine and twelve o'clock to take up and pass the necessary legislation, if they so desire. I don't believe that the gentleman from Philadelphia has read any of the papers today. For this information I would like to read a few lines from the Philadelphia Inquirer—I believe it is a newspaper published in Philadelphia.

"Senate Cuts Earle Relief by $2,000,000. The Senate tonight lopped $2,000,000 from Governor Earle's $6,931,211 relief request for June." That settles the argument.

Also, for the information of the members and Mr. Witkin, it say this:

"Republican Senators, in reducing the relief appropriation sought by the Governor to the tune of $2,000,000 took a different view from that of the Republican minority of the House, which futiley attempted to the appropriation to $5,500,000."

It gives credit for the relief situation, as it is in the paper, to the Republican Senate. I, as a Democrat and a member of the Democratic Party do not feel that we should be fooled the same as they are trying to fool the people of Philadelphia. They did not cut two million dollars from the relief appropriation, for in truth, you have said, "We are willing to grant you more money if it is needed." They don't say that the four million is sufficient. They say, "We will grant you more if it is needed." I am of the frank opinion that this thing should be settled here today or tomorrow or the next day or Monday. I have nothing to stop me from staying here, other than a desire to go home and take a look at the children, but I do believe if your sincerity is as loud as your voices, you will certainly not regard a thirty minute recess as serious as the long delay incurred by the Senate.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia has attempted to inject some paradoxes in the argument that I made on this bill yesterday.

Yesterday, when I spoke to this House, I indicated that this House could well go along with the appropriation as contained in the resolution, because if the money was not spent during the month of June, that money would be available for further emergency relief purposes. However, the converse is not through. The argument that I made today is that in this resolution you are attempting to restrict it to that much money for the month of June, not sufficient, and not adequate, and not based upon an intelligent analysis. While it is true that any excess moneys appropriated can be expended during the month of July, nevertheless if there is any surplus existing in the month of June, then that money must be spent in the month and we are bound by the restriction of this resolution. The gentleman from Philadelphia will well remember that when I presented this resolution that I said that if he found any objection to the restriction to the month of June of 1936, he could remove that from the resolution. However, I am relying entirely upon the statement made to us by the Chairman of the Republican Senate Appropriations Committee—the gentleman within the Hall of this House. He told me, he told Mr. Eberharter, and he told Mr. Burke that the Appropriations Committee would not put itself on record, that there would be additional moneys appropriated for the month of June, that the Appropriations Committee was definitely of the opinion that this money was restricted for purposes of the SERB during the month of June. However, he stated that as individuals there was certain members of the Appropriations Committee of the Senate who felt otherwise, but that he could only express the thought of the Senate Appropriations Committee, namely, that these moneys were moneys for the month of June.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, granting that the Senate is Republican, that everything that you have accused them of is correct, would the gentleman now, insomuch as they have reduced this amount two million dollars, state to the House what in his opinion is the next best thing to do at the present time.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, apparenly the House has decided on its own initiative what they desire to have done. The House has refused to concur in the amendments inserted by the Senate, and that means that this resolution will be presented to the Senate with an indication to the Senate that the House has non-concurred in their amendments. The Senate will then have an opportunity either of insisting on their amendments or receding from their amendments. If they insist on their amendments, then we can have a conference committee.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, is it not reasonable to think, insomuch as this thing will have to be settled in about three hours on Monday, that the Senate will insist on their amendments?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I have not been able to ascertain just what the Senate will do under any circumstances.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, what would the gentleman do under similar circumstances?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean if I were in the Senate?

Mr. HERMANSEN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, If I were in the Senate I would ask the Senate to do what I did very early this morning. I asked the Senate very early this morning to strike from this resolution "in the month of June, 1936." I asked the Senate in that resolution exactly what they said they would do as individual members—I asked the Senate to do exactly, mark you, exactly, what they indicated as individual members they would do.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has taken the position that he he has taken, and the Senate has taken this position in all good faith, that the six million dollars could be reduced. Does not the gentleman think, Mr. Speaker, if he were a member of the Senate, that he would insist that it at least be given a trial?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has requested me to give to the Senate an element that the Senate did not have in coming to its conclusion. He asked me whether I, as a Senator, would arrive at this figure in good faith. The Senate did not arrive at the figure in good faith. I maintain that the figure is merely and purely an arbitrary one. They have no figure whatever to indicate that their figure of four million plus was arrived at in good faith.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my purpose in making this interrogation was to try and impress upon the House that it is futile for us to remain here two or three days debating on a matter that we can in no way improve or help. There is only one thing left for us to do at the present time, and to do that one thing we will be benefiting those whom we are here to legislate in the interests of. How badly the unemployed may need that amount that we first decided upon is still a question in the minds of both of us, and in so much as the Senate has seen fit to disagree with us, and it seems to me, therefore, that there remains nothing for us to do now but to do the best that we can, and that is to agree, to concur in the action of the Senate, and I hope that the House will get down to business and do that.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is just as well to recognize that we are right back on this deadlock. There is more involved than appropriations allocated to the month of June. The issue that we are facing is seventy million for relief or forty million for relief. We are face to face with a campaign of systematic whittling that has for its purpose the destruction of the Administration's relief budget. If the gentlemen on this side are determined that the Administration's relief budget shall not be destroyed, they must take their stand now and see that it is not destroyed by systematic whittling.

I believe that the gentlemen on this side of the House stand for the Administration's relief budget, and not for the counter proposition of forty million, and it is the difference between seventy million for the unemployed and forty million for the unemployed that we are faced with. This is simply the first battle in that campaign, and there is plenty of opportunity between now and next Monday night for those who have precipitated this battle to reconvene themselves in session and meet this House on a fair and equal basis, as they are equals.

Mr. HERMANSEN. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Cambria will admit—

Mr. ANDREWS. Nothing, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMANSEN. The gentleman will have to admit, Mr. Speaker, that we will have to decide this question, that each party has an equal right to their opinion, and regardless of how much we may desire to appropriate or did desire to appropriate, if the Senate takes a different view, then there is nothing that we can do about it, because the time will expire in three hours after we convene on Monday, and it is futile for us to remain here doing nothing during that time. There is nothing that we can do—the fight is already lost, in other words.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has answered his own question to his own satisfaction. Why should I disturb his complacency?

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to, and the House took a recess for thirty minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER. (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

The time of recess having expired the House will be in order.

COMMITTEE TO CONFER WITH SENATE

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following motion.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 27, 1936.

Whereas the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has adjourned to reconvene on Monday, June 1st. 1936 at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

Whereas The Senate adjourned while the House was considering the Amendments to House Resolution No. 14, which Resolution provides for Unemployment Relief for the month of June, 1936.

Whereas The House has non-concurred in the amendments of the Senate, which amendments reduced the amount of Unemployment Relief by $2,000,000 for the month of June, 1936.

Whereas It is essential that the differences between the House and Senate be immediately reconciled in the interest of the unemployed of the State, it is therefore,

Moved, That the Speaker appoint a committee of three members of the House for the purpose of communicating with the President Pro Tempore of the Senate for the purpose of requesting him to call upon the membership of the Senate to return to the Senate Chambers immediately for the purpose of reconsidering House Resolution No. 14, which amendments have not been concurred in by the House, and further that the House remain in session and await the report of that committee.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he is aware of the fact that this House by unanimous vote concurred in the resolution that when the Senate adjourned it adjourn until Monday next at 9:00 P. M.

Mr. COHEN. I am, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state whether or not he is familiar with an opinion to be rendered or given by the Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania to the Democratic majority of this House, or their floor leaders, with respect to the availability of the $845,000 lapsed funds now in the possession of the State Emergency Relief Board.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the question is whether or not I am familiar with that opinion, I will say I am not familiar with that opinion.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state whether he knows anything about it?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I only know as far as I have been informed, that the utilization of the funds would be a subterfuge on the part of the State Emergency Relief Board, was not in contemplation at the time the appropriation was made and would be only utilized to avert the emergencies that are now occurring, and, as I have indicated it will be a subterfuge upon their part to use those funds, an illegal subterfuge.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I would appreciate a reply from the gentleman from York as to whether or not he has any conference with the Attorney General or deputy Attorney General, with respect to the availability of the $845,000 of lapsed funds by the State Emergency Relief Board.

Mr. COHEN. I have not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman aware of the fact that any member of the majority party, either the majority whip, or the second or third in command, has had any conference or conversation with the Attorney General or with any deputy Attorney General with respects to the availability of the $845,000.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I have not been informed that any member, number eighteen, or one hundred and eighteen, of the membership of this House, has been in conference with the Attorney General or any Deputy Attorney General or Special Attorney General, relative to the availability of those funds.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman, if he wishes to disclose the fact, is it not true that a representative of the Attorney General's office met in caucus with the Democratic membership of this House?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether there was or not. I know that I personally did not confer with any representative of the Attorney General's office relative to the availability of the funds.

Mr. WITKIN. Does the gentleman know that there was a representative of the Attorney General's office at the Democratic caucus, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I think that there was a representative of the Attorney General's office present

Mr. WITKIN. So, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does know?

Mr. COHEN. I think there was, Mr. Speaker, but I am not certain.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from York if he was present at the caucus?

Mr. COHEN. I was, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if he say a Deputy Attorney General there?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker I think I did, but I say he was not there in any official capacity, didn't confer with the membership of this House with respect to the availability of these funds for immediate, or for June payment for unemployment relief. No statement was made to the members of the Democratic caucus. He was not called upon.

I might say in the future I might request from the gentleman from Philadelphia information relative to his caucus and I would be glad to receive it.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia will be very glad to answer and tell him the truth or refuse to answer, when he asks the question.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the gentleman from Philadelphia seeks to imply by his remarks that I was not telling the truth.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I was merely answering the gentleman's question, I said that when you did I will tell you the truth or refuse to answer.

Will the gentleman from York tell me whether in his opinion the $845,000 that has lapsed,—I will withdraw that and change the question,—the gentleman agrees that there is $845,000 in the funds of the State Emergency Relief Board, that has been appropriated to it for unemployment relief purposes, does he not?

Mr. COHEN. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does not the present resolution so state.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will agree that there is $845,000 available for State Emergency Relief Board purposes, that has been appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board up until and including May 31, 1936.

Mr. WITKIN. So that, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman agrees that up until the thirty-first of May, 1936, $845,000 of lapsed funds is available for the State Emergency Relief Board, up until and including midnight of May 31, 1936.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, that is correct, for May allocations.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does not the gentleman from York agree with me that if the State Emergency Relief Board so desires, they can, prior to the thirty-first day of May, 1936, send out the checks for the relief recipients, due on the first of June 1936, by simply depositing those checks in the mail on the thirty-first of May, 1936, prior to midnight?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia recall the answer that I gave before, it is possible to utilize that money, but I repeat that the utilization of that money would be subterfuge, not contemplated within the enactment of this resolution, not contemplated within the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from York go with myself, representing the Republican party, to call upon the Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania primarily to ascertain whether this $845,000 can legally be used by the State Emergency Relief Board to tide the State Emergency Relief Board over for the week commencing Monday, June 1, 1936?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to cooperate and go along with the gentleman, if he will also agree to consult with me with the State Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Auditor General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as to the utilization of these funds.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia in reply to that says rather definitely that he is of the opinion that he can procure the consent of both of those fiscal officers, if the Attorney General says it is legal to utilize those funds of $845,000 in order to tide over the present situation, he will be glad to cooperate promptly. I now ask the gentleman from York, with that matter settled, to agree to cooperate with me. Will you agree that the motion now on the table lay there, until I can consult immediately with the Attorney General and the two fiscal officers?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the two fiscal officers are not available, at least that one of them is not available, and in view of the fact that the State Treasurer is not available, I cannot see that we should have any further delay.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia agrees that he will at his own expense telephone the State Treasurer of Pennsylvania and receive his answer. and the gentleman from Philadelphia takes upon himself the burden of securing from both of these fiscal officers, one or both of them, an opinion as to the $845,000. All the gentleman from York has to do is to get the opinion of the Attorney General.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the Attorney General is asked to give an opinion, I most assuredly cannot indicate what that opinion would be. It depends upon his interpretation of the statutes and enactments of this very House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has misconstrued my question. I did not ask him to give an opinion, I merely asked him whether he would agree to go with me or with a committee from this side of the House to ask the Attorney General whether in his opinion it is legal to use this $845,000. If the Attorney General says it is not legal then we pass that over.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to go with the gentleman from Philadelphia to consult with the Attorney General as to the legality of utilizing those funds.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from York agrees with me, does he not? If the Attorney General says it is legal to use this $845,000, and if the two fiscal officers agree to abide by that opinion, that then the immediate emergency with regard to the relief checks to be sent out on the first of June or for the week of the first of June, 1936, will be averted until the Senate and the House can meet on Monday night? Does the gentleman agree with that proposition?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, there is that possibility, but it is possible also that the question will arise again. It would only mean a recurrence of the same position that the members of the House find themselves in now.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman, instead of saying "it is possible," give me his answer categorically? By the way, I see the Attorney General coming down the corridor now, and I think we should have no trouble asking him about it. I notice by the genial smile on his face that he will probably be very glad to answer. Will the gentleman agree with me that if we get this opinion, and all parties agree, that monies will be available for the unemployed on Monday, June 1, 1936?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I agree that there will be $845,000 available on June 1, 1936 for unemployment relief purposes. How long that will last, I don't know.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman agrees, does he not, that it will certainly last up until Tuesday morning, June 2nd?

Mr. COHEN. I most assuredly do.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman familiar with the fact that the Senate, by and with the consent of the House, has agreed that the Senate will reconvene on Monday, June 1st, at 9:00 P. M.?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that to be so.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, ample time will be given between June 1, 1936 at 9:00 P. M. until Tuesday, and during that time the $845,000 will undoubtedly last.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, that is correct, it will, but as I have indicated, it still does no solve the problem, we will again be confronted with the same problem that confronts us at the present time.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, is it not the contention of the gentleman from York that the problem that confronts us at the present time is the necessity of feeding the unemployed during the week of June 1, 1936?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I think the problem will be bigger than that. The problem was well explained by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews. Not only do we have the problem of the first three or four or five or six days of the month of June, but we have the problem for the entire month, and we have the problem of unemployment relief for the entire biennium or what remains thereof.

STATEMENT BY MR. WITKIN

Mr. WITKIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I desire to make a statement which I will follow up with a point of order with respect to this resolution.

Of all the capricious resolutions that have ever come before this House, I think this one ranks the highest. It is a plain, futile and ridiculous attempt to play politics with the important question of relief. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, has frankly admitted, perhaps a little reluctantly, that if the $845,000 were available, and he admits it is available up until the thirty-first of May, 1936, the immediate, pressing problem of taking care of the unemployment relief recipients as of the week of June 1 is solved. But they do not want that. They give the Senate consent to adjourn and unanimously pass a resolution that they reconvene Monday next at 9:00 P. M. It looks like a noble gesture to send out telegrams to bring Senators in and ask them to reconvene. Nothing can be more ridiculous than that. It is unnecessary, it is futile, and it has absolutely no basis or foundation in fact except on the basis of the need of the Democrats of this House to endeavor to place upon the doorstep of the Republicans that which is their problem, which they can not see their way clear to meet.

There are two ways of meeting this situation. One way is to use the $845,000. The gentleman from York at first said "no," and then said he thought that a Deputy Attorney General was present at the caucus. Certainly you can ascertain from your Deputy Attorney General or the Attorney General of Pennsylvania whether that is legal. We on this side of the House say if the Attorney General says this is legal that the two fiscal officers will go along with the opinion of the Attorney General. What is the net result? The net result is that the unemployed and the hungry get feed as of the week of June 1st. That is clearly demonstrated and there can not be any possible answer to that statement.

The second proposition is to go back and reconsider your motion to concur, reconsider it in the light that you are not binding yourselves for the month of June; reconsider it in the light of the arguments advanced here by the gentleman from York. He told you that this resolution did not commit the members to this amount for the month of June. You have both means of solving this problem. Your endeavor to place the burden and to shift the burden upon the Republican Senate is simply drawing a red herring across the true facts. It is patent that it is a political move, as was ever made upon the floor of this House. You started out in this session by saying that you wanted to keep politics out of the session. I state that you have succeeded in keeping politics in every day; each hour, each minute, all during the session, and you want to do it now. The problem is easily settled. You can settle it. Do you want to avoid the responsibility of taking care of those recipients of relief on June 1, in getting their checks? It is your responsibility. You can give it to them right here and now. You don't have to waste ten minutes time studying it. You don't want to do that. Using this $845,000 is O. K. You said, "Let us pass this resolution too." What is the sense of passing the resolution too if the other means solves the problem and when we come back here Monday night the matter will be further discussed.

Mr. Speaker, I raise this point of order.

The first is this, that the resolution itself is unconstitutional, that this House has no right after it has given the consent of the House unanimously to the Senate to adjourn, and after every Democratic member of this House voted in favor of that resolution, and after the Senate adjourned, and after the Senate unanimously passed this resolution that you have complained so much about, as to the amendments, that the House has no jurisdiction over the Senate and, under Rule 4, Mr. Speaker, I raise the question that this resolution is unconstitutional, and being unconstitutional, I raise the point of order that it ought not to be considered by this House. I say that the resolution is unconstitutional because the House of Representatives has no jurisdiction, after it passes a resolution, giving the Senate permission to adjourn until a particular time, to then ask the Senate to come back in session. I doubt very much whether the Senate, if they wanted to come back, could legally do so, because there is no possible way under the law whereby the Senate, which has adjourned until Monday night, can come back. They said they would come back on Monday night at 9:00 o'clock. What you are trying to do is to create political capital out of this situation, but I say to you it will be a boomerang. You had better give the people relief on June 1 by doing one of the two things which I suggested.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call upon the point of order raised and I call upon four of my colleagues to second the request to submit it to the House.

The request was joined in by Messrs. Mason, Blumberg, Weidemann and Jones.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman raises a constitutional question. The question will be submitted to the House as to whether or not this is a proper motion for the House to act upon.

The question is on the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia and others.

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the point of order was not sustained.

The SPEAKER. The majority having voted in the affirmative and the House has decided that this a proper motion before the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his question of information.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will you please quote the decision or the rule that permits a constitutional question to be decided by less than a majority of the membership of the House?

The SPEAKER. On the question of information raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, the only constitutional provision requiring a constitutional majority is in the passage of legislation. The Chair knows no rule requiring a constitutional majority to support a point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. May I call the attention of the Speaker to the fact that this point of order is different from the ordinary point of order. It is a point of order raising a constitutional question. We had a particular rule, and I am frank to say, Mr. Speaker, I can not refer to it for the moment, but I inquired from the Speaker whether there is not a rule wherein we raised constitutional questions, that was adopted by this House. I think the Parliamentarian is very familiar with the rule passed by this House with respect to the raising of constitutional questions. This rule, I believe, was adopted by this House, and I should like to have the Speaker advise me as to such rule adopted by this House, with respect to constitutional questions. This is not a point of order; this is a constitutional question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to inform the gentleman from Philadelphia that Rule 4 of the House governs constitutional questions.

Mr. WITKIN. May I ask the Speaker whether there is any other rule adopted by this House, dealing with constitutional questions, other than Rule 4?

The SPEAKER. The Chair knows of no other rule.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of order.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the question of constitutionality can only be raised with reference to certain definite legislative acts, that the question of constitutionality can not be raised with reference to the power of this Legislature, this branch of the Legislature, to appoint a committee. The entire proceedings have been irregular. To question the power of this Legislature to appoint a committee is to rule it out of existence. I urge that point of view as a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield for just a moment?

Mr. WITKIN. No, Mr. Speaker, because my point of order deals with the point of order just raised.

The SPEAKER. The Chair can only decide one point of order at a time. If the gentleman is not satisfied with the decision on this point of order, he has the opportunity to appeal from the decision of the Chair.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit the Chair to rule on the point of order raised by the gentleman from Cambria?

Mr. WITKIN. Only if the Chair refuses to answer my question of parliamentary inquiry or rules that I am out of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels the gentleman is out of order.

Mr. WITKIN. I will abide by the decision of the Chair.

The SPEAKER. In answer to the point of order raised by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, the Chair wishes to state that the House has already decided this question.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the question is now before the House?

The SPEAKER. The question is now before the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia, the minority leader, is entirely too versatile. He and his legions spent the major portion of this day wringing the hearts of the nation because of the afflictions that would be visited upon the heads of the unemployed if this House did not concur in the amendments made to the House resolution by the Senate, and having had time to ponder his decision, he returns and tells us that no one needs to be alarmed at all because the unemployed were never in any danger, as there were sufficient funds to meet every need.

Now, what the gentleman from Philadelphia is doing is asking this House to compound an $850,000 fraud to save the face of the reactionary Senate. I am not a lawyer, thank God, but I am pretty well convinced that the Attorney General has not ruled upon this problem, and I am also convinced that if the majority leader and the minority leader were to call upon the Attorney General, they would find that the course proposed by the gentleman from Philadelphia was without legal authority.

The problem is whether we can proceed in orderly fashion. I agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia that this House can not reconvene the Senate. I also agree that since I have been speaking, or at least since the gentleman from Philadelphia began speaking, the President Pro Tempore shook the dust of Harrisburg from his feet and departed. I may be wrong. I hope he is waiting to receive a delegation sent to him by this body. I hope he is. That would be the courteous thing for him to do. We can not reconvene the Senate but we can importune the authorities of the Senate to use their good offices to call the Senate back into action. If they won't use their good offices to call the Senate back into action, and if the Senators refuse voluntarily to return, then there is nothing that this House can do.

Moreover, Mr. Speaker, we never gave our permission, directly or indirectly, for the Senate to adjourn at any particular time. We gave our permission to the Senate to reconvene next Monday evening, and we took it for granted that as long as business was pending which involved both Houses that it was inconceivable that the Senate would leave this city.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, despite the fact that the gentleman from Cambria is not a lawyer, for which he thanks God, and for which I thank God I am a lawyer, because that is the way I eat, may I ask the gentleman whether or not in his opinion as a layman he believes that the President Pro Tempore of the Senate has any legal right whatsoever to call the Senate into session after it adjourned by resolution, consented to by this House, until Monday evening, June 1?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would reply to the gentleman from Philadelphia that the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is without legal right to reconvene the Senate, but he is under moral obligation to do so.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman believe that our government can be run without following or adhering to law and order?

Mr. ANDREWS. Well, Mr. Speaker, that depends upon the lawyer.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state this to me: assuming for the sake of argument that he is right, and only for the sake of argument, that a moral obligation exists, will the gentleman point out to me how legally that Senate which has adjourned under a concurrent resolution until next Monday night, can possibly gather itself together and meet before Monday night, even assuming that it wanted so to do?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, we have proceeded in this General Assembly more than once on the basis of a gentleman's agreement. If we could do nothing more than reconvene the leaders of the Senate in unofficial session, and deal with them on the basis of gentlemen, we will get some where.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, therefore, I take it, that the gentleman from Cambria admits that the only way that we could get the Senate together would be in an unofficial session.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I do not agree to that proposition.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, did not the gentleman say so?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, if I led the gentleman from Philadelphia to that belief, I misstated my position.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, then will the gentleman from Cambria answer my inquiry?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman if he will permit me. The Senate, if it is so disposed, can convene. It can reconsider its action. This House does not have the power to compel it to reconvene. The power to reconvene is resident within the body of the Senate.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have any precedent in law, extending from the very beginning of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, down to and including the present time, for his statement that the Senate could reconvene after it has adjourned, after a concurrent resolution.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether he was in the House during the hectic days when Speaker Spangler was removed, when a motion to adjourn was reconsidered?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I was not.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is a prime consideration of parliamentary law that the power to convene and reconvene while the Legislature is in session is inherent within that body, and the actions of the Senate and the actions of the House are within the hands of the majority of either body, and there is no action that either the House are within the hands of the majority of either body, and there is no action that either the House or the Senate can take which can not be revoked by either body.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman prefaces his remarks just made, upon the fact that the Legislature is in session, is that not correct?

Mr. ANDREWS. That is right.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I question the gentleman further by asking this? Do you believe that each and every Senator of the State of Pennsylvania is entitled to receive due and proper notice of the reconvening of this Senate, and that the failure to permit any Senator to have that proper notice would nullify and vitiate, even morally, because I am sure it does legally, any action by that Senate?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would reply to the gentleman from Philadelphia that all of the members of the Senate have the ability to read, and know what has actually been happening here to-day, and that it would well behoove them, without any summons from this body, or any other body, to get on a train and come here.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman agree with me that in the event that single Senator from Pennsylvania was beyond the jurisdiction or beyond the knowledge that permitted the illegal reconvening of that Senate, and was not able to receive notice because of the fact that he was not in possession of the newspapers of Pennsylvania, not within the distance required that the reconvening of that body after it had gone on record to reconvene next Monday night would be morally improper as well as legally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would answer all of the gentleman's inquiry that the Senate itself is the judge of its own power and of its responsibility. I will add that five Senators, ten Senators, or twenty-five Senators, if they were so disposed, could meet here in Harrisburg and convene for business.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, first of all, I want to thank the gentleman from Cambria for answering my questions. I am going to my colleagues to vote this question down for the reason that my opponents admit it is illegal. I still believe we live in a day and age when constitutional provisions must govern our Commonwealth. I still believe that we live in a day and age when law and order must prevail. I still believe that we live in a day and age when the judges of our courts must decide matters in accordance with constitutional provisions, that judges must not permit their moral feelings in any particular case to govern their decisions of the law. To do so would be boarding upon anarchy. We are destroying every form of constitutonal government when we lend ourselves to so nefarious a resolution as this one. It is born in iniquity. It revels in iniquity. It is smply to create political capital out of this situation on the part of the Democrats, who now seek to stop the unemployed from getting relief on June 1, and who try to pass that responsibility on to the Republican membership in this House or in the Senate.

I ask my colleagues to vote this down and still preserve a constitutional form of government and a government of law and order, and not a gvernment where we strike at the very foundation of our Constitution.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the proper thing to do would be to reconsider the motion by which this House permitted the Senate to adjourn until next Monday night, and not to consider this resolution.

The SPEAKER. On the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Chair wishes to state that this House concurred in a resolution of the Senate, and it would be impossible for us to reconsider a vote on that without recalling the resolution from the Senate and with the consent of the Senate.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not know why we should have all of this discussion. We had a resolution here, we had a resolution permitting the Senate to adjourn until next Monday night if it saw fit. We considered it. My friends on the other side agreed to it. We agreed to it on this side. The Senate agreed that when we adjourned we might convene next Monday night. We have made our minds up. Our friends on the other side have made up their minds. They agreed to it.

We agreed to it. Everyone agreed to it. After having made up our minds on that point, why should we be so anxious to change our minds after the Senate has accepted our word? After the Senate accepted our word, it then adjourned. But why did my Democratic friends give the Senate permission to go? Why did these Democratic leaders overlook that? Did they overlook it? I think they considered it, I think they agreed that the Senate might go home. Why should they complain about the Senate going home after they gave the Senate permission so to do.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I was under the impression that the gentleman from Cambria clearly pointed out to the membership of this House that the resolution that emanates from the Senate is not a resolution which allows the Senate to adjourn. Rather it was a resolution that fixed the time for the convening of the General Assembly after the House had adjourned. With the indulgence of the House. I would like to read for the benefit of the membership the resolution that was passed, upon which we agreed, that when we do convene after adjournment, we reconvene at a specific time:

"Resolved, if the House of Representatives concur, when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday evening, June 1, 1936, at 9 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, and that when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene the same time."

There was no indication in this resolution, and there was no permission, implied or otherwise, whereby the Senate, when the House was considering a vital legislation should give to this House the slap in the face it has given, at the very time that this House was considering important and vital legislation. I ask for a roll call.

Mr. JONES. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, know that the Senate adjourned just a few minutes before he got up and asked us to concur in this resolution, as Senator Reed was here and listened to him asking the members to concur in this resolution?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know when the Senate adjourned, but I do know that it did adjourn during the time in which this House was discussing the resolution and prior to the time the roll call was had upon it.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of information.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, will you kindly inform me why we did not meet this morning at 10 o'clock. We did not meet until about 11:15.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to advise the gentleman from Luzerne that the reason we did not start on time was that we were waiting for a quorum to arrive, giving the late sleepers, both Democrats and Republicans, a chance to be here and be properly recorded on any roll call that might be taken.

Mr. JONES. I would like to interrogate the Democratic floor leader, the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from York please inform this House whether the Democrats had a caucus this morning?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, they did not. One of the things that delayed the House in its convening this morning was the fact that a few members of the House, as I have indicated before, were trying to prevail upon the Senate to recede from the particular whereas clause, which restricted the four million dollars plus appropriation.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from York if the members of the Senate, both Democrats and Republicans, felt after these members of the House left the Senate, that the House would concur in the amendments?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, as I explained to the members of this House before when we left Senator Gelder, Senator Buckman, and Senator Homscher, it was indicated to them in no ambiguous terms by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, that this House would not concur in their amendments.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman to inform the House why he read the letter and made a motion for us to concur in this resolution?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, that matter was gone over before.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I submit that the question is improper at this time.

The SPEAKER. In answer to the point of order raised by the gentleman from Allegheny, the Chair feels that it is up to the gentleman who is being interrogated to decide the propriety of the question put to him.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I answered that this morning, and my answer to that interrogation is on the record of this House. At that time I indicated the reasons, and if the gentleman from Luzerne was in the House at that time, I feel sure he knows the answer.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman why he changed his opinion afterwards. Now he is against it.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Luzerne had paid attention to the procedings of the House, he would have understood the answer I made to the interrogation this morning. I am not changing my mind whatsoever.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. BLUMBERG and were as follows:

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee in pursuance with the motion just adopted Messrs. Cohen, Andrews and Ferko.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I realize quite well that the province of appointing a committee rests with the Speaker. I also realize fully well that we have no right to question those appointments. But I want to make known to this House that it seems to me that the eighty-eight Republican members of this House are entitled to minority representation. We are entitled to an appointee on a committee of importance, wherein we are represented. An appointment that is a mere subterfuge, although I have the highest personal regard in the world for the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ferko, as he is a close friend of mine, it is well known that he is not now affiliated with the Republican party. I cannot possibly speak of that gentleman in any way except with the highest regard. It is well known and always recognized that where a committee of three is appointed, that the minority of eighty-eight is entitled to one appointee, and we ought to get it. When the resolution of this House was presented, I went to the rostrum and asked either to be appointed on that committe or be given permission, as Chairman of the Republican Steering Committee to designate a Republican who would be appointed on that committee. It seems to be a personal affront to deny minority representation to a Republican member, and I am sorry that we are being so steamrollered that we are not given the opportunity of having a member on that committee, and I want the record so to show.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the record.

Mr. FERKO. Mr. Speaker, I take this opportunity to say that I decline to serve on the committee.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia declines appointment on this committee, and the Chair appoints in his place the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the action of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ferko, merely bears out that which I said concerning him. I appreciate, Mr. Speaker, your endeavor to appoint me after you refused to appoint me when I made the request in the first place, and with due and proper respect to the Speaker of this House, if in your judgment you saw fit not to appoint a Republican in the first instance, I respectfully decline to serve on this committee and ask all of my Republican colleagues on my side of the House to do likewise, and I will ask Mr. Ferko to continue on the committee.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Northampton will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. VAN SICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we have heard a lot of talk about the sympathy that they have for the downtrodden, a lot of sympathy that they have for those who are waiting for relief. By their own record, in a resolution that was introduced by a Republican, they say that in their estimation the sum of $655,000 more than the Republican Senate has seen fit to agree to is needed for relief purposes. Also in the issue of the Evening News of Harrisburg there appears this item: "Endorsement of the State administration's relief estimates and of the management of relief in Pennsylvania by Karl de Schweinitz was given yesterday afternoon before the Senate Appropriations Committee by members of the Public Charities Association and others."

Here are some of the names of those who appeared before the committee: Eric H. Biddle, former Relief Director; Philip C. Staples, President of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, former Relief Director of Philadelphia; Frank A. Robbins, Jr., General Manager of the Bethlehem Steel Company; Robert Dechert, Philadelphia; Charles B. Williams, member of the Schuylkill County Relief Board.

It may be that they are all Democrats, although I have my private opinion that some of those names represent Republicans. We have this assembly on the Democratic side saying that four million dollars is not enough money for relief for the month of June. We have the Republican minority saying that four million dollars is not enough for the month of June. We have that impartial body saying that four million dollars is not enough for the month of June.

We have heard suggestions that there are two ways of settling this matter, receding from our position or by agreeing to a transfer, which is not proper. They do not settle the problem in any way. We have this method which was offered, asking members of the Senate to come back here and work with us. They are paid representatives of the people of the State of Pennsylvania. It is their duty to give full service to the people of Pennsylvania, regradless of personal inconvenience. My friends, when we have a committee appointed to consider this matter, what attitude does the Republican minority take? They take the attitude that they want nothing to do with it. If that is cooperation, if that is relief for the unemployed, then I thank God they are not against them.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the record.

STATEMENT BY MR. WITKIN

Mr. WITKIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I regret very much that arguments on the floor of this House cannot be in accordance with facts. The gentleman from Northampton so deliberately and so carelessly made misstatements on the floor of the House, that I must say he is negligent with his facts; I must say that he is negligent with the truth. The minority of this House was very much interested in getting on this committee; the minority was very much interested in getting minority representation on this committee, and when the gentleman says the minority was not interested and did not want to have anything to do with it, that was not so. We asked to have something to do with it. The minority Republican leader asked the Speaker and the Parliamentarian to grant representation to the minority party, but he did not see fit to do so, and I am not taking second hand gifts. If the Speaker in his judgment did not thing that the minority should be represented, I will abide by his decision. I think the Speaker in his refusal to give the minority representation slighted this side of the House, and although personally I do not care a thing about it. I think it was against every sense of propriety in not giving the minority of this House recognition. The Speaker frankly refused so to do. I will stand by that refusal and will not take the place of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ferko.

APPOINTMENT ON COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints on this committee, instead of the gentlemen from Philadelphia, who has declined, the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary.

RECESS

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that since the Chair has completed the appointment of a committee, that we recess for fifteen minutes to await the report of the committee.

The motion was agreed to and the House took a recess for fifteen minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER. (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

The time of recess having expired the House will be in order.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. SNYDER asked and obtained leave of absence for himself for the balance of the week on account of illness in his home.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to a motion passed by the House, the committee proceeded to the office of the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, was there met by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Honorable gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher. I read to the gentleman from Lancaster the motion passed by this House, read the whereas clauses and the motion, explained to him their necessity, and he replied, "In my judgment no such emergency exists as would warrant me in making the call requested."

The SPEAKER. The committee is discharged with the thanks of the House.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I wish to be very brief. I have remained silent all during the very spirited debate that has taken place. I have heard a great deal of criticism of the Senate as to why it adjourned before this House acted on the resolution.

I would like to state that the Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee informed me that one of the associate Democratic floor leaders came to him this morning, and in the presence of the Senate Democratic floor leader, Senator Roberts, pledged this House to concur in the Senate amendments.

I, therefore, submit that no criticism could possibly be reflected upon the Senate for the action they have taken. I realize that this is a statement that may be denied by the Democratic members of this House. However, I want to point to two pieces of evidence, which I think will clearly show any fair-minded person that the Senate acted in good faith. First, I call your attention to the fact that every Democratic member of the Senate who was recorded voted in favor of reducing the appropriation from six million dollars to four million dollars. Secondly, I call attention to the fact that the Democratic leader in this House himself introduced the motion to concur in the amendments of the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WICKERSHAM. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the House, will the gentleman indicate which member of the House made the remarks that the gentleman has intimated have been made?

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman of the House who Senator Gelder informed me made the statement, is the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the statement just made by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, is absolutely untrue. I never at any time made any pledge to Senator Gelder or to the senator who is chairman of the Appropriations Committee. The chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee is, I think, Senator Coyne. However, I will say this: that I was over in the Senate shortly after the Committee had conferred with Senator Homsher, Senator Gelder, Senator Buckman and Senator Coyne. Senator Gelder asked me what the members of the House were going to do and I said to Senator Gelder, "It looks as though the House will concur in the resolution," but I made no pledge. Senator Gelder very well knows that I made no pledge whatsoever nor could I pledge the action of the House insofar as concurring or non-concurring in this resolution was concerned.

I think I made my position clear when I got on the floor of this House this morning and asked the Democratic membership and the Republican membership to vote to concur in the resolution and I gave my reasons for it. I told Senator Gelder this morning that I though the House would concur in it, but I certainly made no pledge. I would request, very respectfully, of the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, that he further inquire of Senator Gelder whether or not I made any pledge and I further request that he report back to this House the answer of Senator Gelder, as to whether I made a pledge as to what this House would do.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the record.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Allegheny when he stated before this House that my remarks were untrue, that I said not that he made certain statements, but that Senator Gelder had informed me that he had made those statements, and I ask him wheher he means, when he says my remarks are untrue, that he did not make the statement or whether he means to say that Senator Gelder did not tell me that he made the statements.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, as I gathered it, the gentleman made the statement on the floor of the House that a member of this House had made a pledge to Senator Gelder, and I say that that statement is untrue. I made no reflection whatever upon Senator Gelder, and no reflection whatever upon the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, but if the statement gave the impression that I made a pledge, that is untrue and I repeat my request previously made.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, do I understand now that the gentleman says that he informed Senator Gelder that he thought that the House would concur in the resolution?

Mr. EBERHARTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether or not Mr. Cohen stated on the floor of this House this morning that you informed Senator Gelder that the House would not concur in these amendments.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I am very glad that the gentleman from Dauphin asked that question. As very specifically stated on the floor of the House this morning by the gentleman from York,, Mr. Cohen, in an anteroom of the Senate—Senator Homsher was present, Senator Gelder and Senator Buckman, the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, and myself—and I am informed also—yes; I am certain that Senator Huffman was there and Senator Roberts, and we discussed this matter for perhaps half an hour, and we were not able to agree. Then the Senator from Allegheny, Senator Coyne, came in and one or two questions were asked of Senator Coyne. At that time, immediately upon Senator Coyne's answering the questions that were put to him, I said—I believe in these words —"I do not see how it is possible for us to concur in this resolution." And I left immediately and there was no further word spoken. Later in the day I was over in the Senate on some other matter, and Senator Gelder stopped me and he asked what the House was going to do, and I said that I thought the House would concur in the resolution.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, may I ask whether or not Senator Roberts was present at that time?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, he was present at that time; that is correct.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, so that there can be no question about my position in this matter, and to clear up any doubt that there is in in the mind of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter. I have not attempted to say whether or not the remarks alleged to have been made by Mr. Eberharter were true. All I said was that Senator Gelder informed me, in the presence of Senator Roberts, that the gentleman from Allegheny said that the House would concur in these amendments, and that remark I do not withdraw.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday night, June 1st, 1936, at 9.00 o'clock Eastern standard time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman to withdraw his motion in order that I may have the opportunity of asking the majority floor leader one question?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Bradley, consent to withdraw his motion?

Mr. BRADLEY. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, as the majority floor leader, agree that if a motion is made for the reconsideration of the vote by which the amendments to the House resolution were non-concurred in today, that the Democratic membership of this House will go along with such a motion to reconsider, in order that the moneys that you allege must be available before the 1st of June, 1936, may be made available to the extent of the amendments of the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a division of that question, and that the question should be deleted of its ambiguities.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, with the gentleman's permission I will divide it into three questions, although I have previously said that I would ask the gentleman but one question, and I was trying to keep my word. Is the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, still of the opinion that relief money will lapse as of Monday, June 1, 1936, unless this House takes action?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Philadelphia desires to know the sentiment of the Democratic members of the House, as to their desire to reconsider the vote of non-concurrence—

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I didn't ask that.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I might say that the Democratic membership of this House, as I gather it, is opposed to reconsidering that motion.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask that the gentleman answer my question, which was the same question. You are making me ask it twice.

Mr. COHEN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr.

Speaker, has already asked me four questions, and I don't know what he is really asking.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, apparently the gentleman does not, judging from the answers that he is giving.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman like to put it in writing?

Mr. WITKIN. No, Mr. Speaker, I would not, because I hope that the gentleman understands plain ordinary English. Is the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, still of the opinion that unless this House acts, there will be a lapse of money, and that the unemployed will not receive their money on June 1st, 1936 for that week?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that the Republican Senate, by their attempt to restrict relief payments for the month of June to the sum of four million dollars plus, has placed the relief recipients in the position that by the first of June there is a great possibility that the relief appropriation will be diminished to the extent that they will be unable to take care of their requests for relief.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, and despite that fact, does the gentleman from York feel that this House ought now to adjourn?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I have already reported to this House in the words of the President Pro Tempore of the Senate as follows: "In my judgment no such emergency exists that would warrant me in making the call requested.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, June 1, 1936, at 9:00 P. M.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. BLUMBERG.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman insist upon his request for a verification of the roll?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I do.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. OMINSKY filed the following reason for his vote:

In view of the fact that the Senate has refused to accept the Relief responsibility until Monday evening, June 1, 1936, I am voting "Aye" on the question of adjournment at this time.

Mr. WESTRICK filed the following reason for his vote:

I am voting "Aye" for I see no work at hand and since the Senate has flatly refused to do their duty by the unemployed, in that they have adjourned. I feel there is nothing we can gain by staying in session.

Mr. WITKIN filed the following reason for his vote:

I vote "No" because we, the Republicans, feel we have no right to adjourn before taking care of the unemployed for the period commencing June 1st.

At 7.33 P. M. the House adjourned until Monday, June 1, 1936, at 9.00 P. M.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, JUNE 1, 1936. No. 14.

SENATE

MONDAY, JUNE 1, 1936.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

One of the ancient prophets, O God, declared that a day would come when young men would dream dreams and old men would see visions. In this day we need men who are lifted above that which is sordid and selfish by dreams of an Utopian day yet to dawn. We need, also, men with sufficient vision to discern the fact that dreams come true, not simply by dreaming them but by seeing, as did Saul of Tarsus, when a mighty vision of God overcame him, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me do?" May we, like this apostle of long ago, hearken not to the voice of the multitudes, but unto the voice of God. Like him may we walk the path of duty even though it may lead to unpopularity and persecution. On behalf of this Senate, and of us all, and in Thy name we offer this petition. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HUFFMAN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. ROBERTS asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE NON-CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 14.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that that House of Representatives has non-concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Resolution No. 14, as follows:

TRANSFERS OF MONEYS FROM SPECIAL FUNDS TO THE GENERAL FUND FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF FOR THE MONTH OF JUNE

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and

Whereas, The sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand and two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid egiht hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and

Whereas, There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund and The State Stores Fund; therefore be it

Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund and the sum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Fund and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) for unemployment relief purposes and

Resolved, That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution, (2) appropriating or re-appropriating, as the case may be, to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the State Stores Fund.

MOTION TO RECEDE FROM AMENDMENTS

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate recede from its amendments to the foregoing Resolution.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President. I second the motion.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—19

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 47 (House Bill No. 1), as follows:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all penalties and interest imposed on delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided.

In order to receive the benefits of this act the taxes for the year one thousand nine hundrd and thirty-five and all penalties and accrued interest and twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and the final twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty And provided That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent during the then current year If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this Act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this Act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums therefore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this Act.

Section 2 Any taxpayer may anticipate the payment of such delinquent taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and previous years at any time on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six by paying the entire amount of such delinquent taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six shall not be required at the time of such payment.

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes whether or not liens for such taxes have been returned for nonpayment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection of such taxes have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired and the taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred in such proceedings except the solicitors fees.

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at Sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above-mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied.

For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax.

Section 5 Any taxpayer shall have the right to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision.

Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayer a statement of the delinquent taxes owed by him to such municipal subdivisions showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody.

Section 7 In order to enable the taxpayer to receive the full benefits of this act no real property shall be sold for non-payment of taxes before November first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and any tax sale shall be adjourned or readjourned as often as may be necessary for this purpose If any tax sale is adjourned or readjourned after advertisement no additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for the adjourned or readjourned sale No such adjournment or readjournment failure to advertise or hold any such tax sale shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid but the lien of all such taxes shall be fully preserved during the entire installment period herein provided for if the taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this Act provided however that in every case where a taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this Act the period during which payment of the said delinquent taxes are postponed or continued under this Act shall not be included in computing and determining whether or not any right of the tax assessing and levying authority has been barred or lost by reason of the provisions of any statute or statutes now existing or hereafter enacted limiting the right of the said tax levying and assessing authorities to file preserve or maintain the lien of the said taxes.

Section 9 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions hereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included herein.

Section 10 All acts and parts of acts general local and special inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby suspended during the time this act shall be in effect.

Section 11 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, I rise to the question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Indiana, Mr. Bennett, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I presume you all know that during the past week the new Board of Trustees of the State Teachers College of Indiana dismissed our President, Dr. Foster. Before this meeting Dr. Foster accused me of playing politics. After the meeting Dr. Foster insinuated, in an address, that I attempted to inject politics into the State Teachers College. I desire at this time for your information to read a letter that I sent to Dr. Foster:

June 1, 1936

Dr. Charles R. Foster,
President
State Teachers College
Indiana, Pennsylvania

Dear Doctor Foster:

Recently I noticed in the public press, a statement attributed to you that a Republican Senator three years ago attempted to play politics with the State Teachers College.

Ordinarily it has been my policy not to answer charges falsely made for obvious personal or political gain. Such charges are to be expected during campaigns but coming as this does at this time in connection with the administration of the office to which the people entrusted me, I feel that I must state the facts so that the public may be fully informed and thus determine whether or not I, at any time, endeavored to play politics with the Indiana State Teachers College.

You will recall that my visits to the college, or contacts with you, have been comparatively few during the term of my incumbency as State Senator. These visits and contacts concerned primarily the interest of the institution and the taxpayer, and in them I sought the removal from office in the school of only one non-instructional employee.

The reason for this activity by me is no doubt just as fresh in your memory as in mine. This man, as afficial investigation subsequently developed and caused his removal as steward, was found not to be administering his office properly.

C. Gilbert Wolfenden, the present Republican nominee for State Senator, representing the Buchanan Wholesale Grocery House, the Armour Packing Co., other tradesmen and numerous farmers had complained to me that they did not have equal opportunity in bidding on the supplying of food and other commodities for the school.

Accordingly I visited you at the school and placed these facts before you. After an investigation which showed the allegations to have foundation in fact, and the man in question was discharged, I then called upon you again and asked that you appoint as his successor a person who would see to it that local farmers and merchants have the same equal opportunity in bidding. I mentioned no person for this appointment and told you that my purpose only was to see that a fair break was given to everyone. I wanted the farmer who drives into town with his warees as the polished salesman in his working clothes to receive the same consideration.

Developments since that time have found this equal opportunity for all in operation as it should be. Surely this action by me could not be considered politics in any way.

At no time have I asked or even hinted to you that anyone be appointed at the college. My only recommendation as to personnel was a general one that Pennsylvanians be given equal consideration with those from out of the State, especially in view of your remark to me that one-third of the teaching staff had been imported from the Middle West and were registered as Socialists.

My only other visit—and if I am wrong I want you to correct me—was prior to the recent Primary when I like any other candidate, called upon you and asked for your personal support. I felt fully justified in seeking such support by reason of having kept faith with the teachers organization in fighting for adequate appropriations for our educational institutions. You are familiar with my position in endeavoring to keep expenses down to a minimum without lowering scholastic standards.

I feel that this letter generally covers all contacts between the State Teachers College and myself. I regretted that you apparently were moved to take a pot shot at me, injecting my name indirectly into an issue with which I have no connection.

As I said before, I cite these facts so that my friends and neighbors, with whom I shall continue to live as a private citizen, after my term as Senator expires, shall know that I have not played politics with the college or its personnel in any way. If the facts set forth above are termed politics by you, then I am proud that I played such politics.

Yours very truly

EDWARD B. BENNETT.

EBB/M

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in volume 19, page 171 of the Journal of this Senate, there appears a resolution entitled "A Resolution relative to the appointment of a committee to investigate the functioning of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania." When that resolution was on the floor of this Senate, a point of order was raised in the following words: "The resolution is out of order for the reason, first, that it authorizes the appointment of a committee to make a search and investigation into the organization and functions of an agency over which this Senate has no jurisdiction.

"Second, the resolution violates the Executive Proclamation convoking the Special Session.

"And, third, the resolution violates Article 3, Section 25, of the Constitution of this Commonwealth."

Upon that point of order the Chair sustained the first two points. Now it is said that it is wonderful to have the power of a giant, but it is brutal and tyrannical to use that power as a giant. There was an appeal taken from the decision of the Chair by the majority of the Senate, and, having the power that belongs to them, because of numerical strength, they proceeded to overrule the decision of the Chair, which apparently was sustained by the rules of this Senate and the rules of parliamentary procedure. The President of this Senate was absolutely right in his decision.

The committee appointed under that resolution assumed its duties and started its functioning. It started to subpoena employes of the Works Progress Administration in this Commonwealth. A number of those subpoenaed took issue with the subpoenas served upon them, and took the stand that the President of this Senate had taken, that this Senate had no right to investigate the Works Progress Administration.

The Committee appointed under that resolution, in the discharge of its functions, went into the Courts of Philadelphia and asked for a rule citing the witnesses subpoeonaed to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for refusing to answer their subpoenas. That rule came before the Courts of this Commonwealth, and today I am informed that the Courts of Philadelphia, speaking through Judge McDevitt, have rendered a decision on that rule; and in his decision, or, in the hearing upon that rule, Judge McDevitt stated, "I don't believe you have any right to investigate. You might just as well go down to the Navy Yard and investigate the money for a battleship." And just as this Chair upheld the point of order raised on the floor of this Senate, the Court dismissed the rule and held that the Committee had no right to investigate the Works Progress Administration.

And so, Mr. President, it is a great pleasure for me tonight to place that statement on the Journal of this Senate, so as to apprize the President that he is now vindicated in his decision on that point of order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HOWELL, from the Committee on County Government re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 47 (House Bill No. 1) entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 14, AND APPOINTS COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House insists upon its non-concurrence in the amendments made by the Senate to House Resolution No. 14.

And has appointed Messrs. Andrews, Burke and Horst as a Committee of Conference to confer with a similiar committee of the Senate (if the Senate shall appoint such committee) to consider the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said resolution.

MOTION TO APPOINT COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I move that the Senate insist upon its amendments to House Resolution No. 14, and that a Committee of Conference be appointed to confer with a similar committee of the House (already appointed) to consider the differences, existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That Messrs. Bean, Buckman, and Reed (Washington) be said committee on the part of the Senate and that the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS MADE BY THE SENATE TO HOUSE BILL NO. 3

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 3, entitled:

An Act abolishing the office of collector of delinquent county taxes where the same now exists in counties of the second class; providing for the collection of such taxes by the county treasurers; and providing for their compensation.

HOUSE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS MADE BY THE SENATE TO HOUSE BILL NO. 17

He also precented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 17, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct relief, work relief, and expenses; defining the purposes for which such moneys may be expended; and prescribing the powers and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and certain State Departments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, state whether or not there is now in the possession of the Committee on Finance, for action, a proposed increase in the capital net income tax, a proposed increase in the liquor tax, and a proposed increase on the personal property tax?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I believe the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, state whether he knows the total amounts of money that would probably be raised by virtue of the passage of those bills?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President. I believe I remember the three taxes mentioned. The Liquor Tax was estimated at $7,500,000.00; the Corporate Net Income Tax was estimated at $10,150,000.00; and there are three tax bills, introduced by Representative Harkins, included in the personal property increase, estimated to provide $40,000,000.00.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, as Chairman of the Committee on Finance, state if it is not a fact that even if all three bills were passed the only funds available for relief during the next six months are $7,500,000.00, which would come from the Liquor Tax in monthly payments or as the sales are made?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, further state, as Chairman of the Committee on Finance, whether he is prepared to state whether his Committee has made any provision, even if the sum necessary for relief is agreed upon, how these sums will be raised—whether $40,000,000.00 or otherwise?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, permit me to read, from The Philadelphia Inquirer of this morning, a statement given by Governor Earle.—I quote: "Since we will require immediate taxes to carry out the relief program, it will be necessary, therefore, for the Commonwealth to resort to the sale of Tax Anticipation Notes, as was done during the past year."

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, I suppose, is familiar with the case of Kelly vs. Kalodner, which is reported in 319 Pa., and which raised the question of the validity of the Tax Anticipation Notes.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I am not familiar with the case in court.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it is obvious now to those of us who are interested in the question of relief that there are no tax bills other than the tax on liquor which will raise $7,500,000, and the possible, suggested, gasoline tax, which will raise $12,000,000, from which funds are available for immediate use for relief. It is true that this money can be raised by Tax Anticipation Notes.

I am making these statements because there has just been appointed a Conference Committee to deal with the subject of relief, which, up until now, has been a piecemeal proposition; and I want to call particular attention, of these gentlemen, to the fact, particularly to those facts which are brought out by the decision to which I have referred. Anyone who examines that decision will find that the Court stated specifically that in order to take advantage of the law which permits the anticipation of taxes, provision must be made to repay those taxes within the biennium.

There is now approximately eleven months left in this biennium, or, probably ten. There will be necessary either forty-five million or fifty-five million or seventy millions of dollars. There will not be available any cash other than the seven and a half million dollars and the twelve million, if such a gasoline tax should be passed. Obviously there will be some thirty-five to forty-five millions of dollars necessary to be raised.

The experience of the government in raising Tax Anticipation Notes last year was that not only would the lenders not put up all of the money necessary but they required additional security, other than the taxes which were passed by this legislative body last year.

Obviously some method will have to be adopted, and adopted quickly, to pass these bills, so that they can be paid within the biennium; and I have heard, and listened, to a great deal of discussion about relief, and investigations before relief is granted, but I should like to ask the question: What Price Investigation?

I am not interested in personalities, and I am not interested in persons in this Senate, but I am interested in the many persons who are awaiting some help from relief; and I want to point out to this Senate, and particularly to this Committee who are going to confer, that the investigation has cost, so far, at least $600,000 to the State of Pennsylvania, and has taken $600,000 -to be exact, $625,000- from the relief funds available this year, because the 10% tax on liquor, which I understand is almost a unanimous agreement upon, is paid as the liquor is sold.

The month of May has already passed. If this tax had been passed, and if the estimates are correct, there would have been available for distribution amongst those who need, $625,000 from the Liquor Tax; and every week and every day that we continue to investigate, and fiddle away the time of the Commonwealth, costs us $625,000 per month.

It is well that these people who are going to confer should make up their minds that, irrespective of what the decision of this Conference Committee shall be, the piecemeal method, and the investigation of matters which are not germane to the question, should be abandoned and we should get down to business,—because we are chargeable with this loss.

If there had been a gasoline tax,—and I am not speaking in favor of it or against it—but if gasoline and liquor taxes had been passed, these cash tax receipts would have meant so many dollars each day, and would have meant the ability to avoid the necessity of transferring funds.

I want to point out that in the last Session we passed taxes to take care of $30,843,000 of borrowed, transferred funds. Those were funds that were borrowed in 1933 and 1935 for relief. In 1935 we transferred $10,000,000 more, while we fiddled away the time of the Commonwealth in trying to get a position, political or otherwise, on the relief question; and when we began, in 1935, to pay out moneys, we were obliged to repay $25,000,000 to these special funds. These special funds have not yet been repaid,—$16,000,000 only has been paid, and there still remains $7,000,000 for further payment.

In addition to that, this Session we have already appropriated some $3,650,000, transferred from special funds; and last week the difference of $2,000,000 between the amount in the original bill—resolution, rather—and that which was granted by this Senate, arose only from the fact that it would be necessary to take $2,000,000 from the Liquid Fuels Tax, and there was great objection, and great consternation, when it was discovered that the taking of the $2,000,000 from the Liquid Fuels Tax would prevent the various counties from acquiring the money to carry on their business.

Now, it is obvious to any sane-thinking and honest member of this Senate to realize that these investigations get us nowhere, and that they are costly, exceedingly costly. This Session will cost some three hundred and sixty-five some odd thousand dollars, and there must be added to that the six hundred thousand dollars which has been wasted by the dilly-dallying and foolishness of this Senate in not getting down to business; and I, as a member of this Senate, want to protest against this, and to urge my friends in the Senate—and I hope they are all my friends; and I say I have a respect and admiration for them as individuals, but in a caucus they take on a different atmosphere, they lose that personal feeling which everyone should have in dealing with a subject of this kind, and they no longer act as human beings but act as members of an organization,—I mean, not as people but as members of a Party; and I say there is no Party interest in the question of relief, at a time as important as this, and the time is coming when anyone who has any feeling of responsibility, and for the position they hold here, should set aside politics and get down to business, and stop bothering about whether we should raise $4,000,000 or $6,000,000 for June, and set forth a program —I don't care what it is.

The only figures about which we can take issue are the figures of the total amount which has been estimated, $70,000,000. Now, with the possible drop in unemployment and the increase in employment, it may be possible to reduce the total to $65,000,000. Let these members of the Senate who say that it too high produce facts and figures, and I assure you, that I, for one, will go along immediately on any facts and figures that are justified by reason and supported by a program, sensible and fair, that will bring about relief, and the money necessary for it.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, tell me the date that the Liquor Tax was reported on the floor of the Senate?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I imagine that is within the records. That is Senate Bill No. 29,—I am looking through the History of Senate Bills,—I find that it was referred to the Committee on Finance, May 19th.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, that was two weeks ago.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, to be exact, it was thirteen days ago.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the Senator stated that the State of Pennsylvania has lost $625,000 by our failure to pass this tax.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, well, I am assuming, going on at the rate we are now, it will be a month before you get it through. But suppose it is $450,000.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, we will not assume it is $450,000, because it is not $450,000.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, figures do not lie; twenty-three days at $20,000 a day, is $460,000.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, stated that the income for month is $645,000.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, that is approximately correct?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, yes sir, that is exactly correct; and $625,000 times twelve is $7,500,000. That is the amount supposed to be realized from the Liquor Tax.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, no such amount as $625,000 has yet been lost to the State of Pennsylvania by the failure to pass this tax. Is that correct?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is correct,—the amount is $460,000; but that does not make any difference.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, is the Senator from Philadelphia informed that since three o'clock this afternoon the Committee on Finance—not all the Committee but a group of members sufficient to report the bill from Committee—decided to report that bill this week?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, not being in the confidence of the Republican organization, I have not been so informed.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, also made some mention of a gasoline tax. Does the Senator realize that that tax is not before the Senate?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I so stated in my discussion; but I compared it with some other tax which would produce immediate cash.

I should also like to further answer the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, by saying I have no confidence in the action, and no reliance—and nobody else has the right to have reliance in the action of a group of members of a committee because we have had that very situation before us when another committee had before it the relief resolution and a group of members of that committee said here, on the Senate floor, that $4,000,000 was only intended as far as it would go in June, but the general committee has not yet given its sanction to that, although the House last week seriously tried to get them to give their approval of that statement of the group. I should like to see the bill reported out, because then I know we would be saving $20,000 every day that we are losing now.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, a few moments ago I made a motion that a Conference Committee be appointed to take up the much discussed differences between this body and the members of the House on the resolution that came out of Comimttee last Tuesday morning. In examining the record I find only thirty members present, a constitutional quorum. I believe it is highly important that the other members who were absent during this important discussion be given the information as to what happened. I know the Legislative Journal has just been printed and it is impossible during these busy times for all the members to read it. I speak on this subject because both the Republican and Democratic parties have been accused of causing the delay in relief, I contend that the members of the Senate, both of the Republican and Democratic parties, are blameless. The resolution came from the House asking for $6,800,000.00. In the Committee on Appropriations, which is now meeting with a great deal of frequency, there was a reduction made of $2,000,000.00, sending the resolution to the floor for $4,800,000.00; and, after considerable discussion, the records will show that every member of this body who was present, both Republicans and Democrats, voted for this resolution; one member refusing to vote—voted "present."

Let us read just what happened, or perhaps I can explain more briefly the discussion that took place. It was said here very definitely and plainly that the $4,800,000.00 to provide for relief for the month of June could be used for immediate relief. And as this resolution had passed the Senate, and had it been concurred in by the House, this breakdown in relief would not have happened. I will read briefly from the Journal what I said: in the conclusion of my remarks: "Mr. President, I just want to state, so that no one will have any excuse for voting against this resolution, I want to repeat what I have said before, that we are not fixing the amount definitely for relief in June." We are providing $4,800,000 for relief as long in June as Dr. DeSchwentz decides.

The point is this, that if this $4,800,000.00 were appropriated, it was definitely understood, at least I made myself clear on this subject, in saying that when this money was exhausted in June, that Dr. deSchweinitz could then make another request for an amount, in the event that he needed it; but the point I want to make clear is that every member of this body who was present agreed, both Democrats and Republicans. and in fairness to both sides, if the House had concurred there would have been no breakdown and you would have $4,800,000.00 for use this very day, and there would not have been a breakdown. I say this in justice to the Democratic members of the Senate and to the Republican members of the Senate.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to the point of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, lest there be any misunderstanding on the resolution concerning which the gentleman from Allegheny spoke, if he will turn to volume 19 of the Journal of this Senate, of Tuesday, May 26th, on page 311, he will readily see that the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee does not entertain the same idea that the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, does. The Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations that presented the bill was asked the question by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, as to whether this $4,800,000.00 was on account of the June relief, the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations replied:

"Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has a right to assume anything he pleases. Having heard and participated in the argument, his judgment would be just as good as mine as to what was the idea of the members of the Committee. Some of the members of the Committee felt that perhaps $4,500,000.00 was enough, some other members on the Committee perhaps felt that much less would tide the Administrator of Relief over for the present. The Senator from Philadelphia certainly knows as much about it as any other member of the Committee. He knows what was in his own mind."

Mr. President and that same record shows that the resolution was read twice for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not that resolution, in its wording, complied with the statement made by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, and when the resolution was re-read, the wording of the resolution was not consistent with the statement made by the Senator from Allegheny, but the resolution definitely fixed the amount of $4,800,000.00 as the total for the month of June, 1936.

RECESS

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend FRANK W. RUTH, a Senator from Berks County offered the following prayer:

Most gracious Father, in whom dwelleth all fullness of life and wisdom, enlighten our minds, we beseech Thee by Thy Holy Spirit in the true understanding of Thy word and will. Give us grace to follow Thy will with all reverence and humility. May it lead us to put our whole trust in Thee only, and so to serve and honor Thee that in all our lives we may glorify Thy Holy Name and be profitable to our Fellowmen. Inasmuch as it has pleased Thee to remember us as Thy servants and children, grant that we may render unto Thee all love and obedience that we owe Thee as children to their Father and servants to their Lord. We ask all for the sake of Jesus Christ, our only Saviour. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BURKE and Miss BRANCATO. Resolution No. 19.

In the House of Representatives, May 27th, 1936.

Whereas, An investigation is being conducted by a sub-committee of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States into the activities of mortgage companies, mortgage guaranty companies and bond holders' committees thereof, said committee being commonly known as the Sabbath Investigating Committee; and

Whereas. Said investigating committee was in the pursuance of its duties in session in Philadelphia during the week of May 18, 1936; and

Whereas, Evidence before the said committee revealed that in the operation of a gigantic receivership of certain mortgage guaranty companies great loss was occasioned to bondholders; and

Whereas, The activities of the said receivership may continue to result in loss to the citizens of the Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatves of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania respectfully request the Governor of the Commonwealth, Honorable George H. Earle, to direct the Attorney General of the Commonwealth, Honorable Charles A. Margiotti, to intervene in the investigations of this sub-committee of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States for the protection of the property of the citizens of the Commonwealth and for the prevention of further illegal practices by those in charge of said receiverships;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor by the Chief Clerk of this House.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. ROBINSON, from the Committee on Game, reported as amended, House Bill No. 83, entitled:

An Act relating to the keeping of animals wild by nature, in captivity upon any street or highway, or upon land adjoining any street or highway, or in the vicinity of any commercial establishment for the evident purpose of attracting trade; preventing cruel, improper and inhuman treatment of such animals and protecting the public from injuries thereby; providing for the granting of permits for roadside menageries, as herein defined; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Board of Game Commissioners; and prescribing penalties.

Mr. SINWELL, from the Committee on Rules, reported as committed, House Resolution No. 15.

HON. J. H. MYERS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SURFACE. Mr. Speaker, we are honored to-night by the presence in this House of the Honorable J. H. Myers, ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Kansas. I move you that Mr. Myers be given the privilege of the House if possible, and be invited to occupy the Chair and to wield the gavel.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appoint the gentleman from Snyder, Mr. Surface, and the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Downey, to escort ex-Speaker Myers of Kansas to the rostrum.

Hon. JOHN H. MYERS escorted to the rostrum.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has the honor and privilege of presenting to this House a former Speaker from another State of this Union, Hon. J. H. Myers, former Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Kansas.

ADDRESS BY HON. J. H. MYERS

Mr. MYERS. Members of the House, ladies and gentlemen, it is certainly a pleasure to be here to-night to see how the Representatives of the people of Pennsylvania perform while the House is in session. I do not suppose it will be very much different from the House in Kansas, although you know the State of Kansas does some radical things, and they probably get pretty wild sometimes.

My two years in Pennsylvania have taught me to know that your problems are a good deal the same as those of other States. You are gathered here to gather taxes without taxing anybody. If you can get that done you are a wonderful House. We had quite a time in our State in getting a Constitutional Amendment passed for an income tax, but we finally got the job done, and for the last four years we have had an income tax.

I think that one of the greatest things today is a uniform system of taxation by all the States. I do not suppose you are so bothered with your taxes, but in our State whenever we want to put a tax on this or that, they say they will leave the State of Kansas, but if we had a uniform system of taxation there wouldn't be any place for them to go. You know that Kansas is a great State. A man who wouldn't talk for his own State wouldn't be a very good citizen. The people can get along there without anything for three or four years, and then they get a good year and they get along pretty good.

They never quit. A few years ago, you know we had hopes to elect a president of the United States, but we had to be satisfied with second place, but you will find in the future that they will still be bobbing up to get that done. Thank you very much.

The SPEAKER. In view of the remarks of former Speaker Myers of the House of Representatives of Kansas I believe it behooves the members tonight to be on their good behaviour.

The Chair wishes to thank former Speaker Myers of Kansas on behalf of the House of Represntatives.

SENATE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid upon the table.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 3.

An Act abolishing the office of collector of delinquent county taxes where the same now exists in counties of the second class providing for the collection of such taxes by the county treasurers and providing for their compensation

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, lines 4 and 5, by striking out the words "providing for their compensation" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "deputies and the payment of compensation and expenses therefor transferring employes from the office of the delinquent tax collector to the county treasurer's office and making said employes eligible to join and granting them certain credits upon joining the county retirement system"

Amend section 1, page 1, line 13, by inserting after the word "compensation" the following: "and provided further that"; also on page 2, at the beginning of line 1, by striking out the word "None" and inserting "none"; also same line by inserting after the word "the" and before the word "penalties" the words "interest or"; also at the end of line 7, by inserting after the word "county" the following: "unless abated by other legislation heretofore or hereafter enacted."

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 14 NON-CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate insists on its amendments non-concurred in by the House of Representatives to Resolution No. 14, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas The sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund and The State Stores Fund [and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund] therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund and the sum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Fund [and the sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000.00) from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund] and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars [($6,086,211.00)] $4,086,211.00 for unemployment relief purposes and

Resolved That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Resolved That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution (2) appropriating or reappropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars [($6,086,211.00)] $4,086,211.00 and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate to House Resolution No. 14, and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 14

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final pasage of House Bill No. 71, as follows:

An Act to promote the construction of flood control works and improvements by providing for the appropriation of certain water of the Commonwealth to the Commonwealth and incidental thereto to secure the use thereof for the benefit of the people declaring void certain condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons providing for ascertainment of the validity and the recording of certain condemnations and appropriations of water by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and appeals therefrom conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County in relation thereto providing for future condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and compensation therefor and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Water and Power Resources Board.

Whereas The recent floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere have awakened the people to the necessity of developing appropriate plans and constructing adequate flood control works and improvements to prevent periodic recurrences of such calamities and

Whereas The construction of adequate flood control works and improvements will aid materially in providing an adequate supply of water which is a matter of primary concern affecting the life health and comfort of the people of this Commonwealth and will also permit the supervision and equitable allocation of water which is an essential part of the police power of the Commonwealth which no Legislature should impair or barter away and

Whereas All of the flowing water of the Commonwealth by right belongs to the Commonwealth in trust for the benefit of all of the people thereof and all uses of such flowing water must be regarded as subject to this sovereign right and the right so vested must be regarded also as vesting in the Commonwealth a duty to control the flow of water so as to prevent loss of life and destruction of property and

Whereas The increase of the population of the Commonwealth makes it obligatory on the Commonwealth to control and regulate the flow of our rivers and streams and thereby to secure also an equitable allocation for the best interests of all concerned.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all of the water of this Commonwealth now unappropriated by any municipality corporation copartnership or person is hereby declared to be appropriated to the Commonwealth, for the benefit of all of the people of this Commonwealth subject only to such existing rights and uses as may now be lawful and no municipality corporation copartnership or person whether heretofore or hereafter created or which may now possess the right to take condemn and appropriate by eminent domain the waters of this Commonwealth shall hereafter take condemn or appropriate any water except as provided in this act

Section 2 Any condemnation or appropriation of waters heretofore made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person heretofore authorized to condemn water which appropriation has not been followed by an actual taking thereof heretofore or within a period of two (2) years after the effective date of this act is hereby declared null and void and of no effect. Where condemnation proceedings are pending in any of the courts of this Commonwealth at the date when this act becomes effective the actual taking of the water shall be within one year following the final determination of such proceeding otherwise the condemnation shall be null and void and of no effect.

Section 3 No condemnation or appropriation of water heretofore made under the power of eminent domain claimed by any municipality corporation copartnership or person authorized to condemn and appropriate water shall be valid or binding unless within six (6) months after the date of approval of this act said municipality corporation copartnershp or person shall produce the record upon which such appropriation or condemnation is founded or prove to the satisfaction of the Water and Power Resources Board that such condemnation was lawfully made in accordance with law at the time said condemnation and appropriation was made and shall thereafter file a transcript or certificate of the resolution or record upon which said condemnation or appropriation is claimed duly acknowledged by the secretary and president of the municipality corporation copartnership or person in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or the several counties as the case may be in which the water claimed to have been appropriated flows Any party aggrieved by a decision of the Water and Power Resources Board may within sixty (60) days appeal therefrom to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County and the taking of such appeal shall operate as a supersedeas

Section 4 Hereafter no condemnation or appropriation of streams or the waters thereof for water supply shall be made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person possessing the power of eminent domain except as follows

Municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons desiring additional water supply for present and future needs shall first make application to the Water and Power Resources Board for leave to appropriate or acquire the designated waters of the Commonwealth setting forth

1 The present source or sources from which water is now taken listing the streams and the quantity of water appropriated therefrom designating as near as may be the point or points from which water is taken or used and the amounts of water stored

2 The necessity for such new or additional source of supply and the river stream or other body of water from which it is proposed to be taken

3 The location and the population needing the supply
4 The amount of water which it is proposed to take
5 The plans for development of the water resources of the streams to maintain the stream flow and to utilize flood runoff including the locations and capacities of any proposed impounding reservoirs
6 The names and addresses of the owners who may be affected by the proposed developments
7 Such other provisions as the Water and Power Resources Board shall deem necessary

Section 5 The Water and Power Resources Board shall upon such application make such investigation as may be necessary and grant such hearing as may be required

The Water and Power Resources Board is hereby given authority upon such application to allocate such part of the waters of the Commonwealth to any municipality corporatin copartnership or person as said application may show to be reasonably necessary to the purpose of the application

No allocation of the waters of this Commonwealth shall be for a longer term than fifty (50) years and such allocation shall be subject to such terms conditions and stipulations as the board shall deem to be necessary and proper to protect the present and future interests of the Commonwealth in the use and distribution of its water resources

The board shall have the further power to revoke any grant made in case the source of water supply is not developed in the amount or to the extent set forth in the application or required by the order of allocation of the board or if the work is not begun or completed within the time fixed by the board's grant

The Water and Power Resources Board shall further have the power to impose a reasonable charge for the water to be taken at the rate of not less than one dollar ($1.00) nor more than five dollars ($5.00) per million gallons and provide for the collection of the same and shall impose such terms and conditions as may be reasonably necessary bearing in mind the character and navigability of the stream and the need of water for other purposes All moneys collected from such charges shall be paid into the General Fund by and through the Department of Revenue

Section 6 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein

Section 7 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker. I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Section 6 Distributor's Report and Payment of Tax For the purpose of assertaining the amount of tax payable under this act it shall be the duty of every distributor on or before the last tay of each month to transmit to the department upon a form prescribed prepared and furnished by the department a report under oath or affirmation of the fuel oil used or delivered by him within this Commonwealth during the preceding month Such report shall show the number of gallons of fuel oil used or delivered within the Commonwealth during the period for which it is made and such further information as the department shall prescribe A distributor having more than one place of business within this Commonwealth shall combine in each report the use or delivery of fuel oil at all such separate places of business

Every distributor at the time of making every report required by this section shall compute and pay to the department the tax due to the Commonwealth on fuel oil used or sold and delivered by him during the preceding month less a one per centum discount if the report is filed and the tax paid on time The amount of all taxes imposed under the provisions of this act for each month shall be due and payable on the last day of the next succeeding month and shall bear interest at the rate of one per centum per month or fractional part of a month from the date they are due and payable until paid

If any distributor shall neglect or refuse to make any report and payment as herein required an additional ten per centum of the amount of the tax shall be added by the department and collected as hereinafter provided and in addition thereto the fuel oil permit of such distributor may be suspended or revoked by the department

Section 7 Determination and Redetermination of Tax Penalties and Interest Due (a) If the department is not satisfied with the report and payment of tax made by any distributor under the provisions of this act it is hereby authorized and empowered to make a determination of the tax due by such distributor based upon the facts contained in the report or upon any information within its possession or that shall come into its possession

(b) Promptly after the date of any such determination the department shall send by registered mail a copy thereof to such distributor Within thirty (30) days after the date of any such determination such distributor may file with the department a petition for redetermination of such tax Every petition for redetermination shall state specifically the reasons which the petitioner believes entitle him to such redetermination and shall be supported by affidavit that it is not made for the purpose of delay and that the facts therein set forth are true It shall be the duty of the department within ninety (90) days after the date of any determination to dispose of any petition for redetermination Notice of the action taken upon any petition for redetermination shall be given to the petitioner promptly after the date of redetermination by the department

(c) Within thirty (30) days after notice by the department of the action taken on any petition for redetermination filed with it the distributor against whom such determination was made may by petition request the Board of Finance and Revenue to review such action

Every petition for review filed hereunder shall state specifically the reason upon which the petitioner relies and shall be in such form as the Board of Finance and Revenue shall prescribe The petition shall be supported by affidavit that it is not made for the purpose of delay and that the facts therein set forth are true The Board of Finance and Revenue shall dispose of such petitions filed with it within ninety (90) days after they have been received and in the event of the failure of said board to dispose of any such petition within ninety (90) days the action taken by the department upon the petition for redetermination shall be deemed sustained The Board of Finance and Revenue may sustain the action taken on the petition for redetermination or it may redetermine the tax due upon such basis as it shall deem according to law and equity Notice of the action of the Board of Finance and Revenue shall be given by mail or otherwise to the department and to the petitioner

(d) The department or any person aggrieved by the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue or by the board's failure to act upon his petition for review within ninety (90) days may within sixty (60) days appeal to the court of common pleas of Dauphin County from the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue or from the decision of the department as the case may be in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for appeals in the case of tax settlement

(e) If any distributor shall neglect or refuse to make any report and payment of tax required by this act the department shall estimate the tax due by such distributor and determine the amount due by him for taxes penalties and interest thereon as prescribed herein from which determination there shall be no right of review or appeal Upon any such neglect or refusal the fuel oil permit or permits issued to such distributor may be suspended or revoked by the department and required to be surrendered to the department

Section 8 Examination of Records and Equipment The department or any agent appointed in writing by it is hereby authorized to examine the books papers records storage tanks and any other equipment of any distributor dealer or any other person pertaining to the use or sale and delivery of fuel oil taxable under this act to verify the accuracy of any report or payment made under the provisions of this act or to ascertain whether or not the tax imposed by this act has been paid but any information gained by the department as the result of the reports investigations or verifications herein required to be made shall be confidential and any person divulging such information shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and costs of prosecution or to undergo imprisonment of not more than one year or both

Section 9 Retention of Records by Distributors and Dealers Each distributor shall maintain and keep for a period of two years such record or records of fuel oil used or sold and delivered within this Commonwealth by such distributor together with invoices bills of lading and other pertinent papers as may be required by the department

It shall be the duty of every person purchasing fuel oil taxable under this act from a distributor for the purpose of resale to maintain and keep for a period of one year a record of fuel oil received the amount of tax paid to the distributor as part of the purchase price together with delivery tickets invoices and bills of lading and such other records as the department shall require

Penalty Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and costs of prosecution or to undergo imprisonment for not more than one year or both in the discretion of the court

Section 10 Disposition and Use of Tax The entire amount of the emergency tax collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the State Treasury by and through the department and shall be credited to the General Fund

Section 11 Discontinuance or Transfer of Business Whenever a distributor engaged in the use or sale and delivery of fuel oil ceases to be a distributor by reason of the discontinuance sale or transfer of his business it shall be his duty to notify the department in writing within ten days after the discontinuance sale or transfer takes effect His notice shall give the date of discontinuance and in the event of a sale or transfer of his business the name and address of the purchaser or transferee thereof It shall also be the duty of any such distributor within ten days after the discontinuance sale or transfer takes effect to make a report and pay all taxes interest and penalies that may be due by him and to surrender to the department the permit or permits theretofore issued to him by the department

Penalty Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than three hundred dollars ($300.00) and costs of prosecution or to undergo imprisonment for not more than one year or both

Section 12 Suspension or Revocation of Fuel Oil Permits The department may suspend or after hearing revoke a fuel oil permit whenever it finds that the holder thereof has failed to comply with any of the provisions of this act and upon suspending or revoking any fuel oil permit shall request the holder thereof to surrender to it immediately all permits or duplicates thereof issued to him and the holder shall surrender promptly all such permits to the department as requested.

Whenever the department suspends a fuel oil permit it shall notify the holder immediately and afford him a hearing if desired and if a hearing has not already been afforded After such hearing the department shall either rescind its order of suspension or good cause appearing therefor shall continue the suspension or revoke the permit

Penalty Any person refusing to surrender a fuel oil permit or permits suspended or revoked by the department shall upon summary conviction before a magistrate be sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars ($50.00) and costs of prosecution and in default of payment thereof shall undergo imprisonment for not more than ten days

Section 13 Lien of Taxes Penalties and Interest (a) All taxes herein imposed and unpaid penalties and interest due by any person shall be a lien upon the franchises and property both real and personal of such person from the date said taxes are due and payable as provided in this act and shall have priority over any subsequent lien or encumbrance whatsoever except the lien of other State taxes having priority by law and except also that such taxes penalties and interest shall have priority over a mortgage only if the statements hereof were filed of record as provided in clause (b) hereof prior to the recording of the mortgage

(b) Statements of all taxes herein imposed due and unpaid together with penalties and interest thereon certified by the secretary or his representative may at any time be transmitted to the prothonotaries of the respective counties of the Commonwealth to be by them entered of record upon which record it shall be lawful for writs of scire facias to issue and be prosecuted to judgment and execution in the same manner as such writs are ordinarily employed

(c) No sheriff receiver trustee assignee master or other officer shall sell the property or franchises of any person who is a distributor as herein defined without first filing with the department a statement containing the following information

1 Name or names of the plaintiff or party at whose instance or upon whose account the sale is made

2 Name of the person whose property or franchise is to be sold

3 The time and place of sale

4 The nature of the property and the location of the same

(d) It shall be the duty of the department after receiving notice as aforesaid to furnish to the sheriff receiver trustee assignee master or other officer having charge of the sale a certified copy or copies of all fuel oil tax penalties and interest on file in the department as liens against such person and in the case of no such liens a certificate showing that fact which certified copy or copies or certificate shall be publicly read by such officer at and immediately before the sale of the property or franchise of such person

(e) It shall be the duty of the department to furnish to any person applying therefor upon payment of the fee herein prescribed a certificate showing the amount of all liens for fuel oil tax penalties and interest that may be of record in the department against any person under the provisions of this act

Section 14 Collection of Unpaid Taxes Whenever the taxes penalties or interest imposed by this act are not paid within thirty days after the date of their determination if no petition for redetermination has been filed or from the date of redetermination if no petition for review has been filed or within ninety days from the date of the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue upon a petition for review or the expiration of the board's time for acting upon such petition if no appeal has been made and in all cases of judicial sales assignments or bankruptcies the department shall call upon the Department of Justice to collect the same

On all claims for taxes penalties and interest hereunder which are collected after the institution of suit by the Department of Justice or any attorney employed by it there shall be paid by and recovered from the distributor for the use of the Commonwealth an Attorney General's commission of five (5) per centum upon the amount of recovery not exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) and three (3) per centum upon the amount of the recovery in excess of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) and the payment of the Attorney General's commission shall not affect liability for any penalty or interest payable under this act The Attorney General's commission shall be paid into the State Treasury through the Department of Revenue and credited to the general fund The amount of the Attorney General's commission shall in all cases be added to the amount of the claim against the distributor and shall be a lien against his property in like manner as the amount of the claim

Section 15 Reports from Common Carriers Every person including railroad companies street suburban and interurban railway companies pipe line companies and water transportation companies transporting fuel oil in any manner either in interstate or intrastate commerce to a point within this Commonwealth from a point within or without the Commonwealth shall report under oath or affirmation to the department on or before the last day of each month for the preceding month all deliveries of fuel oil made to points within this Commonwealth

Such reports shall be on forms prescribed prepared and furnished by the department and shall state the names and addresses of the consignor and consignee the number of gallons of fuel oil transported and any other information which the department may require

Penalty Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and costs of prosecution or to undergo imprisonment for not more than one year or both

Section 16 Reward for Detection of Violations The secretary is authorized to pay out of any moneys appropriated for the purpose to any person other than a State officer or employe who brings to his attention any distributor who has failed to file the reports required and pay the tax imposed by this act such sums as he may deem proper not exceeding ten per centum of the amount of the tax penalty and interest due but a reward shall not be paid hereunder unless and until collection of the delinquent tax shall have been made or the distributor shall have been convicted for violating this act

Section 17 Refunds The Board of Finance and Revenue may refund to distributors taxes penalties and interest paid by them on fuel oil delivered to the United States government or paid as the result of an error of law or of fact or of both law and fact Claims for refunds shall be made under the procedure prescribed by The Fiscal Code

As much of the moneys collected under the provisions of this act as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to the Board of Finance and Revenue for the purpose of making refunds as herein authorized Estimates of the amounts to be expended for refunds from time to time by the board shall be submitted to the Governor for his approval or disapproval as in the case of other appropriations to administrative departments boards and commissions and it shall be unlawful for the Auditor General to honor any requisition of the Board of Finance and Revenue for the expenditure of moneys hereunder in excess of the estimates approved by the Governor

Section 18 Enforcement The department shall be charged with the enforcement of the provisions of this act Such employes of the Commonwealth as are designated as "State Highway Patrolmen" shall aid the department in the enforcement of this act and for this purpose are hereby declared to be peace officers and are hereby given policy power and authority throughout the Commonwealth to arrest on view without writ rule order or process any person known to have violated any of the provisions of this act

Whenever any person acting for or on behalf of the department shall in good faith institute legal proceedings for any violations of the provisions of this act and for any reason shall fail to recover costs of record such costs shall be a charge upon the proper county as shall such costs in the event defendant is imprisoned for failure to pay fine or costs or both and shall be audited and paid as are costs of like character in said county

Section 19 Disposition of Fees Fines and Forfeitures Except as otherwise in this act provided and except as otherwise provided by the Constitution fees fines penalties and bail forfeited that shall be received recovered paid or collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the State Treasury through the department and shall be credited to the General Fund

Section 20 Certified Copies of Records The fee for a certified copy or certified photostat copy of any department record shall be one dollar ($1.00) but fees shall not be charged for certified copies or certified photostatic copies of any department record furnished to federal state county or municipal authorities

Section 21 Uncollectible Checks Whenever any check issued in payment of tax penalty or interest imposed by this act shall be returned to the department as uncollectible the department shall charge a fee of five dollars ($5.00) per hundred dollars or fractional part thereof plus all protest fees to the person presenting such check to the department

Section 22 Violations (a) Any person who shall fail neglect or refuse to make the report and pay the tax penalties and interest imposed by this act or who shall refuse to permit the department or any agent appointed by it in writing to examine his books records papers storage tanks or other equipment pertaining to the use or sale and delivery of fuel oil within this Commonwealth or who shall make any incomplete false or fraudulent report or who shall attempt to do anything whatsoever to avoid a full disclosure of the amount of fuel oil used or sold and delivered or to avoid the payment of the whole or any part of the tax penalties and interest due shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and costs of prosecution or imprisonment for not more than one (1) year or both In the case of an association any partner or member thereof and in the case of a corporation any officer thereof whose duty it was to make the report required by this act shall be subject to imprisonment as aforesaid for failing to make the report required and attend to the payment of the tax imposed by this act Such fine shall be in addition to any penalty imposed by any other section or subsection of this act Upon any such conviction all of the guilty distributor's permits shall be revoked

(b) It shall be unlawful for any person to commit any of the following acts

1 To display or cause or to permit to be displayed or to have in possession any fuel oil permit knowing the same to be fictitious or to have been suspended cancelled revoked or altered

2 To lend to or knowingly permit the use of by one not entitled thereto any fuel oil permit issued to the person lending it or permitting to be used

3 To display or to represent as one's own any fuel oil permit not issued to the person displaying the same

4 To use a false or fictitious name or give a false or fictitious address in any application or form required under the provisions of this act or otherwise commit a fraud in any application record or report

Penalty Except as herein otherwise provided any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor unless such act is by any other law of this Commonwealth declared to be a felony and shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and costs of prosecution or undergo imprisonment for not more than one (1) year or both in the discretion of the court

Such fine shall be in addition to any penalty imposed by any other section or subsection of this act Upon conviction all of the guilty person's fuel oil permits shall be revoked

Section 23 Constitutional Construction The provisions of this act are severable and if any of its provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included herein

Section 24 This act shall become effective the first day of the month succeeding its final enactment and shall remain in force for a period of twelve months from the effective date thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend sec. 2, page 5, line 11, by inserting after the word "amendments" the following: "except fuel oil used within this Commonwealth in the business or process of producing or refining of petroleum or petroleum products."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and memebrs of the House, I regret the necessity of taking the floor of the House on this amendment at this time, but I find there is a great deal of misunderstanding on the part of a good many people who feel it their duty to vote for this bill, as to the definition of what constitutes fuel oil and what therefore is taxable under this act.

I call the attention of the members of the House to page 4 of the bill, Printer's No. 87, and particularly to the lines immediately following line 20 on page 4. Fuel oil is therein defined for the purposes of this act as "all liquids derived from crude petroleum which are ordinarily, practically and commercially usable." And I call your attention to the fact that the word "usable" is in the act and not the word "used." It reads, "all liquids derived from crude petroleum which are ordinarily, practically and commercially usable as fuel, except kerosene, and which are otherwise exempt from State taxation and are not subject to the tax imposed on liquid fuels." And the rest of the wording there refers to the title of the present Liquid Fuels Act.

The amendment which I propose would go in on page 5 at the end of the first paragraph, line 4, and would take out of the purport of the bill, the coverage of the bill only fuel oil which is used in the business of production or producing oil itself from the ground or of refining that oil into gasoline and other products which are practically all of them now taxed or will be taxed after the present act, the sole exception being kerosene.

Now, gentlemen, this does not refer to fuel oil which is used as fuel. It covers any product of peroleum which could be used as fuel, whether it is a matter of fact used as a fuel or not, and it is particularly with regard to fuel oil which is not used as fuel that I want you to adopt this amendment.

In our county and seven or eight other counties in Western Pennsylvania particularly there are a number of small refineries that would be very detrimentally affected by the imposition of the tax as worded in this act, but which would be practically unharmed if the amendment which I propose is adopted. I want to call the attention of the members of the House to the purpose of this bill. What is the purpose of this bill? I assume that the original bill was designed for a twofold purpose. One of those was to raise revenue and the other quite obviously was to help the coal industry.

Why were we going to help the coal industry? Because I assume in the coal industry it is well known there are large numbers of people unemployed. And to get back to the purpose of raising revenue,—in fact to the purpose of this special session,—the reason we are here in the first place is to relieve unemployment, to raise money and appropriate money for relief.

Now, gentlemen, I am extremely anxious that this bill in itself, while it may have this plausible, this laudable purpose, should not be permitted under its wording to give rise to the very conditions which it seeks to remedy. I assume it still has these same purposes, although, perhaps, the half cent tax will probably result in the consumers assuming the burden and will probably increase the sale of coal not at all.

I note also that the committee which held a public hearing on the matter did see fit to exempt kerosene, but the bill still contains wording which in my opinion would have a disastrous effect upon the numerous small refineries of Western Pennsylvania and defeat the purpose of the bill besides imposing a heavy, unfair, unnecessary burden on a vital industry, that of producing and refining oil in Pennsylvania.

I appeal to the members who feel that they are pledged to vote for the bill because they come from the coal counties actually decrease in the coal mined. It will actually hurt the very people you are desiring to help.

I call attention to the fact that the tax applies not only to fuel oil sold but also to fuel oil used. Don't forget that fact.

In Western Pennsylvania our little oil producers use a little fuel oil to run the engines that bring the oil up out of the ground to the surface where it can be taxed. Don't forget that if that oil were not brought to the surface it could not be taxed. Neither could the gasoline or the lubricating oil made out of it be paying a tax. By having this tax on the fuel oil that runs the engines, it practically means double taxation.

You tax the fuel oil that is used for power; then tax the oil itself that is brought above the ground, now we are going to tax the fuel oil as well as the gasoline and lubricating oil which is produced from that oil.

Don't you think it is a little steep, gentlemen, to tax him on the oil that is used in the process of producing that oil? But in the refinery it is still worse. There are only a few refineries in Pennsylvania which own the expensive process known as the cracking process.

I am not going to take the time of this House to go into the details of refining, but you ought to know that some of the refineries take the fuel oil from their neighboring small refiners and some take fuel oil brought in from outside this State, and put gasoline out after pulling it through a chemical process of reforming under heat and pressure known as cracking.

Now, the purpose of my amendment is primarily to prevent taxing the fuel oil that goes into the refinery and is made into gasoline, and as that gasoline comes out, that gasoline is taxed very heavily.

I ask you members of the House, Democratic or Republican, whether you come from oil counties or coal counties, if you wouldn't think it was a little steep to tax the coal that was used under the boilers in the mines there to run the hoists that brought the coal to the surface so that you could tax it.

Now, don' you think it is a little steep to tax the oil which is used to produce the gasoline which you tax so heavily after the gasoline comes out?

Now, we come to another question. Can coal by any chance be substituted for this purpose? The answer is it absolutely can not be. This fuel oil goes into a chemical process and it must be a petroleum product to be made into gasoline.

Now gentlemen of the House I am not going to take a great deal of your time. The point I want to drive home is this, that under the bill as it is drawn the small refiner would be taxed when the stuff comes in and taxed when the gasolne goes out.

Let me call the attention of you gentlemen from the coal counties, that these small refineries especially those in McKean, Warren and Bradford Counties, the ones that I have had an opportunity to investigate, and I assure you I have investigated,—this is no hearsay,—burn at the present time large quantities of coal. The Kendall Refinery at Bradford is one that you probably all are familiar with because it is one that has a widely advertised product. They employ about six hundred men, but they burn in their refinery for fuel one hundred percent Pennsylvania produced coal to the tune of about fifty-five carloads a month. Now, if you will not let those fellows operate these refineries as they do now, buying fuel oil from the other refineries in the neighborhood and producing fuel themselves and cracking it into gasolne. You are going to force them to economize, they can make coke, make non-saleable products which they could use instead of coal in their refineries.

The same is true of the United Refinery of Warren, Pennsylvania, the principal industry perhaps of that city. It employs seven hundred men, and it burns from seven to eight hundred carloads of Pennsylvania coal per year. These little refineries have during all the depression expanded their plants and taken on more people. There is one such refinery at Smethport, there is one at Eldred, there is one at Emlenton, there are half a dozen near Oil City, in Pittsburgh and Butler. All I ask you gentlemen to do is to remember the purpose for which you are undertaking to pass this act. You are doing it to help unemployment relief; you are doing it to help the coal industry. In no case I am sure do you conscienciously vote for a tax that you feel will hurt business. All that I am asking is that you do not inflict this double taxation on the small refineries of Pennsylvania. Let me say one parting thing, that in this case you cannot say they can pass the tax along, because they cannot. The price of gasoline is not set by the small refineries of Western Pennsylvania. The price of gasoline is set in the world's markets and set by tremendous oil companies whose price would not fluctuate a fraction of a cent if these small refineries of Western Pennsylvania would double or on the other hand if they went out of business. All I am asking you is to correct the wording of this act so it will not inflict unnecessary hardship on a vital industry of Pennsylvania. I thank you for your attention and I ask you to vote for this amendment.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have listened carefully to the remarks made by the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane. I do not wish to criticize him too severely for trying to protect interests in his own community or locality. However, if he reads the bill very carefully he will find it is a just tax measure, and the two-fold purpose he speaks of is entirely out. When I first introduced this bill I did have in mind the protection of the coal interests of our State. As you know, this bill first called for a two cent tax on fuel oil, now, the bill has reduced the tax to half a cent. Therefore the two-fold purpose is entirely out. The bill is restricted entirely to being a revenue raiser.

Naturally almost any member in the House would like to offer an amendment to protect certain interests, but since we are legislating for the entire Commonwealth I do not think it is fair to consider any further exemptions. The bill has been very carefully gone over and proper exemptions have been made. I hope the gentleman from McKean will understand that this will not increase the price of gasoline, because the tax is not paid by the refinery, but is paid by the motorists, the consumers, and since we are trying to raise revenue, the refineries should pay their pro rata share of it, so I ask the members on this side of the House and the members on the other side of the House to vote "No" on the amendment.

Mr. YOURISHIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House coming from the anthracite coal counties and listening to the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane,—I might be a little biased, of course, but in so far as I am personally concerned I would love to see the tax on fuel oil not half a cent, but about fifteen cents, and I will give you my reasons why. We members of the House here pride ourselves on being Pennsylvanians, pride ourselves on coming from this great Keystone State of ours, pride ourselves upon the wonderful industries we have in our State.

We have gone along for a number of years for relief purposes and otherwise, taxing everythng that is produced in the State of Pennsylvania, even coal. Coal pays its pro rata share of the taxes of this State, and now we have some members of this great State of ours, objecting to half a cent tax on fuel oil that I do not believe five percent of it that is used in the State of Pennsylvana is produced in this great State of ours; in fact more than ninety-five percent of it is oil that is shipped in here from foreign countries, and as Pennsylvanians, why shouldn't we tax the fuel oil that is coming into Pennsylvania, competng with one of the greatest industries within this great State of ours? I say to you that while I personally would love to see about fifteen cents tax on fuel oil to help the coal mines of Pennsylvania, yet I believe that this half-cent tax that has been placed on fuel oil is not going to affect the coal situation one way or the other. Neither do I believe that the half-cent that is placed on fuel oil is going to be paid by the consumer, because the producers of fuel oil will, do as we did some years ago in the anthracite fields, when refuse was turned out on the coal banks, so it is with crude oil. Some years ago this oil was dumped into the river, but today it is being used of course for fuel purposes, and I do not believe that the producers are going to pass on this half-cent tax to the consumers, but will absorb that tax themselves. I ask the members of the House to vote down the amendment.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was not agreed to.
On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PFAFF. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I arise to oppose this bill because I claim it is discriminatory, unfair and unsound. I maintain it is discriminatory because Philadelphia will assume or shoulder half of the tax load under this bill. I claim it is unfair because it will cast a burden upon the oil consuming home owners in the City of Philadelphia and that district, and they are already overburdened with real estate taxes and they are finding it hard to carry their homes, and many of them are only half-time employes. It will be a hardship to place this tax upon them.

I claim it is unsound because it will place a burden upon the manufacturers of the city of Philadelphia and in many other large centers. A good many of these manufacturers are now operating on a very narrow margin of profit. If this bill is enacted into law it will put a burden on these manufacturers, who, in turn, will pass it on to labor, and I maintain that when we, members of this House, the law making body, pass legislation, we should always be careful not to pass legislation that will separate capital and labor, but should rather endeavor to bring them closer together.

I know what the proponents of this bill will say, "Well, if they can't shoulder the burden of this taxation, why not go to coal?" They can go back to coal, I agree with you. Those oil burning companies, those large plants which use so much oil, in going back to coal, must go back to soft coal. Now, we all know the burning of soft coal results in a smoke nuisance, while the burning of fuel oil has gone a long way to efface that nuisance. I appeal to the members from the counties that do not use much fuel oil, to play this game fair and vote down this bill.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, aside from the question of the direct tax upon the home owner now burdened with real estate taxes for using a particular fuel to which he has become accustomed or made use of for economic reasons, large real estate units are faced with a serious rise in their operating costs through no fault of their own. Sound taxation does not dictate a policy which upsets the economic parity of oil with other fuels built up over a period of years, especially as it purports to be a temporary tax on this important necessity.

Now, as to its effect on our important Pennsylvania industries. This bill would place an unfair temporary tax upon those industries which can use only oil as their suitable method of heating. Those same industries in other states immediately have an advantage over us in their manufacturing costs to which they should not be subject. Take the effect on our enormous steel industries, a great many of the plants of which use oil in their furnaces. Their costs are promptly penalized one to two dollars a ton in making steel, and gentlemen, that is quite a serious penalty for an industry that has lost money for five years and is now struggling along to come out of the red. It's like adding a five per cent tax on their gross income in lots of cases. Right in our own county there is a plant belonging to a company that has a plant in St. Louis, which lost $12,500,000 in five years. They employ about seven hundred men and such a tax could easily cause them to move their work to the other plant in St. Louis, where it was before.

I ask the members to vote against this bill because it is only a tax for twelve months. The economic disturbance created by this temporary tax is not warranted and should not be supported. It will affect hundreds of our industries in Pennsylvania.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, being one of the members from thhe hard coal region, I feel that a large number of the members may feel that I am getting up for selfish reasons to defend this bill, but I do not want to leave that impression with the House. While I recognize the fact that fuel oil has become a keen competitor against anthracite and bituminous coal, and that in the anthracite region there are today approximately forty-five thousand men idle as the result of lost markets, I still think by omitting that argument that we can testify this tax on fuel oil.

Oil today is not only a State problem, nor a Federal problem: it is a world problem. The resources that the world has today are undetermined. No one is able to estimate how long they will last, and that alone I think makes it imperative on the part of every state in the United States to make an effort to conserve oil as a lubricant.

We also understand that the Pennsylvania fuel oil has a paraffine base, which makes it a superior lubricating oil. Now, inasmuch as we are coming into the machine age and the world is practically run on wheels and we look forward to the future with the hope of producing our living with machinery, then I think it devolves upon us at this time to make preparations at least to provide the lubrication that will be necessary to continue that machinery in action.

Now, to show what alarming growth oil has made, the inroads that it has made in recent years, I want to quote from "Hot Oil," a book edited by Congressman Pettingell: "Drake's Folly, a well sunk sixty-nine and a half feet in 1859 for illumination has grown to be the second largest industry in the world, and now supplies power for twenty-six million automotive units, including trucks and tractors but not stationary engines.

In 1934 automobiles drove up to 300,000 filling stations and filled their tanks with 17,234,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

"Surface roads that would reach from here to the moon, 271,845 miles have been built of petroleum asphalt.

"Oil companies furnish fuel oil to about 1,500,000 homes, a gain of 11900 per cent since 1920 when only 12,500 homes were heated with oil.

"Before the World War 96 per cent of the world ocean tonnage burned coal today only 53 per cent."

Now, my friends, I think that it is high time that we were serving notice upon the producers of oil that they should cease to invade the fuel market. I know that it is an unfortunate thing that so many have turned to oil, but that really is not an argument in defense of or against this legislation. They are just unhappy victims, and probably the Legislature is responsible to a large extent for not having served notice upon the oil industry long ago. I for one want to ask my friends to support the measure.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think it is about time that the people of the State of Pennsylvania put a stop to the importing of fuel oil into the State of Pennsylvania. I believe that every member, every true Pennsylvanian in this House will vote for this bill, and will be only sorry that the sponsors of this bill decided for some reason to cut it from two cents down to a one-half cent. We have in the State of Pennsylvania some three hundred thousand coal miners who will be greatly affected by this unfair competition of imported fuel oil in competition with one of Pennsylvania's greatest industries.

I also come from a county, Armstrong County, that produces natural gas in great quantities, and I want to tell you that the importation of this oil greatly affects the natural gas industry of Pennsylvania.

I also want to call your attention to the fact that coal is shipped over the railroads of the State of Pennsylvania in quantities in the millions of tons, and pay into the coffers of the railroads of this State many thousands of dollars, and if you cripple the coal industry of the great Keystone State of Pennsylvania you in turn cripple the railroads of our State. I ask every member of this House to vote aye on this bill.

Mr. McKINNEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, oil is produced in 18 of the 67 counties of the State, employs 20,000 men with an annual payroll of over $10,000,000. It supplies crude to 30 small refineries which employ some 4,500 men with an annual payroll of over $6,000,000.

Pennsylvania oil comes from some 80,000 stripper wells, the cost of production is the highest in the United States. Exclusive of the Bradford field these wells average about one-tenth of a barrel per day and are owned and operated by individuals or small companies. Government reports show that these producers now operate at a loss. Further increase in taxes would result in abandoning many small wells and would put many producers and employes out of business or on the dole.

In Pennsylvania the tax derived from every barrel of oil produced now stands at $1.48. If this further tax is assessed the tax on each barrel produced will move up to $1.69. This figure is 71 per cent of the value of Bradford crude and 74 per cent of the value of Emlenton crude crude and more than 80 per cent of the value of southwest Pennsylvania crude. When the tax eaters take $1.69 out of every barrel of crude produced in Pennsylvania political agencies will realize more on oil than the producers themselves.

This additional tax burden, coming after a long lean period during which producers wondered how much longer they could hold on, will prove the last straw to hundreds if not thousands of small producers and will certainly shove some small refineries into bankruptcy.

This proposed tax means an increased burden of approximately 30 per cent to the householder in his heating bills and about 50 per cent increase to the manufacturer and it just can not be borne by the consumer, the plant operator, the refiner or the producer.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am sure we are all keenly interested in this coal industry in Pennsylvania, but in the last few weeks the mail has contained communications from manufacturers in this State who use fuel oil, and the large number of manufacturers involved who are dependent because of their factory set-ups to use fuel oil find it utterly impossible to put this tax in their cost of doing business, commonly called the overhead. For that reason I believe we should take into consideration at this time the small manufacturer or the large number of small manufacturers in this State who employ perhaps hundreds and thousands of men, dependent for motive power upon fuel oil, the tax on which must come out of their cost of doing business. If we pass this tax, if we impose a further penalty upon them it will mean in a great majority of cases that these industries will be forced to close their doors, and such being the case, there will be more men on relief, and because of that it will be necessary for more funds to be appropriated for relief, and there we have the endless chain, so I believe in voting on this bill, we should take into consideration the manufacturing industry in this State as well as the coal industry in this State, and in doing so try to help the men who are now employed to keep their jobs.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman from Cambria state that the purpose of the bill was to raise money and not to aid the coal industry of Pennsylvania?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. Speaker, when I spoke on the amendment, I did state that the purpose of the measure was not only to restore the coal market but also to raise revenue, but since the measure has been cut down from two cents to half a cent, it resolves itself purely into a revenue raising bill.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have any thought as to the possible increase in the consumption of coal that the passage of this tax might result in, that might result from the passage of this bill?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. Speaker, I will say that to my mind quite a number of consumers of fuel oil naturally refer back to coal and by their doing so it will increase the consumption of coal. At least I hope they will all come back to coal.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I choose to view this bill as a bill that will really aid the coal industry of Pennsylvania, and for that reason I wish to ask the support of those persons who are interested in the assistance of the miners of Pennsylvania and ask that all support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE MESSAGE

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 14

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has insisted upon its amendments, nonconcurred in by the House of Representatives, to House Resolution No. 14, entitled:

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Whereas, The sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars [($6,086,211.00)] $4,086,211.00 in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Whereas, There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund and The State Stores Fund [and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund] therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars $2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund and the hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor Lisum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two cense Fund and the sum of two million dollars ($2,000,-000.00) from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars [($6,086,211.00)] $4,086,211.00 for unemployment relief purposes; and

Resolved, That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution, (2) appropriating or re-appropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of [six] four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars [$6,086,211.00)] $4,086,211.00 and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund.

And has appointed Messrs. Bean, Buckman and J. Albert Reed, a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives already appointed on the subject of the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said resolution.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 57, entitled:

An Act providing for and regulating assistance to and the burial of certain aged indigent persons and the administration of this act by the Department of Welfare and the boards of trustees of the mothers' assistance funds of the several counties authorizing the Department of Welfare to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons authorizing the appointment of trustees for certain persons providing for the recovery of moneys expended for assistance in certain cases providing penalties and repealing inconsistent acts

The first second and third sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That

Section 1 Short Title This act shall be known and may be cited as the "Old Age Assistance Law"

Section 2 Definitions The following words and phrases unless the context clearly indicates otherwise shall have the meanings ascribed to them in this section

"Assistance" means financial assistance to aged indigent resident citizens qualified to receive assistance under this act or payments toward the funeral expenses of such persons as provided in this act

"Beneficiary" means a person who is receiving financial assistance in accordance with the provisions of this act

"Board" means the Board of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund established by law and herein invested with powers to administer this act

"Department" means the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

"Social Security Act" means the act enacted by the Congress of the United States approved the fourteenth day of August one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five entitled "An act to provide for the general welfare by establishing a system of Federal old-age benefits and by enabling the several states to make more adequate provision for aged persons blind persons dependent and crippled children maternal and child welfare public health and the administration of their unemployment compensation laws to establish a Social Security Board to raise revenue and for other purposes

"Social Security Board" means the Social Security board established by the Social Security Act

Section 3 Administration of Act This act shall be administered by the department and the boards in the several counties of this Commonwealth

The fourth section was read as follows:

Section 4 Cooperation with Federal Board The department is empowered and directed to cooperate with the Social Security Board in carrying out the provisions and purposes and the administration of title one of the Social Security Act and is further empowered to supervise the disbursement of all funds provided by the Federal Government for use in this Commonwealth for assistance to make such reports in such form and containing such information as the Social Security Board may from time to time require and to comply with such orders and regulations as such board may from time to time make to assure the correctness and cerification of such reports

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 4, page 3, line 14, by inserting after the word "reports" the following: "Provided, nevertheless, that should said Federal Social Security Act be held unconstitutional or inoperative or null and void, this Old Age Assistance Law shall continue to be operative as if the said Social Security Act has never existed."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House: with reference to the amendment of Section 4, page 3, line 14, if you will take this bill, you will find on line 14, the last three words, "of such reports," and the amendment adds these words, for the purpose of clarifying the bill, "Provided, nevertheless, that should said Federal Social Security Act be held unconstitutional or inoperative or null and void, this Old Age Assistance Law shall continue to be operative as if the said Social Security Act has never existed."

If you will take House Bill 57 and turn to Section 24, page 12, you will find that Section 24 repeals all of the existing Old Age Assistance laws in Pennsylvania.

Bill 57 is written around the Social Security Act. Should the Supreme Court of the United States declare that act null and void, then for a possible period of two years Pennsylvania would be without an Old Age Assistance Act, and I ask you to vote "aye" on this amendment, so that the system that has been already established and will continue and will continue without danger of repeal.

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, according to the decision handed down by the Welfare Department of the Attorney General's Office, this act will not be repealed, and I will ask the members of the House to vote against the amendment.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia indicate for the benefit of the membership of this House, wherein this bill will fall upon the unconstitutionality of the Federal Socal Security Act?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the bill provides in Section 4, "For cooperation with the Federal Board", etc., and the entire bill is written around the Social Security Law. Now, I cannot understand why you or anyone would object to the insertion of the amendment, which makes it absolutely and one hundred percent sure that Old Age Assistance will not and might not be repealed in Pennsylvania.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia know the meaning of the word "superfluous"?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the same as the gentleman used the word "deleted" the other day.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia is not answering my question. I understand the use of that word, but this is for the sake of the aged of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I would rather have it that way and be certain than uncertain.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has referred the membership of this House to Section 4 of the act. Section 4 of the act merely provides that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall cooperate with the Federal Government and to receive the funds necessary from the Federal Government to make its fifty percent contribution.

There is no indication whatsoever in any part of the context of this bill that this bill will fall if the Federal Government Security Act is held unconstitutional. The amendment is purely superfluous and would in no manner help the interpretation or the enforcement of the act.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I will only delay the members a moment or two. Some of you may not have been members of that session when old age pension amendments were offered in this House. On all of those occasions I fought for old age pensions and I shall continue to fight for them. I do not care whether or not a dozen or more words are added to this bill, but I do care, and I am extremely anxious that technically and legally nothing happens to Old Age Assistance. I ask this House to approve the amendment so that if the Federal Social Security Act should go to court and be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States, nothing shall happen to old age assistance in Pennsylvania.

I ask for a roll call, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, up to the present time the State of Pennsylvania has been able, limited as it has been, to take care of the aged people, and I believe that under the provisions of this bill that in the future, if the Federal Social Security Act should be declared unconstitutional, the State of Pennsylvania will still be able to carry on, and I ask the members of this House to vote against the amendment.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the membership of the House, I desire to read from page 6, Section 8, lines 12, 13 and 14, "but in the event that Federal grants are not available payments may be made entirely from State appropriations." So, I can assure the House that the trouble, the difficulty giving the gentleman from Philadelphia concern will not be a problem in case the Federal Security Act is declared unconstitutional.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. SOWERS, and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section was read as follows:

Section 5 Qualifications for Assistance Assistance may be granted under this act only to an applicant who

(a) Has attained the age of seventy years or upwards or who after December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine attains the age of sixty-five years or upwards

(b) Is a citizen of the United States

(c) Resides in this Commonwealth and (1) has so resided therein for five years during the nine years immediately preceding the date of making application for assistance (2) has so resided continuously for one year immediately preceding the date of making application for assistance and (3) has a legal settlement in this Commonwealth Absence in the service of the Commonwealth or of the United States shall not be deemed to interrupt residence in the Commonwealth if a domicile has not been acquired outside the Commonwealth

(d) Is not at the date of making application an inmate of a public reform or correctional institution or public mental hospital

(e) Has not within two years preceding the date of application for assistance been a professional tramp or beggar

(f) Is indigent and has no relative responsible under the law of this Commonwealth and financially able to support him or her

(g) Shall not have voluntarily relinquished or given up any gainful employment without just cause within six months preceding the date of making application for assistance

(h) Shall not have conveyed or transferred his or her real or personal property of the value of five hundred dollars ($500.00) or upwards without fair consideration within two years preceding the date of making application for assistance

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 5, page 3, lines 17 to 20, by striking out all of said lines, and insert in lieu thereof: "(a) Has attained the age of seventy years or upwards, or who after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven attains an age of sixty-nine years or upwards, or who after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight, attains an age of sixty-eight years or upwards, or who after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, attains an age of sixty-five years and upwards."

Amend section 5, page 4, lines 12 to 15, by striking out all of said lines.

Amend section 5, page 4, line 16, by striking out the letter "(h)" and insert in lieu thereof "(g)".

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, House Bill No. 57, Section 5, paragraph "a", lines 17, 18 and 19, contains these words, "Has attained the age of seventy years or upwards or who after December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine attains the age of sixty-five years or upwards." The amendment proposed is to strike out those words and substitute in lieu thereof, "(a) Has attained the age of seventy years or upwards, or who after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven attains an age of sixty-nine years or upwards, or who after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight, attains an age of sixty-eight years or upwards, or who after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, attains an age of sixty-five years and upwards."

It was my first thought to amend it so as to make it dovetail exactly with the Social Security Act, which provides that if Pennsylvania specifies sixty-five years of age as being the minimum age at which old age assistance could be granted, then the Federal Government would contribute half of the sum paid by Pennsylvania.

I notice in the Governor's proclamation these words, "Social legislation to enable the Commonwealth, its political subdivisions, their agencies or instrumentalities and its citizens to obtain the full benefits of the Federal Social Security Act." I fail to understand why the Administration Bill does not follow the Governor's Proclamation, and why it was not written so as to obtain the full benefits of the Social Security Act.

We also offer an amendment to lines 12 to 15 on page 4 by striking out these words, "Shall not have voluntarily relinquished or given up any gainful employment without just cause within six months preceding the date of making application for assistance."

I submit that if those words are continued in the Old Age Assistance Act, being something not contained in the present law, then almost every working man would never get old age assistance, because employers, as a rule, will never take the odium of discharging an old man; they usually make his duties so heavy that the old fellow quits his employment voluntarily, and with that practical condition, I cannot understand why the Administration would want to insert in this Old Age Assistance bill those words, and I will read them again to you: "Shall not have voluntarily relinquished." In other words, if an old man seventy years of age voluntarily quits his job then the Administration's bill would prevent him from getting assistance. I wonder if the Administration expects a man to work till he is ninety to get assistance. It seems to me that is is very unfair to the aged people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to deny them assistance because when they reach seventy years of age they quit their employment.

Again there is another amendment which strikes out the letter "h" and substitutes "g", but that is unimportant.

The important thing is this: this Administration announces to the people of Pennsylvania that this special session was called for the express purpose of obtaining the full benefits of the Social Security Act, and the section does not do it. Was not this session called so that a man whe he reaches sixty-five might retire on old age assistance, and yet be compelled to work until some one fires him.

I ask you to vote "aye" on this amendment, and I ask for a roll call, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on page 4, paragraph (g), lines 12 to 15, it says, "Shall not have voluntarily relinquished or given up any gainful employment without just cause within six months preceding the date of making application for assistance."

I do not believe that at the present time there is any industry in Pennsylvania which employes a man at the age of seventy, that is, a man who is able to be gainfully employed, and I think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, is just doing a lot of talking at the present time, because a man at the age of seventy the industry asks to require at the age of fifty or sixty-five at this time.

Therefore, I ask the members of this House to vote down this amendment.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kobelak?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kobelak, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Allegheny if this bill is an Administration bill?

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, some parts of the bill are Administration, but I have worked on the bill for some time past, and that is why I am now presenting the bill.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know that the present law does not contain that provision, "Shall not have voluntarily relinquished", and so forth?

Mr. KOBELAK. That is right, Mr. Speaker; I do.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, that it does not contain that?

Mr. KOBELAK. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, did the Administration ask the gentleman to include that in his bill?

Mr. KOBELAK. That was included in this bill, Mr. Speaker—yes.

Mr. SOWERS. By the Administration, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, it was drawn up with the help of the Attorney General's Office.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to the House how that provision complies with the Governor's Proclamation regarding social legislation, to enable the Commonwealth to obtain the full benefit of the Federal Social Security Act?

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, we had to include this in order to obtain the benefits of the Federal Security Act.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, doesn't the gentleman know that the Social Security Act has an age requirement of not more than sixty-five years?

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, yes.

Mr. SOWERS. Then, Mr. Speaker, why did the Administration write in seventy years, until January first or December thirty-one, 1939?

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, I believe one reason was because as long as the gentlemen in the minority, the minority of the House, has voted against all tax bills, and as long as the Senate majority have voted against all tax bills, that we have tried to keep within the limits and to furnish the aged people with as much money as we possibly could.

Mr. SOWERS. May I ask the gentleman to try me on some tax bill for an old person.

Mr. KOBELAK. There are no tax bills for old persons.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman willing to amend this bill so that the age limit will be sixty-five?

Mr. KOBELAK. No, Mr. Speaker, not at the present time. Not being an attorney, and especially a Constitutional attorney, at the present time I am afraid it might interfere wih the rest of the bill.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know that if the age limit was sixty-five that the Washington Administration promised to pay to Pennsylvania half of the money that might be paid to the old people?

Mr. KOBELAK. Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, and does the gentleman still persist in not reducing it to sixty-five?

Mr. KOBELAK. Yes, Mr. Speaker, the reason is that at the present time it is not advisable, and because in six months from now, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, will be able to make these amendments.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, is it the instruction of the Administration not to reduce it to sixty-five?

Mr. KOBELAK. It is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman: Just his own instructions?

Mr. KOBELAK. I have no instructions on this matter, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, am I correct in assuming that the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Philadelphia is for the purpose of making all persons within the age of sixty-five years eligible to a pension?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, my amendment does not do that. I wish it did, but I have compromised because I thought I might get a few of you Democrats on a compromise. I am doing it to get some of you, if I can. If you will promise to stand with me for sixty-five, I will withdraw this amendment and substitute another.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Then I take it, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman from Philadelphia is not desirous of having persons who have reached sixty-five receive a pension under this act during the coming year; is that correct?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, in answering the gentleman from Allegheny, permit me to state that I am desirous, I wish the amendment was sixty-five. I found that I could not do that, and now I am trying this compromise with you gentlemen on the other side of the House, but I find that I am getting nowhere with the compromise for the poor old people that the Governor was so very solicitous about in his proclamation.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Then the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, does not desire to have any person during the year nineteen hundred and thirty-seven, who has reached the age of sixty-five, receive a pension under the Federal Social Security Act in combination with any statute that may be passed by the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. SOWERS. I do, Mr. Speaker, and I wish the gentlemen on the other side of the House would join with me in passing such an amendment.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman prepared such an amendment for submission to this House?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman promises me that he will stand with me and have the Governor stand with me and approve the bill, I will prepare one in two minutes—one minute.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, does the amendment that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, has introduced and on which he has been debating provide that persons at the age of sixty-five shall receive a pension during the year nineteen hundred and thirty-seven?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the amendment does not; I wish it did. I will change the amendment if you will but promise to go along with me.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. EBERHARTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Eberharter, will you promise to go along with me in an amendment to sixty-five years?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have the opportunity to answer the interrogation of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. SOWERS. May I first have my amendment provide for sixty-five years, to accommodate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny has asked permission to answer a question of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I believe the question of the gentleman from Philadelphia was whether or not the Democrats in this House would go along with the gentleman from Philadelphia on this act to the end that every person who reaches the age of sixty-five would receive a pension this years?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, that is correct; old age assistance in accordance with the Federal Social Security Law.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe that the gentleman from Philadelphia has asked me a question, as a member of this side of the House, that is altogether fair, because I am not in a position to answer for the Democratic majority.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, may the House tarry a few minutes till the gentleman ascertains the answer?

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, has spent a great deal of time in interrogating the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, as to whether or not the gentleman from Philadelphia was in favor of reducing the age limit to sixty-five years, and in turn the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, has asked the gentleman from Allegheny what he first answered and subsequently considered an unfair question, in which he asked him whether the Democrats of this House would go along on the age of sixty-five.

The gentleman from Allegheny in his interrogation of the gentleman from Philadelphia received an affirmative answer, and the gentleman from Philadelphia took the opportunity to change his amendments so that the age limit would be changed to the age of sixty-five.

I, therefore, ask you, Mr. Speaker, and move for the purpose and the sole purpose of permitting the gentleman from Philadelphia to change his amendment, so that the age limit will be reduced to sixty-five years, that the amendment, together with the bill, be temporarily laid on the table, and permit the gentleman from Philadelphia to prepare the amendments which the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, indicated he might by questioning ascertain from the Democratic majority of this House whether they would go along with the amendment. We want the Democrats to answer that question and to vote accordingly.

I, therefore, move that the bill, together with the amendments, be laid on the table in order to give the gentleman from Philadelphia an opportunity of preparing the amendments, and he will do it in less than half a minute.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

The SPEAKER. A motion to lay on the table is not debatable, therefore, the interrogation is not in order at this time.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I will waive it.

The SPEAKER. It can not be waived without a suspension of the rules.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, as the question is not debatable, will the gentleman from Philadelphia withdraw his motion temporarily?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman the purpose for which he wishes me to withdraw the motion temporarily?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, state his purpose?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, the purpose was to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia as to whether or not ——

The SPEAKER. This motion is not debatable.

Mr. MOOMAW. —— as to whether or not the other side of the House would agree to such taxation measures as might be necessary to fulfill the amendments which they desire.

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, may I quote the provisions of the Social Security Act relating to Federal grants in aid of the State?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is out of order. The motion before the House is to lay the bill, together with the amendments, on the table.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SOWERS and Mr. WITKIN and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House the bill, which we have before us, and the amendments that have been introduced by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, are for the enactment of the Old Age Pension bill or, rather, the Old Age Assistance Act, so that the Pennsylvania laws will conform with the requirements of the Federal Social Security Act and enable the recipients of old age pension and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to participate in the benefits of the Federal act.

The Federal act provides that at the age of seventy in the various states and commonwealths, they may participate to the full extent of the benefits of the Federal law, provided that the age is lowered to sixty-five by January 1, 1940.

The amendments that are now before the House are amendments on the part of the gentleman from Philadelphia in which he straddles the provision by making periodic reductions in the ages from sixty-five to seventy until 1940. The act as it is drawn provides for old age pension—from seventy and on January 1, 1940, deductions when those individuals have attained the age of sixty-five.

In the previous session of the Legislature, this House appropriated some nineteen million dollars during the biennium for the payment of old age pensions. That money was found to be sufficient and is sufficient to take care of the aged who have attained the age of seventy years. Already during this session we have passed House Bill No. 54, introduced by Mr. Diehl, which appropriates an additional one million seven hundred thousand dollars for old age assistance. With the additional one million seven hundred thousand dollars, plus the monies which the Commonwealth will receive under the Federal Security Act as their fifty percent grant from the Federal government, we will be able to take care of all the aged who have attained the age of seventy years.

Now, I was a member of this House, as well as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, at the time when there were but sixty-five Democratic members in this House, when it was found necessary to discharge the Commitee on Pensions and Gratuities from consideration of the act which is now in force. I might say that in that motion to discharge, the Democrats were joined by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, and in that session an attempt was made to increase old age appropriations from nineteen million to forty million, in order to take care of all the aged who had attained the age of seventy—just as that increase was of no effect, of no force, of no value, because this House did not provide the revenues whereby we could pay those who would come in, for the entire load, the case of case load of seventy years, so an attempt to reduce the age from seventy to sixty-five, or to do it in periodic reductions —an idle and useless attempt, unless this House provides the revenue.

Now, it might be very well and it is a very fine thing for the membership of this House to present resolutions, bills, and amendments for taking care of the aged, but it is a far more important matter to provide the funds whereby those aged can be taken care of. Here we have provided the funds in this bill, and until the other side feels that they have methods of raising the revenue to provide the additional funds which a reduction of sixty-five or a periodic reduction to sixty-five will necessitate, there is only one thing that this House can do: This House can only go along with the bill as it is written, this House can only maintain its present position of not fooling the aged by passing a bill which will provide the necessary funds, and I say to this House that those funds must be provided by legitimate taxation and not by gambling.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, whatever may be done to this amendment, I contend that if it goes through with the clause in there requiring that the aged must not quit unless he is laid off by his employer, that we are fooling the aged, because that is going to make the bill ineffective so far as the old men are concerned.

As my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers has stated, a company has a way, or employers have a way of increasing the work of the aged and compelling them to quit their jobs, and in that case they are disqualified for a pension, and I do not think it would do any harm to eliminate that clause in the bill itself.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, apparently the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Hermansen, has been guided in this matter by the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia.

They were not entirely clear.

"(g) Shall not have voluntarily relinquished or given up any gainful employment without just cause within six months preceding the date of making application for assistance."

Now, just cause: If anybody is given more work than he can possibly do, that is entirely a justifiable cause for relinquishing that employment. If the individual, due to illness, or to age, then six months prior to his application, feels that he cannot continue, he has then justifiable cause for relinquishing his work.

I might call to the attention of the membership on the other side of the House that if any individual feels that he has been aggrieved by any ruling, then he has the right to appeal. I might point out also to the other side that that right of appeal is one of the prerequisites of the Social Security Act as passed by the Federal Government, and is one of the reasons why we are now changing our Social Security Act. The 1934 Act did not contain a clause for an appeal, a decision. This act provides that any individual who feels aggrieved by any decision of the group which is administering the aged fund, be given the right of appeal. So, I feel sure that the individuals within Clause (g) have a right at law to ascertain whether or not they have been aggrieved by any of the regulations of the Department.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, how would the gentleman determine whether a man has quit for just cause or not. Is it not true that sometimes and very often a man of sixty-five is not able to do what another man might do at seventy or even seventy-five years of age. Now, if he should quit because he said that he was unable to do the work, then who would the burden of proof lie with? How would it be proved? There are other men older than he that are doing the same work, if he could not prove that he had a cancer or something like that to prevent him from doing it.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I might answer that by asking the gentleman from Luzerne a question: Does the gentleman feel that an individual who quits his employment without justifiable cause, in order to become the recipient of an old age pension, is entitled to receive an old age pension?

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, after he has reached a certain age, yes; and I know from experience that we have men today at eighty years of age that are working, and if they should receive pensions, if they quit their work, younger men could take their positions, and there are many younger men who are idle and capable of taking their places. I ask you to answer my question.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Luzerne is interrogating me as to my position on how one is to ascertain whether or not an individual has stopped his employment without justifiable cause, I might say to the gentleman from Luzerne that there is no fixed rule; it would be entirely a rule of equity rather than a rule of law, and determined by investigating each and every case, with the benefit undoubtedly in favor of the aged. I might call the attention of the gentleman from Luzerne, to the fact that if the individual is inclined to quit his employment without justifiable cause within six months of his application that would have no effect whatsoever. Upon the expiration of the six months and one day, the provision will only answer so far as the six month period is concerned and then only if he quits his employment on justifiable cause.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, what is the purpose of having that clause in there?

Mr. COHEN. I will grant you that the clause in the bill in the case of an individual seventy years of age, in good health, as the gentleman has informed this House that he knows men seventy years of age who are in good health and actively employed—that a case of an individual seventy years of age, gainfully employed, will not stop his employment without justifiable cause in order to take advantage of the assistance act. If he decides so to do, then that is true, a waiting period of six months, and then in six months and one day thereafter he is able to go on the old age assistance fund.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman think it would be profitable to this State if they permitted the man of seventy to cease work in order that a boy of eighteen might get work and get off of WPA?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I think that would be very fine, and if you will vote for more taxation bills, possibly we may be able to accomplish that end.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, that will not be necessary. They will be paying the boy more in the form of wages than we will be paying the old man from the pension fund.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to withdraw the amendment.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman withdraws his amendment.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I hand up another amendment to harmonize and correspond with the suggestion given by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia withdraw all his amendments or just the amendment in connection with Section 5?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw only that amendment on the typewritten copy, which substitutes words for lines 17 to 20, to insert in lieu thereof the lead pencil memoranda or lead pencil amendments sent up to the desk.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 5, page 3, lines 17 to 20 by striking out all of said lines, and insert in lieu thereof

(a) Has attained the age of sixty-five years and upwards.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment to the amendment?

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia realize that the appropriation act covering this special act has already passed the House?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I am in hopes that my friends on the other side will for the sake of the aged, and not at this time kidding the people, pass the appropriation act.

Mr. VANSICKLE. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman from Philadelphia vote for that appropriation act?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I will if my Democratic friends say that they will leave it out of the Committee.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, I desire the gentleman from Philadelphia to answer the question as propounded.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I will certainly offer my Democratic friends that appropriation act, I hope they will go along with it.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman from Philadelphia vote for the appropriation act which is now in the Senate and which covers this particular act?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I certainly did, and I am sorry that my friend was not paying attention to me.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia have knowledge of House Bill No. 54, making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for old age assistance which has been in the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate since May 19, Senate Bill No. 14 introduced by Mr. Frey which has been in the Committee on State Government in the Senate since May 11, and with the knowledge that the Senate has reduced the appropriation to the unemployed by two million dollars, does the gentleman, with those facts at his command, believe that the Republican majority in the Senate would vote for an increase in this particular act?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's question is very elaborate. Will he separate it? Give me a little at a time. I like homeopathic doses.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what we were trying to do. Give these things to the Senate in small doses so they would pass them. If the gentleman from Philadelphia likes it the same way, we will try to do it that way.

Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, realize that House Bill No. 54 has been in the Senate Committee on Appropriations since May 19, and that bill is a bill making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for old age assistance?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman should certainly realize that the Republican Senate is delaying passing on that bill, waiting for the Democrats in this House to comply with the Social Security Act of Roosevelt. We want the Democrats to comply with that act and take care of the aged. It is only delayed in the Senate because they have not as yet complied with the Social Security Act.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, may I ask, has the opinion of the gentleman from Philadelphia at all times during this special session been that the age limit should be sixty-five years?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, it is my firm opinion that the age limit should be sixty years, and I deeply regret that the Democrats didn't have the courage to do that at Washington, but their trouble is crying about babies.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the gentleman realizes that the time the appropriation bill was passed that it was predicated upon certain age limits set forth in the bill.

Mr. SOWERS. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I realized it; that you really slipped one over on me. I had an amendment here increasing the amount, but you want ahead a litttle too fast for me. It shows us what you can do when you put the steam roller on.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, may I suggest to the gentleman from Philadelphia that he consult with his Republican friends, pass the bill in its present form and have them make the amendments and have a conference committee appointed, and I am sure that most of the members on this side will be glad to vote for his age reduction, provided the Republican Senate will also vote to increase the amount necessary.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I certainly decline to help the Democrats out of the hole they have got themselves into. They certainly should support Roosevelt or say that Roosevelt is no good. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I regret very much the efforts of my friend from York to place on this side of the House the burden of being the cause of the aged of Pennsylvania not receiving assistance, that is, some receiving and some not. And you will remember that the Governor's appropriation bill provided for twenty millions of dollars. When it came into this House our friend from Berks, Mr. Hoopes, moved to amend that bill and make it forty millions of dollars and then my friends on the other side, with great glee and delight joined in his amendment, as well as we on this side, and that bill was passed from this House and then went to the Republican Senate, who realizing the needs of the aged and the poor and the decrepit, promptly passed that bill and sent it to the Governor, and the Governor overlooking the needs of the aged and the poor, vetoed the bill and only approved nineteen millions of dollars. And this House knows that half the people of Pennsylvania receive assistance, and the other half, equally as well qualified, go in want. Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have accommodated my friends, and I have accomodated all of them. I have accomodated everyone of them, even those who cry about babies, to give them this opportunity to serve the old, the aged and the decrepit, and I urge you to vote now, and I hope you will approve this amendment, stand by Roosevelt, stand by your Governor. Governor Earle has said in his proclamation to you, and I hope you will believe him,—"Such social legislation",—and I read this particularly to my friend from York, your leader, "social legislation to obtain the full benefits"—I will include "Roosevelt's Social Security Act",—and I hope you will go along with that and I hope you will also go along with the movement here, the amendment that is presented. to take out that trick clause which says you will give old age assistance and then insert a handle to take it back. I hope you will take that trick clause out. New York State, a Democratic State, does not have it, and no Democratic State in the United States has that clause in its old age assistance, and no Republican State ever tried to put it over.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOOMAW. Now Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman from Philadelphia tell the membership of this House approximately how much will be required during the last year of this biennium, including both State and Federal funds, to take care of all the old, aged people seventy years and upwards who will be eligible under this act?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, in answer to my friend and for the enlightment of the others, permit me to say that I do not have at my finger tips those figures, but I respectfully submit that Washington will give half the money and that my friends here in the House will furnish half the money, and that if they will stop spending money on nonsense we will feed the old.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia have any idea how much more will be needed if the age limit is reduced immediately to sixty-five.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask, has the United States borrowing capacity been exhausted?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, no, but the state's borrowing capacity is very limited.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, so are the old and hungry. Is the gentleman going to leave them to starve?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has not yet answered my question with any degree whatsoever of intelligence, but is attempting to evade the question by asking questions.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman repeat his question.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia have at those delicate finger ends—

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman start over again, and I hope that they will laugh after he has finished.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, is everybody listening? May I ask, has the gentleman from Philadelphia at the end of those delicate finger tips the slightest conception of how much more will be required if the age limit is reduced to sixty-five at the present time. Did he hear that?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I heard that. We figured in the last session, when the Governor reduced it from forty millions to nineteen millions, that it would deprive half of the people of the old age pensions; that forty millions would have taken care of everybody.

We could not when we got back home understand why the Governor reduced the amount. We have also figured in a general way that it will take about fifteen millions more from Pennsylvania and fifteen millions from Roosevelt to cover the age limit of 65.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, may I ask, is the gentleman from Philadelphia prepared to vote for, and can he safely say that the minority side of the House and the majority side of the Senate will vote for additional taxation measures in the State of Pennsylvania to provide that additional fifteen millions other than from gambling?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I don't know why the gentleman should bring in gambling. That is very prevalent in certain parts of the State. I am prepared to vote for measures that will reduce the terrific expenses on the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania such as have been incurred by this administration, the high salaries, unnecessary expenses, waste, useless ventures. Were these done away with the old would live in clover.

Mr. MOOMAW. May I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Speaker, wether or not he has introduced at this session any measures to bring about the result which he has just proclaimed is possible?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I had the bill practically finished, and I wondered if my Democratic friends would vote for it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, by that very laugh on the other side of the House you have put the very words that should have been said long ago. This talk of weeping and crying for the needy and the aged, talking about living in clover, and then applauding by a big laugh is to my mind an extreme pity. There is no need of anyone getting up and trying to draw another unhappy conclusion for the poor and aged people of the State of Pennsylvania, trying to tell them of the money they think they are going to get, something that the gentlemen on the other side know they are not prepared to give them. They know full well why the Governor cut the amount from forty million to nineteen million. It was because they did not vote the necessary tax legislation in order to give him the money to pay it, and they know full well that it will be impossible to cut the age limit to sixty-five because they are not going to vote to give him the money. They know that Pennsylvania cannot borrow the money. They know that Pennsylvania has to raise money by taxes. They know that we are not going to raise that money by taxation, so why try to kid the poor? You are not kidding the poor and you are not kidding us. We are trying to give them something that we can honestly and consciously give them. I introduced a bill that would retire them at the age of fifty, and I believe in it. I believe it is necessary under the present industrial system to retire them at an earlier age, but you can't show me where you are going to get the money. Show me where you have tax measures that you can consciously vote for. You talk about bleeding hearts for children. You insulted through your remarks one of the members who made an appeal for the children on one or two previous occasions, but you do not hear any of us taking the attitude that we are crying for the aged. I have heard that before, and I will hear it again in the future. but I am not a bit fooled, and I certainly hope that the men over here are not fooled by the bald pretense brought up by the member on the other side of the House who is trying to deliberately tell the people of the state of Pennsylvania, that he wants to give them, the aged people, something that he knows darn well that he cannot give, because he wont vote for the necessary tax bills. He has demonstrated that in the past, and I feel rather sure that as a member of his party he will demonstrate it in the future. Vote "no" on these amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SOWERS and Mr. WITKIN.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Miss BRANCATO filed the following reason for her vote:

I am voting "No" for the reason that the Republican Senate has demonstrated that they will not vote for the necessary tax legislation to raise sufficient funds needed to make the act operative.

Mr. COLEMAN filed the following reason for his vote:

I am voting "no" on Mr. Sower's amendment to House Bill No. 57 to reduce the age limit below seventy at this time due to the fact the Republican minority of the House and the Republican majority of the Senate have clearly indicated they will not support necessary revenue measures for even taking care of those of seventy years of age and upward so it is of little use to enact a measure which can not be financed.

Mr. MOOMAW filed the following reason for his vote:

I am voting no on Mr. Sower's amendment to House Bill No. 57 to reduce the age limit below seventy at this time due to the fact the Republican minority of the House and the Republican majority of the Senate have clearly indicated they will not support necessary revenue measures for even taking care of those of seventy years of age and upward so it is of little use to enact a measure which can not be financed.

Mr. MORAN filed the following reason for his vote:

I vote "No" on the amendment to change the age from 70 to 65 because no funds are available to finance it, and under the present Constitution of this Commonwealth it is impossible to tax the people best able to pay.

Mr. OMINSKY filed the following reason for his vote:

Since we are as yet not ready to provide the additional funds for the reduction in the age limit, I am voting "no" on the amendment to reduce the age limit to 65.

Mr. O'NEILL filed the following reason for his vote:

Voting "No" for the reason that the Republican Senate has demonstrated that they will not vote for the necessary tax legislation to raise sufficient funds needed to make the act operative.

Mr. SHEPARD filed the following reason for his vote:

I vote no because there were revenue measures introduced to provide for increased cost of a lower age requirement.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JUNE 2, 1936. No. 15.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JUNE 2, 1936

The Senate met at 12 o'clock noon.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Forgive us, O Lord, for taking too many things for granted. We accept unnumbered blessings from Thy hand never pausing to think whence or from whom they come. We are even prone to imagine that these bounties are ours by and in our own right. The summer's sun, the refreshing showers, the verdant fields, the abundant crops of grain and fruit soon to be harvested—all these and many other gracious gifts we accept from Thy open hand. Seldom do we look Thy way or respond to overtures of Thy love.

Which of us is worthy of all these mercies? When, because of our own improvidence or the combination of untoward circumstances, we imagine ourselves unjustly treated, how frequently do we murmur and complain. Develop within us a spirit of submission and thankfulness engendered by the knowledge that Thou art all-wise and all-loving, and doest all things well. May this spirit pervade this Senate and all our hearts, we ask in the name of our Master. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BAUMER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO INVESTIGATION OF EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Mr. GRAFF offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, June 2, 1936.

Whereas, Reports have reached members of the Senate that active attempts are being made to interfere with the orderly management of educational institutions which have been receiving financial assistance from the people of this Commonwealth and which have been striving to stamp out radicalism and the teaching of dangerous and un-American doctrines, notably the University of Pittsburgh and the Indiana State Teachers' College, and

Whereas, These attempts are construed as merely the beginning of systematic efforts to debauch the educational system of Pennsylvania, long distinguished for attainments made possible by complete freedom from political restraint, and

Whereas, The selection of executives, instructors, teachers and employes of State Teachers' Colleges of this Commonwealth has from the very beginning been free from partisan political consideration to the great benefit of the educational system, and

Whereas, Dictation of the appointment of members of a faculty of a State Teachers' College is only one step from dictation of what shall be taught, bringing forcibly to the attention of every resident of Pennsylvania a threatened menace to the free public school system heretofore so sacredly safeguarded, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate of Pennsylvania, That its Committee of Education be directed to conduct immediately a searching investigation of the situation in order that members of the Senate may be informed of the truth of the reports and the extent and character of the abuses alleged, and be it further

Resolved, That the Committee on Education shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of the chairman, requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before it and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the Courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall willfully neglect or refuse to testify before said Committee, or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases; be it further

Resolved, That the Committee on Education shall report as speedily as possible to the Senate now in Extraordinary Session the results of its inquiry.

Mr. GRAFF. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires that resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. The resolution will be referred to the Committee on Education.

MOTION TO PRINT RESOLUTION

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that the resolution just offered, be printed for the benefit of each and every Senator, that we may study it and see upon what assertion of fact the resolution is predicated.

Mr. GRAFF. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 47 (House Bill No. 1), as follows:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all penalties and interest imposed on delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided.

In order to receive the benefits of this act the taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five and all penalties and accrued interest and twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and the final twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty And provided That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent during the then current year If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this Act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this Act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums therefore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this Act.

Section 2 Any taxpayer may anticipate the payment of such delinquent taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and previous years at any time on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six by paying the entire amount of such delinquent taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six shall not be required at the time of such payment.

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes whether or not liens for such taxes have been returned for nonpayment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection of such taxes have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired and the taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred in such proceedings except the solicitors fees.

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at Sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above-mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied.

For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax.

Section 5 Any taxpayer shall have the right to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision.

Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayer a statement of the delinquent taxes owed by him to such municipal subdivisions showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE ADOPTS REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 14

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on House Resolution No. 14.

The report was read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 14

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Concurrent Resolution No. 14, House History Serial No. 18, page 39 of the House History, June 1st issue, respectfully submit the following Concurrent Resolution as our report:

THEODORE LANE BEAN
CLARENCE J. BUCKMAN
J. ALBERT REED
Committee on the part of the Senate.

HIRAM G. ANDREWS
JOSEPH DAVID BURKE
MILES HORST
Committee on the part of the House of Representatives.

Whereas, It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas, The sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes and

Whereas, There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund and the State Stores Fund therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal

Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund and the sum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Fund and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) for unemployment relief purposes and

Resolved, That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resolution (2) appropriating or reappropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the Report?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, as I understand this matter, the resolution as amended by the Senate provides an amount of approximately five million dollars for unemployment relief for the month of June, and the Conference Committee report strikes out the word "June" and leaves the time not limited, the inference apparently being—at least many seem to think—that if the State Emergency Relief Board should allege that more moneys are needed during the month of June to carry on unemployment relief, they will be provided. It is my firm belief that this sum of five million dollars is more than ample to see the Board through the month of June, if it is properly expended and economy is used, and I, under that belief—and I know that belief is shared by a number of others in the Senate. It is also my opinion that if this administration of relief were decentralized, placed in the hands of some local boards, that this amount of five million dollars per month could be materially reduced. I, therefore, want it distinctly understood that in voting for this Conference Committee report I am not pledging myself to vote for any more appropriations for the month of June.

And, the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Whereas It i. estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas The sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars $845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes and

Whereas there is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund and the State Stores Fund therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund and the sum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Fund and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars $4,086,-211.00) for unemployment relief purposes and

Resolved That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Resolved That the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass at this session of the General Assembly appropriate legislation (1) validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making the transfers authorized by this resoluti . (2) appropriating or reappropriating as the case may be to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes the sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) and many moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirt--six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution fro the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. CAPUTO asked and obtained permission of the House for the Committee on Judiciary General to meet during the session of the House in Room 325.

RESOLUTIONS

COMMENDING MISS NELLIE H. GRANGER

Mr. WEISS offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted:

In the House of Representatives, June 2, 1936.

"It was my ship. They were my passengers, and I thought I should stick by them."

These words expressed by Nellie H Granger, hostess of the ill-fated air liner "Sun Racer," clearly explain the heroic action of this Pennsylvania woman who, after surviving a crash, fatal to eleven other persons, saved the only two other survivors of this disaster, by removing them from the burning ship to a place of safety and protecting them with blankets until, in her injured condition, struggling through the mountains, she could summon aid and report the crash of her ship to her employer.

She had a determination to perform a duty which she felt was hers, she possessed a presence of mind, following this terrible disaster, that enabled her to do the right thing, and she had the will and spirit to carry on in the face of terrible physical handicaps. It is deeds like these that thrill the hearts of men and women.

Resolved, That the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania unanimously commend Nellie H. Granger for her splendid and heroic action following the fatal crash of the air liner "Sun Racer."

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives shall transmit a copy of this resolution to Nellie H. Granger, Dravosburg, Pennsylvania, to her Aunt, Mrs. Harry Baumgartner, 118 Maple Avenue, Dravosburg, Pennsylvania, and to her brother, Merrill Granger, Editor, McKeesport Daily News, McKeesport, Pennsylvania.

ADMINISTRATION OF RELIEF

Mr. WICKERSHAM offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House:

In the House of Representatives, June 2, 1936.

Whereas, It is in the interest of a sound Public Policy that employes o fthe State Emergency Relief Board, the Works Progress Administration and subordinate bodies of both should take no part in political activities; and

Whereas, It is of the utmost importance that the administration of Relief, both Direct Relief and Work Relief, be completely divorced from political influence or control; and

Whereas, One of the most vicious forms of political influence or control is the extraction from employes of State Departments, Bureaus, Boards, and other subdivisions, of so-called "voluntary" campaign contributions; and

Whereas, The Governor of this Commonwealth has not seen fit to include within the scope of his Call for the Extraordinary Session of 1936 any subject which will permit the introduction of legislation designed to prevent the extension of the "Spoils System" to the administration of Relief, Therefore, be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concurs) That it is the sense of this Assembly that the "Spoils System" should not be extended to the administration of Relief, and that no political party or candidate should solicit or accept campaign contributions from any employe of the State Emergency Relief Board, the Works Progress Administration, or any subordinate Agency, Bureau, Board, or other subdivision of either or both. And be it further

Resolved, That copies of this Resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Chairman of the Democratic and Republican State Committees and to the Chairman of the various Democratic and Republican County Committees throughout this Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens

(3) Where both the cost and the fair market price or value on January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are less than the value realized the basis for computing profit shall be the cost or the fair market price or value on January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six whichever is higher

(4) Where both the cost and the fair market price or value on January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are in excess of the value realized the basis for computing loss shall be the cost or the fair market price or value on January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six whichever is lower

Section 305 Exchange of Property Upon the sale or exchange of property in transactions the gain or profit from which is included in gross income as herein defined the entire amount of the gain or loss determined under section three hundred four of this act shall be recognized except as hereinafter provided in this section

(A) No gain or loss shall be recognized if property held for productive use in trade or business or for investment (not including stock in trade or other property held primarily for sale nor stocks bonds notes choses in action certificates of trust or beneficial interest or other securities or evidences of indebtedness or interest) is exchanged solely for property of a like kind to be held either for productive use in trade or business or for investment or if common stock in a corporation is exchanged solely for common stock in the same corporation or if preferred stock in a corporation is exchanged solely for preferred stock in the same corporation

(B) No gain or loss shall be recognized if stock or securities in a corporation a party to a reorganization are in pursuance of the plan of reorganization exchanged solely for stock or securities in such corporation or in another corporation a party to the reorganization

(C) No gain or loss shall be recognized if property is transferred to a corporation by one or more persons solely in exchange for stock or securties in such corporation and immediately after the exchange such person or persons are in control of the corporations but in the case of an exchange by two or more persons this subsection shall apply only if the amount of the stock and securities received by each is substantially in proportion to his interest in the property prior to the exchange

(D) If property (as a result of its destruction in whole or in part theft or seizure or an exercise of the power of requisition or condemnation or the threat or imminence thereof) is compulsorily or involuntarily converted into property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted or into money which is forthwith in good faith under regulations proscribed by the department expended in the acquisition of other property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted or in the acquisition of control of a corporation owning such other property or in the establishment of a replacement fund no gain or loss shall be recognized If any part of the money is not so expended the gain if any shall be so recognized but in an amount not in excess of the money which is not so expended

(E) If there is distributed in pursuance of a plan of reorganization to a shareholder in a corporation a party to the reorganization stock or securities in such corporation or in another corporation a party to the reorganization without the surrender by such shareholder of stock or securities in such a corporation no gain to the distributee from the receipt of such stock or securities shall be recognized

(F) If an exchange would be within the provisions of subsections A B or C of this section if it were not for the fact that the property received in exchange consists not only of property permitted by such subsection to be received without the recognition of gain but also of other property or money then the gain if any to the recipient shall be recognized but in an amount not in excess of the sum of such money and the fair market value of such other property

(G) If an exchange would be within the provisions of subsections A B or C of this section if it were not for the fact that the property received in exchange consists not only of property permitted by such subsection to be received without the recognition of gain or loss but also of other property or money then no loss from the exchange shall be recognized

(H) As used in this section the term "reorganization" means (1) a merger or consolidation (including the acquisition by one corporation of at least a majority of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of another corporation or substantially all the properties of another corporation) or (2) a transfer by a corporation of all or a part of its assets to another corporation if immediately after the transfer the transferor or its stockholders or both are in control of the corporation to which the assets are transferred or (3) recapitalization or (4) a mere change in identity form or place of organization however effected

The term "a party to a reorganization" includes a corporation resulting from a reorganization and includes both corporations in the case of an acquisition by one corporation of at least a majority of the voting stock and at least a majority of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of another corporation

As used in this section "control" means the ownership of at least eighty per centum of the voting stock and at least eighty per centum of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of the corporation

Section 306 Inventory Whenever in the opinion of the department the use of inventories is necessary in order clearly to determine the income of any taxpayer inventories shall be taken by such taxpayer upon such basis as the department may prescribe conforming as nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in trade or business of such taxpayer

Section 307 General Deductions In computing net income there shall be allowed as deductions

A All the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the tax year in carrying on any trade or business or in the production of income required to be included in gross income under this article including a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal service actually rendered and including rentals or other payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession for purposes of the trade or business of property to which the taxpayer has not taken or is not taking title or in which he has no equity

B All interest paid or accrued during the taxable year on indebtedness

C Taxes paid or accrued within the tax year imposed by (1) the authority of the United States or of any of its possessions (2) by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (except the net income tax imposed by this act and taxes on liquid fuels) (3) by any city borough town township school district or poor district of this Commonwealth or (4) by the authority of any other state country or territory

D Losses sustained during the tax year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise if incurred in trade or business

E Losses sustained during the tax year not compensated for by insurance or otherwise if incurred in any transaction entered into for profit through not connected with the trade or business No deduction shall be allowed under this clause for any loss claimed to have been sustained in any sale or other disposition of shares of stock or security where it appears that within thirty days before or after the date of such sale or other disposition the taxpayer has acquired (otherwise than by bequest or inheritance) or has entered into a contract or option to acquire substantially identical property and the property so acquired is held by the taxpayer for any period after such sale or disposition If such acquisition or the contract or option to acquire is to the extent of part only of substantially identical property then only a proportionate part of the loss shall be disallowed

F Losses sustained during the tax year of property not connected with the trade or business (but in case of a taxpayer other than a resident only of real property or tangible personal property having an actual situs within the State) if arising from fires storms shipwrecks or other casualty or from theft and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise

G Debts ascertained to be worthless and charged off within the tax year and when satisfied that a debt is recoverable only in part the department may allow such debt to be charged off in part In the case of a debt existing on January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six no more than its fair market value on that date shall be deducted A worthless debt arising since January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six from unpaid wages salary rent or any similar item of taxable income is not an allowable deduction unless the income which such item represents has been included as income by the taxpayer in a return rendered under this act

H A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion wear and tear of property the income from which is required to be included in gross income under this article used in the trade or business including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence In case of property held by one person for life with remainder to another person the deduction shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant In the case of property held in trust the allowable deduction shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the trustee in accordance with the pertinent provisions of the instrument creating the trust or in the absence of such provisions on the basis of the trust income allocable to each

I In the case of mines oil and gas wells other natural deposits and timber a reasonable allowance for depletion and for depreciation or improvement according to the peculiar conditions in each case such reasonable allowance in all cases to be made under rules and regulations to be made by the department The department may apportion such deductions equitably between the lessor and lessee

J In the case of a taxpayer other than a resident of the State the deduction allowed in this section shall be allowed only if and to the extent that they are connected with income arising from sources within the State and taxable under this act to a nonresident taxpayer and the proper apportionment and allocation of the deductions with respect to sources of income within and without the State shall be determined under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the department.

Section 308 Items Not Deductible In computing net income no deduction shall in any case be allowed in respect of

A Personal living or family expenses

B Any amount paid out for new buildings or for permanent improvements or betterments made to increase the value of any property or estate

C Any amount expended in restoring property or in making good the exhaustion thereof for which an allowance is or has been made or

D Premiums paid on any life insurance policy covering the life of any officer or employe or of any person financially interested in any trade or business carried on by the taxpayer when the taxpayer is directly or indirectly a beneficiary under such policy

Section 309 Credit for Taxes in Case of Taxpayers Other than Residents of the Commonwealth Whenever a taxpayer other than a resident of the Commonwealth has become liable to income tax to the state county or city where he resides upon his net income for the tax year derived from sources within this Commonwealth and subject to taxation under this act the department shall credit the amount of income tax payable by him under this act with such proportion of the tax so payable by him to the state county or city where he resides as the income subject to taxation under this act bears to his entire income upon which the tax so payable to such other state county or city was imposed Provided That such credit shall be allowed only if the laws of said state county or city (1) grant a substantially similar credit to residents of this Commonwealth subject to income tax under such laws or (2) impose a tax upon the personal incomes of its residents derived from sources in this Commonwealth and exempt from taxation the personal income of residents of this Commonwealth No credit shall be allowed against the amount of the tax of any income taxable under this act which is exempt from taxation under the laws of such other state county or city.

Amend Sec. 307, page 18, line 19, by striking out the word "then" and inserting in lieu thereof: "than"

Amend Sec. 307, page 20, line 6, by striking out the word "of"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Title, page 1, last line of title, by inserting after the word "departments" the following: "making an appropriation"

Amend Sec. 701, page 37, line 18, by striking out the words "the General Fund of"

Amend Sec. 701, page 37, line 23, by inserting after the word "available" the following: "Ninety-eight per centum of such moneys is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Public Instruction for reimbursing school districts, upon the salaries of members of the teaching and supervisory staffs of elementary schools and junior high schools, in accordance with the provisions of law."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I arise to oppose these amendments for the reason that under the twelfth point of the call of this Special Session only "Appropriations for financially distressed school districts" can be considered, and the amendments as proposed by the gentleman from Beaver do not come under that call. If they were put in by this House they would render the entire act unconstitutional, as not coming within the Governor's call. I, therefore, ask the members of this House to vote against these amendments.

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker and members of this House, it is at this time important that we follow up the action of the last regular session, wherein we passed the graded income tax law to raise money to aid distressed school districts and to relieve property owners to some extent. We would be seriously derelict in our duties at this time to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania if we neglected to follow up the gesture of the last regular session with the income tax proposition to relieve distressed taxpayers in the school districts. So, therefore, I feel that at least a part of the moneys to be derived from this flat income tax should go for school purposes, and the balance of it can go for relief. Therefore, in order to carry out our promise to the people that we would do all we could in the interest of relief not only from those suffering by reason of unemployment but for those who are suffering by reason of the heavy taxation, I will ask all of the members of the House to support these amendments.

Mr. MASON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, first, I wish to call the attention of the members to Point No. 11, in the Governor's proclamation which reads as follows: "Legislation to strengthen enforcement of existing revenue statutes and to offset adverse court decisions interpreting existing revenue statutes." I know of only one adverse court decision and that was when the Supreme Court of this State declared that Act No. 314, the graduated income tax of the last regular session, was unconstitutional.

I feel that the Legislature at this time, in special session assembled, must face the fact that we must do something to aid the distressed school districts of Pennsylvania.

Let me call your attention to what we did do at the last regular session. We passed Act No. 314 which was known as the graduated income tax act. In addition to that we passed Act 315 which provided for amendments to the Pennsylvania School Code and allowing for additional appropriations to various school districts which took advantage of certain features of the act, namely, by the reduction of the millage upon real estate and in that way they would be paid by the State an additional appropriation. In addition to that we passed Act 29-A appropriating twenty-five million dollars to be used for the aid of school districts.

Now, the Supreme Court ruled that Act 314, the graduated income tax act, was unconstitutional. The Attorney General of this State ruled subsequently that as the income tax act, the revenue raising measure, is unconstitutional, the appropriation act fell, and then following that, in the chain, he said that as the appropriation act fell, there being no appropriation, the amendments to the School Code could not be carried out. However, there has been a great difference of opinion among various attorneys and authorities as to the ruling of the Attorney General and as a result of this very great difference of opinion, you will find that approximately fifty to sixty school districts throughout this State took advantage of that twenty-five million dollars appropriation that we made, took advantage of the amendments to the School Code, cut the real estate millage and included as an estimated receipt an additional appropriation from the State to each school District. Those school districts acted in good faith, believing that the twenty-five millon dollar appropriation was still legal and believing that the amendments to the School Code were still binding and an obligation upon the State.

As I say, there is no doubt in my mind that there will be tested in court the question as to whether or not the State can pay to the school districts who took advantage of the act the amount that they have figured as an estimated receipt in accordance with the formula prescribed in the School Code, and we must face it in this special session of the Legislature or every school district whose fiscal year begins next July first and ends on June 30th of the following year, which has figured that estimated receipt on the basis of Act 315 will not receive any moneys from the State. It is our pledge that we made at the regular session, and I urge you to vote for these amendments of the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Reising, because in doing so we will fulfill the pledge that we made at our regular session.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. VANSICKLE and Mr. REISING and were as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1936. No. 16.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1936.

The Senate met at 12 o'clock noon.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

We pray, O God, that our lives may be in harmony with our prayers. In time of need, distress or danger we are prone to invoke Thy help and then too often we live so that it is impossible for Thee to grant our petitions and Thou art more anxious to give than we are to receive. We are promised that if we ask we shall receive, if we seek we shall find, if we knock the door will be opened unto us. Most of our prayers would be automatically answered if we would but live in accord with Thy standards and deliver us O God from lip worship. As we daily face life's duties and responsibilities lead us to knowledge of Thy will and enable us to humbly follow the guidance of Thy Spirit. We ask these things in the name of Thy Son. Amen.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY

Cecil R. Montgomery, Greensburg.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO TRANSFERRING MONEY FROM CERTAIN DEPARTMENTS TO THE DEPARTMENT OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS

Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution, which was twice read, and referred to the Committee on State Government:

Whereas, Large sums of money are necessary to finance relief

Whereas, The pyramiding of taxes to obtain such money is distressing to taxpayers

Whereas, There are some functions of State Government that can be curtailed and the money saved by such curtailment can be used for relief

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau be instructed to draft bills to transfer to the Department of Internal Affairs all state departments and bureaus that are not essential to the orderly conduct of state business and to maintain the same at the minimum cost to the people of this Commonwealth. Such transfer to continue during this biennium.

REQUESTING COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS TO OBTAIN CERTAIN INFORMATION RELATIVE TO METHODS USED IN ADMINISTERING RELIEF IN NEW JERSEY

Mr. GELDER offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, June 3, 1936.

Whereas, It is reported in the newpapers a substantial reduction in the number of cases on relief has resulted from a change in the system of administering relief in the State of New Jersey; and

Whereas, The reduction in the number of relief cases has brought about a remarkable decrease in the cost of administering relief, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of Pennsylvania that the Appropriations Committee of the Senate be directed to ascertain from official sources in New Jersey causes for the decline in relief cases and the cost of administration together with information as to the methods used.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rules 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. The Resolution will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I am in favor of this resolution, but I want to have time to read it and study it. I think it ought to be amended, and we should ask the State of New Jersey what has been the effect on the poor in New Jersey since they have had the reduction.

MOTION TO PRINT

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I move that the resolution just read be printed.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. LAW, read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 65, entitled:

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE SECRETARY OF REVENUE

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, June 3, 1936.

To The President of the Senate:

In reply to the resolution adopted by the Senate of Pennsylvania on May 26, 1936 the following is respectfully submitted:

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX—Act 182

Between 450,000 and 500,000 Personal Property Tax Returns have been received.

It is impossible to estimate the total of taxable Personal Property disclosed on these returns as this would necessitate an expenditure of at least $20,000 for extra clerical hire and would require two weeks additional work. The first five counties, namely: Adams, Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver and Bedford show a total of taxable Personal Property on such return to equal $600,000,000. Upon this basis we would estimate that the total of taxable Personal Property in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be $6,500,000,000 to $8,000,000,000.

The estimate of the Department is that the total amount of this tax will equal between $6,500,000 to $8,000,000 for those returns filed for the year 1936 and if the tax is not made self-assessing approximately $1,500,000 for the year 1937.

CORPORATE NET INCOME TAX—Act 91

The Department of Revenue has received approximately 300,000 Corporate Net Income Returns to date.

The total amount of Corporate Net Income assignable to Pennsylvania upon those returns so far submitted to the Department equal $215,935,385 up to May 28, 1936.

It is estimated that this Act will bring in approximately $13,500,000 for the first year of the biennium and as it is a self-assessing Act, approximately the same total for the second year of the biennium.

The total collections under this Act to May 1, 1936 amounts to $7,799,680.93. The Department of Revenue estimates the total amount of tax collected from this Act will be approximately $8,500,000 for the first year of the biennium and $10,000,000 for the second year of the biennium.

To give a more complete picture of the situation the Documentary Stamp Tax Act No. 90 as amended by Act No. 184 was estimated to yield during the biennium $3,500,000. Due to the amendments to this Act the yield for the first year of the biennium will be approximately $414,705. It is estimated that this tax will yield in the second year of the biennium about $450,000; making a total yield for the biennium $864,705. This will show a deficit from the estimated yield of this Act of $2,655,295.

Capital Stock Tax

(Domestic)—Collections from this tax to May 30, 1936 have been $18,590,788. It is estimated that if valuations on the type of corporations subject to this tax remain the same for 1937 as they are at present, namely: for the year 1936 a deficit of between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 might reasonably result.

Very truly years,

(s) RAYMOND E. EVLETH,
Deputy Secretary of Revenue for JOHN B. KELLY, Secretary of Revenue.

RECESS

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELDER, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, the following Resolution:

In the Senate, June 3, 1936.

Whereas, It is reported in the newspapers a substantial reduction in the number of cases on relief has resulted from a change in the system of administering relief in the State of New Jersey, and

Whereas, The reduction in the number of relief cases has brought about a remarkable decrease in the cost of administering Relief, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of Pennsylvania that the Appropriations Committee of the Senate be directed to ascertain from official sources in New Jersey causes for the decline in relief cases and the cost of admniistration together with information as to the methods used and the effect on the relief of actual distress.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I wish to withdraw my objection. The resolution has been amended to meet my wishes.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution.

It was agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF MOTION TO PRINT

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which it was agreed to print the resolution just reported from committee.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring

Will the Senate agree to the motion to print?

The motion was not agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. THOMPSON. (Centre). Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, in spite of all of the jesting that my good friend from Bucks County indulged in when I rise to a point of personal privilege, I still feel that the matter which I want to discuss is of very serious importance to the public of Pennsylvania. As I arise this morning, I cannot help but remember that old Greek motto, that "Whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad."

Last week in the hall of this Senate we saw a deliberate and studied attempt to encroach upon the right of free speech, which is guaranteed to every person in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by our Constitution, which last year was held up as being so sacred to us. This week we have seen a continuance of the same policy. This morning the Owlett Committee met downstairs in 'star chamber' session. This Committee, as we have seen, not only this week, but is first, last and all time a packed jury to dispose of the problems which they presume to take into consideration. This morning they met substantially behind closed doors. When a member of the Governor's Cabinet, Mr. Guy Swope, when he was attacked by a man who was called before the Committee, when he requested the right to cross-examine this witness and to appear in his own defense, he was denied this right. And who was the man who was called? A man who is a rubber goods salesman around the streets of Harrisburg, without any background, was permitted to attack a member of the Governor's Cabinet who was refused a chance to cross-examine this man in the right to answer the charges that this witness makes. We saw this morning in this 'star chamber' Committee meeting the W. P. A. Director in this area attacked and likewise refused a chance to appear in his own defense and to cross-examine this witness. But I think the crowning indiscretion that we permit in this Senate is the action of the Committee as a whole.

This morning the Federal Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania made an order, which I want to read. This order was made in a legitimate orderly proceeding in the Federal Court and signed by the Federal Judge and decreed as an order of the Federal Court: "Now, therefore, it is ordered that you, the said G. Mason Owlett, John R. K. Scott, George L. Reed and Charles Staudenmeier, individually and as members of an investigating committee, appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by the presumed authority of Senate Resolution No. 1 of the Extraordinary Session of 1936, and all other persons whosoever acting, or presuming to act, under and by virtue of the said resolution of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or on behalf of the said Committee, your agents, servants, attorneys, employes or representatives in any capacity, and all persons acting by or under your direction or authority, be and you are hereby especially restrained and enjoined from issuing or serving any subpoenas for the appearance of any persons before you, your agents, servants, attorneys, employes or representatives, or any other persons for the purpose of investigating the organization, administration and functioning of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, and you are hereby enjoined, individually and as members of the Investigating Committee of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by your agents, servants, attorneys and employes, from conducting, or attempting to conduct, any investigation whatsoever respecting in any manner the organization, administration and functioning of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, and so forth.

Dated this third day of June, 1936.

ALBERT W. JOHNSON, U. S. District Judge."

Mr. President, you know and I know that the Judge who signed this order is not actuated by any political motive in making an order of this kind. What did this 'packed jury' that met in 'star chamber' session downstairs do? Just deliberately thumbs its nose at the United States Court, the Constitution and every other agency of the Federal Court. Now, certainly, when we in the Senate presume to defy the laws, the Constitution and the Courts of the United States and of this Commonwealth, and everything else, certainly when we can fritter away our time here for weeks, it reminds me that we are coming to a pass in our legislative halls of this Commonwealth comparable to the most tyrannical execution to cure of the Czar before the days of the Russian Revolution. Certainly this Committee, sitting week after week, if it were on the level, Mr. President, and was not entirely for the purpose of generating fallacious propoganda, would have obeyed the mandate of the Federal Court; but it choose, after this order of Court was served upon them, to meet and call these fictutuous witnesses and those on the payroll of this Committee, called these witnesses for the purpose of condemning men who are principally men who are trying to do their work, and to deliberately deny an opportunity to a member of the Governor's Cabinet the right to be heard in his defense before this Committee.

Mr. President, I say it is high time that the Senate of Pennsylvania cuts out actions of this kind and acts in accordance with the law and in accordance with the Constitution and in accordance with the mandates of the people of Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE WORKS PROGRESS ADMINITRATION TO MAKE REPORTS

Mr. CAVALCANTE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

Whereas, ugly reports are afoot over this Commonwealth, that the Special Committee of this Senate, appointed to investigate the functioning of the Works Progress Adminisration in Pennsylvania, has exceeded its authority and is being financed with monies donated to it by a group of individuals some of which reside within and some without this Commonwealth, who are steadily and systematically plotting the overthrow of the Democratic Government of the people, both State and Federal, and

Whereas, these ugly reports charge that said Special Committee of the Senate seek and harbor the finance, counsel and guidance of said group so that it may further its designs, and

Whereas, reports of this character directly undermine the confidence of the people of this Commonwealth in the integrity of this Senate,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, that said Special Committee of this Senate make report of the truth or falsity of these reports on Monday, June 8, 1936, and that thereafter said Committee make a report of its authority, finances, expenditures and findings to this Senate on every Monday until its activities are concluded.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, objection having been made, I now move that we proceed to the immediate consideration of this resolution.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I arise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his point of order.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, my point of order is that this resolution, under the rules, must be referred to a Committee, unless unanimous consent be given, or that rule is suspended by a two-thirds vote of the members present.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in order to clarify this, I move that the rules be suspended and that we proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I second the motion.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until next Monday evening, at nine o'clock.

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—5

Buckman,	Thompson,	Trainer,	Homsher.
Gelder,	(Westmoreland)		Pres. Pro. Tem.

NAYS—15

Cavalcante,	Lanius,	Prince,	Rodgers,
Frey,	Law,	Pytko,	Ruth,
Harris,	McCreesh,	Rankin,	Thompson,
Huffman,	McGinnis,	Roberts,	(Centre)

So the question was determined in the negative.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I arise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his point of order.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, my point of order is that less than a majority of the Senators being present and answering to their names, the Senate must adjourn.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules that the point of order is well taken.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I would like to call attention of the Chair to two things: In the first place, that you do not need a quorum of the Senate to act upon the question of adjournment. Any number that is present can act either to adjourn or not to adjourn. If the Chair wishes it to be verified and gives me a couple of minutes, I think I can refer to Jefferson's Manual and find it.

In the second place, I would like to call the attention of the Chair to the fact that there is a quorum of the Senate present at this time.

Mr. President, let me call attention to Article 2, Section 10, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania—and we still have a Constitution:

"A majority of each House shall constitute a quorum, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has decided that the Senate is not adjourned.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until next Monday evening at nine o'clock.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I arise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, no business of this Senate has intervened since the motion to adjourn has been defeated, and another motion to adjourn is not in order until some business of the Senate intervnes.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, a motion to adjourn is always in order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules that a motion to adjourn is always in order.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, due to the fact that we have so many important bills which have been referred to committees—a lot of important bills were sent back to committee this morning, which have not been reported out—I think we are not justly doing our duty in adjourning at this time.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and Mr. THOMPSON (Centre).

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows, viz:

YEAS—19

Aron,	Gelder,	Pierson,	Thompson,
Batchelor,	Graff,	Reed,	(Westmoreland)
Bean,	Howell,	(Dauphin)	Trainer,

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. WICKERSHAM

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 20.

In the House of Representatives, June 2, 1936.

Whereas, It is in the interest of a sound Public Policy that employes of the State Emergency Relief Board, the Works Progress Administration and subordinate bodies of both should take no part in political activities; and

Whereas, It is of the utmost importance that the administration of Relief, both Direct Relief and Work Relief, be completely divorced from political influence or control; and

Whereas, One of the most vicious forms of political influence or control is the extraction from employes of State Departments, Bureaus, Boards, and other subdivisions, of so-called "voluntary" campaign contributions; and

Whereas, The Governor of this Commonwealth has not seen fit to include within the scope of his Call for the Extraordinary Session of 1936 any subject which will permit the introduction of legislation designed to prevent the extension of the "Spoils System" to the administration of Relief, Therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That it is the sense of this Assembly that the "Spoils System" should not be extended to the administration of Relief, and that no political party or candidate should solicit or accept campaign contributions from any employe of the State Emergency Relief Board, the Works Progress Administration, or any subordinate Agency, Bureau, Board, or other subdivision of either or both. And be it further

Resolved, That copies of this Resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Chairman of the Democratic and Republican State Committees and to the Chairman of the various Democratic and Republican County Commitees throughout this Commonwealth.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION

Miss BRANCATO offered a resolution which was filed under the rules with the Clerk.

STATEMENT BY MR. HINDMAN.

Mr. HINDMAN asked and obtained unasimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on last Sunday an article appeared in one of the Pittsburgh papers which I felt would be of interest to this House, and taking it as a basis I felt that I should make a statement.

The heading of the article was: "State Legislatures Get Little Done at Special Session—Members to Miss Big Conventions."

"Both National Conventions may go merrily along, but they'll do so without the benefit of Pennsylvania Legislators. For the Legislature is going to remain in session it seems.

"It has been meeting for four weeks now, that is, legislative weeks. It could have had relief, flood control, social security, and rehabilitation of state institutions—its major problems, solved by now, had the members applied themselves.

"Only one bill has passed the State Senate and that, the appropriation to pay the Legislators for visiting Harrisburg, Monday nights and Tuesday, tossing a few verbal bricks, playing the marble machines in the hotel lobbies or seeing a floor show and then returning home.

"As the result of this dilly-dallying, the Democrats will not recess for the Republican National Convention, which begins Tuesday of next week in Cleveland, nor will they recess for the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia, June 23. This refusal to recess on the basis that Legislation for Relief is more important than attending Conventions, will disappoint many Legislators and others."

This will give us some idea of the impression that we, of this Legislature, are giving the citizens of our State, and who, of this body, can say not deservingly so, at least, in part, particularly in the light of what has transpired in the past two weeks.

We have been repeatedly and vociferously told by our Republican leaders, how badly and inefficiently relief has been handled in Pennsylvania by the Democrats and how viciously the WPA was being handled in the interests of the Democratic party. I would remind these gentlemen that it was we Democrats and not Republicans who first called attention to the short-comings of the Relief Organization in the State, and this, in no indefinite terms.

I have gone into this relief situation very carefully and believe I am qualified to talk about it, in support of the statement which I have just made. ,

I would direct your attention to the statement I made on the floor of this House, May 27, 1935. In that statement, I told you that relief in Pennsylvania was infested with politics of the rottenest sort and the then director of relief, Mr. Johnson, was ruled, guided and directed by the same old relief organization which was so adroitly built up by former Governor Pinchot. This statement still holds.

Mr. Johnson, himself a Republican, saw fit to retain this organization. Since that time, he has attempted to crucify the State Administration as well as the National Administration. He has proved to be a real "Judas" to the Administration to which he was indebted for his appointment and of which he naturally was a part.

As to the charge made by our opponents, that the Governor of this State was playing politics with relief, I wish to brand as false. I am convinced that he has been actuated by the highest motives and ideals. If he can be charged with anything, it is that he has bent over backwards in his sincere efforts to keep politics out of relief. One of the strongest points in support of this, was his appointment and his retention of his first relief administrator.

I would call to your attention, the report of the Investigating Committee who investigated relief conditions in Washington and Greene Counties.

This Committee was composed of members of this House. I should like especially to call attention to part of the final paragraph of that report:

> "Your committee recommends a complete change in the Relief Organization, beginning in Harrisburg and ending in Washington and Greene Counties."

Permit me to remind you, ladies and gentlemen, that the members of this Committee were all Democrats.

It appears that there is a discord between the two branches of this Legislative Body that should not exist. Certainly it is incompatible with efficiency and proper achievement. Can it not be worked out?

Our Bible tells us that "a house divided against itself cannot stand". Can we by any stretch of the imagination believe that we are an exception to this truth?

Be this as it may, members of the House, let's get together in an honest and earnest endeavor to work out the problems for which we were assembled, with dignity and dispatch. Let us forget for the moment at least, that we are Democrats, Republicans or Socialists. Let us remember that we are Representatives of all the people of this Commonwealth, that we are all Pennsylvanians and that we are not here to solve problems of any particular group but to concertedly work out our problems in the best interests of all the people, not because we are being criticised, but because of the fact that before God and the people, it is right. Let's Go!

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 30, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article three of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 85, entitled:

An Act to safeguard persons receiving or entitled to public relief from political coercion and to prevent political promises in return for public relief and prescribing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 101, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section one article eighteen of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 110, entitled:

An Act providing that no person shall be denied refused or have discontinued direct or work relief for the reason that such person has received payment of a World War adjusted service certificate and providing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs for the purpose of further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, Mr. Roan, one of the sponsors of this bill, is not in the House at the present time. Earlier this morning Mr. Cohen spoke to me about this bill. I talked to Mr. Roan, and in view of the fact that it was on the first reading calendar, it seemed to me it was not necessary to make any motion at this time to recommit or do any thing else with this bill. In fairness it should be allowed to ride over until Monday, when it would be on the second reading calendar, and there would then be plenty of time and opportunity for some of the persons on the other side to ascertain the opinions of some of the service bdies, and in view of the fact that Mr. Roan is not here to attend to that, and in view of the fact that I asked that it be allowed to ride over, I would ask that Mr. Eberharter withdraw his motion at this time, and I will get in contact with Mr. Roan.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I might say that the motion to refer back to committee was made after consultation with one of the sponsors of the bill, Mr. Murrin. However, in view of the fact that Mr. Roan, the other sponsor is not present, I will be glad to withdraw my motion to recommit at this time.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 83, as follows:

An Act relating to the keeping of animals wild by nature in captivity upon any street or highway or upon land adjoining any street or highway or in vicinity of any commercial establishment for the evident purpose of attracting trade preventing cruel improper and inhuman treatment of such animals and protecting the public from injuries thereby providing for the granting of permits for roadside menageries as herein defined conferring powers and imposing duties on the Board of Game Commissioners and prescribing penalties

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

STATEMENT BY MR. McCREARY

Mr. McCREARY asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on two different occasions since I have been a member of this House, I have heard two members rise in their place and very fervently and reverently thank God that they were not lawyers. That is the first time that I ever knew that God had anything to do with lawyers.

I haven't reached the point where I want to say that, but I have almost reached the point where I want to thank God that there are not any more lawyers in this House than there are.

For about four weeks the rest of us, common run-of-mine fellows, have sat around and heard lawyers scrap, fight, and quarrel and yowl like cats on the back fence, and we were helpless to help ourselves. After these lawyers had fought back and forward for a while and had gotten themselves all tangled up in parliamentary procedure, then they had to call an editor over here to go up on the Speaker's rostrum and straighten out the snarl, and I am going to go on record as being in favor of swapping some of our lawyers off for some editors. And then if in the future we elect some more lawyers as members of this House, let us elect some good ones, lawyers who know enough to draw up a bill that means what it says and says what it means, so that the common man can understand it and not have to have it amended three or four times, and vote on the amendments, and amend the amendments until when we finally get a chance to record our votes, we don't know what in Hades we are voting for.

The first thing we know the Pennsylvania Legislature will be in the same fix as they are in Washington; they haven't had a lawyer down there, evidently, that knows enough to draw up a bill that is constitutional, and I don't know where they are going to land, nor where we are going to land, but it certainly does not look very favorable in a land flowing with milk and honey, where everybody has a competency and where the New Deal at last came into flower.

The reason I am sore at lawyers is this, gentlemen: two weeks ago last Monday night I introduced a bill and a resolution. I am convinced that they both came under the call of the Governor, and they were both entitled to come out on the floor of this House and have the deliberation of this body. I asked when I introduced the resolutin, not that it be considered immediately, but simply made the request that it be read for the information of the members of this House, and I think if the lawyers had sat still it would have been, but immediately somebody got up and objected and that started a fight that lasted about two hours, I guess, about four times as long as it would have taken to read the resolution, and when they got through, they didn't know what they had voted about, and neither did they know what the resolution was about, and they don't know now.

I say that both the bill and resolution came under the call of the Governor, because they were both revenue measures and economy measures, and the Lord knows we need both of they and need them mighty bad. Now, two weeks and three days have come and gone and that bill and that resolution still remain in the subterranean archives of the Ways and Means Committee.

I have contacted the Chairman of that committee every day since, and he has promised to do what he could, so you may know how helpless he is. He has just called a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee today, asked permission to take this committee out of this House and go into conference. I contacted him just before he left so that he would not forget it. I said, "Can't you get this resolution out of the committee?" I thought this was a government of majority rule. Instead of that it is decided within the locked doors of the committee room.

And do you know what one of the finest legislators in this whole United States said about that? That is George W. Norris, United States Senator from Nebraska. He said the committee room is the invisible government of our United States, and if this representative government of ours ever fails, it will founder on the rock of invisible government conducted in the committee room.

You know and I know that for years there has been a tradition in the Senate and in the House, both Republican for forty years, never to discharge a committee. It is contrary to the ethics of politics, but not to common sense, and not to representative government.

Representative government means a government by, for and of the people, but a representative government here is represented in this House by two hundred eight men and fifty over in the Senate. Then by what right and authority do twelve men go into a room and decide whether a bill comes out on the floor or whether it does not? And they tell you time and again that it is six votes one way and six the other. And then what? We discharged a committee of this House during this session despite tradition and I think God had something to do with that in spite of the lawyers.

Now, I am only one of two hundred eight; I represent a fourth class county with one hundred seventy-five thousand people. I am sent down here to try to represent them, and I hate to be thwarted by a few people in the committee room that will not even send my resolution out on the floor of this House or let the rest of the members know what it is about.

I would be glad, gentlemen, and I believe it would be representative government, if every bill that is introduced came out on the floor of the House. I would be willing to pay five dollars apiece to cover printing for every bill that I ever introduced, for the sake of having it come out here and be discussed by the representatives of the people in this session. That is what I call representative government; vote it up or vote it down; amend it if it requires it, but when you are through you have got the consensus of opinion of the members of this House, who represent the ten million people back in the sixty-seven counties of the State. That is representative government and not the invisible government under which we are now working.

Now, I tell you frankly, I am not asking favors nor expecting any, but I do want the thing that the Democrats call the square deal or the new deal,—I don't care which adjective you apply, but I want both a square deal and a new deal. I want when I introduce a bill in good faith, that comes under the clause of the Governor's call, —I want it to come out on the floor of the House. I want to have a group of my peers to decide whether that should be amended or whether it should pass as it is or should be killed, and if the majority vote is to kill it, I am satisfied, but I am not satisfied to sit here for four weeks and hear a lot of lawyers scrap over parliamentary rules that don't amount to a cuss, and not let a resolution such as mine get out of the committee room.

That is my statement, gentlemen, and I thank you for your courtesy.

STATEMENT BY MR. FLINCHBAUGH

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I was not here to hear the opening remarks of my good friend Mr. McCreary. Mr. McCreary has been a very personal friend of mine ever since he has been in this Legislature, since we have learned to know each other. I admire all the members from Erie County; I have a very high regard for the County of Erie and the northwestern part of the State, whose shores are lapped by the waters of Lake Erie, in which are those delicious, delectable white fish, which I had the pleasure of helping to eat, by the gratuity of some of the members from Erie.

The County of Erie is a great county, and the County of Erie is where the ladies are attractive—in fact where they are attractive enough at least to attract the attention of the eligible bachelors of Erie County.

I want to assure the gentleman from Erie County that it is not the desire of the Ways and Means Committee to pickle any of his bills. We just returned from the Ways and Means Committee where one of his bills was given serious and earnest consideration, but in view of the voluminous matter in the bill and in view of the fact that it covers a subject that is entirely new to the members of this House, and desiring to be enlightened upon the subject matter of that bill, the committee decided that we were going to extend the courtesy of the committee to the member from Erie County in order that at some future date he might appear and explain it to the committee in all its details in order that we might act more intelligently upon the bill.

The resolution which he proposes, we did not have time to consider, because a messenger from the House came up and asked us to retire to the Chamber of the House in order to transact its business.

As I started to say, I was unfortunately out at the beginning of the remarks of the gentleman from Erie, and his opening remarks were entirely lost on me, because I was not here to listen to all that political oratory and fine diction and the flow of speech which the member from Erie is so well able to deliver.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 44, Printer's No. 101, on page 4 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. HOLLAND,

The House resumed consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 44, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred and one of the act approved the twenty-second day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred fifty-three) entitled "An act relating to taxation designating the subjects property and persons subject to and exempt from taxation for all local purposes providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of persons property and subjects of taxation for county purposes and for the use of those municipal and quasi-municipal corporations which levy their taxes on county assessments and valuations amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto and repealing existing laws" making the real estate of public service companies with certain exceptions subject to taxation for school purposes

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

HOUSE BILL No. 44 MADE SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be made a special order of business on Monday evening, June 8, 1936, at 10:00 o'clock.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the ayes appeared to have it. Whereupon, a division was called for, eighty-nine members having voted in the affirmative and thirty-nine in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. KOBELAK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 57, Printer's No. 70, on page 2 of today's calendar, bills on third reading which was passed over this morning.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 57, entitled:

An Act providing for and regulating assistance to and the burial of certain aged indigent persons and the administration of this act by the Department of Welfare and the boards of trustees of the mother's assistance funds of the several counties authorizing the Department of Welfare to cooperate with and to accept and disburse monies received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons authorizing the appointment of trustees for certain persons providing for the recovery of monies expended for assistance in certain cases providing penalties and repealing inconsistent acts.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, this is the Administration old age assistance bill which has included in it features that are unknown to assistance laws in many states. It seems to me that it is just a humble gesture to make good under the Governor's call. While I cannot vote "no" on this bill, yet I regret that my Democratic friends do not accept the statement of the Governor in full and give the aged of Pennsylvania the full benefit of the National Security Law. The Governor's proclamation has gone out and gone all over the State. I know down in my district, my people expect the Democratic Party to work with the Republican Party in this House and give the aged at sixty-five the benefit that President Roosevelt talked so much about. If the Democratic Party sees fit, I will do the best I can with my friends on this side of the House to refer back this bill to committee so that it can be amended to harmonize with the National Security Act.

Mr. WASSERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I listened on Monday evening to the discussion on the amendments offered by my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers. When these amendments were offered, my friends on the other side of the House took the attitude that because they are offered by a Republican they ought not to receive serious consideration. I have been in this House since the session of 1933, and I remember very vividly how we worked on this side of the House to put across the Old Age Assistance Law. When I read of the passage of the Federal Security Act I was very much pleased, because I felt at that time not only would Pennsylvania have the Old Age Assistance Law, but all the other states of the Union might follow suit, but when this act was introduced, and I understand it is an Admisistration measure, I thought it would surely be a more liberal measure than the one we have on our statute books today.

When I look at Section 5, sub-section (g), and we find a provision in the act "shall not have voluntarily relinquished or given up any gainful employment without just cause within six months preceding the date of making application for assistance"—I clearly realized that we are not liberalizing the law, but we are drawing it farther away from the aged person.

I have no fault to find with that person who desires to make sure that only the needy receive pensions or gratuities from the State, but when a person has worked a half a century in this State or any state, I think he should have the privilege of retiring and saying to his fellow men, "I am entitled to some retirement annuity," and if he is indigent this provision raises a great deal of discussion, raises a great deal of doubt for the aged.

I am of the opinion that the social workers and investigators on the Old Age Assistance Fund are really opposed to such a provision. It will place many applications for Old Age Assistance in doubt. If we truly intend to assist the aged, let us liberalize the present law, and certainly not hamstring, as we are doing in this case.

Of course we must vote for it; we must vote for it because the Federal Government promises us that if we bring our act in conformity with the Federal Act that we will get the benefits of the Federal Act, but this provision is certainly unwarranted, certainly not needed, and if anything questions very much the sincerity of those who want to liberalize the social laws of this State.

Mr. YOURISHIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am surely pleased to hear the Republicans in this House making a statement now that they are for a liberal, a really liberal Old Age Pension.

I am one of those fellows who has always stood for liberal Old Age Pensions, but what I cannot understand is some of my Republican friends at this late day criticising the President of the United States for not doing this or not doing that. It is possible that if it had not been for President Roosevelt, maybe some of these same Republicans who are now criticising him because of the fact that the Social Security Act was passed by the Federal Government, might not have been so liberal in offering amendments to the Old Age Pensions. I can very well remember when the Republican organization in this State was in power, when there was a resolution presented here, and up for final passage to give the people of the State of Pennsylvania the privilege of voting and telling the Legislature that we want Old Age Pensions in Pennsylvania, and the Republican controlled House and Senate at that time refused to pass that resolution. They say, why didn't President Roosevelt do this and why didn't President Roosevelt do that. I wonder why under a Republican administration in Washington that there was no such thing as Social security offered during their administration? Why criticise? I believe that it should be more liberal. I always did believe in it, but I do not believe in criticising a man who is trying his damndest to do something for the country, trying to do something for the aged of this State of ours, and because the National or the Federal Social Security Act provides that the State must pass laws to conform to it, some of our friends are now complaining because they are not more liberal.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. MURRIN. HOUSE BILL No. 121.

An Act to further amend the act approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 1172), entitled "An act establishing certain streets in boroughs and incorporated towns as State highways and providing for their construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth."

Referred to the Committee on Highways.

By Mr. BAINE. HOUSE BILL No. 122.

An Act to suspend the laws of this Commonwealth authorizing the collection of local taxes by distress and sale of goods and chattels.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. LONGAKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. LONGAKER. Mr. Speaker, I find on page 260 of the Legislative Journal that I am recorded as voting "aye" on House Bill No. 26. I voted "no" and wish to be so recorded.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire whether the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, has asked for leave of absence from today's session.

The SPSAKER. The Chair will inquire of the Chief Clerk.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, perhaps it was my fault that a leave of absence was not asked for for the gentleman from Philadephia, Mr. Witkin. Yesterday afternoon he asked me if I would be here,—that he had to go back to Philadelphia. I therefore ask for leave of absence for my colleague, Mr. Witkin, and also Mr. Blumberg.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman to yield to permit me to ask for leave of absence in order to allow me to return the favor of last week.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman form Delaware, Mr. Turner, yield to the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I never like to yield to the gentleman from Berks, but in this instance, as he is only trying to do the Alphonse and Gaston act I will yield.

Mr. HOOPES. I thank the gentleman from Delaware. I desire to ask leave of absence for the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

SENATE

MONDAY, JUNE 8, 1936

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O Thou the God of all mankind, through David the "sweet singer of Israel" Thou didst say to Thy chosen people, "Be still and know that I am God." In this age of turmoil and uncertainty we need that sane message. Amid the confusion and clamor of twentieth century life, assailed by depression and conflicting opinions, with the crash of social, moral and spiritual warfare filling the very atmosphere in which we move, it is indeed difficult for us to exercise sane judgment and reach just conclusions.

Our supreme need is the sane quietude about which David sang. Bestow it upon us, our Father. May these few moments of prayer at the beginning of each legislative day quicken our ears to hear the still small voice of Jehovah calling us to fight for righteousness and truth. Hear us in the name of Thy son. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. Huffman, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Roberts.

Mr. GELDER asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

Mr. HUFFMAN asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Lycoming, Mr. Sones.

Mr. HARVEY asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni.

PETITION

Letter to the President of the Senate from William H. Ridgway, manufacturer of Coatesville, relative to taxation measures now in the hands of the Finance Committee of the Senate.

Which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Cumberland will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President, despite the epithets and hostile adjectives hurled by some of the gentlemen on your right, Mr. President, at all the gentlemen on your left, I have sharpened no oratorical ax with which to decapitate either the Senator from Fayette or the Senator from Centre. I merely wish to make a few observations on a subject of paramount and compelling interest.

At the start I want to say that I believe the Governor of this State is actuated by altruistic and humanitarian motives, and that he can truthfully repeat with Abou Ben Adham to the angel writing in the book of gold: "Write me as one who loves his fellow men." I believe his ambition is to see inscribed upon the tablets of our law, enactments which shall realize the desideratum of our idealistic American political philosophy, "equal rights for all, special privileges for none." I believe that in setting the amount of money to be raised in this Extraordinary Session at approximately $80,000,000, Governor Earle wanted to insure enough funds to provide for legitimate needs until the next regular session of the Legislature. But apparently he sees only the foreground and not the background of the picture; only the unemployed, whether by their fault or by their misfortune, and not the struggling and almost submerged taxpayer who is hard put to feed and clothe himself and family. In his expressed desire and determination to care for the destitute, the Republican senators heartily concur; but they arrive at a different mathematical conclusion, and they prefer a method less burdensome to the public than an exclusive resort to new taxes. It seems to me regrettable that when the Governor issued his summons to the Special Session, he failed to recommend the permanent reduction of overhead expense and the elimination of useless or superfluous agencies of State government.

It was well pointed out in a recent article in the Harrisburg Telegraph that Republicans and Democrats take two distinct attitudes on the question of relief policies and expenditures. As an administrative problem, Republicans look at it primarily from the standpoint of the taxpayer; Democrats, primarily from the standpoint of the welfare worker—at least, in its theoretical aspect. From the Democratic point of view, the S. E. R. A. is an industry which provides regular employment for 7500 persons who may be described as professional social workers. Their salaries represent the bulk of S. E. R. A.'s monthly administration expenses and total the better part of a million dollars. In addition to this impressive force—the size of an army brigade on a war-time footing—thousands more are employed to supervise and direct the distribution of work relief through W. P. A. The salaries and administrative expenses in that set-up are generally higher than in the S. E. R. A. but definite figures have not been available because of the persistent secrecy maintained in the State and district offices of the W. P. A. However, the combined S. E. R. A. and W. P. A. personnel at the present time cannot be far from 14,500 which was the peak reached by S. E. R. A. in July, 1935, when that organization was handling both direct and work relief. It is hardly likely that Democratic leaders are unanimously sympathetic with the social welfare argument incorporated in State Emergency Relief plans, but it may be fairly presumed that they are attracted by the possibilities inherent in the system; and since there are plenty of deserving Democrats who can qualify for the enormous number of jobs available, they are not unwilling to support the present system—grossly expensive though it is.

The plain truth forces the statement that this system of relief distribution has become a hopeless racket, and as long as the State remains in the business of determining who is to have relief in every community, it will continue to be a racket. In the very nature of things it cannot be otherwise. It was a racket under Governor Pinchot who established the system. Democrats can't be blamed for that, because when it happened Democrats were as scarce in the Legislature as Republicans are now in W. P. A. It is a racket under Governor Earle. It will continue to be a racket under any Governor who may be elected in the future, no matter who he is or to what party he belongs. The reason is that application of relief is vested in a hired class whose livelihood depends upon perpetuating the very condition which their activities are supposed to remove. Paid social workers are assigned a certain number of cases to investigate and report. The more they can find, the longer they will hold their jobs. The faster the number of cases diminishes, the fewer Social workers will be required. Naturally, it is to their interest to see that the number does not diminish. This is what makes State relief a racket.

But that is not the worst of it. The longer the dole is maintained, the weaker, becomes resistance to the relief appeal. The people who most need relief are the ones who are most reluctant to ask for it. When at last they are driven to that extreme, they become reconciled to the situation, then calloused, and finally complaisant and satisfied. This insidious conquest of initiative in the human spirit recalls Pope's psychology of vice:

> "—a monster of so frightful mien,
> As to be hated needs but to be seen;
> But seen too oft, familiar with her face,
> We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

This system is killing morale. Our people do not want relief, they want work. A man came to me with tears in his eyes to tell me that he had at last gone on relief. He had waited until his mortgage was foreclosed, his insurance forfeited, and he hadn't a dollar left, before he applied for relief; and even then felt that his self-respect had been crucified. He needn't have felt that way about it. He had done the best he could, had done all he could. I regard relief in that man's case not as a symbol of defeat, but as a crown of victory because he refused to surrender to inescapable necessity until his last round of ammunition was exhausted. But when a cook in a hospital receiving $15 a week quits to take sewing lessons for which she receives $17 a week—and will never learn to sew anyhow—relief ceases to be the help that helps and becomes the help that hinders. It hinders the thrifty man in his thrift by coddling and encouraging the shiftless man in his evasion of self-support.

The Republican party is ready to go the limit to save and assist the deserving victims of misfortune, but it cannot ignore the rights and just claims of the taxpayer who must foot the bill. The present system commits the State to continually increasing cost which must inevitably result in rapidly mounting levies.

The Democratic Philadelphia Record accuses the Republican controlled Senate of playing politics with relief, and the Republican Philadelphia Inquirer accuses the Democratic controlled House of doing the same thing. The Democrats charge a political motive in the Owlett investigation of W. P. A. The Republicans counter that if W. P. A. had nothing to conceal, it wouldn't be afraid to disclose the facts which the Committee wishes to ascertain.

Either there is or there is not waste, exploitation, political jobbery and incompetence in the administration of W. P. A. If there is, the public, since it is paying the bill, is entitled to know. If there is not, the Democratic party will profit by Republican failure to uncover anything seriously wrong, and the Republicans will lose prestige by starting something they can't finish. Irrespective of the legal question involved in the restraining order issued by Federal Judge Johnson last Wednesday, the evident determination of the Democratic leaders to keep the lid clamped down tight on W. P. A. in Pennsylvania lends a high degree of probability to the belief now generally held, that the Democratic leaders fear that Republican charges of gross abuse in W. P. A. administration will be more than confirmed, if the facts are divulged. But even at that, it is always a mistake to try to hide anything that is wrong. In the first place, it can't be done. It is much better to clean house, especially when all the neighbors know that the house is filthy. The way to do that is to sweep the dirt out of the door and not into a corner; or, better yet, use a vacuum. If the house is infected, certainly the worst move that can be made is to lock the door against the Board of Health.

If Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, had granted the simple request to release certain records of the Federal-State Employment Office in Pennsylvania, which it was entirely within her province to do, the charge of concealing damaging evidence would not now be added to the already crushing indictment by the grand jury of public opinion.

The question of W. P. A.'s exact place and use in the scheme of things, as conceived and executed at Washington and Harrisburg, has a direct bearing on the problem of finance which is now staring this Legislature in the face. What W. P. A. cannot or will not take care of, Pennsylvania must. We have a right to know whether or not the money contributed by the Federal Government to this State out of the ten per cent. this State contributes to the Federal Government and appropriated by this State for relief, is being applied exclusively to that purpose; whether or not W. P. A. is providing work for those who need work to relieve our own taxpayers from the increasing weight of an ever mounting dole, or providing soft berths, and easy jobs at inflated salaries, for the politically inclined sons of rest, at Pennsylvania's expense.

There is in my judgment, and in that of many of my Republican colleagues, only one avenue to salvation from total ruin, and that is to place partial financial responsibility for relief, and, to vest entire administration of relief, in the counties. This will shock the pocketbook nerve of the taxpayer into protest to the cortical center, and will insure economical methods through intimate knowledge of local needs.

The President of the United States has said: "The Federal Government is the only governmental agency with sufficient power and credit to meet this situation. We have assumed this task and we shall not shrink from it in the future."

This definite and explicit commitment was embodied in a contract of partnership between the Federal Government, represented by Mr. Harry Hopkins, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It was understood and agreed that if tax bills, earmarked for relief, should be enacted into law producing $60,000,000 during the fiscal year ending May 31, 1936, Mr. Hopkins would deliver to Pennsylvania whatever sum above $60,000,000 would be required to meet Pennsylvania's relief needs. At the time this agreement was made, the relief needs of Pennsylvania averaged between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 per month. Had the average relief load for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1936, been $15,000,000 per month, or a total of $180,000,000 for the year, Pennsylvania would contribute $60,000,000 and the balance of $120,000,000 would be payable by Washington. Had $120,000,000 been the total relief load for the year, Pennsylvania would contribute $60,000,000 and the same sum would be payable by Washington. If, on the other hand, the definite promise of President Roosevelt had been fulfilled, that every employable would be off direct relief and either in private employment or on W. P. A. before 1936, it is quite possible that the $60,000,000 which Pennsylvania agreed to raise through new taxation would have been sufficient to cover Pennsylvania's relief needs for the biennium ending May 31, 1937.

It was in reliance upon this agreement that I voted for many of the tax bills which were enacted into law at that time. It was confidently expected that the Administration at Washington would carry out the agreement made by Mr. Hopkins.

According to figures secured from the State Treasury, the total amount of Federal grants from June 1, 1935, to date is $74,580,535.24. The total amount expended for direct relief in Pennsylvania for the eleven months beginning June 1, 1935, and ending April 30, 1936, is $141,844,319.81. To this must be added the estimated expenditure of $8,000,000 for the month of May in the present year. The account then stands as follows:

Total expenditures for relief for the fiscal year beginning June 1, 1935 and ending May 31, 1936	$149,844,319.81
Pennsylvania's obligation for relief as fixed by the agreement of April, 1935,	60,000,000.00
Amount paid to Pennsylvania to date ..	74,580,535.24
Balance owed by Mr. Hopkins to Pennsylvania	15,263,784.57
	$149,844,319.81

When Governor Earle addressed the General Assembly on May 4th last, asking for an additional appropriation of approximately $80,000,000 to carry on relief to January 31, 1937, he said that his administration "will gladly present any facts and figures you may desire to justify this estimate."

What the Senate desires is to be informed why Mr. Harry Hopkins has not kept his agreement, and how soon the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may expect a check from Mr. Harry Hopkins for fifteen million dollars.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, Article III, Section 33, provides as follows: "A member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the General Assembly shall disclose the fact to the House of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon."

Another section of the Constitution provides that all revenue measures or bills shall originate in the House of Representatives.

This Special Session of the General Assembly was called mainly for the purpose of raising revenue to take care of the unemployed of this Commonwealth. The lower House has passed, and sent to the Senate, quite a large assortment of revenue-raising bills. All of these bills, excepting the one placing a 10% tax on liquor sold at State Liquor Stores, are awaiting the caprice of the Committee on Finance before the members of this Senate are permitted to vote for or against them.

The Committee on Finance, true to its past record, is entering upon a series of public hearings, to find its usual excuse to kill the revenue bills that do not meet with the approval of individuals who have a personal or private interest in the defeat of such bills.

Let us take, for an example, the bill placing a tax on the chain stores. At the last general session a similar bill was sent to this Senate by the lower House. It was, in regular course, referred to the same Committee on Finance. There it underwent the ordeal of a public hearing staged for the benefit of certain interested individuals. At this Special Session the same bill is referred to the same Committee on Finance, and the same interested individuals have, as usual, won the graces of the same chairman of the Committee on Finance, and are again permitted to conduct a public hearing to advance the same biased arguments.

It is time that we call a spade a spade. It is time that the members of this Senate show their good faith to the people of this Commonwealth. It is time that we demonstrate our integrity and honesty to the people we represent. It is time that the members of this Senate spread on the Journal of the Senate their intentions to abide by the Constitution of this Commonwealth and the lawful rules and procedures of this Senate. To this end, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION REQUIRING MEMBERS OF THE SENATE TO CERTIFY THEIR ANSWERS TO CERTAIN INTERROGATORIES

Mr. Cavalcante offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, numerous measures or bills forwarded by the House of Representatives are now before this Senate or in the hands of its committees for consideration, and

Whereas, many of said measures or bills deal with revenue and other matters directly affecting Public Utilities and other corporations of this Commonwealth, and

Whereas, reports are current throughout this Commonwealth that the final passage of some of said measures or Bills will be defeated or unnecessarily delayed by this Senate or its committees by reason of influence exerted to that end by individuals having a personal or private interest in said measures or Bills, and

Whereas, Article III, Section 33, of the Constitution of this Commonwealth provides as follows:

"A member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the General Assembly shall disclose the fact to the House of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon." and,

Whereas, it is the sworn duty of the members of this Senate to abide by the Constitution of this Commonwealth,

Now, therefore be it resolved, that each member of this Senate deliver to the clerk of the Senate, on or before Wednesday, June 10, 1936, a certificate, to be spread upon the journal of this Senate, answering truthfully the following interrogatories:

1. Are you an officer, an employee or the solicitor or attorney of a Public Utilities or corporation that will be directly affected by any measure or bill proposed or pending before this Senate?
2. Do you derive a salary, fee or wage of any kind from income of a Public Utilities or corporation that will be directly affected by any measure or bill proposed or pending before this Senate, excepting earnings derived from your ownership of stocks or bonds of said Utilities or corporation?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, before moving for the immediate adoption of the resolution just read, I offer to the Clerk of this Senate the following certificate, signed with my own hand:

I do hereby certify that I am not an officer, employe, solicitor or attorney for, nor do I receive a salary fee or wage of any kind from the income of the public utilities or corporations that will be in any way affected by any measure or bill proposed, or pending before this Senate.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to suspend Rule 39, which requires that resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and that the Senate do now proceed to immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires that resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—15

Cavalcante,	Law,	Pytko,	Rodgers,
Frey,	McCreesh,	Reed,	Ruth,
Huffman,	McGinnis,	(Washington)	Thompson,
Kahle,	Miller,	Rice,	(Centre)

So the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on State Government.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senate from Delaware will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, in his previous remarks, referred to the manner in which the Committee on Finance has handled the tax bills which have been referred to it, particularly referring to the chain store tax. In connection with this bill he stated in effect, the dilatory methods had been invoked in the Committee, and that the bill had been prohibited in coming before the Senate

At the meeting of the Committee on Finance last week it was brought to the attention of the Committee, by a Democratic member of the Committee, that Judge Von Moschiszker had questioned the constitutionality of this bill. This Democratic member suggested that the Attorney General be asked to appear before the Committee to give the Committee further information.

Before I left Harrisburg last week I endeavored several times to communicate with the Attorney General. I was not able to find him in his office. This evening I again called the Attorney General, and received word from his office that he would call me.

After the Attorney General has been given an opportunity to come before our Committee, if he does care to come, the Committee will promptly act on the chain store tax. Until such decision is made by the Attorney General I think it would be highly improper for the Committee on Finance to take any action.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I will be very glad to be interrogated.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, know that approximately three years ago the Supreme Court of the United States of America declared a similar tax imposed by the State of Indiana, to be constitutional?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I am aware that the Supreme Court has rendered such a decision; but the Constitution of Pennsylvania also enters into the constitutionality of this bill, and the members of the Committee on Finance are mindful of the fact that we have in our Constitution a uniform tax provision. That is the point on which Judge Von Moschiszker principally attacked this bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Delaware, Senator McClure, know that the Constitution of the State of Indiana contains the identical provision that the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania does?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I have never read the Constitution of Indiana.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I had not intended to make any statements tonight, but I always, like everyone else, I am sure, in this Senate, am interested in any statements coming from the Senator from Cumberland. Mr. Prince. I regard his thoughts as very interesting, and I regard him as a man of experience and intellectual ability. I listened to his statement about the obligation of the Federal Government, and I cannot refrain from saying just what I think about that situation. There are some facts and figures in which, I am sure, the members of this Senate are interested in knowing, but there is a problem far more reaching than the subject he has touched upon.

I understand that the government of the United States owes the State of Pennsylvania $15,000,000. I should like to refer the Senator from Cumberland to the report which is before all of us, the printed report, which I will call, for want of a better title, The Goodrich Report. If the Senator from Cumberland will turn to that report he will find that in the year 1935 there were two hundred and fifty-two millions of dollars spent for relief in the State of Pennsylvania. Part of that was spent for direct relief and part for work relief. The major portion of the money for work relief was provided by the Federal Government. If he will examine the report he will find that one hundred and eighty-three millions of dollars was contributed in 1935 by the Federal Government and $56,000,000 by the State of Pennsylvania.

I wonder what claim the State of Pennsylvania has upon the Federal Government, which has dumped into this Commonwealth $183,000.00 as compared to $56,000,000.00 by the State, less than $5,000,000.00 per month. But aside from that, I think the problem is a more serious one and reaches farther back than any of us have been willing to recognize. In the Legislature today there are before us several bills of consideration. Those bills are prepared for the purpose of making the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania conform to the Federal Government Social Security Act. I don't know how many of us have read the Federal Social Security Act, but I have, and I have made a short summary of it for the purpose of finding out just how far reaching that Act is. It deals with old age benefits and old age assistance, and I should like the attention of the Senate for a few minutes, while I may be long about it, it may help us in solving some of the problems that will come before us.

The old age benefit plan is proposed to take care of those people on what we call our old age pension. They will probably give it a different name on account of constitutionality, but up to 1940 the Federal Government a sum sufficient to help us enlarge our benefits which we give to old age, and from 1940 on, what is known as the Old Age Assistance Act will go into effect. It will raise a fund by means of a levy of three per cent. (3%); it begins with one, one and a half and three, beginning in 1938. From the funds raised by that tax, three per cent. of which will be paid by the employer and three per cent by the employe. There will be paid to all persons who reach the age of sixty-five years a specified amount. In addition to that, the Federal Government proposes to take care of the dependent children. It also proposes to furnish money of children under the heading of crippled children, vocational rehabilitation, public health, and in addition to that the Federal Government proposes to take care of the blind. It proposes to do this by what is known grants in Federal matched funds. The State of Pennsylvania will now be able to take care of all of its old aged by appropriating $1,600,000.00, as the result of which it will require from the Federal Government an amount of $16,000,000.00. I wonder if the members of the Senate realize that the appropriations for the first year by the Federal Government for old age assistance, for dependent children and maternal welfare amounts to $97,000,000.00. I wonder if the Senate also knows that in order for the State of Pennsylvania not to lose at least $18,000,000.00, they must be prepared and approved by the Federal Government before the 19th of June, 1936, laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in conformity with the rules and the laws laid down by the Social Security Act. I realize tonight that tonight is the 8th of June, and that up until now there has been no Act passed, or submitted to the Governor which can be forwarded to Washington for its approval, and if we continue in the same way, we probably will pass the 20th of June and we certainly will not be able to get our first quarterly allotment, and may possibly lose the allotment for the whole year.

Now, I mention those subjects, because I think that when we consider what the Federal Government is going to do, or trying to do, we may ask ourselves the question, why does the Federal Government finds it is obliged to enter into a program which involves figures beyond the comprehension of a normal human being? I have concluded from what little study I have been able to make, that it is because those who have an obligation other than that imposed by law have neglected that obligation. There was a time when, if someone needed help, his family, or his neighbor, everyone helped, or the public, local charity, gathered together and saw to it that he got the help. The poor house was the place where the man who had no friends nor family was wont to go, and certainly did not want to go, but now it seems that the poor house is now what we call relief, and everybody goes on relief. Why not? Because it is the easiest thing in the world to do. There are of course a great many people who go on relief, who would not do work if you gave it to them, and it is because of those of us who have an obligation to our fellow human beings have faltered and fallen in that obligation. We have not lived up to what really should be considered by all of us—our own obligation. The facts and figures prove that. We have many millions of dollars that are being spent by the State which would otherwise be paid out and spent by those who can do it. In an investigation I made on relief I found that a man who was on relief, what they call white collar workers, when his record was looked up, happened to be a brother of a man, who had spent on a particular day that he applied for relief, $5,000.00 for a rare stamp. In the community of Philadelphia, we have fathers who are asked to pay for the support of their sons, do not pay, and you go to the municipal courts and you get the munificient sum of $2.00 per week for allowance. It does not take and should not take an Act of Assembly to make us realize our obligation. I made the statement here last week that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was out of pocket $20,000.00 a day for every day that the liquor tax was delayed in passing, and some of us suggested that that was a rather foolish argument, because the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not entitled to the money which was in the pockets of the people who were to buy it, and I made the answer then, and I repeat it now, that no one has the right to have money in his pocket which he can use for the purchase of liquor, when people around him are starving. There is an obligation on that person to see to it that when he can spend money for a luxury and personal enjoyment, that at least his next door neighbor should have sufficient to keep him and his family in clothing and food, and there is an obligation, whether it is legal or otherwise, that he shall pay that money. I say that we have failed as citizens as individuals, and the corporations as industrialists, to recognize that obligation. I say there is no reason why the Federal Government should pay into the State of Pennsylvania, as it is doing today—and I suggest these figures to the Senator from Cumberland for his benefit so that he can verify them, that the Government is paying today in work relief at least $17,000,000.00 every month, and I think it is carrying out its share of the obligation. I say the corporations have failed to recognize their obligation, because they have not taken up the slack of work, the unemployment situation as it should be. I contend that if those corporations which are making a profit, would add to their payroll and reduce their profit, that there would be no necessity, in a great measure, for the Government to spend all this money.

It might be interesting to you to listen to these figures, on the question of the tax on gasoline. Those people who sell gasoline and those who pay for it say that they are overtaxed, and that they are contributing their share. I suggest the answer that up until last year in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania any man who paid a license tax for the privilege of operating his automobile, or a gasoline tax on fuel that operated or motivated the car paid one cent to the general welfare of the community, because by virtue of the provisions of the Tax Act which imposed a tax on gasoline, Federal and State, and the Tax Act which imposes a license fee on automobiles, all that money was used for his benefit and pleasure to build roads and highways so that he could travel in comfort, while other people needed money to live. There has not been a dollar of money contributed by the automobilist that went to public welfare as such. You might just as well say, when I build a house and put a fine bathroom in it, that I am contributing to the public welfare because I have a nice home. I refer you to the figures of the gasoline companies who are complaining about taxes, for the purpose of showing, first, that they have no right to complain about the tax, and, secondly, because they have no right to complain about the Federal Government expenditure of money, because they have not done their full duty. I have the reports of four or five companies and I examined them for the years 1930, 1931, '32, '33, '34 and '35, for the purpose of satisfying myself about the criticisms that have been made about the Federal Government. I divided most of the figures into the pre-Roosevelt and the Roosevelt period. Take the Sun Oil Company, for instance: In the year 1930 its profits were $7,745,483.00, in the year 1931, its profits were $3,107,147.00 in the year 1932 its profits were $4,198,-046.00 a total of $15,050,676.00 in the year 1933, the Roosevelt period, the profits of the Sun Oil Company were $6,971,843.00, for the year 1934, the profits were $6,-650,463.00, in the year 1935, the profits were $7,100,000.00, a total of $20,722,306.00, for the Roosevelt period, as against $15,050,676.00 in the pre-Roosevelt period for three years.

The dividends for those years—in the three years pre-Roosevelt period, the total dividends being $12,088,049.00, and in the subsequent three years, Roosevelt years, a dividend of $21,611,006.00.

I ask the question and I also say parenthetically, that while it was alleged that the increase in taxes would decrease the sales or the volume of business, the reports which I have here, and which I will be glad to show to any member of the Senate, show that in this particular case the increase was from $76,000,000.00 to $88,000,000.00 for the year 1935, and the claim was made last year that the moment we place a tax upon the gasoline there would be a decrease in the sales. That argument falls, because not only did the sales increase, but the profits increased from $6,500,000.00 to $7,100,000.00, in spite of the tax.

It may be interesting to know, and you should know this, because the question might be raised whether any of these dividends were paid out of profits. I suggest to you that the figures show that in 1930 the surplus of the Sun Oil Company was $10,000,000.00 and in 1935, if you look at the report, it was $9,500,000.00, and the difference is accounted for, not by distribution of the profits, but by taking care of the capital of the corporation before the depression, which was decreased in 1935, because in addition to these profits there had been six million dollars set aside for depression.

Take the Gulf Refining Company: In the year 1930, which was a good year, the Gulf Refining Company earned $10,649,000.00 in the year 1931, which was a bad year, the Gulf Refining Co. lost $23,000,000.00, and in 1932, it earned $2,000,000.00, in the years 1933 and 1934, the Gulf Refining Company made up all of its losses and ended the period with a profit of $4,784,000.00. To be correct I should not say it made up its losses of $11,386,000.00, it made a net profit of $4,784,000.00 by earning $16,000,000. in 1934 and 1935.

The Gulf Refining Company started in 1930 with a surplus of $210,000,000.00, and by reason of its loss of $23,-000,000.00 in 1931, ended up that year with $172,000,000.00 surplus, but in 1935, by reason of the profits in the Roosevelt period, the Gulf Refining Company ends up with a surplus of $181,000,000.00.

The Atlantic Refining Company, in 1930, earned $2,-742,000.00. In 1931, $1,800,000.00 and in 1932, $3,918,000.00. Those were the pre-Roosevelt years. In the Roosevelt years, 1933, 1934-1935,the profits of the Atlantic Refining Co., according to their report, which I have before me, are $6,556,000.00 for the first year, $5,512,000.00 for the second year, and $3,970,000.00 for the third year, or a total of $16,039,000.00 profit for those three years. The dividends of the Atlantic Refining Co. have always been the same, $2,660,000.00 or $2,680,000.00 or $2,690,000.00. Beginning its pre-Roosevelt period with $61,000,000.00 and ended with $66,000,000.00 surplus.

The Standard Oil Company, in 1930, earned $56,938,000.00, $20,618,000.00 in 1931, $15,648,000.00 in 1932, a total for the pre-Roosevelt period of $93,000,000.00. Now I ask you to look at these figures: 1933, $38,786,000.00, 1934, $67,800,000.00, 1935, $68,111,000.00, and the surplus of the Standard Oil Company today counting the new investments, as compared to $549,000,000.00 in 1930, was $548,000,000.00 in 1935, paying out dividends averaging around $40,000,000.00 a year.

Members of the Senate, what does that mean? Does that mean that the Federal Government is not doing its part? Or does it mean that the organizations which are making the profits are not willing to give up some of their profits in order that the Federal Government may do the rest?

I suggest to those corporations that the people of Pennsylvania and the people of the United States are contributing to their profits, and they in that measure which they contribute to the welfare of the people, the people will contribute to their increased profit, so that if they will increase the buying power of the people who are to be their customers, the customers will increase their profits by exercising that power, and so long as they attempt, and continue in the attempt, to hoard up large surpluses and earn large profits, without taking their full measure of the obligation which is theirs, whether it be by tax or on the basis of moral responsibility, so long will this condition continue. I suggest that we have got to get busy now to get the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to make our laws conform to the Federal Act, and we have to begin now to ask our industrialists to pay, beginning the first of January, 1937, one per cent. of the payroll in 1936, two per cent. on the payroll in 1937, and three per cent. on the payroll of 1938, and 1939 and 1940 we are asking the people of Pennsylvania, as well as the corporations to contribute a percentage of their payrolls, beginning with one per cent. and ending on three per cent. —for the purpose of what? for doing that which each industry of itself should have done for the last twenty-five or thirty years, and that is to take care of their own responsibility. The time has come when we can talk frankly. No industry has a right to take away from a man the best years of his life, and after he reaches the age of forty-five or fifty take someone else whose productive powers are greater, and cast him on the dump heap, because then he comes back on the community, where the responsibility does not belong. Some of the industries have old age assistance funds, sick benefits and all of the ramifications of the social plan which are necessary to the conduct of humanitarian fairness of the industry. Most of them have not. Many of those industries have done their full share, but because most of them have not seen it and refused to see it, we are in the position in which we are today. I suggest that we begin to see not only our duty as members of the Legislature, but that we begin to realize that it is the duty of those who are making profits by the use of labor and are refusing to give the labor that which will enable us to continue those profits, we have got to get busy and stop worrying whether W. P. A. a half dozen, or half a hundred or ten thousand people on the payroll which should not belong there. As long as this method of government goes on, with political parties contending, there will be politics in everything, and we cannot stop it, but if we realize that, and realize our duty, we will get down to what is our duty, and that is to place the burden of the condition in which we find ourselves upon the people who are best able to bear it.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President, may I make a parliamentary substitution, of a comment on what the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has said, in place of an interrogation of the Senator himself?

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Prince, may proceed.

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President, I merely wish to say that I stressed the fact that the Federal Government had promised to take over the employables—off relief in Pennsylvania, by a certain date. When the Senator said that the Federal Government had "dumped" $263,000,000 into Pennsylvania he employed a very appropriate word, for in the process of dumping it has made it possible for people who have had jobs, to quit them in order to go on relief and get W. P. A. jobs at twice what they were receiving in industry.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED (Washington). Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED (Washington). Mr. President, on May 4, 1936, this Senate was called into Extraordinary Session to meet an apparent emergency and to consider ways and means for solving the problems involved therein. One of the most important problems laid before us in the Governor's call was Relief. It did not come to us for the first time with this Special Session. On the contrary, it has been a matter of major significance for several years. It has received serious consideration and careful study, and volumes have been written by investigating committees and others to assist those who must pass upon this matter in a public capacity. For weeks we have gathered in this chamber with this serious problem of Relief standing out prominently before us and each week we have looked up at it, shied around it, and then adjourned to our homes. Such indolent conduct on the part of this Senate, opens to inquiry the cause of this delay. Is it due to lack of courage or is it caused by political maneuvering? In either case, rightfully, we should be criticised, and this policy of procrastination, condemned. We must not forget that the whole Commonwealth is vitally interested in the disposition of this important question, and because of its general importance the members of this Senate should approach it with care and promptitude; not as Republicans, not as Democrats, but as American citizens sincerely and solely concerned with the welfare of the State and her people. The two branches of this subject demand attention. No one can deny the existence of many worthy citizens in Pennsylvania who, through no fault of their own, need emergency assistance. It is the duty of this State to provide such unfortunate citizens with adequate and reasonable support. But at the same time it is likewise the duty of this State and this Senate to carefully scrutinize the situation so that the fraudulent and the unworthy, the demagogue and the agitator, will not be permitted to broaden the policy to let in those stalwart individuals who through industry and economy can ably provide for themselves, thereby leaving to the weak and the infirm, the aged and the helpless, the bounty of the State that is justly due them.

Relief must not be encouraged; individual thrift and ambition, two old American virtues, must be cultivated and preserved.

And, while we think of the recipients of relief, we must not fail to consider the taxpayer who furnishes the money that goes to make up the bounty. We must not drive into bankruptcy and ruin one part of our populace to provide help for another. Our policy must be one of justice and prudence. I see the farmer plowing early in his field in quest of an honest living; I see the artisan hurrying to his work that he may provide sustenance for himself and family; I see the tradesman striving to succeed; I see mines go down; I see factories go up; and then exclaim: "Great is Pennsylvania and her People!" But we must protect and foster this wholesome growth; we must encourage this thrift and honor among our people, and in so doing we must be careful not to levy burdensome and destructive taxes. Our plan must be fair and just; our policy must be equitable and sound. To provide, by proper taxation, a reasonable and adequate amount for relief is our immediate problem. Sufficient money for this purpose must and can be raised. But although five weeks have passed, no plan or policy so far has been advanced in this Extraordinary Session by this Senate. It is time that we act. Our people are uttering words of discontent over our delay; just criticism is spreading throughout the State; and ere long June shall be called upon for a transfer of more funds, and great will be the consternation on that day.

Several weeks ago, I offered in this Senate a resolution for the appointment by the President of this Senate of three Republican Senators and two Democratic Senators to determine the minimum amount needed for relief for the period ending January 31, 1937, and the method for raising the required amount. This resolution was referred to the Judiciary General Committee on May 18, 1936, where it has continued to repose down to the present time. I would like to see this Resolution immediately reported out of Committee. I would like to see the President of this Senate appoint a proper Committee as provided by said Resolution, so that a Relief policy could at once be formulated and submitted to this body. I have faith in the members of this Senate. I have faith in the President of this Senate. I believe that this Senate has vision and character sufficient to lay aside distrust and discord and agree upon a proper program for this emergency. I sincerely hope the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee will at once move towards bringing this Resolution to the floor of this Senate.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, when the learned Senator from Cumberland County, Mr. Prince, a little while ago took his text from one of the poets of the restored Stuart monarchy of the seventeenth century I could not help but feel that the selection of his text was characteristic, at least in some respect, of the background of the approach of the other side of this House to the problems which we have had before us in this Special Session, and have not dealt with to any extent, practically, whatsoever.

I think it would be better for all of us, on both sides of this House, to take the good, up to date, Twentieth Century American text, and let our text be, on all of these problems, to go to work. I was ashamed of myself when I looked at this Senate calendar tonight. We saw bills on our calendar last week,—and what happened to them? Just the same thing that happens to any piece of legislation that appears on our calendars. Back in Committee! Back in Committee! That is where all of this legislation goes.

As the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has reminded us, we are coming right to the narrow edge of the passage of this social security legislation. The State of Pennsylvania will lose millions of dollars if we do not begin acting this week and do not act next week. And what do we do? Try to delay for political conventions!

We all heard it propounded last week, on the floor of this Senate that we adjourn for the political conventions; and that, Mr. President, did not come from the Democratic side of the House. If we would have adjourned this Senate last week for the political conventions, it would have meant the death of social security legislation in Pennsylvania.

The Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Prince, says that the Republican Party is willing to go the limit on all of these problems for the protection of the unfortunate of this State. I ask you, Mr. President, why doesn't the Republican Party go somewhere on this problem,—anywhere, as a matter of fact? But we sit here for a month and a half and the Republican Party has not gone anywhere. Is this lack of courage? Is this a lack of ability to face these problems and to dispose of them frankly and fairly, and in a manner which is answerable to the public of Pennsylvania? I say, let us go somewhere in this Senate, even if we do make a mistake; let us do something, and not sit here interminably with a calendar of two or three bills on it, and probably send those bills back to committee before we adjourn within twenty-four hours after we convene.

The Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Prince, has inferred that there is waste and jobbery and incompetence in the Works Progress Administration. Perhaps there is. Perhaps he could recite it from Cumberland County. We haven't heard it. Nevertheless, the Works Progress Administration, and the work that it is doing, stands, Mr. President, as I have said before, as the only positive and progressive endeavor in the history of the United States to put the greater part of our population to work, or a large portion of our population to work; and I say to you, Mr. President, that the Republican Party is jealous because the first positive endeavor to find employment for the people of this country emanates under the Democratic Administration.

The Senator from Cumberland County said that you cannot hide anything wrong. If that is the case, then we have before the public today all of the wrongs in the Works Progress Administration; and we all know, Mr. President, that the condemnation that the Works Progress Administration has received, and is receiving, but which, of course, now is postponed for a few days during the Republican National Convention, is not public condemnation but has been and still is, and always will be, purely political condemnation.

I wonder if the good Senators on the other side of the House realize that the supervisory staff of the Works Progress Administration, in all its projects, come from the recommendation of local municipal bodies. The Works Progress Administration takes the recommendation of the Boards of Supervisors of the cities, or the borough councils or the school directors of the municipalities which are the sponsors of these projects, and if they are the subjects to be condemned, the Senator from Cumberland County can present us from his own community, whether those municipalities are in the hands of the Republicans or Democrats, the condemnation of his local authorities such as they merit.

It rather amuses me to hear the Senator from Cumberland County call the Republican Party in Pennsylvania a Board of Health. I have heard it called a good many things, but that is the first time I ever heard the Republican Party called a Board of Health.

Mr. President, there is a great collateral problem connected with this work problem, and connected with this relief problem, and that is the business stimulus that the distribution of these funds gives every week. For instance, take the chain stores, we are so bitterly opposing an effort made to have them contribute their fair share of this relief burden. The very people who, in this State, get 70% of the money spent each week for relief, goes right into the coffers of these chain stores. What would happen to them if we stopped these relief payments, if we stopped these W. P. A. payments? Yet those are the very people who are doing this fancy kicking on the floor of this Legislature—the people who benefit by these payments. And yet we quibble around over taxing people of that kind, and I want to repeat, Mr. President, at this date, although I spoke of it two weeks ago, that there is still no activity on the part of the committee that was appointed last year to investigate into the rumor that the chain stores are spending money to defeat this tax.

Let us just look for a minute, Mr. President, on the consequences of the proposition propounded by the Senator from Cumberland County. He says, "Turn this relief back to local poor districts;! turn the payment of relief back to local poor districts." We saw here a week or ten days ago, at a meeting of the poor directors, what the poor directors themselves thought of that. They petitioned unanimously, in their convention,—petitioned the Legislature to prevent the returning of relief back to these poor districts. They do not want it. They know they cannot handle it.

But what is the other problem there, Mr. President? What does that mean? It means, let us go back to the good old Republican principle of throwing the burden of all taxation back on the real estate of the Commonwealth. Any of us who are in the least familiar with the municipal operations of our home districts know that practically all our poor districts are levying against the real estate of those communities right up to their limit. And what would the Senator from Cumberland County have us do?—add more tax on the real estate, throw more burden back on our local communities, increase this tax on real estate? We cannot do it, Mr. President. If we have to tax utilities, we must tax utilities. If we have to tax oil companies, we must tax oil companies. If we have to tax chain stores, we have got to tax chain stores. But we cannot and must not do anything in this Senate to add more tax to the already overburdened Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In closing, Mr. President, let me just say again let us get away from these Eighteenth Century and Seventeenth Century mottoes of the Stuart monarchy, and let us come to the good old American principle for the Senate as well as everything else, and let us go to work.

HOUSE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR HOUSE BILL No. 17

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows, considered and agree to:

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Resolved (if the Senate concur); That House Bill No. 17. Printer's No. 90, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct relief, work relief, and expenses; defining the purposes for which such monies may be expended; and prescribing the powers and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and certain State Departments.

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered. That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

He also presented for concurrence bill of the House of Representatives as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 83, (Senate Bill No. 63), entitled:

An Act relating to the keeping of animals and birds, wild by nature, in captivity upon any street or highway, or upon land adjoining any street or highway, or in the vicinity of any commercial establishment for the evident purpose of attracting trade; preventing cruel, improper and inhuman treatment of such animals and birds, and protecting the public from injuries thereby; providing for the granting of permits for roadside menageries, as herein defined; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Board of Game Commissioners; and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Game and Fisheries.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. ARON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 67 entitled:

An act to provide for the public sale by cities of the first class of negotiable tax anticipation certificates representing registered delinquent taxes; and authorizing the appropriaion for current or other purposes funds realized or estimated to be collectible from the sale thereof.

Which was committed to the Committee on Municipal Government.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. BUCKMAN offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, June fifteenth, at 9:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, June fifteenth at 9:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION CONDEMNING THE ORGANIZATION OF THE BLACK LEGION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. HARRIS offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, The people of this country shocked by the revelations from the State of Michigan of the formation of an organization known as the Black Legion, whose principles and purposes are un-American, un-Christian and unholy; whose members have committed crimes of kidnapping, and wanton, coldblooded murder; whose members have terrorized decent, law-abiding citizens, interfered with private business, incited strife between employers and employees, and have engaged men to spy on decent American workmen; and

Whereas, Every decent, law-respecting citizen and every fraternal organization believing in law and order, the sanctity of the home and the protection of the American flag and the principles for which it stands, condemn the Black Legion, its members, and the purposes and principles for which it was formed; and

Whereas, The members of this unlawful organization, prompted by motives of intolerance, greed, avarice and material gain, have flagrantly violated the laws of their state and their nation; and have boasted of their six million membership, indicating that they have established their vicious circle in many states; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania request and strongly urge that the sheriff of every county, police forces, and other groups charged with upholding the laws of this state and nation bend every effort toward ferreting out and punishing any man or set of men who have assisted in organizing this unprincipled and un-American organization, or any other organization of a similar kind; and that every effort be directed toward preventing the organization of the Black Legion in our own State of Pennsylvania, and that these agencies join in working for a common cause, namely, to aid and assist in driving out of Pennsylvania any person or group of persons who may be the forerunners of this unlawful group, and that the evidence gathered in these investigations shall be turned over to the district attorney of the county in which such evidence is discovered, and that the district attorney immediately begin prosecutions for any violations of our State laws; and be it further

Resolved, That every Member of the Senate of Pennsylvania pledge his untiring efforts toward driving out of Pennsylvania any dangerous persons who are seeking to promote intolerance, strife and unrest so that our State may truly be a place in which decent American citizens may live in peace, conduct a business without interference, and raise their children in accordance with the ideals of the founders of this great nation.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires that resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the Resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION GRANTING USE OF THE SENATE CHAMBER FOR PUBLIC HEARINGS

Mr. ARON offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania grant permission to the Finance Committee for the use of the Senate Chamber for public hearings on House Bills Numbers 109 and 41 on Tuesday evening, June ninth, at 8:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, and be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania grant permission to the Finance Committee for the use of the Senate Chamber for public hearings on House Bill 36 on Tuesday afternoon, June sixteenth at 2:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania grant permission to the Finance Committee for the use of the Senate Chamber for public hearings on House Bills 26, 27 and 28 on Tuesday evening, June sixteenth at 8:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 17, entitled:

An Act to amend sections seven and eight of the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 414), entitled "An act to provide revenue for State purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment collection, and lien of the same, and the distribution of the proceeds thereof; imposing duties on executors, administrators, register of wills, recorders of deeds, prothonotaries, and court clerks, and on persons, copartnerships, associations, banks, national banks, trust companies, and other corporations receiving deposits of money, and on certain corporations and limited partnerships; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments; imposing penalties; and making an appropriation;" by changing certain penalties imposed by said act.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—43

Aron,	Harris,	Miller,	Salus,
Batchelor,	Harvey,	Pierson,	Scott,
Baumer,	Homsher,	Prince,	Shapiro,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the Senate Bill No. 39 (House Bill No. 49) go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 42 (House Bill No. 56), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping the water from slate quarries and anthracite and bituminous coal mines which have been flooded directly or indirectly by the high waters during March one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I answered the Governor's telegram asking me to vote for his deficiency appropriations so that the anthracite mines could be pumped free of the flood waters, and I agreed to vote for that deficiency appropriation; but I did not agree to spend public moneys to pump out slate quarries, which I understand is included in this bill. As I understand it, the water in slate quarries is rain water, and to pump that out would violate the spirit of this resolution. I am therefore obliged to vote "No" on this bill.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, on Senate Bill No. 42, House Bill No. 56, I had rather the same objections, in the committee, that Senator Woodward has now; but I was informed by the Secretary of Mines it would only take six or seven days to pump out all the slate quarries in Pennsylvania, and that the equipment is already there so that the expenditure for the slate quarries would amount to only a very few dollars.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—36

Aron,	Harvey,	McGinnis,	Salus,
Baumer,	Homsher,	Miller,	Scott,
Bean,	Howell,	Pierson,	Shapiro,
Buckman,	Huffman,	Pytko,	Staudenmeier,
Cavalcante,	Kahle,	Reed, (Washington)	Thompson, (Centre)
Chapman,	Lanius,	Rice,	Thompson, (Westmoreland)
Coyne,	Law,	Rodgers,	Trainer,
Frey,	Mallery,	Rupp,
Gelder,	McClure,	Ruth,
Harris,	McCreesh,

NAYS—6

Batchelor,	Graff	Reed, (Dauphin)	Woodward,
	Prince,		Ziesenheim,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with.

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 29 (House Bill No. 22), entitled:

An Act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collection and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board

The first, second and third sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the following words terms and phrases used in this act are for the purposes hereof defined as follows

"Liquor" Any alcoholic spirituous vinous fermented or other alcoholic beverage or combination of liquors and mixed liquor a part of which is spirituous vinous fermented or otherwise alcoholic and all drinks or drinkable liquids preparations or mixtures intended for beverage purposes which contain more than one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume except alcohol and malt or brewed beverages

"Department" The Department of Revenue of this Commonwealth

"Board" The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board of this Commonwealth

"Fiscal Month" The monthly period established from time to time by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board for the purpose of conducting its business

Section 2 Until the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven an emergency State tax is hereby imposed and assessed at the rate of ten per centum of the net price of all liquors sold by the board The tax herein imposed shall be collected by the board from the purchasers of the liquor from the board All taxes collected by the board under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the State Treasury through the department in the manner and within the times herein specified and shall be credited to the General Fund

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the board to transmit to the department on or before the fifteenth day of each calendar month a statement of its receipts from sales of liquor and taxes collected during the preceding month and such other information as may be necessary to effectuate the provisions of this act at which time it shall also be the duty of the board to pay to the department the tax imposed upon such liquor by the provisions of this act

The fourth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 4 This act shall become effective at the expiration of ten days after its final enactment

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I move to amend section 4, page 2, line 27 by striking out after the word "effective" the words "at the ex-" and inserting in lieu thereof the following, "immediately upon"; Amend section 4, page 2, line 28 by striking out the words "piration of ten days after"

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collection and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO THE INVESTIGATION OF THE WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CAVALCANTE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, ugly reports are afoot over this Commonwealth, that the Special Committee of this Senate, appointed to investigate the functioning of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, has exceeded its authority and is being financed with moneys donated to it by a group of individuals some of which reside within and some without this Commonwealth, who are steadily and systematically plotting the overthrow of the Democratic Government of the people, both State and Federal, and

Whereas, these ugly reports charge that said Special Committee of the Senate seek and harbor the finance, counsel and guidance of said group so that it may further its designs, and

Whereas, reports of this character directly undermine the confidence of the people of this Commonwealth in the integrity of this Senate,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, That said Special Committee of this Senate make report of the truth or falsity of these reports on June 15, 1936, and that thereafter said Committee make a report of its authority, finances, expenditures and findings to this Senate on every Monday until its activities are concluded.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires that resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the Resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chairs hears objection.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I move that the resolution just read be referred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, as I understand the resolution which was just referred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes, it is a somewhat similar but new resolution, and not the resolution which was offered in this Senate last Wednesday. I would like to ask the Chair what becomes of the resolution which was offered last Wednesday and which, I understand, is now on the table.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution referred to is in the memoranda of the presiding officer, and in the hands of the Secretary of the Senate.

MOTION TO REFER PREVIOUSLY OFFERED RESOLUTION TO COMMITTEE ON CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the resolution which was offered on the floor of the Senate last Wednesday, June 3rd, and laid on the table, be referred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, may I state that the resolution referred to, by its own terms, is dead, because that resolution provides that this Sepcial Committee should makes its report on Monday, June 8, 1936; therefore the resolution is dead, by its own content.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, whether it is dead or alive I move that it be referred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

The PRESIDENT. The motion has been seconded. The Chair takes it that the resolution will be referred to Committee for requiem.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

MOTION TO PRINT RESOLUTION CONDEMNING THE BLACK LEGION

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the resolution offered by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, relative to condemning the Black Legion, be printed.

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until tomorrow at 12:00 o'clock noon.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:09 P. M. until tomorrow June 9, 1936 at 12:00 o'clock noon.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, JUNE 8, 1936

The House met at 9:00 P. M.

The SPEAKER (ROY E. FURMAN) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend ERNEST WATSON, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Harrisburg, Pa., offered the following prayer:

Eternal, ever blessed God, in Whom we live and move and have our being, we beseech Thee tonight that Thou wilt incline Thine ear and listen to the voice of our supplications.

We pray that Thou wilt send the light of Thy countenance upon this Assembly Hall, and that Thou wilt give these legislators guidance in order that they may be able to see their way. Help them in their deliberations and in their discussions.

We thank Thee for the glorious past of this great Commonwealth, for all the good that it has done to its many people, and we thank Thee for the blessings and the hopes of the future.

We pray Thee that after we shall have done all that Thou has given us to do, when it is not ours to come into these halls again, that Thou wouldst give us peace and satisfaction that we have allowed Thy countenance to shine and guide us in everything said or done.

These blessings we ask in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Wednesday, June 3, 1936.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Wednesday, June 3, 1936, when, on motion of Mr. BRENNAN the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Miss BRANCATO. (Concurrent) Resolution No. 21.

In the House of Representatives, June 3, 1936.

Whereas, At the last regular session of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, there was passed an act entitled "An act requiring cities of the first class to allow members of the fire departments twenty-four consecutive hours of rest each week, except in emergency cases," said act having been approved the tenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 639); and

Whereas, The City of Philadelphia has not exercised the powers granted in the above said act; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania request and urge the City of Philadelphia to exercise the authority granted to it under the act, approved the tenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 639), and that if a compliance is not possible at this date, that the said City of Philadelphia shall, at the earliest possible moment, give this matter its earnest consideration so that the firemen of the City of Philadelphia shall be enabled to enjoy twenty-four hours a week rest from their public duties.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMUNICATIONS AND PETITIONS

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communications and petitions which were read by the Clerk.

LOTTERIES

A telegram from the Protestant Ministers Association of Phoenixville protesting passage of lottery legislation.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

MALT BEVERAGE LEGISLATION

A communication from Ferdinand Schwartz, Philadelphia, urging legislation permitting sale of beer in stores.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

REPORT OF EMERGENCY RELIEF DIRECTOR

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to House Resolution No. 8 the Chair lays before the House the report as submitted by the Emergency Relief Director.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal and printed in the Appendix to the Legislative Journal.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. Francis T. Baker asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. J. L. SNYDER for the week on account of illness in the family.

Mr. Ominsky asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. SHEPARD for the week on account of illness.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON RULES

Mr. EBERHARTER offered a report from the Committee on Rules which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Resolved, That Monday, June 15th, 1936, be fixed as the last day for introduction of bills in the House of Representatives during the present Special Session of the Legislature, except bills providing for the raising of revenue, which may be introduced after said date.

ROY E. FURMAN
HERBERT B. COHEN
H. G. ANDREWS
WILLIAM SINWELL
JOSEPH A. SIMON
HERMAN P. EBERHARTER

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report?

It was adopted.

RESOLUTION

RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 17 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. COHEN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

Resolved (if the Senate concur, that House Bill No. 17, Printer's No. 90, entitled "An act making an appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct relief work relief and expenses defining the purposes for which such monies may be expended and prescribing the powers and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and certain State Departments and ratifying confirming and validating the action of the Governor and the fiscal officers in making moneys available for unemployment relief prior to the adoption of this act," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

INFORMATION REQUESTED FROM FISCAL OFFICERS

Mr. CORDIER offered a resolution and asked and obtaincd unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, Many State-aided hospitals are in dire need of financial aid for the maintenance of indigent patients for the reason that the condition of the State Treasury has caused the fiscal officers to withhold the payment of hospital requisitions because of the unpreferred nature of these appropriations; and

Whereas, Many unemployed persons are in need of free hospitalization, which can only be provided by the State-aid which was appropriated; and

Whereas, At the last Regular Session of the Legislature some $120,000,000 of new revenue was raised, one-half of which was designed to aid in balancing the budget for the fiscal biennium; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Revenue be requested to furnish to the House of Representatives by Monday June 15th, 1936, or as soon thereafter as may be, a statement of the estimated revenues to be collected during the remainder of the present fiscal biennium, and that the Auditor General be requested to furnish to the House of Representatives not later than Monday June 15th, 1936, or as soon thereafter as may be, a statement of the total amount of appropriations for the present fiscal biennium which remain unpaid and unrequisitioned, together with the amount of money into the General Fund, and the amounts due, if any, to special funds from the General Fund, and which are payable from such revenues to be collected during the remainder of the fiscal biennium from existing revenue sources:

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Revenue and the Auditor General by the Chief Clerk of this House.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

CHANGE IN RELIEF ADMINISTRATION

Mr. SURFACE offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, The unemployed people need and want work which many are unable to obtain under present conditions; and

Whereas, All needy persons must be given relief by the State and Nation until work for their support can be developed or obtained; and

Whereas, The cost of relief administration under present conditions is $30,000 per day; and

Whereas, It is believed that a less expensive administration of relief can be obtained through the established channels of State and local governments; therefore be it

Resolved, That we the members of the State Legislature, do hereby ask that the plan and method of relief administration be changed from that at present in vogue to a system by which the relief will be given through former existing channels of State and municipal governments to and including local poor boards; and be it further

Resolved, That 25% of the actual money paid for relief be paid by the local relief board or poor board which shall include all payment for poor or indigent and unemployed, excepting for old age pensions and mothers' assistance pensions.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. KELSO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. KELSO. Mr. Speaker, on June 2nd, we voted on House Bill No. 44. In the Legislative Journal of that date I am not recorded as having voted. I wish to make a statement that I voted in favor of that bill.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread in the Journal.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 100, entitled:

(c) When two or more amendments shall be submitted they shall be voted upon separately

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 83, entitled:

An Act relating to the keeping of animals wild by nature, in captivity upon any street or highway, or upon land adjoining any street or highway, or in the vicinity of any commercial establishment for the evident purpose of attracting trade; preventing cruel, improper and inhuman treatment of such animals and protecting the public from injuries thereby; providing for the granting of permits for roadside menageries, as herein defined; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Board of Game Commissioners; and prescribing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am oposed to this bill. I am not opposed to it because I do not approve of the principle of protecting animals against cruelty. I am not opposed to it because I do not believe in protecting children and women of this Commonwealth from injury from wild animals, but I am opposed to signing a blank contract. I have a great deal of confidence in the Game Commission as it is now constituted but I do not believe in giving them or any other commission or any other governmental body an absolutely blank contract without any idea of what is to be inserted in that contract, and that is exactly what we are doing in this bill.

We are giving the Game Commission authority to make any type of regulation that they desire to make. I think that is a principle in government which we are forgeting. I think that there is a principle in our Constitution and in our form of government that we are forgetting, and that is that laws are enacted by the Legislature. It is our duty, it is our obligation, to enact the laws. If we want to abolish these laws, let us abolish them; let us not pass it on to the Game Commission and ask them to do it. Let us set up rules by which we are to be governed. There are certain kinds of details that can be worked out by commissions to be sure, but I think this type of legislation is bad; I think we are doing it too much, not only in this case but in others, and I think it is time for us to assume the responsibilities of legislators and be legislators.

I do not expect many of you to follow my vote on this. I know that you are going to vote on it from the stand point of whether or not we are opposed to cruelty to animals but as a matter of fact in my opinion there is a principle much deeper involved in this piece of legislation, and I think it is time to call a halt in passing on our duties as legislators to commissions and boards and administrators. It is time for us to act as legislators, and for that reason alone I for one am going to vote against this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON SECOND READING

Mr. BLUMBERG asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 85, Printer's No. 105, on page 2 of today's calendar, bills on second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 85, entitled:

An Act to safeguard persons receiving or entitled to public relief from political coercion and to prevent political promises in return for public relief and prescribing penalties

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be unlawful for any person directly or indirectly to deny any person relief or to take away or procure the taking away from any recipient thereof or to threaten to take away or threaten to procure the taking away from any recipient thereof any grant of relief for the reason that such person registered or refused to register in a certain political party or voted or refused to vote for the candidate or candidates of a certain political party or directly or indirectly to promise to grant or to promise to secure a grant of relief for any person if such person promises or agrees directly or indirectly to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party It shall be unlawful for any person directly or indirectly to promise or agree to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party in order to procure or aid in procuring or to prevent the taking away of any relief or to solicit relief by directly or indirectly promising to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party Any person violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) or to suffer imprisonment not exceeding one year or both

The word "relief" as used in this act shall mean any cash or check or any relief order redeemable in merchandise granted or issued or to be granted or issued by any person officer or board through the use of public moneys to a resident of this Commonwealth who is unemployed and without means of support

On the question.

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 5, by striking out the words "any person."

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 6, by striking out the words "from any recipient thereof."

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 8, by striking out the words "from any recipient thereof."

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 8, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "to or from any person who is lawfully entitled thereto."

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 13, by inserting after the word "person" the following "whether or not lawfully entitled thereto."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "person" the following: "whether or not lawfully entitled to relief."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 17 to 19, by striking out the words "granted or issued or to be granted or issued" in line 17, and all of lines 18 and 19, and inserting in lieu thereof: "or any merchandise in kind, paid for, paid or payable out of public moneys appropriated or made available for the support of residents of this Commonwealth who are."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to,

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

An Act to safeguard persons receiving or entitled to public relief from political coercion and to prevent political promises in return for public relief and prescribing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on Wednesday June 3d, last week, I was unavoidably absent from the session of this House and at that session this House passed House Bill No. 57, Printer's Number 70, relating to assistance to aged and indigent persons. Because of this absence I was unable to cast my vote in favor of the bill.

Being the sponsor of the original old age assistance act of Pennsylvania passed in 1933, signed by Governor Pinchot, it grieves me deeply that I was not here in order to say a word of tribute for House Bill No. 57. Had I been here I should certainly voted "aye" on the bill.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under the question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Section 18 Appointment of Viewers After the official plan has been finally adopted and has become effective or whenever the Federal Government has adopted a plan for Federal flood control works and improvements in the construction and erection of which the board has agreed to aid and assist financially and otherwise the court of common pleas of each county wholly or partially within a flood control district as established by the official plan or of any county lying wholly or partially within any drainage area for which Federal flood control works and improvements are to be erected and constructed may on its own motion and shall on the application of the board appoint a board of three viewers from the county board of viewers whose duty it shall be to assess all benefits to private property and to municipalities to be occasioned by the erection and construction of the State or Federal public works and improvements or both It shall be the duty of the board to furnish to each board of viewers so appointed a complete set of the State Official plans showing the private property and the municipalities within the county which will be benefited by the proposed public works and improvements and also of any Federal plans if the same are available

Section 19 Swearing Viewers Assessment of Benefits Notice Hearings The viewers having been duly sworn or affirmed faithfully justly and impartially to decide and a true report to make concerning all matters before them or to be submitted to them and relation to which they are authorized to inquire and having viewed each parcel of private property and each municipality which according to the official State plan or Federal plan or program is to be benefited shall hear all parties and their witnesses and shall determine the benefits if any to accrue to each such parcel of private property and to each municipality and shall prepare a schedule of such property and a municipal schedule and the amount of benefits assessed against each piece of private property and against each municipality

No assessment of benefits shall be made against public property No assessment of benefits shall be made against any private property unless in the opinion of the board of viewers such property will be benefited by the prevention or lessening of future flood damage No assessment shal be made against any municipality unless in the opinion of the board of viewers the municipality will be benefited because its buildings roads streets parks water supply plants and other public property and works will be protected from flood damage The fact that public and private property and works have been damaged by flood shall be deemed conclusive evidence that benefit will accrue to such property or municipality by reason of the public works and improvements authorized by this act or provided by the Federal Government or its agencies or instrumentalities No exemption from assessment of benefits shall exist for any private property or any municipality by reason of the fact that the same does not abut on any improvement or on the river or stream carrying the flood waters

The viewers shall give notice to all persons and municipalities against whose properties or against which benefits have been assessed of a time when and place where the viewers will meet and exhibit their schedules and hear all exceptions thereto Such notice shall be given by registered mail addressed to the last known post office address of the owner or reputed owner of the property and to the corporate authorities of each municipality and by publication once a week for two weeks in at least two newspapers of general circulation in the county where so many are published in the county The failure of an owner or municipality to receive the registered mail notice shall not be deemed to invalidate the proceedings but in such cases the notice by publication shall be deemed sufficient

Section 20 Revision of Schedules Filing and Notice Thereof After hearing all parties and after making whatever changes are deemed necessary the viewers shall prepare a revised schedule of benefits to private property and a revised schedule of benefits assessed against municipalities and file a copy of each in the court of common pleas of the county When the reports of the viewers are filed they shall be confirmed nisi When the reports are filed notice thereof shall immediately be given by the board of viewers by publication once in the newspapers in which the notice of the hearings before the viewers was published Such notice shall state the date of the filing of the reports shall contain the schedules of the benefits assessed and shall state that unless exceptions are filed thereto or an appeal to the court of common pleas is taken therefrom within thirty days from the date of filing the reports will be confirmed absolutely

Section 21 Filing of Exceptions and Appeals Within thirty days after the filing of the report of viewers any person or municipality interested may file exceptions to the same or may appeal to the court of common pleas and demand a jury trial

Each person or municipality filing exceptions or taking an appeal shall except to or appeal from so much of the report only as affects property in which he has an interest or as affects the municipality and the part of the report of the viewers not excepted to or appealed from shall be confirmed absolutely after said thirty day period

Section 22 Procedure on Exceptions and Appeals Where exceptions to a report of the viewers are filed the court shall proceed to hear and determine the same in the manner exceptions to the reports of viewers are generally proceeded with within the county Where an appeal is taken it shall state the grounds upon which the appeal is taken and shall be accompanied by an affidavit that it is not taken for the purpose of delay but because the appellant believes that injustice has been done

Upon the trial of any appeal or the hearing of any exceptions in case the appellant or party excepting does not obtain a verdict or decree more favorable than was the report of the viewers he or it shall not recover any costs

The court of common pleas shall order what notices shall be given in connection with such proceedings by exceptions or by appeals and may by rule or otherwise prescribe the form of the pleadings

The court may also in proper cases consolidate proceedings by exceptions or appeals into a single proceeding but exceptions or appeals involving municipalities shall not be consolidated with those involving private property

Section 23 Appeals to Superior and Supreme Courts Any person or municipality aggrieved by an order of court on exceptions filed or determination of the case where a jury trial was demanded may within thirty days after such final order or determination and not thereafter appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court as the case may be

Where any appeal is taken to the Supreme Court and an appeal is also taken to the Superior Court and the appeals in both cases are substantially the same or involve the same questions the Superior Court may certify such appeal to the Supreme Court to be heard with other appeals from the same report

The Supreme or Superior Court shall consolidate all appeals coming before it from the same report and hear them as one case except that cases arising from exceptions shall not be consolidated with those arising from appeals and demands for a jury trial and those involving municipalities shall not be consolidated with those involving benefits to private property

Where any appeal is taken to the wrong court such court shall certify the same to the court to which it should have been taken

Section 24 Due Date for Payment of Benefits Discounts for Prompt Payment Interest All assessments of benefits shall become due and payable to the board when the State or Federal public flood control works and improvements have been completed which date shall be fixed by the official order of the board notice of which order shall be published by the board in the newspapers in which notice of the preliminary and final plans were published by one insertion

Any person or municipality may pay any part or all of the benefits assessed against him or it to the board before the due date thereof If such payment is made within six months after the amount of the benefits have been finally ascertained a discount of ten per centum of the amount thereof paid shall be allowed All benefits or any part thereof paid after such six months' period and within one year from the time the benefits are finally ascertained shall be subject to a discount of five per centum of the amount paid All assessments of benefits or parts thereof remaining unpaid when the improvements are completed shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the completion of the improvements until paid

The board shall send by registered mail addressed to the last known post office address a statement of the amount due by each person and municipality after the same has been finally ascertained together with notice of the discounts allowed by this act for prompt payment and when interest will be added to the amount due

Section 25 Liens and Filing Thereof Procedure Thereon to Collect All assessments for benefits against private property shall remain a lien thereon from the time report of the viewers is filed in court until paid unless the lien thereof be lost by failure to revive the same It shall be the duty of the board within six months after its order that the public works and improvements have been completed to file through the Department of Justice in the name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the office of the prothonotaries of the proper counties liens for all benefits assessed which remain unpaid by persons and municipalities But no such lien shall be filed unless the board shall first notify by mail addressed to the last known post office address of the owner or reputed owner of the property or the municipality against which an assessment has been made of its intention to have said lien filed if payment of the amount due is not made before a time prescribed by the board Such liens shall be filed in the same manner as is provided by law for the filing of municipal claims and shall have priority over all other liens except taxes and municipal claims or liens and except also mortgages and judgments of record prior to the time the report of the viewers was filed in court

Such liens shall be revived prosecuted to judgment executed and collected by the board through the Department of Justice in the same manner in all respects as is provided by law in the case of municipal claims except that in the case of municipalities judgments recovered on such liens shall be collected in the same manner as judgments are collectible by law against municipalities

Section 26 Increase of Municipal Debts Appropriations Any municipality may incur or increase its indebtedness in the manner provided by law for the purpose of appropriating moneys to the board to assist in carrying out the purpose of this act and for the purpose of paying benefits assessed against it by the report of viewers or as finally adjudicated and may make appropriations from current funds for such purposes

Section 27 Flood Control Fund Created Appropriation of Moneys therein A special fund to be known as the Flood Control Fund is hereby established in the State Treasury into which shall be paid all moneys appropriated by the Commonwealth and received from the Federal Government and other states and their political subdivisions for flood control work and projects and all moneys arising from gifts or donations from persons and municipalities and recovered from benefits assessed against persons and municipalities under the provisions of this act

All moneys in the Flood Control Fund from time to time are hereby specifically appropriated to the board for the payment of any and all costs and expenses properly payable under the provisions of section seventeen of this act for repayment to the General Fund of excess appropriations made by the Commonwealth pending the collection of assessments of benefits and for payments on account of any moneys which the board may have agreed to contribute to aid and assist in the erection and construction of any Federal flood control works and improvements and in the erection and construction of flood control works and improvements under compacts and agreements with other states

Where more than one flood control district is created separate accounts shall be kept for each district and payments from the Flood Control Fund for or on account of any one district shall not exceed the amount credited to such district in said fund.

Section 28 Additional Appropriations to Cover Delayed Payment of Assessments If in the construction and erection of the public works and improvements authorized by this act it becomes necessary for the Commonwealth to advance additional State moneys

by appropriation to the Flood Control Fund because of a failure of owners of property and municipalities to pay benefits assessed within the time and in the amount estimated by the board then and in that event the General Fund shall be reimbursed by the board from future moneys collected from assessments of benefits to the extent of such additional appropriations The General Assembly shall in its appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of this act state the amount or amounts of appropriations so made which shall be so repaid to the General Fund

Section 29 Cooperation With Other States The Water and Power Resources Board is hereby designated as the agency of the Commonwealth with power to enter into reciprocal compacts and agreements with other states in developing flood control projects and works and shall have authority to expend moneys made available and appropriated by this act for interstate flood control works and improvements located within or without this Commonwealth on rivers and streams entering into or flowing out of or along the borders of this Commonwealth and to receive for payment into the Flood Control Fund from other states and their political subdivisions any moneys to aid and assist in the construction of flood control works and and improvements located in this State which are deemed beneficial to the inhabitants of other states Payments on account of such interstate works and improvements may be made by the board direct to the contractor or to the agency of such other state which let the contract or is performing the work of constructing such works or improvements or to the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies supervising the construction of such works or improvements

The board is further authorized to empower the Federal Government or any of its instrumentalities or agencies to supervise the construction of such interstate flood control works and improvements

Section 30 Constitutional Construction The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any of the provisions shall be held to be unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions had not been included therein

Section 31 Appropriation The sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated from the General Fund into the Flood Control Fund created by this act for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, when this bill was before the House a few days ago, I raised the question as to the appropriation of five hundred dollars to the Department of Forests and Waters. I said at that time, as I recall it, that I felt that we should not at this time further burden the budget of the State by appropriations of this size for the purposes of studies of flood conrol, because the Federal Government was undertaking such studies. I said that I felt that we should wait until the next regular session of the Legislature, until we saw just what was to be done with the Federal program and with the moneys that were to be expended and with the surveys made.

I also called the attention of the House to the fact that there were under way in other agencies of the Government already such studies. I have in my hand a copy of "The Patriot" of Harrisburg of today, and I desire to read to the House this little news item:

STUDIES BILL CALLING FOR SURVEY IN STATE

"Washington, June 7.—President Roosevelt has under consideration a bill to authorize preliminary flood control surveys of parts of the Allegheny and Susquehanna Rivers in Pennsylvania.

"The Senate approved the bill yesterday and sent it to the White House.

"His approval would order that preliminary surveys be made on tributaries, sources and headwaters of the two rivers where no such surveys previously have been made.

"Streams to be surveyed include the Clarion River, Red Bank Creek, Mahoning Creek, Pine Creek, Kiskimentas River, Loyalhanna Creek, Conemaugh River, Black Lick Creek, Stony Creek, Clearfield and Chest Creeks."

All are in the western part of the State, and therefore I again rise to oppose this bill on the same grounds. I feel that it is premature, that we should await for a time, that we should not rush into the appropriation. I think the total is about eight hundred housand dollars of money in different bills that we have had before this Legislature appropriating to the Department of Forests and Waters money to make these studies, money which in the end can only be a duplication of work that the Federal Government already has under way and which it contemplates.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. SPEAKER, does the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, believe that the surveys made by the United States Government at this time have been adequate enough to take care of the situation so that we can conform the legislation of this Commonwealth to the Flood Omnibus Central Bill?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer that question by saying that I do not believe that I am familiar enough with all the studies made by the Federal Government, nor do I believe that my learned opponent on the other side or any other member of this House is familiar enough with all the vast data which has been gathered by the Army engineers and by the engineers of our Sanitary Water Board and other authorities in the State and Federal Government on this question to determine whether the studies are adequate.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, doesn't the gentleman from Delaware believe that this flood control matter is an emergency measure due to the devastating flood that visited this Commonwealth a few months ago?

Mr. TURNER. Will the gentleman kindly repeat his question, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, doesn't the gentleman think that flood control is an emergency measure now, in view of the devastation caused by the recent flood just a matter of a few months ago?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the flood control question is a very important question before the people of Pennsylvania. I believe that the people of Pennsylvania and that every member of this Legislature is interested in that question. I believe that in that sense it might be termed an emergency measure, but in the development of a program of this kind it is not of such an emergency character, because of the length of time that will be necessary, that the waiting period of a few months, about six months now until the coming of the next session of the Legislature, will in any way keep back or retard any study and development of the program.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Delaware wish to inform this House or make this House believe that he is opposed to flood control.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I certainly would think that the gentleman from Allegheny would know me well enough to know that I am not opposed to any study or any program of flood control in this Commnwealth.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, doesn't the gentleman from Delaware County know that the two million dollars appropriated in this bill is not to be used for surveys?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not so understand the measure.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, doesn't the gentleman know that under the provisions of this bill the Department of Forests and Waters under the Water Power and Resources Board as its agency has the right on its own initiative to give a public flood control program?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I believe it has.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, didn't the gentleman from Delaware vote in 1925, in 1929 and 1935 sessions to appropriate approximately two million dollars to the Pymatuning Dam project?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I cannot remember whether I voted for or against those measures at that time.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I believe House Bill No. 70 is one of the important measures of this kind introduced to regulate flood control in the State of Pennsylvania, and for the benefit of the members of the House I will refresh the recollection of the gentleman from Delaware by referring to the Legislative Journal record of how he voted on bills appropriating money for the Pymatuning Dam project.

On April 6, 1925 House Bill No. 53 was introduced by Mr. Stevenson, providing for the erection of a dam at the outlet of Pymatuning Swamp. The bill carried an appropriation of four hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and I might say that besides the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Baldi, Mr. Blumberg, Mr. Long, Mr. Greenstein, Mr. Flynn and my esteemed friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, all voted aye on this bill.

On April 1, 1929, the gentleman from Delaware voted aye on a similar bill.

On March 18, 1931, the gentleman from Delaware voted aye on a bill appropriating one million five hundred thousand dollars outright from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to erect a dam in the Pymatuning region that would regulate the flow of waters in the Shenango and Beaver rivers with the inevitable result that the disastrous floods which visited this Commonwealth on the 17th of March, 1936, this entire area avoided the damages that visited all other sections of the Commonwealth. In 1933 the gentleman from Delaware brought in an additional appropriation of four hundred fifty thousand dollars to finish the construction of a dam or a spill-way at the Pymatuning outlet.

House Bill No. 70 is an agency created by this Commonwealth to be able to obtain funds from the United States Government on its Omnibus Flood Control Bill.

I might inform the members of the House that none of the members of the Board created under this act are salaried members of the Board, for the present Board consists of the Secretary of Forests and Waters, the Commissioner of Fisheries, the Secretary of Health, a member of the Public Service Commission, and an engineer appointed by the Secretary of Forests and Waters and paid a salary of three thousand dollars, and that is set up in the administrative code.

I say to the members of the House unless we pass this House Bill No. 70 we will be prevented from receiving the benefits of the Coleman Omnibus Flood Control Bill.

I was informed by the Junior Senator from Pennsylvania that if we increase the appropriation of this bill a reasonable amount, make it similar to New York, where they increased the original appropriation from two to four million, we can receive additional benefits to immediately begin the construction of reservoirs at the head waters of the Ohio and Delaware River water sheds, and in the construction of reservoirs on the Conemaugh to prevent if possible the raging torrents that came down the Conemaugh and damaged the city of Johnstown.

I say to the members of this House the Flood Control Bills proposed by the administration are just as important as the relief bill. When you take into consideration that there was over two hundred million dollars loss in property, and over two hundred lives lost, we certainly should not quibble about an appropriation of two million dollars when we have the possibility of getting ten million dollars from the Federal government. The money appropriated under this bill is for the payment of land damages only. The construction of the Public Works program, artificial dikes or reservoirs is to be paid for out of moneys allocated by the United States Government.

I respectfully ask not only the members on this side of the House, but my Republican friends whose districts were visited by the floods of the past two months to vote "aye" on this measure.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would not arise to answer the gentleman from Allegheny as to the reading of my record vote on the Pymatuning dam project where it not that I do not believe that the argument is germain to the issue here. I voted for the Pymatuning project. I evidently thought at that time it was a good project. There was no question of appropriation of Federal money. There was no appropriation at that time on the part of the Federal government. It was entirely a Pennsylvania project, and if it has done something of good to the western part of the State, prevented the flood I am very happy that I voted for it and I have no apologies to offer.

The question I am raising here, and I noticed after I sat down that while I talked about five hundred thousand dollars, that the bill had already been amended to the sum of two million dollars. I do not know, and I doubt if any of the members of this House know how it would be possible to secure two million dollars in Pennsylvania at the present time. If the Federal government has a program of flood control, and if it has the moneys which it will appropriate to the State of Pennsylvania, if the State of Pennsylvania is willing to raise those moneys, I think that that question should be determined by this House after we have seen the program and after we may have had an opportunity to determine the value of the program and the works that are to be performed, but to give two million dollars to the Secretary of Forests and Waters,—and he is from my own county and I have a great deal of respect for him,—to give to that Department a blanket sum of two million dollars which they can expend for surveys, which it can expend in cooperation with the Federal government on projects to me is the wrong way to go about it, especially at a time like this when within six months we are going to have a Regular Session of the Legislature, and if the plans that have been developed are worthy plans, if they are proper plans, if the project is submitted to the Legislature, the appropriations Committee has had an opportunity to go over them and to determine if they can appropriate that amount of money, then I certainly would be in favor of doing that which the State of Pennsylvania can do to eliminate floods in the western part of the State or any other part of the State of Pennsylvania in relieving us from the burdens we have had cast upon us by this recent flood, but I say it is highly improper to appropriate the sum of two million dollars when the Federal Government, as this news item says, has already passed an act providing for the survey; when we know that for years the Army Engineers have been making surveys; when we know that the Department of the Interior through the Board of Natural Resources is already in the field making such studies, it seems to me that it would be a useless expenditure of money and would be wrong for us at this time when we need money so badly in the Commonwealth for unemployment relief, for our hospitals, for our homes; when we need money to make the necessary repairs in many of our institutions, when there is a crying need for appropriations in other parts of the Commonwealth, I say again it is highly improper, to appropriate two million dollars and thus cast a further burden on every taxpayer n Pennsylvania. We ought to find some way of cutting down our present cost of Government. It seems to me it would be the wrong way to go about it and highly improper at this time.

HOUSE BILL NO. 44 SPECIAL ORDER

The SPEAKER. The hour of 10:00 o'clock having arrived the Chair lays before the House the special order of business fixed for this hour, House Bill No. 44, Printer's No. 101, on final passage.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 44, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred and one of the act approved the twenty-second day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred fifty-three) entitled "An act relating to taxation designating the subjects property and persons subject to and exempt from taxation for all local purposes providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of persons property and subjects of taxation for county purposes and for the use of those municipal and quasi-municipal corporations which levy their taxes on county assessments and valuations amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto and repealing existing laws" making the real estate of public service companies with certain exceptions subject to taxation for school purposes

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE (HOUSE BILL No. 70)

The SPEAKER. The House will resume consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 70.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware in discussing House Bill No. 70 unfortunately overlooked the essential feature of the measure. There are Federal funds almost immediately available for flood control projects. There is not, however, a single dollar available for use for the condemnation of the property. Without the passage of this bill or some similar measure nothing could be done in this case were there twenty millions of Federal funds immediately available. I will admit that if it was simply a matter of making preliminary surveys, that there would be no urgency as far as House Bill No. 70 is concerned, but the gentleman from Delaware has pointed out that in a great many instances adequate surveys of headwaters of various streams have been made, and sufficient data has been acquired so that the Federal Government is willing and able, and has appropriated money for immediate action, but Pennsylvania cannot get a dollar of that money unless it can finance the property damages incident to the erection of flood control projects, and therefore I hope that all of the members of this House will vote "aye" on this measure.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I arise to give you some facts relative to this very stupenduous program that is involved in this bill and in two other bills which have already passed this House relative to flood control. We have heard a great deal of the five-fold value of these measures, of conservation, of power, of flood control, of navigation and irrigation. It has been well said by some of the gentlemen on the other side of the House that irrigation is not a part of this problem with us in the East, and so I would substitute the word "recreation," because in the ultimate analysis of all of this development there will be opportunity for the recreation of many people in this Commonwealth who otherwise have no opportunity to have such privileges as are had in other sections, and particularly along the Atlantic seaboard. But I want to direct your attention to certain facts. The other day a report on the Ohio River Watershed was read in which General Markham suggested that certain surveys be made. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that so far as the Federal feature of all of this work is concerned, the Federal Government does provide those surveys; the Federal Government does take care of all of its own work, and the Federal Government does have control of these streams.

A few years ago,—and I have been interested in the development of the Delaware Valley for a grat many years, and I have been an officer of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association, and I secured simply through my Congressman an act that calls for a survey of the Upper Delaware and the Lehigh. Now, that survey includes all five of those features as I have outlined them. I believe that this legislation is in the whole good legislation. I believe that this legislation looks forward to a very fine development, and as Mr. Witkin said a few days ago on the floor, that certain surveys have set forth why certain things should be done to control the waters in the upper regions of our great rivers against floods, and in this respect we have to begin now and take action that shall look to the time when such construction, engineering developments might take place so as to avoid these disastrous floods.

In my home town we suffered severly, and I have in this House a bill for certain protection along the Delaware River at Morrisville, and so in the whole this subject should be approached with care. I believe, and I want to emphasize this one factor, I do not think that it is necessary for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to appropriate moneys for surveys. I believe acts of Congress directed possibly by this House should provide for all of these great rivers,—and God has given to Pennsylvania some wonderful rivers,—the appropriate development for all of this five-fold development such as this House Document No. 219 of the Seventy-third Congress, Second Section,—all of these facts, that is a survey and the data necessary to develop the Delaware and the Lehigh have been had and provided to the Congress without any cost whatsoever to us.

Now, as to the need for funds that shall direct such protective measures as shall be needed against such recurrence of floods until this whole program is consummated, I have no word against them, so, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, just for a few facts that we might better understand our situation.

I believe that Senator Copeland had a comprehensive bill in the United States Senate that called for three hundred fifteen millions for flood control. The allocation of those moneys were so fixed that twenty-five percent of this money would come to those states in the East that were so devastated as no other states were. And of income to the Federal Treasury over 40 per cent of that income comes from these states that were devastated, and there have been no other floods elsewhere comparable to those floods in Pennsylvania.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that in view of the fact that this Commonwealth is one of the greatest industrial states in the Union and because of the fact that so many millions are appropriated to other sections of the country, and that because of the fact in the past we of the East have given so little attention to these grave facts, that regardless of party lines we should be a unit in seeking the development of these great streams within this great Commonwealth, because there are many things at stake. Our great steel industry, our cement, our coal industries are all at stake, and I like to believe that there are three great coordinating features that apply, and such as we should look upon in all lines that should govern the welfare of our State, and that those three features are the three R's of transportation, the rail, the road and the river.

We know that our steel industries are seeking points along deep water, and in some instances in other states. We know that our great coal industry has suffered a tremendous and a devastating shrinkage in the last ten years, and we know that all of these great industries have a great deal at stake, and we in turn have a tremendous interest in these industries because they are the very life blood of the welfare of this Commonwealth.

Now, I point out these things and these items that refer to the general fund and to the need of our standing together for those rights that are ours in the East, and particularly in this Commonwealth, that we should look forward to very constructive legislation that shall ultimately enable the development of all that is set forth in these bills.

I do, as I said before, and I repeat, question the advisability of surveys on the part of any State department to give to the Federal Government, because in the final analysis they do it themselves in their own way anyway and although I deplore those features that are in this bill, I rise, if you please, Mr. Speaker, to express my interest and my desire to see such constructive legislation put upon our books that shall place us in the position in which we belong, and that shall insure to our State those industries that are so vital to our survival.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on Monday, May 25th, upon a bill similar in character, I took the floor and pointed out to the members of the House the derelictions of the Federal Administration at Washington in connection with flood control. You may or may not vote for this bill; that is immaterial. I do not blame the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, for introducing it, because in his district great devastation and destruction of life and property was caused by reason of these floods. I feel, however, that the record ought to show the facts. The facts very simply are these; this is a flood control bill, raised from five hundred thousand dollars to two million. Ten million dollars is not enough if it is going to stop the loss of life, the destruction of property and the loss of billions of dollars in the State of Pennsylvania. Personally I intend to vote "Aye" on this bill, and I am going to vote "Aye" because of the fact that I am cognizant of the fact that the Federal Administration at Washington was most derelict in its duties and I think the members of this House are entitled to know the facts as they are in the face of the floods that occurred in March of 1936. It was pointed out by the War Department through its engineers back in 1933 that for a maximum construction cost of thirty-five million one hundred seventy-five thousand seven hundred dollars, plus an equal sum of approximately thirty-five million dollars, or a total of seventy million dollars, every important community along the Susquehanna River, along the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers, where the greatest amount of life and property was destroyed, that these floods could have been avoided. I think that the House ought to know that the Roosevelt Administration that spent millions, no, billions of dollars upon a great many boondoggles knew in 1932 from these completed plans of the Army engineers, which dated back until that time, and referred particularly to the town of Johnstown, from which my good friend, Mr. Andrews, comes, that all this could have been avoided had the United States Government taken proper advantage of the fact that the Army engineers reported that there ought to be flood control in these districts.

What are the facts? The facts were covered in a very extensive report for the House of Representatives at Washington, House Document No. 306 of the Seventy-fourth Congress, the First Session, a book of one hundred ninty-four pages containing all the facts. What do they show? They show that the entire basic report was sent and forwarded by the district engineers of the United States Government back in October 31, 1933. What happened to this report? It lay dead, it lay dormant, it was not included in the "must" program of the Roosevelt Administration. All of us are cognizant of the fact that all the Roosevelt Administration had to say, was that this was a "must" bill and it would have come out, but two years, six months, twenty-five days later, to-wit, on April 25, 1936, after more than two hundred lives had been lost and half a billion dollars of damages had been sustained and people suffered all kinds of deprivations, then the Senate Commerce Committee for the first time reported this bill out, after the flood had occurred and after the great loss and damage had occurred in the State of Pennsylvania. This report that was submitted in 1933 by the United States Army Engineers was specific.

Back in 1933 they pointed out that the long list of disastrous floods that came to the city of Pittsburgh and the city of Johnstown and to the area that was encircled by the Monongahela and the Allegheny Rivers were subject to floods. These things were pointed out specifically and definitely to the United States Congress and to the Roosevelt Administration. Eighty per cent of the money, to-wit the seventy million dollars that would have been expended, would have been expended upon labor. These reports on December 8, 1934, were slightly amended and gave them a little more particulars concerning the possibilities of flood in western Pennsylvania. They were given the Board's approval on March 25, 1934, one full year before the flood occurred. And what was the result? Did the Democratic Administration include these in their "must" program? No, they did not. House Bill No. 8455, in the United States Congress, introduced on June 14, 1935, by Representative Wilson of Louisiana, in which he said this: "The Committee on Flood Control—" He was chairman of the committee, and he made a report known as Report 1223, 74th Congress, 1st Session, and I quote from that report: "The Committee on Flood Control, to which was referred the bill, House Bill No. 8455, authorizing the construction of certain public works on rivers and harbors for flood control, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report it to the House of Representatives with the recommendation that it do pass.

"The projects selected in this measure have been approved by the Corps of Army Enginers as the most meritorious of a great number of undertakings upon which studies and examinations have been made. Each project has been selected only after having been subjected to intensive study looking closely into the cost, the economic justification of each project, relative merit, and benefits to be derived upon completion of the work.

"The Committee on Flood Control recommend the projects approved in this bill as important contributing factors in reducing flood heights and consequently the elimination of flood disasters throughout the Nation." And that includes Pennsylvania.

What happened to that report? What did the Roosevelt administration do with that report? The answer is they did nothing. I do not blame the gentleman from Allegheny County, Mr. Weiss, for endeavoring at this late stage, after the floods have occurred, and after all the loss of life took place, I do not blame him for endeavoring to ingratiate himself with his constituents in Allegheny County at all. This is a perfectly proper bill; even if he did it for the purposes of ingratiating himself with the citizens, it is a proper flood control bill, but I want to say, as I did on May 25, 1936, that the greatest indictment against the Roosevelt Administration insofar as Pennsylvania was concerned, is the failure on the part of the Democratic administration at Washington to act upon a clear cut, concise, definite report that was submitted to it back in 1933, and every life that was lost, and every dollar that was lost and every bit of anguish that was caused to the citizens in every part of Pennsylvania, in Sunbury, in York and in other parts of Pennsylvania, is directly attributable to the fact that the Roosevelt administration was more interested in political propaganda, in the expending of billions of dollars than it was in passing upon proper flood measures.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, will state his point of order.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is talking on a matter entirely foreign to the issue before the House.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill ought to pass, because the reports of the engineers of the Army showed away back in 1933 that had they spent six million five hundred thousand dollars upon the City of Williamsport, one million one hundred eighty thousand dollars, Harrisburg eighty thousand dollars, then it went down to Sunbury, seventy-two thousand dollars, and I think the citizens of Sunbury are anxious to have House Bill No. 70 passed because they realize that had we spent seventy-two thousand dollars back in 1933, the great amount of trouble would never have occurred, or if in the City of York, from which my good friend, Mr. Cohen, comes, there had been spent the sum of one million seven hundred thousand dollars they would not have had any trouble in York at all.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. JOHN J. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Baker, will state his point of order.

Mr. BAKER. I would like to inquire, Mr. Speaker, whether this is the Cleveland convention or the Legislature at Harrisburg.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is unable to tell.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I will answer that question because in the Cleveland convention the next president of the United States will be nominated, and I am not nominating him here. However, leaving the Cleveland convention out of it for just a few minutes, in Lock Haven, two million two hundred thousand dollars, Muncy two hundred seventy-seven thousand five hundred dollars,—and I have already referred to York with one million seven hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Weiss, the gentleman from Allegheny, says that we ought to spend two millions of dollars. I agree, but as the gentleman from Delaware has said, where are we going to get the two million dollars? The gentleman from Allegheny doesn't seem to want to answer that question, but irrespective of where we are going to get it, I am for appropriating it. I am for spending two million dollars, because it is my firm belief that we ought to study flood control, and then if we make a useless investigation, we ought to make it, but I do say this, that every fact and every substance that we want in this bill is already before us. It is an effort on the part of my Democratic friend to endeavor to curry favor with the people in the Western part of Pennsylvania, and I want to say to the people in the Western part of Pennsylvania that the flood that occurred in March of 1936 never would have occurred had the report that was recommended in the House of Representatives, and subsequently approved by the Senate committee, had that been adopted there never would have been a flood, and I want to say to the gentleman from Allegheny that he is doing a noble thing, because he is endeavoring to correct now the mistake, and the greatest indictment that can be found against a government and that is the indictment that caused these floods because had we spent seventy millions of dollars instead of wasting the time on a great many useless projects that we do not want investigated,—at least you don't want them investigated at this time, if they had spent that, then we would not have needed these two million dollars, but if it is necessary to burden the people of Pennsylvania with two million dollars more, I am for it, because I am for taking care of the mistakes of the Roosevelt Administration that is now seeing its last days.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I was rather reluctant to rise to respond to some of the questions and propaganda raised by my friend from Philadelphia. He must have his political good time and holiday every Monday night and I don't know where he goes or comes from before he comes to the House. I want to say to my good friend from Philadelphia he has evidently been reading some quotations from studying "Billions for Boondoggling but Nothing for Flood Control" written by the Pennsylvania Protective Union, Warren F. Doane, who is evidently interested in flood control in this State and the United States Government for the last twenty-five years. This Pennsylvania Protective Union is a subsidiary or affiliate of the Republican Party. I do not want to read to my good friend on the other side of the House any words from "Billions for Boondoggling but Nothing for Flood Control" nor any words from the Pennsylvania Protective Union, but I want to read him something from a Congressional Report, and I read from the 71st Congress, 2nd Session, Document No. 370, April 25, 1930. This is a statement made during the Hoover regime by the Chief of the Army Engineers. Here is what they think of the possibility of floods in the State of Pennsylvania, and I quote on page 8, paragraph 8, of the Engineers' reports on the probability of future floods as follows: "The normal annual rainfall on the drainage basin of the West Branch of the Susquehanna River is about 40 inches. The mean annual run-off, as determined from the flow records at Williamsport from 1896 to 1926, is 21.4 inches. The nature of the floods on the Susquehanna is such that it is difficult to predict accurately the future probability of floods of various magnitudes. During the 34 years for which continuous records are available at Williamsport, the highest stage reached was 21.7 feet. In the previous 34 years, there were 6 floods which reached a higher state. Two of these reached 30 feet or over, and the discharge was over twice as large as any in the last 34 years. Considering the last 34 years only, the indications are that destructive floods (except those due to ice) come very infrequently. Considering the past 68 years, however, the frequency curve of stages plotted from past records indicates the probability of a recurrence of the 1889 flood once in 75 years; of the 1894 flood once in 45 years; and of the occurrence of a flood high enough to do some damage in Williamsport once in 15 years. According to a formula devised by Lieut. Col. C. R. Pettis the 1889 flood would occur on the average, once in 100 years. Using the Fuller formula, based on the size of floods in the past 68 years, a flood equal to that in 1889 would occur once in 230 years, and one as great as the 1894 flood once in 63 years. Thus we may predict that a flood, as large as that of 1889 might be expected about once in 125 years, and one as large as that of 1894 once in 55 years."

There you are, my friend from Philadelphia. That is your own record, by your own engineers, submitted to the Congressional Record in 1930, saying there is no probability of a flood. We took those records as correct, and Hoover and Harding and Coolidge had reports submitted by Army Engineers for twelve solid years, and no action was taken.

We don't say that the Democrats are infallible, free from error, but we are here now, rectifying those errors. We profit by those mistakes even if the Republicans don't.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Allegheny don't know the facts that I want to state here, that evidently some people were misled by the remarks by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin. He tried to make mention that this report is the first sent to the United States government since the Roosevelt administration is in office. I happen to know something of the flood conditions. Coming from the city of Lock Haven which has been visited by floods. I was on two or three different committees that went to Washington before the Roosevelt administration. The last time we thought we were going to get somewhere. We had a very influential Congressman with us. He told us that the decision was that we could not expect much for Pennsylvania because it was not a "doubtful" State.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I first answer the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Simon, from Lock Haven, referring to the fact that he spoke about Lock Haven. Apparently my Democratic friends pay a lot of attention to the figures of the Hoover Administration that suit them and ignore the figures of the Roosevelt administration that don't suit them. I want to call his attention to the fact—and I refer to the particular little town of Lock Haven on which he served on a lot of committees and seems to know much, and point out to him that though he professes to know very much, he really knows very little. House Bill No. 8455 of the United States Congress, of June 14, 1935, Representatives Wilson of Louisiana in Report No. 1223, 74th Congress, First Session, says this: "That if you spend two million two hundred thousand dollars in the City of Lock Haven you will avoid a subsequent flood," so that whether or not the administration of Hoover in 1930 was wrong, the Democratic Administration in June of 1935, less than one year before the flood hit Lock Haven, had we spent prior to that time two million two hundred thousand dollars, then the gentleman from Clinton would have been able to go back to the citizens of Lock Haven and have told them that the Roosevelt Administration by spending these two million dollars would stop the flood from hitting the city of Lock Haven. But apparently they didn't spend it and didn't stop the disastrous flood that hit that and other cities.

So much for the gentleman from Clinton. I am really amazed at the gentleman from Allegheny who seems to rely very much upon the report of the Hoover Administration. He tells you facts about floods occurring once in seventy-five years, once in forty years and once in thirty years. If he believes in what he says, then there is no use appropriating two million dollars right now, because according to the figures there will be no more flood for forty years from now, and it can wait until the 1937 session, so there is no use worrying about that two million dollars in this session.

But if he does not believe in the figures of the Hoover Administration and he believes the Hoover Administration is wrong when they said something about floods occurring once in seventy-five years, once in sixty years, once in seventy years, and he will pay a little attention to the report of the Democratic Administration, because after all I have a conviction that we ought to pay attention to the Seventy-fourth Congress of 1935 and not to the Seventy-first Congress of 1930 because I believe that with the advance of five years—we have had five years to study the situation—we ought to know and the Democrats ought to be able to discern more in that report than they did in the report of 1930. What is the use of going back to the report of 1930 when we have an up-to-date, wide awake Democratic Administration that has information from a report as late as June 14, 1935, and I am asking him if he has no confidence or lacks the confidence in the report of the Democratic House Committee on Flood Control in 1935. In that bill, House Bill No. 8455, they definitely and advisedly say, "The Committee on Flood Control—" and that is the whole committee, and I assume that if they follow the way that is done in this House, they are all Democrats and no Republicans,—"The Committee on Flood Control recommend the projects approved in this bill as important contributing factors in reducing flood heights and consequently the elimination of flood disasters throughout the nation."

I don't care whether Mr. Doane of the Pennsylvania Protective Union prepared this report or not, because I have not expressed his opinion, I have not expressed his conclusion, I have not expressed his thought, I have not expressed his argument. The only thing I have taken from his report are the facts, and the only facts I have referred to are the facts from the Congressional Record. If the gentleman says that the facts I have quoted from the Congressional Record are wrong, then I am going to admit to him that it is improper to refer to the report, but the facts I have given to him are from the Congressional Record and the Congressional Record shows that had we spent this seventy millions of dollars back in 1933, the floods in the early part of 1936 in Pennsylvania would not have occurred. And for all the persons who died in that flood, and for all the property that was lost in your County of Allegheny, and in the city of Lock Haven, in Sunbury, and in Harrisburg, I say is laid at the door step of the failure of Roosevelt to include the flood control in his "must" budget. He was able to get through Congress by putting down on a "must" list everything he wanted and I say that the indictment and the plea of guilty to that indictment against the Roosevelt Administration and the Democratic Administration is that they did not force through the Congress of the United States those bills that would have prevented those floods in your districts and mine. (The gentleman from Westmoreland aspires to be a Senator.) I say that those things would not have occurred, so, gentlemen, let us go back to the Hoover Administration. He told us that Hoover's Administration was all wet. Some day I will tell you about the next administration, just as soon as they nominate him at Cleveland, and then we will take care of flood control when we do away with boondoggling and wasting the taxpayers money and get back to sensible government, but on this bill you can vote "Aye" if you want to, but remember that when you do, you are voting only to do that which the Federal Government at Washington has utterly failed to do.

They have been derelict in their duty to the people of Pennsylvania, and that is just one of the hundred reasons why Pennsylvania is going to repudiate in November the Democratic Administration, and whether or not I go into a restaurant on Monday before I come here, whether or not I take a drink, no matter what the gentleman from Allegheny may assume I had before I come to the House, may I say to the gentleman from Allegheny just that which I am asking,— I am just asking one fact, and that is that the Democratic Administration at Washington, insofar as the people of Pennsylvania are concerned, are guilty of murder in the loss of two hundred lives in the flood of March, 1936.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is the gentleman from Westmoreland who aspires to be a Senator. This is the first time that we have ever been accused of being murders, but the gentleman from Philadelphia has kind of let himself out a little this evening and stepped beyond the portals of decency, and stated that the Democratic Administration were murderers. You probably wouldn't say that inasmuch as you couldn't, but it seems so ridiculous to have a one-man indictment of an administration, nearly every Monday night based on nothing, no facts.

The thing that appealed to me is the fact that they tell us if we had spent two million dollars at Lock Haven, and a few million dollars here and a few million dollars there, we would have stopped the flood of 1936. And if Noah had built a bigger ark there would have been more people left on earth. You know if we had built these dams, built the locks that were recommended under the Hoover Administration by the army engineers, and we wouldn't have had the flood of 1936, we would have been condemned for boondoggling more than we are tday. If you understand what I am driving at—I didn't expect you to understand, inasmuch as most of you are reading your fraternal paper, "The Inquirer," you couldn't listen. But just imagine this evening, if this Democratic Administration in Washington had accepted the recommendations as provded by the Army engineers, and had proceeded to spend the millions of dollars as recommended by these Army Engineers, to build the so-called dams. and the locks, and so forth—and you notice I separated the dams and the locks—if they had spent that money and then we had not had the floods, God help us in here this evening; we would have been accused of boondoggling all the rest of our days.

The gentleman well prefaces his remarks this evening by saying that he will vote for this bill, inasmuch as he realizes that the State of Pennsylvania necded the flood control program, but he accuses us of not accepting the report of the Army Engineers. I for one will not take the blame for committing murder, inasmuch as I am a part or member of the Roosevelt Administration. I do not believe that our act in not accepting the report of the Army Engineers, is as guilty as the act of bombing and gassing American veterans of wars in Washington by the Hoover Administration. I say to you that the indictment of the Hoover Administration—I almost said "whooier" Administration, and probably I should have said "whooier" Administration, but the indictment of the Hoover Administration is the fact that we have a majority in the House of Representatives in Harrisburg, and I for one am entirely fed up with the proposition of coming here every Monday night and listening to someone who admits that he is wrong in his statement by saying sotto voce, "He is all wet." You know, Mr. Speaker, I think it is about time that someone would call to the attention of the gentleman from Philadelphia—

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his point of information.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, what do those words "sotto voce" mean?

The SPEAKER. I believe the gentleman from Westmoreland did explain the meaning of those words.

Mr. DENT. I will explain it, Mr. Speaker—in Yiddish it means, "under your voice". I mean this, that it is entirely out of proportion that we should come here and listen every Monday night to the ravings of somebody who is particularly peeved because we have a majority in the House of Representatives. I am not to blame that we have a majority in the House. You are to blame, because you not only trifled with flood control, but you trifled with all the sentiments that belong to decency; you trifled with the well-being of the citizens of Pennsylvania, and they defeated you. Likewise they will defeat you in the coming election, and you say that the next President of the United States—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. DENNING. Mr. Speaker. I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Denning, will state his point of order.

Mr. DENNING. Mr. Speaker, I insist that the gentleman —where does he come from?—I insist that the gentleman from Westmoreland at least confine himself to the question or else go back to Westmoreland on Monday night.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, when the gentleman from Philadelphia stated that the next president of the United States would be named in Cleveland, no one objected. I say to the same gentleman from Philadelphia and his colleague who didn't know where I came from, they might be interested to know that you are not the selector of the President. If you over on the other side of the House will give me as much respect as I gave you, you will listen for a minute. I want to say in plain words that you are not the selector of the President of the United States, that if you had your say, the convention naturally would name the President, but it happens to be the one stumbling block, that the people will elect the President, therefore, Roosevelt will be the President.

Mr. DIEHL. Mr. Speaker, I can not see why the gentlemen on the other side of this House would take the report or any reports of the Hoover Administration seriously. I remember some reports that came from the Hoover Administration. One of them was that there would be a chicken in every pot. Another one was, two cars in every garage. Another one, prosperity is just around the corner; and another, prosperity will be here in sixty days.

Now, in the light of those reports I can not see why anybody should criticise the Roosevelt administration for not taking those Army reports seriously.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Ways and Means to meet during the session of the House.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid upon the table.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATING HON. ALBERT E. RINN.

Mr. JAMES W. PATTERSON offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, It is reliably reported by unprejudiced witnesses that the Honorable Albert E. Rinn attained on Saturday, June 6th, his seventy-second birthday, and

Whereas, The Honorable Albert E. Rinn is a leader in this House and one whose quiet, modest influence is a power for good government in this House, therefore be it Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend its heartiest congratulations to the Honorable Albert E. Rinn on the occasion of his seventy-second birthday with the wish that he may celebrate seventy-two more.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 71, Printer's No. 94, on page 5, of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. WEISS.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 71, entitled:

An Act to promote the construction of flood control works and improvements by providing for the appropriation of certain water of the Commonwealth to the Commonwealth and incidental thereto to secure the use thereof for the benefit of the people declaring void certain condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons providing for ascertainment of the validity and the recording of certain condemnations and appropriations of water by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and appeals therefrom conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County in relation thereto providing for future condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and compensation therefor and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Water and Power Resources Board.

Whereas The recent floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere have awakened the people to the necessity of developing appropriate plans and constructing adequate flood control works and improvements to prevent periodic recurrences of such calamities and

Whereas The construction of adequate flood control works and improvements will aid materially in providing an adequate supply of water which is a matter of primary concern affecting the life health and comfort of the people of this Commonwealth and will also permit the supervision and equitable allocation of water which is an essential part of the police power of the Commonwealth which no Legislature should impair or barter away and

Whereas All of the flowing water of the Commonwealth by right belongs to the Commonwealth in trust for the benefit of all of the people thereof and all uses of such flowing water must be regarded as subject to this sovereign right and the right so vested must be regarded also as vesting in the Commonwealth a duty to control the flow of water so as to prevent loss of life and destruction of property and

Whereas The increase of the population of the Commonwealth makes it obligatory on the Commonwealth to control and regulate the flow of our rivers and streams and thereby to secure also an equitable allocation for the best interests of all concerned.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1, page 3, line 4 by inserting after the word "the" and before the word "water" the word: "flowing"

Amend section 1, page 3, line 4 by inserting after the word "water" and before the word "of" the following: "other than private springs or private water supplies"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. DILLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 76, Printer's No. 67, on page 4, of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. DILLEY.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 76, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of the act approved the nineteenth day of January one thousand nine hundred thirty-four Special Session of one thousand nine hundred thirty-three one thousand nine hundred thirty-four Pamphlet Laws two hundred eighty-six) entitled "An act making appropriations out of the State Stores Fund to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct relief work relief and expenses including reimbursement of municipal subdivisions for certain expenditures in connection with work relief projects defining the purposes for which such moneys may be expended providing for the audit of such expenditures and prescribing the powers and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and of Certain State departments by imposing a time limit within which counties cities boroughs incorporated towns townships school districts and poor districts may obtain reimbursements for premiums on workmen's compensation insurance covering persons engaged on certain work relief projects

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that so many members are out attending a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee, I am going to ask the sponsor if he will allow this bill to go over?

The SPEAKER. The Chair was informed that there was no opposition to the bill. For that reason the bill was called up.

Mr. DILLEY. Mr. Speaker, I understood there was no opposition to the bill, at least none has come to my attention.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I don't raise the question because I thought of opposition, but I was at a committee meeting not so long ago and missed my vote in the House, and I was questioning whether or not the members would miss voting on this bill because of being absent serving on a committee during a session.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows: viz:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JUNE 9, 1936. No. 18.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JUNE 9, 1936

The Senate met at 12 o'clock noon.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Oh Thou great Jehovah, creator of all things, preserver of all things, in whom we live, move and have our being, we would worship before Thy throne. Thou art our Father and our God. Without Thee we can do nothing. Thou knowest the beginning and the end of all earthly and heavenly things. Thine eye beholdest all mankind, even fathoming the purposes of human hearts.

We would submit our plans and ideals to Thy scrutiny, asking for Thy approval. May the proposals of this Senate be sanctioned by Thee before they are publicly declared. Only thus can any enactment here made become permanent and beneficial to all our people.

During the present hour lead and guide these Thy servants in their deliberations. We ask it all in the name of Jesus our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BAUMER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE STATE EMERGENCY RELIEF BOARD.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
State Emergency Relief Board,
Harrisburg, June 8, 1936.

The Honorable Thomas C. Kennedy,
Lieutenant Governor
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Kennedy:

House Concurrent Resolution No. 3 of the Special Session of 1936, approved May 13, 1936, made available the sum of $3,630,000.00 to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief, but omitted any provision for the State Veterans' Commission. This resolution will be superseded by House Bill No. 17, upon final enactment, in which Section 4 provides for the allocation of $55,000.00 to the State Veterans' Commission.

Since the total funds made available by House Concurrent Resolution No. 3 have been allocated for unemployment relief purposes, it is necessary that we withdraw $55,000.00 from previous allocations and reallocate this amount to the State Veterans' Commission, subject to the final enactment of House Bill No. 17, in accordance with Section 4 of said Bill.

Sincerely yours,

KARL de SCHWEINITZ,
Executive Director.

HOUSE MESSAGES

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, June fifteenth, 9:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, June fifteenth, at 9:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

He also presented for concurrence bills of the House of Representatives as follows:

House Bill No. 70 (Senate Bill No. 68), entitled:

An Act relating to flood control; prescribing the powers and duties of the Water and Power Resources Board of the Department of Forests and Waters in relation to the creation of flood control districts, adoption of plans for flood control works and improvements, carrying into effect of such plans, assistance, aid and cooperation with public and private agencies and the Federal Government in Federal flood control works and improvements, and entering into compacts and agreements with other states for flood control works and improvements; conferring the power of eminent domain; providing for assessment of benefits against property benefited, and against municipalities, counties and townships, and for their collection; providing for appeals; conferring certain powers on municipalities, counties and townships, the Public Service Commission and the Department of Highways; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

House Bill No. 76 (Senate Bill No. 69), entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of the act, approved the nineteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred thirty-four (Special Session of one thousand nine hundred thirty-three—one thousand nine hundred thirty-four, Pamphlet Laws, two hundred eighty-six), entitled "An act making appropriations out of The State Stores Fund to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct relief, work relief, and expenses, including reimbursement of municipal subdivisions for certain expenditures in connection with work relief projects; defining the purposes for which such moneys may be expended; providing for the audit of such expenditures; and prescribing the powers and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and of certain State departments," by imposing a time limit within which counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, school districts and poor districts may obtain reimbursement for premiums on workmen's compensation insurance covering persons engaged on certain work relief projects.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. THOMPSON (Westmoreland), from the Committee on Game and Fisheries, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 66 (House Bill No. 83), entitled:

An Act relating to the keeping of animals wild by nature, in captivity upon any street or highway, or upon land adjoining any street or highway, or in the vicinity of any commercial establishment for the evident purpose of attracting trade; preventing cruel, improper and inhuman treatment of such animals and protecting the public from injuries thereby; providing for the granting of permits for roadside menageries, as herein defined conferring powers and imposing duties on the Board of Game Commissioners and prescribing penalties

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 29 (House Bill No. 22), as follows:

An Act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collection and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the following words terms and phrases used in this act are for the purposes hereof defined as follows

"Liquor" Any alcoholic spirituous vinous fermented or other alcoholic beverage or combination of liquors and mixed liquor a part of which is spirituous vinous fermented or otherwise alcoholic and all drinks or drinkable liquids preparations or mixtures intended for beverage purposes which contain more than one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume except alcohol and malt or brewed beverages

"Department" The Department of Revenue of this Commonwealth

"Board" The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board of this Commonwealth

"Fiscal Month" The monthly period established from time to time by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board for the purpose of conducting its business

Section 2 Until the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven an emergency State tax is hereby imposed and assessed at the rate of ten per centum of the net price of all liquors sold by the board The tax herein imposed shall be collected by the board from the purchasers of the liquor from the board All taxes collected by the board under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the State Treasury through the department in the manner and within the times herein specified and shall be credited to the General Fund

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the board to transmit to the department on or before the fifteenth day of each calendar month a statement of its receipts from sales of liquor and taxes collected during the preceding fiscal month and such other information as may ge necessary to effectuate the provisions of this act at which time it shall also be the duty of the board to pay to the department the tax imposed upon such liquor by the provisions of this act

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TRAINER. Mr. President, I do not notice the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, being here this morning, so that I should not be called for the fact that I am talking on the subject that perhaps I am interested in.

When one comes into this beautifully decorated room and looks at the paintings on the wall—and to think that America was established for the purpose of freedom and justice and independence, and how well we are being treated, and then when we gaze on the front of it and think of the gentleman on horseback, and the early days in Boston, when the Boston Tea Party started from unjust taxation—before you vote on this bill I just want to call your attention to a few facts.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, but not about the Tea Party!

Mr. TRAINER. Mr. President, it is a little stronger than tea if you take enough of it. I understand in England they have tea drunks, too; but we have never got that far here.

There is an internal revenue tax of $2.00 a gallon put on whiskey. When you rectify whiskey there is another additional tax of thirty cents. There is also four cents a gallon tax for stamps, to say nothing of your State stamps. The average cost of a gallon of whiskey—and I am very liberal in the profits—is fifty cents, which figures out the taxation on a gallon of whiskey at 468%, plus an additional tax of 60% in our State liquor stores, which brings it up to 528%. And then we take in another 10%, which brings it up to 538% of tax on one article.

The Boston Tea Party led to one thing, and in all probability we are going to keep on taxing the people of Pennsylvania—those, at least, who do happen to enjoy a drink, —and where are we going to stop? It is true, as the Department will tell you, that the outlying States are selling liquor at a greater cost than we are in Pennsylvania, and perhaps Pennsylvania is doing good business because of that; but I just want to call your attention this morning that when you are going to put on a 538% tax on an article, the people feel they are pretty well taxed already.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—4

Aron,	Pierson,	Trainer,	Ziesenheim,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 39 (House Bill No. 49), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend sections four and five of the act, approved the nineteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws, one thousand three hundred fifty-one) entitled "An act making appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of an act, approved the tenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws, eight hundred ninety-three), entitled 'An act providing for assistance to certain mothers; providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth, and for the appointment of a State Supervisor and assistants, and fixing the salaries of such State Supervisors and assistants; defining the powers and duties of boards of trustees including the power of appointing assistants and investigators, and the distribution of funds at their disposal; providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties, and requiring counties coming under the provisions of the act to appropriate certain moneys; and providing penalties,' as amended," by providing for the payment to newly organized counties of amounts set aside for unorganized counties for both the first and second fiscal years of the current biennium go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I do not think we can well afford to allow any of this social security legislation to go over on the calendar this week. We were informed last night that the dead line on applications of Pennsylvania to get the benefit of some of this social security legislation in the three months beginning July 1st would be the 20th of June. I have verified that since that time and find that it is not the 20th of June, but the last time for the Commonwealth to file application with the Federal Government is the 15th of June. We must act on this social security legislation to get the benefit of these three months beginning July 1st, we must act this week.

Mr. PRESIDENT. I wish to object to any further delay in the social security legislation, or action being deferred.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 39 (House Bill No. 49), on third reading, be recommitted to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I desire to state, as I have stated before, that I have no intention of unduly delaying this bill, or the other bills that were referred to the Committee on State Government, commonly known as the social security bills. It is my intention to call a meeting of the Committee next Monday night to consider this bill if it is returned, and the other bill bearing on that subject.

I desire to correct one impression which has been given here, and that is that all this social security legislation has been in the Senate for some time. It was only last evening that one of the bills came over from the House. I think these bills should be carefully considered. When they were put out it was the understanding that amendments would be submitted, and amendments will be submitted. That was my purpose. This is simply a companion bill of the Brancato bill. They should all be considered together, and I will give the assurance that they will be considered next Monday evening by the Committee on State Government.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, if the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, is correct, that June 15th is the latest date, and not June 20th, then, it seems to me, we are in a very embarrassing position. The Chairman of the Committee on State Government has an important case in court this week; but, even so, it seems to me that the Committee ought to take some action, if the Senator from Centre is correct in his statement. Otherwise we are putting the Legislature of Pennsylvania into a very unintelligent position.

You have got to take your stand either for or against social security. As I understand it, the State that turns down the social security bills is cutting off its nose to spite its face; but, even so, the hook is so baited that you cannot resist it.

Now, it is logical to oppose social security, and it is logical to support it; but certainly it is not logical or intelligent to fall between the two stools; and I therefore, from the floor, ask the Chairman of the Committee on State Government to hold a meeting this week. The most controversial bill is the bill on unemployment insurance, and that is not in the Committee on State Government—I do not know what Committee that is in; but the other matters are not controversial, and I dislike very much to see the Senate drifting into a very illogical position.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, while I was talking to other parties interested in social security legislation in a telephonic communication with Washington, and while the instructions which were sent out definitely said that the 15th of June was the last time to file an application, the parties in Washington agreed, just while I was speaking a few moments ago, that the 20th would be satisfactory to have the applications on file, we could go until the 20th in spite of the instructions that had been mailed out to the Department of Welfare. So with this information I would defer to the request of my colleague from Dauphin and not oppose this bill being recommitted. I would suggest, however, that he renew his first request and let the bill go over in its order.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT WITHDRAWN

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I will withdraw my motion to recommit, if the seconder agrees to withdraw his second.

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I will agree to withdraw my second.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

The PRESIDENT. The motion to recommit is withdrawn, and also the objection to the original request is withdrawn, and the Chair rules that there is no objection to the bill going over in its order.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both Houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 56, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping the water from anthracite coal mines which have been flooded, directly or indirectly, by the high waters during March, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered to be laid aside for second reading.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his point of order.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, as the godfather of my good friends to the right used to say, "What is the Constitution among friends?"—but Article II, Section 14, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania provides "Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting."

I [illegible] that it is entirely out of order [illegible] House to adjourn on Tuesday evening. Certainly, we are not in a position to adjourn. We have been down all afternoon listening to a discussion on the social security legislation, and it seems to me we can well stay over this evening and have a meeting of the Committee on State Government, to which this legislation has been committed, and get to work and dispose of some of these things, particularly when it is in direct defiance of the Constitution for this Senate to adjourn.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in reply to the point of order raised by the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, I submit that there is nothing to it, for the reason that we did have the consent of the House that when we adjourn this week we shall adjourn until next Monday evening.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, we do not have consent from the House that we shall adjourn this evening; its consent is only as to the time of reconvening next week.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, and for adjourning this week.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, there is no consent to the time of our adjourning this week.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I ask that the resolution be read.

The concurrent resolution on Time of Next Meeting was read as follows:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene Monday evening, June 15th, at 9 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene Monday evening, June 15th, at 9 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution was concurred in by the House of Representatives last evening.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I submit that there is no consent on the part of the House of Representatives, contained in that resolution, for our adjourning this evening.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order raised by the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, is well taken, and that the resolution, in itself, does not set aside that particular part of the Constitution. The point of order is sustained.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I appeal from the decision of the Chair, and ask for time to write out the appeal.

After the appeal was written it was read as follows:

In the Senate, June 9, 1936.

To the President of the Senate:

We, the undersigned, respectfully appeal from the decision of the Chair, wherein you sustained the point of order raised by Senator Thompson, from Centre, on the question of adjournment until Monday, June 15th.

Respectfully submitted,

CLARENCE J. BUCKMAN,
CHARLES H. EALY,
LEROY E. CHAPMAN,
JOHN J. McCLURE.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I expect this is a little irregular, but I would like to say what I have in mind with respect to this resolution. This is a concurrent resolution passed by both Houses. If I may be permitted, it reads as follows:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene Monday evening, June 15, at 9 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene Monday evening, June 15th, at 9 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time."

Now, I think that that means, as far as the Senate is concerned, that the House is giving the Senate permission to adjourn. That is implied in the thought, or statement that when we do adjourn we shall reconvene next week. It follows, of course, that we cannot reconvene next week, next Monday night unless we adjourn in the meanwhile; and I think it is implied clearly that we were given permission, at the time they passed that resolution—at the moment they passed that resolution, to adjourn at any time, with the provision that we come back here next Monday night.

If it were a resolution passed by the Senate, and a separate resolution had been passed by the House, perhaps the same reasoning or conclusion could not be reached; but, being a concurrent resolution—in other words, both Houses consented to the same thing.

It is impracticable, it seems to me for the House to say the Senate shall adjourn, say, at five o'clock today and reconvene next Monday night; but when they say, when we do adjourn this week we must come back next Monday night, it clearly, in my mind, gives us permission to adjourn any time after the resolution has been passed by the House.

I do not think that this point of order should have been raised, for I know of no other practical way to do it. I have been through these discussions in the past—I have been here a good many years, and I have never been able to find anybody who could place this resolution in better shape than that, and I have never heard of anybody questioning the intent of the House to give us permission to adjourn at any time we see fit after we have passed the resolution.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I have to disagree with my colleague, the Senator from Monroe County, Mr. Huffman, but I think if such is the practice, and the decision he refers to is correct, the same would have been included in the list of decisions that is printed on page 189 of the Pennsylvania Manual, which, so far as I know, is the only list of decisions which is used to guide us.

If you will refer to the very first decision that is contained therein, under "Adjournment," you will see that a similar point was raised, and that the Senate adjourn from Tuesday until Friday, which, as far as the decisions are concerned, bears out the only decision on the point—the point I have raised here. I fail to see how by any stretch of the imagination you can imply any concurrence by the House of Representatives in this decision to adjourn. This decision on adjournment, the first decision printed in our Pennsylvania Manual here, of course, is not exactly in point, but you will observe that the House, or the Senate, when it adjourned, if it saw fit, under the constitutional point of order raised, adjourned from Tuesday until Friday and not from Tuesday until Monday.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I think that the contention of the Senator from Centre would be well taken if the House had refused to adopt the resolution that was sent over by the Senate. In that case the Senate then could not adjourn, or could only recess for the three calendar days, but it certainly would appear that when they had given us consent it is implied that we will adjourn when our business is concluded. Only last week the House adjourned before the Senate did. They did not send over and ask any special permission from the Senate to adjourn, they adjourned when their business was completed for the week, and I cannot see that there is any violation of the Constitution in our proceeding to adjourn when our business is concluded for the week under that resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to supplement its ruling with this statement, that the Chair doubts that the implications referred to, as such, in the resolution could in reality set aside by implication, a clear cut section of the Constitution itself, which reads: "neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses will be sitting." The Chair is of the opinion when it made the ruling that implications in the resolution cannot set that clear clause aside. Appeal has been taken from the decision of the Chair. The Secretary will read the appeal.

The appeal was read as follows:

In the Senate, June 9, 1936.

To the President of the Senate:

We, the undersigned, respectfully appeal from the decision of the Chair wherein you sustained the point of order raised by Senator Thompson, Centre, on the question of adjournment until Monday, June 13th.

Respectfully submitted,

CLARENCE J. BUCKMAN,
CHARLES H. EALY,
LEROY E. CHAPMAN,
JOHN J.McCLURE.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his point of information.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in voting on this resolution I will have to be guided, of course, whether or not the House did consent in a joint resolution to the adjournment. That would depend upon whether or not the resolution read "when the Senate and House adjourn," or that the resolution reads, "the House shall adjourn." The resolution was re-read as follows:

In the Senate, June 8, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday evening, June 15th, at nine o'clock. Eastern Standard Time, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday evening, June 15th, at nine o'clock (Eastern Standard time).

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think there is no implication that we shall adjourn at any time, and that the resolution means that whenever we do adjourn, whatever that means, adjournment shall be until next week. In other words, it is a reconvening resolution and not an adjournment resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Of course, the implication has been carried on by long usage, which was never challenged; that implication is now challenged. It is a question of whether usage or the Constitution applies and the Chair has ruled that the implication in the resolution does not set aside that Constitution provision of three days limit. An appeal has been taken.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information on the point of order appealed from.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the point of order being on the Constitutional question whether or not the resolution is in violation of the Constitution, what is the number voting required to overcome the decision of the Chair? In other words, I would like to know whether it requires a Constitutional majority, this involves a Constitutional question.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion, without looking up the rule, that a majority of those present, assuming that there is a quorum present, decides the question. The Chair calls the President Pro Tempore of the Senate to preside.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The question is shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate? Those who vote "aye" vote to sustain the decision of the Chair, those who vote "no" not to sustain the decision of the Chair.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) and Mr. FREY and were as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The decision of the Chair is not sustained, the appeal stands.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I renew my former motion, to adjourn until next Monday evening at nine o'clock.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there being some question about whether or not the Senate can adjourn, I now offer an amendment to the motion, which is that the House consent to the Senate adjourning.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object to the amendment.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thinks that the amendment is hardly in accord with parliamentary practice and rules that the amendment is out of order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. CORDIER. RESOLUTION No. 22.

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, Many State-aided hospitals are in dire need of financial aid for the maintenance of indigent patients for the reasons that the condition of the State Treasury has caused the fiscal officers to withhold the payment of hospital requisitions because of the unpreferred nature of these appropriations; and

Whereas, Many unemployed persons are in need of free hospitalization, which can only be provided by the State-aid which was appropriated; and

Whereas, At the last Regular Session of the Legislature some $120,000,000 of new revenue was raised, one-half of which was designed to aid in balancing the budget for the fiscal biennium; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Revenue be requested to furnish the House of Representatives by Monday June 15, 1936, or as soon thereafter as may be, a statement of the estimated revenues to be collected during the remainder of the present fiscal biennium, and that the Auditor General be requested to furnish to the House of Representatives not later than Monday June 15, 1936, or as soon thereafter as may be, a statement of the total amount of appropriations for the present fiscal biennium which remain unpaid and unrequisitioned, together with the amount of money in the General Fund, and the amounts due, if any, to special funds from the General Fund, and which are payable from such revenues to be collected during the remainder of the fiscal biennium from existing revenue sources;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Revenue and the Auditor General by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. SURFACE. RESOLUTION No. 23.

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Whereas, The unemployed people need and want work which many are unable to obtain under present conditions; and

Whereas, All needy persons must be given relief by the State and Nation until work for their support can be developed or obtained; and

Whereas, The cost of relief administration under present conditions is $30,000 per day; and

Whereas, It is believed that a less expensive administration of relief can be obtained through the established channels of State and local governments; there be it

Resolved, That we the members of the State Legislature, do hereby ask that the plan and method of relief administration be changed from that at present in vogue to a system by which the relief will be given through former existing channels of State and municipal governments to and including local poor boards; and be it further

Resolved, That 25% of the actual money paid for relief be paid by the local relief board or poor board which shall include all payment for poor or indigent and unemployed, excepting for old age pensions and mothers' assistance pensions.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. SOWERS. RESOLUTION No. 24.

In the House of Representatives, June 8, 1936.

Resolved, That the Department of Highways be requested to furnish to the House of Representatives estimates of the cost of constructing a three lane State highway known as Route No. 230 from the City of Harrisburg to the City of Lancaster including relocations of the present State highway so as to eliminate at least seven of its most dangerous curves.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Department of Highways by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 88, entitled:

An Act imposing and providing for the collection of a tax for State purposes on the gross receipts of persons copartnerships associations and corporations derived from the business of supplying water electric current and natural or artificial gas for domestic and industrial purposes

The first to the eighth sections inclusive were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the word "company" as used in this act shall be construed to include persons copartnerships associations and corporations but shall not include municipal and quasi-municipal corporations.

Section 2 Every company engaged in the business of supplying water electric current natural or artificial gas or any admixture of natural and artificial gas which imposes and collects a fine or penalty upon delinquent accounts shall be assessed and be liable to pay a tax for State purposes of fifty per centum upon each dollar of the gross receipts of such fines and penalties received by said company upon the business done wholly within this State

Section 3 For the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the tax it shall be the duty of every person or the treasurer or other proper officer or member of every copartnership association and corporation to transmit to the Department of Revenue on or before the first days of January and July of each year a report under oath or affirmation of the amount of gross receipts of the said company derived from fines and penalties imposed and collected by said company upon the business done wholly within this State during the period of six months immediately preceding the first days of December and June of each year

The time for filing reports may be extended by the Department of Revenue as is now provided for by the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws three hundred forty-three) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" (Commonly known as "The Fiscal Code") and its amendments in the case of taxes on gross receipts of corporations associations copartnerships and individuals from business done wholly within this Commonwealth

Section 4 The taxes imposed by this act shall be settled by the Department of Revenue on reports filed and shall be collected in the same manner and subject to the same procedure in all respects as is provided by the said Fiscal Code for the settlement and collection of taxes on gross receipts from business done wholly within this Commonwealth Promptly after the date of any settlement the Department of Revenue shall send by mail or otherwise a copy thereof to the company with which the settlement was made

Section 5 If the Department of Revenue is not satisfied with the report filed by any company it is hereby authorized to make a settlement and determine the tax due based upon facts contained in the report or upon any information within its possession or that shall come into its possession and send such settlement promptly as hereinbefore required

Section 6 If no report has been filed as required by this act within the time prescribed by law or any extension thereof granted by the Department of Revenue then after demand by the Department of Revenue to file any report necessary to enable the department to settle any tax against the company if the department should deem it more conducive to the public interest because of the supposed smallness of the tax or for any other reason not to proceed to compel the exhibition of the taxpayers account it may make an estimated settlement from any previous account or from any other reasonable data of the probable amount of the account of the delinquent but in every such case it shall add to every such estimated settlement an amount not exceeding fifty per centum to include any losses which might otherwise accrue to the Commonwealth from such neglect or refusal to furnish accounts and the Department of Revenue shall proceed to recover the amount so due the Commonwealth as in other cases of tax accounts

From any estimated settlement there shall be no right to file a petition for review or to appeal but the Department of Revenue with the approval of the Department of the Auditor General may upon petition permit the required report to be filed and thereupon make a settlement based upon such report and cancel the estimated settlement From the department's refusal to permit the filing of a report in such cases there shall however be no right to file a petition for review or to appeal

Section 7 The tax imposed by this act shall become due and payable sixty days after the date of settlement unless there shall be a resettlement in which case the amount of the resettlement shall become due and payable sixty days after the date of the resettlement All such taxes shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from sixty days after the date of settlement until the same is paid except where appeals have been taken from settlements made by the Department of Revenue or by the Board of Finance and Revenue Any judgment recovered on such tax except where appeals have been taken as aforesaid shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum until paid and where resettlement has been made the balances finally found to be due the Commonwealth shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from sixty days after the date of the first or original settlement

Section 8 Any company aggrieved by a settlement made by the Department of Revenue may petition the department for a resettlement request by petition the Board of Finance and Revenue for a review of any resettlement made and appeal from the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue or in case of its failure to act in the same manner and within the same periods of time in all respects as is provided in the said Fiscal Code approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws three hundred forty-three) in the case of taxes on gross receipts of individuals done wholly within the State

The ninth section was read as follows:

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 30, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article three of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof

That article three be amended by adding thereto the following

Section 20.1 The General Assembly may provide for compensation for unemployment and for benefits or assistance to classes of persons or minors physically or socially handicapped or without adequate means of support may require employers or employes or both to contribute thereto and may appropriate monies for any such purpose No such legislation and no such appropriations shall be deemed prohibited by any other provision of this Constitution

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid upon the table.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 85, as follows:

An Act to safeguard persons receiving or entitled to public relief from political coercion and to prevent political promises in return for public relief and prescribing penalties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be unlawful for any person directly or indirectly to deny relief or take away or procure the taking away or to threaten to take away or threaten to procure the taking away any grant of relief to or from any person who is lawfully entitled thereto for the reason that such person registered or refused to register in a certain political party or voted or refused to vote for the candidate or candidates of a certain political party or directly or indirectly to promise to grant or to promise to secure a grant of relief for any person whether or not lawfully entitled thereto if such person promises or agrees directly or indirectly to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party It shall be unlawful for any person whether or not lawfully entitled to relief directly or indirectly to promise or agree to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party in order to procure or aid in procuring or to prevent the taking away of any relief or to solicit relief by directly or indirectly promising to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party Any person violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) or to suffer imprisonment not exceeding one year or both

The word "relief" as used in this act shall mean any cash or check or any relief order redeemable in merchandise or any merchandise in kind paid for paid or payable out of public moneys appropriated or made available for the support of residents of this Commonwealth who are unemployed and without means of support

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. NAGLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 2 of title, by inserting after the part-word "lief" the following: "or working in private employment".

Amend title, page 1, line 3 of title, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment".

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 5, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment".

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 8, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment".

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment".

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 12, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment".

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 13, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment".

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, for the reason that the amendments offered are a bold attempt to kill this bill, I object to the granting of unanimous consent to the insertion of these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. NAGLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I ask you to vote this motion down for the reason that I gave in objecting to unanimous consent for the insertion of these amendments. The amendments which you have heard read are amendments that are framed for the sole and exclusive purpose of killing this bill. The bill is its present form as introduced by me, passed out of your committee, and last evening the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, offered certain amendments which in my opinion helped the bill and helped the purpose of the bill, and I readily agreed to accept those amendments.

The bill as it is on the calendar is in a form, and covers the subject matter of political coercion in relief, so that if passed by this House it will be constitutional and will be enacted into law. The attempt to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading is an attempt to open up the door to insert amendments so that political coercion may continue to run rampant in Pennsylvania under the Democratic regime of this House, and I desire to ask the membership of this House to prevent this bill from going back on second reading in order that it can be so completely annihilated by an insertion that is clearly unconstitutional, by an insertion that clearly kills the bill, and I ask you to vote "No" on the motion to reconsider.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia objects to the insertion of these amendments because he is fearful that these amendments might result in the death of the bill. These amendments merely extend the criminal provision as to political coercion from relief to other endeavors in this Commonwealth. If the gentleman from Philadelphia feels that he does not want the industrialists, the employers, the oil people to resort to political coercion, then he can vote "No" on the bill and the bill possibly will be killed, but the attempt on the part of these amendments is to extend to all workers, to all citizens whether they be recipients of relief or whether they be recipients of a pay employes from employers, the protection of this act.

This bill or these amendments will extend to the citizens of Pennsylvania an opportunity to exercise their free and God-given right of franchise without encroachment from any source whatever, and I ask the membership of this House to vote in support of these amendments.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if the gentleman from York is sincere in his statements, and if he is sincere in his willingness to go along with the subject matter of this bill insofar as political coercion deals with relief only, then he as the Democratic floor-leader of this House will withdraw these amendments, and introduce a separate bill governing exactly the subject matter of private employment. He knows, he ought to know, that the endeavor to put into one bill public expenditures of money for relief and political coercion as against that, and an entirely different subject matter of private employment, is going to make this bill both unconstitutional and illegal. Now, if he wants to accomplish his purpose, he will let this bill go through as it is. This bill aims at relief crookedness; this bill aims at the interference of political hangers-on from threating and promising recipients of relief, of relief orders being taken away or the promise to give those whether lawfully or unlawfully entitled to relief, a relief order.

What has that got to do with the right on my part to ask a man who is working for me to vote a Republican or a Democratic ticket? What right has it got to stop you, if you have got lots of employes, from asking them to vote for you or for any other particular person? I am not concerned, and I frankly say I am not concerned with the question of whether or not an employer asks an employee to vote one way or another, whether it be for or against a Republican or for or against a Democratic ticket. I am concerned in this bill with the matter of political machinations, public expenditures for relief. I am protecting in this bill public funds, monies that are paid out under the guise of being paid only to those who are in need. This bill is aimed to stop political hangers-on, particularly in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, those of the Democratic party, from going to the voters before election and telling them if they don't vote for the Democratic ticket their relief money will be taken away. It is aimed to stop those political hangers-on before an election from going to people not entitled to relief and telling them they will get relief if they vote the Democratic ticket.

I am concerned with stopping political coercion where it deals with public funds, and the attempt on the part of the Democratic Administration to kill this bill by inserting therein private employment is a false, base attempt to kill it by indirection.

Now, if you stand for the proposition of which your amendment speaks, introduce such a bill,—I will vote for it,—I will support it, but don't try to pull the wool over the eyes of the people of Pennsylvania by telling them that you want all people to have the right to vote as they please. It is about time that you adopted that principle, but right now we are making you adopt it insofar as concerns the corrupt use for political purposes of the State Emergency Relief Board funds, and I retiterate that we ought to vote this motion down so as to leave this bill as is.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I have spent the greater part of this session trying to establish some sort of common ground with the gentleman from Philadelphia, the minority leader. None has regreted more than I have the unseemly partisan divisions that have arisen at times, and I have rejoiced when the gentleman from Philadelphia has moved forth for the purpose of purifying the political situation. And I was particularly pleased, Mr. Speaker, when I saw this particular bill upon the calendar, because it seemed to me that undoubtedly with such a rightful purpose it would be possible to agree. And it occurred to me, as it occurred to other members on this side of the House, that there was not any particular reason why the gentleman from Philadelphia should spend all of his time spading one little portion of the political garden to get the weeds out of it, and we thought we would return this bill and make political purification as wide as the State of Pennsylvania. We wanted to help him, and we still find him perverse when we take his motive and he rejects our proffer. There seems to be no agreeing. The great curse in Pennsylvania is coercion. The greatest threat to constitutional government, democratic government, is fear. There is no greater fear than the fear of losing a job and so we simply propose to the gentleman from Philadelphia, without regard to his fine constitutional distinction, that upon the day when this House says that all of those connected with the relief organizations shall be free, that we shall also say to the people of Philadelphia that all of those people in our industries shall likewise be free. We say to him that if the political boss can say to the relief recipients to do thus and so, that we in the same breath will say to the industrial man that he cannot say to his payroll to do thus and so.

The gentleman from Philadelphia can wind himself up in legalistic discussions concerning the Constitution as much as he likes, but the plain simple issue here is to crush coercion, and to crush coercion in every sector of political endeavor, and if the gentleman from Philadelphia is so interested in freeing the populace from threats, he will accept this amendment, and the two sides of this House will move forward triumphantly to end political coercion which he has repeatedly so denounced.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if we were to go along with the motion to reconsider and bring this bill back on second reading, would the gentleman from York, as the leader of the Democratic majority of this House, agree to incorporate in House Bill No. 85 the WPA jobs?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in answer to that question I might say that we have the decision of Mr. Witkin's own judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia which indicates that he has no right whatsoever to legislate on WPA, but I would say that we would have no objections to so doing, provided that we would also get the Philadelphia gravey train in on this bill, namely, the municipal employes of the County and City of Philadelphia.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman first answer yes or no on my question: "Will you agree to incorporate in the amendments to House Bill No. 85 the provisions of House Bill No. 84, making it a criminal offense the threaten or discharge or procure the discharge or promise of employment under the WPA in House Bill No. 85?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. YOURISHIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Luzerne Mr. Yourishin will state his point of order.

Mr. YOURISHIN. The question before the House is the amendment of House Bill No. 85 and not a conference between the Republicans and Democrats.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is the motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WITKIN. Will the gentleman answer my question —will he agree to that, or will he not?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot speak for the Democratic majority.

Mr. WITKIN. We found that out, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. I would say that his idea has some merit and value, and I would extend that idea even to the County Commissioners office in Philadelphia.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman include every employe in the State of Pennsylvania, including the departments under His Excellency, the Governor?

Mr. COHEN. Why, Mr. Speaker, they come right along under the appointments of the honorable gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree to include WPA particularly in this bill, and also every other employe, State, municipal or county, in every county of Pennsylvania, in this bill?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, my thought—

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman to never mind his thought. Will he answer my question?

Mr. COHEN. Due to the fact that my orders, Mr. Speaker, do not come down from the hidden government, I am not able to speak for the Democratic majority.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I notice that the gentleman's hidden government is here.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that my own personal views in the matter are that this bill could be further amended to include private and public employment.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is willing to try to amend anything that will help kill the bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes, will state his point of order.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, we are not conducting an interrogation but a conference across the House.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. Does the gentleman wish to proceed with the interrogation?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I am through with the interrogation. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, answer me in his usual frank and honest way, whether or not he would be in favor of incorporating in this bill, if, returned to second reading, the provision of House Bill No. 84 with which I presume the gentleman is familiar, dealing with the WPA? I would like to get the gentleman's expression as to whether he believes that that ought to be included.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman wants my private convictions on that matter I will go into private conference with him at any time and not take the time of this House, because the question has no relevency to the point before the House at the present time.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire not the gentleman's private opinion, or I would not ask it of him in public. I ask his opinion as a Legislator upon the floor of the House of Representatives, where I am entitled to ask it and where the gentleman is free to answer frankly or refuse to answer. Will the gentleman please state his position on placing WPA political coercion in the bill?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EROE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Eroe, will state his point of order.

Mr. EROE. The gentleman's question is out of order.

The SPEAKER. In answer to the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Eroe, the Chair feels it is entirely up to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, whether or not he wishes to answer the questions.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, if the House wishes to bear with me, I will answer the question of the gentleman from Philadelphia. I will be glad to do anything that this House would have me do. The gentleman from Philadelphia knows that we can not legislate concerning the WPA. We can pass his bill as he introduced it, and we can pass his bill as amended, and that far we are safe, and the gentleman from Philadelphia himself proposes to include in the measure features which would kill it.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I further interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be further interrogated

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is entirely up to the House. If the House finds it either diverting or entertaining or informative I am glad to go ahead and any time the House wants us to call a halt to this discussion which has no relelancy to the question before the House——

Mr. WITKIN. May I ask the gentleman not to call for help until he needs it worse than he does now?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, will state his point of order.

Mr. EBERHARTER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, wishes to get the permission of the Speaker to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews. He inserted a side remark which was not an interrogation, and which to say the least is not very complimentary to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, and I move that that remark be stricken from the records.

The SPEAKER. In answer to the point of order raised by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, the Chair wishes to state that a motion to expunge is not in order until the main question is disposed of.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I was in the process of interrogating the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will proceed.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, did I not understand the gentleman correctly a few moments ago, when we were discussing the first amendments, to say that he was not concerned with legalistic argument, but that what he wanted to do was to make this bill all far-reaching, or words to that effect.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I said that I wanted to bring in the private employers, that I wanted to end coercion as far as we legally could.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am not under the impression that my opinions are valuable———

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman must answer yes or no as to whether he wishes to be interrogated, and can not make a speech. If he wants the floor to make a speech, he can take it afterwards, but I am asking now whether he desires to be interrogated. He must say either yes or no.

The SPEAKER. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia is not well taken. The Chair recognized the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to answer the gentleman. The interrogation is something I suffer, not something I invite or desire.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire further to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, one more question.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, my interrogation will take more than one question. Does the gentleman wish or does he not wish to be interrogated on the subject matter before this House.

Mr. EROE. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. John E. Brown, Alexander, Nagel, Shaw, Baine, Cochran, Welsh, Kelso, Klingler, Shugarts, Hetrick, Holland, Tronzo, Kobelak, Bradley, John J. Baker, Schaeffer. Fitch, Hirsch, Eberharter, LaRue and others,

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. BLUMBERG and were as follows:

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed second reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by by which the title was agreed to be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by by which the House agreed to the various sections be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

The first section of the bill was read by the Clerk.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 5, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment."

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 8, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 12, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 13, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, most of the arguments in opposition to these amendments were made in the course of the arguments and interrogations that were permitted or that were agreed to in the motion to reconsider. I regret that in those arguments and in that debate it became necessary for some members of this House, for whom I have the highest regard, both as to their ability and frankness, to refuse to answer questions in order that we may have full light upon this subject. The matter is very clear. This bill provides very simply this, it stops political coercion, political threats, promises, insofar as recipients of relief are concerned, prospective receipients of relief. The monies for relief are public monies, come out of the taxpayers' pocket. On the call issued it was a call to provide relief or to raise money for relief. The enactment of this bill into law would result in less money coming out of the taxpayers' pocket, because it would stop many persons from getting relief because of political corruption and political coercion, so that the bill as it now reads is clearly within the call. The amendments are introduced why? The Democratic Administration of this State released these bills from committee most reluctantly. They realized one to kill the other known as the WPA, and then they became alarmed. Alarmed at what? Because throughout the Commonwealth the newspapers, the editorials said it was legislation that was well calculated and ought to be enacted into law, and the Democratic high command in this State saw their walls collapsing before them. They envisioned September, they envisioned October, they envisioned November and saw where the political hanger-on in a political precinct or division is going to be robbed of his greatest implement by taking away from him the right to ask or to interfere with, cajole and coerce recipients of relief or those in need, and so word comes from the high command "We are alarmed at this bill; it may become a law. What are we going to do then? A bulwark of our defense for the Presidential election shall have disappeared. Stop it." Are we cowardly, too cowardly to stop it by voting against it? Are you fearful of political results if you vote "No"? What What are you going to do? I admire courageousness; I admire one who when they are wrong think they are right and vote according to their convictions. I lose respect for men who are afraid to state their convictions and who hide their convictions on particular questions because they don't want them to become a matter of public record.

If you want to vote against this bill, you would have been entitled to credit for your audacity, but the insertion of "or working in private employment" kills the bill. Why? You know it. First of all, the question of private employment has nothing to do with public funds or relief. Second, we know that it deals with two entirely different subjects. You know as well as I do that if you want that to become a law you can introduce a bill, put it through this House covering the one subject, but you want to kill it and you didn't know how, until some ingenious member of your party higher than the members of this House evolved the system of bringing in private employment. You were stopped, and it looked as if you were going to have to enact good legislation into law and then you tried to come along with this thing and you say it is going to broaden the freedom of the worker, the freedom of this one and that one, and the gentleman from Cambria used the words "weeding the whole garden of political endeavor." He wants the whole garden of political endeavor weeded, and then when we asked for the inclusion of the WPA, no, that is a private picture just as secret as Washington wants it to be. clothed in mystery, even a legislative opinion as to WPA dare not be expressed for fear of affronting the political leaders of the State and the gentleman from Cambria asked for a private conference in order to speak frankly and honestly upon a question affecting the whole United States. When they are matters of public interest I will voice my sentiment publicly and on the floor of this House, not privately, because if I believe in privately that the WPA is corrupt, I believe that I ought to have the right to say it publicly, and if I ask the question whether WPA ought to be included in this bill, together with your amendments, I ought to get an honest answer, and so, members of the House, I ask you to vote against these amendments. I ask you to vote against them because the Democrats will have to vote for the bill. They lack the courage to vote against it. They will have to vote for it, and if they vote for it, what will happen? The poor and the hungry and the starving won't have to worry about the threats of the political hanger-on or political party worker who lives up the street. It will release from around their necks a rope that is to tight that it is choking them day by day. I ask you, members of this House, to vote down this attempt to kill this good piece of legislation.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the high political ideals of the gentleman from Philadelphia apparently are motivated by a sinister political strategy. In view of the fact that the gentleman from Philadelphia should be learned in the matters of law, it is particularly significant that in his legislative and legalistic resources he has not been able to come across the Act of March 31, 1860 P. L. 382. That particular act provides just exactly what the gentleman from Philadelphia now seeks to enact into law by this particular bill, and the amendment which we have submitted will only further tend to make the present enactment coincide with the act of 1860.

It does not require any great degree of intelligence to see the motive of the gentleman from Philadelphia and his followers that actuate the introduction of this bill. This bill was introduced apparently with the idea of bringing to the members of this Legislature the attention of a non-existant SERB political machine. If those conditions existed in the State Emergency Relief Board, the gentleman from Philadelphia and those who find objection to the administration of relief in this Commonwealth, could have resorted to the acts of 1860, and there had the criminal penalties, the fine of one hundred dollars or imprisonment not exceeding six months imposed upon conviction. But does the gentleman from Philadelphia wash to resort to the acts of 1860, or is his intention purely one of giving him an opportunity to get upon the floor of this House and attempt to chastise the membership of this House for not going along with what is nothing more than a superficial political move. There isn't one bit of sincerity in the presentation of this measure. There isn't one bit of honesty in the presentation of this matter. There isn't one bit of political integrity in the presentation of this matter.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman does not withdraw those remarks, I shall on the floor of this House have to call him an ugly word. I don't want to do it on the floor of this House.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will paraphrase the word "honesty" by saying "political honesty."

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, he will do more than that before———

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has come to the membership of this House and asked them to enact a penal statute that has been on the Commonwealth's statute books since 1860. He is coming to the hall of this House waving the flag of SERB and the PRA are trying to show what horrible things are being done, when the opportunity to correct those abuses is at his finger tips and has been since 1860. He is coming to this House in an attempt to becloud the issue. He is coming to this House by the presentation of this bill in an attempt to indicate that not only those who administer relief, but those who are unfortunate, must accept relief or violate the acts of this Commonwealth. Members of this House, since 1860 we have had this bill. There has not been presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia one explanation why he and his political cohorts have not resorted to that act. There has been no intimation or indication, no intelligent explanation other than the fact of the opportunity to indulge in a little political chicanery. He has introduced this bill in an attempt to do what he said, to put the Democratic membership of this House on the spot, but no, the Democratic membership of this House will not be put on the spot. If it is incorrect on the part of the SERB to hold out individualaggrandizement it is just as incorrect for industrialists, for individuals, for those who control large masses of individuals, to hold out financial aggrandizement for political votes; it is just as incorrect for one as it is for the other, and when the gentleman from Philadelphia indicates that this bill comes within the call I doubt the constitutionality of that statement. When he indicated that the injection of this amendment will tend to take the bill without the call, I say to the membership of this House it is well within the legitimate provisions of this House to enact a bill penal in nature affecting those men that provide employment. This bill was born in iniquity. This ball presented with an ulterior motive not disclosed. This bill is a part of the Republican chicanery in order to becloud the issue. This bill is a bill that has been on our statute books since 1860, and if the bill is to be passed, it should be passed in conformity with that act.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill has been objected to by those opposing it on the grounds that it is unconstitutional. Now, I thank God that I am neither a constitutional nor a corporation lawyer, for thereby I may escape answering a lot of sins of insincerity and chicanery and skull druggery. I also thank God that I am not a member or the whole of our courts that declare our bills unconstitutional. I refer particularly to those bills that this day and age, that the conditions that we have at present, demand and require for humanity and for our social living. These men will declare such bills unconstitutional. And I am glad that I am not a member of that body. Now, I can not understand why any one should object to this bill. I can not see, whether any man or woman or any child is deprived of bread through the agency of our relief, or whether they are deprived of bread through the instrumentality of our industrial setup, how much worse the pangs of hunger will be in the one case than in the other. I have here before me a letter which comes from my county, of which I will quote just a part:

"The Republican ward leaders of the City of Beaver Falls offered me a position with Jones and Laughlin Steel Company if I would switch over to the other side and help organize young men's clubs."

Now, I don't suppose Beaver county is any worse in this respect than any other county, but we find that prevails. We find our idustrialists are using every effort possible to bring into their ranks, to coerce, force and to starve if necessary men and women to come across to their way of thinking.

Now, I might say that our motive, our primary motive in introducing this bill was a humanitarian motive, a motive for clearing away the corruption, permitting things to be better in our country. We want to see a purification. And then I might say we have a secondary motive. The Democratic party since yesterday have been standing indicted of first degree murder. Now, we want to be considerate enough to put a provision in this that those persons who may not be of our party, will not be tempted to fall into a sin of this kind, and I say this bill will be a benefit to the minority side of the House rather than an injury. Vote for Bill No. 85.

Mr. EROE. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Sinwell, VanSickle, Coakley, Dent, Stevens, Haberlen, Robinson, James W. Patterson, Aukerman, Lynch, Sumney, Eberharter, LaRue, Haluska, Finnerty, Ominsky, Chervenak, McHenry, Monney, Moran, Sarraf, and others,

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. PETERS and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

The second section was read and agreed to.

The title of the bill was read by the Clerk.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. NAGLE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 2 of title, by inserting after the part-word "lief" the following: "or working in private employment."

Amend title, page 1, line 3 of title, by inserting after the word "relief" the following: "or a position of private employment."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, one in the course of debate, I take it, is inclined to argue heatedly but I also take it that it is proper that one shall always be a gentleman inside or outside of the House.

The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, in the course of the previous debate made certain statements imputing my sincerity, honesty and decency, and in two instances used the word "political" in front of those words and in one he didn't, and then corrected that one instance. So that in his statement he attacks my political sincerity, by political decency and my political honesty. I want to say to this House that I am not going to stoop to the language employed by my friend from York in his debate. I merely want to say this to him, I have been a member of this House since 1925. There is not a member of the Democratic party or any in the Republican party in the ten years that I have been here that ever accused me of lack of political honesty. I never broke my word, I never lied to any member of this House and never spoke a falsehood about things that took place in this House or caucuses or in committee. I either refused or didn't refuse to answer questions. I never refused, incidentally, to be interrogated.

The gentleman has also attacked my political decency. I have introduced measures that I consider of political import. I am interested in the Republican party, and I think it is proper to introduce bills that you believe help your party. I think it is proper to admit it. The decent thing to do is be courageous about it.

This bill was introduced with the sincerest of motives, because everywhere I went to in my own district, and everywhere I turn in Philadelphia I found corruption, threats and promises and intimidation akin lying in beds together, sleeping together and boarding together insofar as crookedness and relief were concerned.

I merely want to say to the gentleman from York this; I was tempted and am tempted at the present moment to resort to language that clearly indicates that that which he says I am is untrue. I shall not use the word because this is a legislative body, because the records go down through time, and I would hate to have it upon the escutcheon of myself that I called another member of the House that which he deserved to be called, and, yet have it a matter of record indelibly written for years to come. But I do want to say to the gentleman from York that when you accuse me of lacking political sincerity, when you accuse me of lacking political decency and when you accuse me of lacking political honesty,, if you still think that is true, keep on saying it, but I want to say to you that your statements are base, they are untrue, they are malicious. The only excuse I can find for you is that in the heat of the argument you so did. I don't mean your saying that the bills were born in iniquity I don't mean your making statements about what you did about the bill itself. That is all proper, legal debate, but I want to say to you in conclusion that in the future you will either make statements that you can prove about me, or then the law that stops me from telling you what you are will be turned down, and I shall do so, both on the floor of this House and outside of the House.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask Mr. Witkin, are you a member of the bar?

Mr. WITKIN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. And a lawyer?

Mr. WITKIN. I hope so, Mr. Speaker. Some people think I am.

Mr. COHEN. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, are you acquainted with Purdon's Digest?

Mr. WITKIN. Well, that is an embarrassing question, but I will answer it. It is embarrassing, because if I say "No" then a lot of clients I might get will not come to me and if I say "Yes", I will be telling what is untrue. I know of Purdon's but we have a bright student lawyer in the office who looks up Purdon, I haven't time.

Mr. COHEN. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, are you acquainted with the act of 1860, P. L. 382, paragraph 50?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if that is the criminal code that the gentleman refers to, I am acquainted with the criminal code.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask, is the gentleman acquainted with the provisions in the criminal code relative to declaring certain acts, holding our political aggrandizement for votes a misdemeanor?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I would answer that by saying that I am familiar with some of the provisions of the criminal code as to violations.

ORDER OF THE DAY CALLED

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I call for the order of the day.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the question.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Berks insist upon the order of the day?

Mr. HOOPES. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. In order for the gentleman to proceed, it will be necessary to suspend Rule No. 14.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move you that Rule No. 14 be suspended for the specific purpose of allowing me to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as the two gentlemen involved undoubtedly have the majority of the membership of this House back of them, if they want to continue they undoubtedly have the right to do so. I will withdraw my call for the order of the day.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WITKIN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. I desire, Mr. Speaker, to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if he consulted the criminal act of 1860 prior to presenting his bill?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I did not consult it. I knew enough about it in my judgment to offer this bill despite the provisions in the criminal code to which the gentleman referred.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to the membership of this House where his bill differs from the act of 1860?

Mr. WITKIN. I will answer that question, Mr. Speaker, by having to ask another one. If what the gentleman says is true about the criminal code, that it includes all these cases, then the gentleman certainly wasted a great deal of time offering his amendments, putting in "for private employment," because if private employment is covered under the terms of that provision in the criminal code of 1860, then you don't have to put the amendments in, because it was a law anyhow, and therefore I take it that you must agree with me that the criminal code does not include it, because you insist on getting the private industry in.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's answer does not answer the question I asked him.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, it is the most intelligent answer that I could give.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I asked the gentleman wherein his bill differs from the criminal code of 1860.

Mr. WITKIN. If the gentleman will be good enough to send the Criminal Code, the particular section to which you refer I suggest that you send it over.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that he did not consult the act of 1860 when he drew his bill?

ORDER OF THE DAY CALLED

Mr. HOOPES. I again call for the order of the day.

The SPEAKER. The order of the day is bills on third reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 101, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section one article eighteen of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Section 801 Saving Clause Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to repeal any other law of this Commonwealth imposing any tax for State or local purposes

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 71, as follows:

An Act to promote the construction of flood control works and improvements by providing for the appropriation of certain water of the Commonwealth to the Commonwealth and incidental thereto to secure the use thereof for the benefit of the people declaring void certain condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons providing for ascertainment of the validity and the recording of certain condemnations and appropriations of water by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and appeals therefrom conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County in relation thereto providing for future condemnations and appropriations of waters by municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons and compensation therefor and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Water and Power Resources Board.

Whereas The recent floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere have awakened the people to the necessity of developing appropriate plans and constructing adequate flood control works and improvements to prevent periodic recurrences of such calamities and

Whereas The construction of adequate flood control works and improvements will aid materially in providing an adequate supply of water which is a matter of primary concern affecting the life health and comfort of the people of this Commonwealth and will also permit the supervision and equitable allocation of water which is an essential part of the police power of the Commonwealth which no Legislature should impair or barter away and

Whereas All of the flowing water of the Commonwealth by right belongs to the Commonwealth in trust for the benefit of all of the people thereof and all uses of such flowing water must be regarded as subject to this sovereign right and the right so vested must be regarded also as vesting in the Commonwealth a duty to control the flow of water so as to prevent loss of life and destruction of property and

Whereas The increase of the population of the Commonwealth makes it obligatory on the Commonwealth to control and regulate the flow of our rivers and streams and thereby to secure also an equitable allocation for the best interests of all concerned.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all of the flowing water other than private springs or private water supplies of this Commonwealth now unappropriated by any municipality corporation copartnership or person is hereby declared to be appropriated to the Commonwealth, for the purpose of enabling the Commonwealth separately or in cooperation with other states and the Federal Government to construct an adequate system of flood control works and improvements and to avoid the payment of damages in connection with the acquisition of rights to waters which might otherwise be acquired and incidental thereto to secure the use of waters for the benefit of all of the people of this Commonwealth subject only to such existing rights and uses as may now be lawful and no municipality corporation copartnership or person whether heretofore or hereafter created or which may now possess the right to take condemn and appropriate by eminent domain the waters of this Commonwealth shall hereafter take condemn or appropriate any water except as provided in this act

Section 2 Any condemnation or appropriation of waters heretofore made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person heretofore authorized to condemn water which appropriation has not been followed by an actual taking thereof heretofore or within a period of two (2) years after the effective date of this act is hereby declared null and void and of no effect. Where condemnation proceedings are pending in any of the courts of this Commonwealth at the date when this act becomes effective the actual taking of the water shall be within one year following the final determination of such proceeding otherwise the condemnation shall be null and void and of no effect.

Section 3 No condemnation or appropriation of water heretofore made under the power of eminent domain claimed by any municipality corporation copartnership or person authorized to condemn and appropriate water shall be valid or binding unless within six (6) months after the date of approval of this act said municipality corporation copartnershp or person shall produce the record upon which such appropriation or condemnation is founded or prove to the satisfaction of the Water and Power Resources Board that such condemnation was lawfully made in accordance with law at the time said condemnation and appropriation was made and shall thereafter file a transcript or certificate of the resolution or record upon which said condemnation or appropriation is claimed duly acknowledged by the secretary and president of the municipality corporation copartnership or person in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or the several counties as the case may be in which the water claimed to have been appropriated flows Any party aggrieved by a decision of the Water and Power Resources Board may within sixty (60) days appeal therefrom to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County and the taking of such appeal shall operate as a supersedeas

Section 4 Hereafter no condemnation or appropriation of streams or the waters thereof for water supply shall be made by any municipality corporation copartnership or person possessing the power of eminent domain except as follows

Municipalities corporations copartnerships or persons desiring additional water supply for present and future needs shall first make application to the Water and Power

Resources Board for leave to appropriate or acquire the designated waters of the Commonwealth setting forth

1 The present source or sources from which water is now taken listing the streams and the quantity of water appropriated therefrom designating as near as may be the point or points from which water is taken or used and the amounts of water stored

2 The necessity for such new or additional source of supply and the river stream or other body of water from which it is proposed to be taken

3 The location and the population needing the supply

4 The amount of water which it is proposed to take

5 The plans for development of the water resources of the streams to maintain the stream flow and to utilize flood runoff including the locations and capacities of any proposed impounding reservoirs

6 The names and addresses of the owners who may be affected by the proposed developments

7 Such other provisions as the Water and Power Resources Board shall deem necessary

Section 5 The Water and Power Resources Board shall upon such application make such investigation as may be necessary and grant such hearing as may be required

The Water and Power Resources Board is hereby given authority upon such application to allocate such part of the waters of the Commonwealth to any municipality corporatin copartnership or person as said application may show to be reasonably necessary to the purpose of the application

No allocation of the waters of this Commonwealth shall be for a longer term than fifty (50) years and such allocation shall be subject to such terms conditions and stipulations as the board shall deem to be necessary and proper to protect the present and future interests of the Commonwealth in the use and distribution of its water resources

The board shall have the further power to revoke any grant made in case the source of water supply is not developed in the amount or to the extent set forth in the application or required by the order of allocation of the board or if the work is not begun or completed within the time fixed by the board's grant

The Water and Power Resources Board shall further have the power to impose a reasonable charge for the water to be taken at the rate of not less than one dollar ($1.00) nor more than five dollars ($5.00) per million gallons and provide for the collection of the same and shall impose such terms and conditions as may be reasonably necessary bearing in mind the character and navigability of the stream and the need of water for other purposes All moneys collected from such charges shall be paid into the General Fund by and through the Department of Revenue

Section 6 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein

Section 7 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, other measures that have been introduced at this session, has for its apparent purpose a very laudable objecthe bill before you, House Bill No. 71, like a great many tive. If you will read the title and the whereas clauses that were undoubtedly placed in the measure with the expectation that if the measure were attacked it might offer some explanation, you will be impressed with the thought that this bill is intended as a part of the flood control and as protection to the people of Pennsylvania. I can see no connection of this bill with the flood control question unless it be that the taking of water away from the streams by water companies and other users is considered a part of a flood control scheme. As a matter of fact, this bill has, as I see it, two objectives.

One is to regulate the condemnation of waters of the State by private or municipal corporations, and to give the State some advantage in the control of those streams and providing that any franchises that may arise by reason of that condemnation shall not exist over a period of fifty years in the first place, and in the second place to make water companies and other users of streams pay to the Commonwealth some revenue for the use of the water or for the taking of water out of those streams.

It seems to me rather a novel idea to charge a license of from one to five dollars per million gallons for taking water out of the streams.

If we are talking about coal or oil or other resources that can not be replaced that are in the earth there is a very natural reason why we might be charging a license fee, but the water is replenished and comes back to us, it comes by the grace of the Almighty as nature wills it.

Unless this be as a revenue raiser there seems to me to be no reason why this charge should be made, because after all the charge that is made would go in the cost of operation of every water plant, whether it be a municipal or whether it be a private corporation, and that charge would fall upon the rate payers who use them. What it has always seemed difficult to bring home to these Legislators is that if you put a charge on water or gas or electricity or any other commodity that is sold by what is termed a utility, whether it be a municipal or a privately owned one, that cost comes back upon the rate payers, and is paid out of the pockets of the rate payers and not out of the pockets of the owners of the stock, if it is a private corporation.

Now, there are some objections to this bill as I see it that are perhaps technical, but which I believe are important. In the first place, this bill provides that if a condemnation has been started and there has been no actual taking of the land, that you must within a two-year period take that land or you must after that date come back to the Department of Forests and Waters for your permit to secure water from that stream, or to take that land.

Now, what will be the result of that? Supposing a water company, looking to the future expansion of the territory, has marked out areas of land that can be had along certain streams for the development of its water supply and to insure its future supply, and it has started condemnation but has not taken it. It will mean that every one of those corporations will have to start and take that land within the two-year period for fear that they would lose the privilege after that and it might not be granted by the department.

In the second place, under this bill it gives the department the right to make rules and regulations and to specify the terms, so that there would be an added reason why any municipally or privately owned corporation would want to take the land within the two-year period so it may not be subject to some conditions in the future over which it might have no control, and as to which there might be an uncertainty.

Mr. Speaker, under the statement just made to me by the gentleman from Cambria I surrender the floor.

MOTION TO PASS BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 51, Printer's No. 180, be passed over in this order.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny when he moves to pass it over, whether it is the intention to bring this bill up later in the day.

Mr. WEISS. It is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. It was my understanding, Mr. Speaker, from the gentleman from Cambria that it was to be placed on the postponed calendar.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I am willing to withdraw my original motion.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTIONS

CONGRATULATING HONORABLE EUGENE J. HAGERTY

Mr. FLANAGAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1936.

Whereas, Four hundred years after the discovery of this great country of ours, there was born to a Mary and Eugene Hagerty a son by the name of Eugene, and

Whereas, These parents took special care in bringing up a worthy son who has distinguished himself by becoming a Representative of this great Commonwealth, and, who in that capacity, has distinguished himself after the fashion of good old Christopher Columbus in his egg-smashing exploits, and

Whereas, Like Columbus, he discovered Harrisburg and the marble Indians that adorn the entrance to this magnificent Capitol, and

Whereas, Between the concentrated attention to the considerations of this great body, he is seen directing his attention occasionally to the Indians adorning the interior of this House; and

Whereas, It has been reported that Columbus buried many a dead Indian; we don't know if Gene is awaiting the death of the Indians on the walls of this House; therefore be it

Resolved, That the said Eugene J. Hagerty be congratulated upon this his 44th birthday, and that he may devote the rest of his happy years to further egg-smashing and Indian seeking activities,—in other words, happy birthday Gene, old boy.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED ON DEATH OF HONORABLE CARL WOODWARD

Mr. MENTZER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1936.

Some 52 years ago the Lord gave unto the industrial section of Western Pennsylvania a man of unusual talents [illegible] has now taken this man away from his fellow men and outstanding merit. The Lord in his unfathomable who loved him dearly.

We deeply mourn what appears to us, in our limited and circumscribed understanding, the untimely demise of Honorable Carl Woodward, for 12 years Mayor of Monessen.

Our departed friend was born and reared in the Monongahela Valley, and grew up with the development of its vast industries. He was well known and beloved by all with whom he came in contact, having devoted his life to the service of the public, of his community and of his friends.

For twenty years he served faithfully and well in public office. He was tireless, as a member and president of the Chamber of Commerce, in the advancement of the civic welfare of his city. He was prominent as a Mason and an Elk. In short, he achieved real greatness as a political and civic leader, not only in the city where he made his home, but as well throughout the industrial section of Western Pennsylvania.

By his widow and his two children, now grown to young manhood and womanhood, and by every person whose privilege it was to meet him, and thereby, through his facility in making and retaining friends, to remain his friend, his loss will be sorely felt. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives takes this means of expressing its sorrow and its condolence with the bereaved;

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk forward a copy of this Resolution to the wife and family of Honorable Carl Woodward.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. EROE and HOLLAND. HOUSE BILL No. 130.

An Act to further amend the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine (Pamphlet Laws, four hundred twenty), entitled "A further supplement to an act, entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," by increasing for a limited period of time the rate of tax imposed by the act upon the gross receipts of certain companies, limited partnerships, associations, joint-stock associations, copartnerships and persons, and by adding a new section imposing a temporary emergency tax upon the gross receipts of certain companies, limited partnerships, associations, joint-stock associations, copartnerships, and persons engaged in the water and natural or artificial gas business.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. RESOLUTION No. 25.

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1936.

Whereas, There exists in many cities of Pennsylvania, sub-standard housing conditions and a shortage of housing accommodations for families of low income; and

Whereas, There is need for a clear definition of policy on the part of the Federal Government as to its program of improving substandard housing conditions in cooperation with the state and local governments; and

Whereas, Low cost housing and slum clearance programs have been started in Pennsylvania and in other states with the aid of the Housing Division of the Public Works Administration; and

Whereas, A continuing Federal program is necessary in order to secure enactment of proper housing legislation for Pennsylvania and in order to effectively attack the evil effects of bad housing conditions; and

Whereas, There has been introduced in the Congress of the United States the Wagner-Ellenbogen Housing Bill known as "The United States Housing Act of 1936" which, if enacted, will provide for a long-term decentralized Federal Housing program which will make available to Pennsylvania funds for the continuation and initiation of their low-cost housing programs with adequate protection to private enterprise; and

Whereas, Several city councils, mayors and housing authorities, as well as many civic organizations in the State of Pennsylvania, have endorsed said legislation and memorialized the President, the Senate and the House of Representatives to enact said measure; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorializes the Congress of the United States that the United States Senate be and it is hereby requested to enact, at the earliest date possible, "The United States Housing Act of 1936", being Senate Bill No. 4424, introduced by Senator Robert F. Wagner, and that the House of Representatives enact the identical measure introduced in said House by Congressman Henry Ellenbogen of Pennsylvania, and being H. R. 12164; and be it further

Resolved, That the President of the United States be and is hereby requested to use the influence of his great office to further the enactment of this measure; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senators and Congressmen of the State of Pennsylvania be and are hereby requested to do everything within their power to carry out the purpose of this resolution; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President and to the Vice-President of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to Senators James J. Davis and Joseph Guffey and the Representatives from the State of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. YOURISHIN and JOHN J. BAKER.

RESOLUTION No. 26.

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1936.

Whereas, There is pending in the Congress of the United States the Guffey-Vinson bill, designed to regulate the bituminous coal industry in which are employed 400,000 miners throughout this Nation; and

Whereas, The bituminous coal industry has been severely crippled by the economic depression and by loss of markets and is in desperate need of assistance; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Congress of the United States to speedily enact the Guffey-Vinson bill for the regulation of the bituminous coal industry in order that aid may be given said industry as soon as possible;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 22.

An Act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collection and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

STATEMENT BY MR. SPROUL

Mr. SPROUL asked and received unanimous consent to make a statement.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on May 26th ther was referred to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation a resolution of mine, No. 16, Serial No. 20, on page 41 of the History. I asked the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation to report this resolution out, but in the meanwhile, in talking with the Democratic floor leader, Mr. Cohen, he advised me that he would give me the information that I requested in the resolution, which you can all read, a copy of which has been furnished to me by the Department of Health.

Inasmuch as it is a request for a report from the Department of Health on the expenditures to date of the seven hundred thousand dollars authorized in House Bill No. 56, a part of which has already been expended, I would like to read for the information of the House and the members that report as given, which is very complete, from the Department of Health in regard to the dewatering of flooded coal mines and in some cases slate quarries, if it be necessary.

I quote from the letter of the Department of Health signed by Edith MacBride-Dexter, Secretary of Health:

MEMORANDUM IN RE DEWATERING FLOODED COAL MINES

June 8, 1936.

"(A) THE AMOUNT EXPENDED OR OBLIGATED TO THE DATE OF THE REPORT, OR AS NEAR SUCH DATE AS POSSIBLE, FOR THE PURCHASE AND INSTALLATION OF EQUIPMENT AND FOR OPERATION THEREOF."

An Engineer was engaged by the Department of Health to check deliveries in the Pittston-Duryea area, of pumps and other equipment in order to determine compliance with the purchase orders of the Department of Property and Supplies. From the appropriation to the Department of Health for salaries and other expenses during the current biennium, there has been expended $420 for this engineer's wages up to May 30, 1936.

Purchase orders, on file in the Department of Health and as issued by the Department of Property and Supplies for pumps and other necessary equipment for use in dewatering flooded coal mines in the Pittsburgh-Duryea area aggregate $162,319.72, up to June 4, 1936. Likewise, there is an order for power to operate the pumps and the Department of Mines estimates the power necessary to pump out the approximate seven billion gallons of water in the flooded mines in the Pittston-Duryea areas at $325,000.

The mine of the Sandy Run Producers, Inc., located at Sandy Run, Luzerne County, was flooded during the March 1936 floods. This company has its own pumps and necessary equipment for dewatering the mine. The power required to operate the pumps for dewatering is estimated by the coal company, to cost about $2500.

"(B) AN ESTIMATE OF THE TOTAL AMOUNT TO BE EXPENDED FOR THE COMPLETION OF THE WORK SEPARATE FOR EACH PARTICULAR PROJECT."

In the Pittston-Duryea area the flooded coal mines were operated by the Pittston Company, the Kehoe-Berge Coal Company, the Pittston-Duryea Coal Company and the Barnum Coal Company. These mines are connected underground and therefore, dewatering them is considered as one project because pumping out any one of these mines would result in dewatering the others. Therefore, in order to speed up the dewatering and hasten the day when these companies can recondition their mines to resume operations and give employment to their workers, the pumps will be placed in the shafts of all of these companies. It has been estimated by the Department of Mines with the aid of electrical engineers of the companies affected that the pumps and other necessary equipment and the power to operate the pumps will cost about $500,000.

It is estimated by the coal company and approved by the Department of Mines that the power to dewater the flooded mine at Sandy Run will cost about $2500.

Therefore, "an estimate of the total amount to be expended for completion of" dewatering flooded coal mines in the Pittston-Duryea area and at Sandy Run is $502,500.

"(C) A STATEMENT OF THE AMOUNT EXPENDED AND TO BE EXPENDED ON THE PROPERTY OF EACH PERSON OR COMPANY."

As aforesaid, it is estimated that the State's financial share of dewatering flooded coal mines in the Pittston-Duryea area and at Sandy Run is $502,500.

Request has been made for the State to assist in dewatering coal mines by the following companies:

Commodore Coal & Coke Co., Oliver Mine, Oliver, Fayette County.

Humphreys Coal & Coke Co., Humphreys Mine, Westmoreland County.

Keystone Coal & Coke Co., No. 2 Mine, Haydenville. Westmoreland County.

Lackawanna Shaft, Peckville, Lackawanna County.

Penn Valley Coal Mining Co., Beck No. 1 Mine, Hunkers, Westmoreland County.

Saxman Coal & Coke Co., No. 2 Mine, Derry, Lackawanna County.

Sullivan Trail Coal Company, Clear Spring Shaft, Luzerne County.

Investigation of these mining properties is not yet completed and so it is not yet known whether they are on a parity with the flooded coal mines in the Pittston-Duryea area and at Sandy Run, as to the conditions creating an emergency and dewatering being a matter of public concern because a sufficient number of mine workers are out of employment due to the mines being flooded to create a relief problem.

In case they are found to be worthy and eligible for State aid, the State's share of the cost of dewatering could be paid from the difference between the $502,500 given above, and the sum to be appropriated by House Bill No. 56.

EDITH MacBRIDE-DEXTER, M. D.
Secretary of Health.

I wish to thank Mr. Cohen personally for giving me this information, and I think it ought to be a matter of public record.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. REISING. HOUSE BILL No. 131.

An Act abating certain interest, charges, expenses and fees added to county, city, borough, town, township, school district or poor district claims, imposed or assessed for improvements or for the abatement of nuisances.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we have been hopeful that the Senate would utilize the time that we have now available to report out certain social security bills, which we are informed must be passed and approved at the latest by June 20th. However, no bills have come out of the Senate, and we are now informed that the Senate has adjourned.

Therefore, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, June 15,—I withdraw the motion.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MELCHIORRE, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported as committed, House Bill No. 130, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine (Pamphlet Laws, four hundred twenty), entitled "A further supplement to an act, entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," by increasing for a limited period of time the rate of tax imposed by the act upon the gross receipts of certain companies, limited partnerships, associations, joint-stock associations, copartnerships and persons, and by adding a new section imposing a temporary emergency tax upon the gross receipts of certain companies, limited partnerships, associations, joint-stock associations, copartnerships, and persons engaged in the water and natural or artificial gas business.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in view of what I said, and in view of the fact that there is nothing remaining for this House to do, due to the adjournment of the Senate, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday evening, June 15, 1936, at 9:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

The motion was agreed to and (at 6:12 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until Monday, June 15, 1936 at 9:00 o'clock P. M. Eastern Standard Time.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1936. No. 19.

SENATE

MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1936

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O, Thou God of Nations, God of our nation and the Father of all mankind: We thank Thee for the hearts which conceived and the hands which designed our national flag. Its stars and stripes, with blended coloring of red, white and blue, constitutes a banner whose beauty thrills the soul of every true American. At this Flag Day season teach us the real significance of our Star Spangled Banner:

The Red, it is the blood of them who did our battles fight;
The White stands for our purity, for justice and for right;
The Blue bespeaks for every Son of Freedom's blood-bought soil
A rest beyond yon azure sky from battle and from toil.
O God, preserve our national flag, vouchsafe to it Thy care,
And to defend the patriots' cause, Thy mighty arm make bare.

We thus pray so that Thy name may be glorified and the honor of our Flag, our Government and our Commonwealth may remain unsullied. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WOODWARD, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal approved.

Whereupon,

The President and members of the Senate proceeded to the Hall of the House of Representatives.

SENATE RETURNS FROM THE HOUSE

After some time the President and Senators returned to the Senate Chamber.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WOODWARD, from the Committee on State Government, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 52 (House Bill No. 53) entitled:

An Act providing for the issue and sale of bonds to the amount of the outstanding callable bonds of loan of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Series "D" for the purpose of refunding redeeming and retiring said Series "D" authorizing the exchange of bonds of said Series "D" for those issued hereunder defining the powers and duties of the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer in relation thereto providing for the payment of interest on and the redemption of such bonds and making an appropriation.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EALY, from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 51 (House Bill No. 52) entitled:

An Act providing for the reduction of interest rates upon outstanding callable bonds of the Commonwealth under certain conditions in lieu of the redemption thereof and defining the powers and duties of the Governor the Auditor General the State Treasurer and the duly authorized loan and transfer agent of the Commonwealth in relation thereto.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 39 (House Bill No. 49), entitled:

An Act to amend sections four and five of the act approved the nineteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one thousand three hundred fifty-one) entitled "An act making appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of an act approved the tenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred ninety-three) entitled 'An act providing for assistance to certain mothers providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth and for the appointment of a State Supervisor and assistants and fixing the salaries of such State Supervisor and assistants defining the powers and duties of boards of trustees including the power of appointing assistants and investigators and the distribution of funds at their disposal providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties and requiring counties coming under the provisions of the act to appropriate certain moneys and providing penalties' as amended" by providing for the payment to newly organized counties of amounts set aside for unorganized counties or both the first and second fiscal years of the current biennium.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend title, page 2, line 5, from top of page, by inserting after the word "biennium" the following: "and suspending certain provisions of this act in case Federal aid for dependent children shall fail for any reason"; also page 4, by inserting between lines 3 and 4, the following section: "Section 2. The purpose of this act is to qualify all counties of this Commonwealth under the Mothers' Assistance Law, and thus to enable the Commonwealth to receive Federal grants for aid to dependent children under Title four of the Social Security Act. In the event that Title four of the Social Security Act shall be held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States, or shall be repealed, and Federal grants for aid to dependent children shall fail for such or for any other reason whatever, then so long as Federal grants for aid to dependent children shall not be available to this Commonwealth, no county shall receive any sum from the State under sections two and three of this act unless such county shall appropriate a like sum for such purpose. The Department of Welfare shall have no power to determine that any county may appropriate any other amount in order to receive its allotment of the State appropriation. To the extent of any inconsistency the foregoing provisions of this act shall in such cases be suspended so long as Federal aid for dependent children shall not be available to this Commonwealth and the provisions of this section shall be in force"; also section 2, page 4, line 4, by striking out the figure "2" and insert in lieu thereof "3"

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not know whether I am in order at this time to object to the amendment; but of course, not having heard the amendment, I could not raise any objection to it.

I assume, from what the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, said to me, that the purpose of the amendment is to preserve the status quo in the event that the Federal legislation is declared unconstitutional; but, as I see it, the amendment goes further than that—because I assume the amendment is meant to provide for the contingency of Federal aid being stopped for any other reason whatso ever.

I call the attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that under Title 4 of the Federal Act the Federal Government has the right to stop its aid at any time when in its opinion the rules and regulations of the Social Security Board are not being complied with. Under the amendment as suggested that would suspend or annul the Act. I am quite sure it is not the intention of the persons proposing the amendment that this should happen, and for that reason, if I am in order, I object to the amendment.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now go into the Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendment, as just read.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object, because the effect of the Senate going into Committee of the Whole would be to receive and approve the amendment, and that is what I am objecting to.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would suggest, if you do not mind, that the motion is intended, although possibly not specifically stated in the motion, that we go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendment, as just read from the desk, as offered on third reading, for which unanimous consent was refused.

The PRESIDENT. That is the way the Chair understands it.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre will state his point of order.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, is it not a fact that when the Senate goes into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering special amendment, that those amendments can only be strike-outs when the bill is on third reading? I remembered it was so ruled last year on the Personal Property Tax Act.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will be glad to set my friend from Centre straight. I think what he has in his mind is an entirely different proposition. We went into Committee of the Whole on a bill at the end of the last session to strike certain things out of a bill, but in that case, when there is only a strike-out the bill can go right on and be read the third time and passed finally. This is not such an amendment. This is an amendment to amend the bill in certain particulars, as read from the desk, and that is entirely in order at any time, to go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special and general amendment. This is for special amendment and a vote to go into Committee of the Whole will carry with it the adoption of the amendment into the bill.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask whether it is not true that if this motion is passed it has the effect of the amendment being accepted.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair informs the Senator that his understanding of the motion is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I call attention of the Senate to the fact that the acceptance of this amendment means an additional tie-up in getting through social security legislation. This bill must be passed and approved by the 20th of June. That fact has been called to our attention on several occasions. The members of the Senate need not think that the House, or anyone who has read any particular statute or social legislation and security acts is going to permit this bill to go through in its present form, neither will Washington approve of it. We might as well stop fooling ourselves, it is too big a bill to try to get through.

I do not care whether this amendment gets the unanimous consent of the Senate or not in one way or another, but I am concerned about the effect of the amendment on the whole Act. This amendment will mean, if it passes, that it will be declared unconstitutional; it will also mean that at any time, merely for temporary holding up of funds by the Federal Government, that the Act which we now pass will become null and void. In voting for this amendment, I call the attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that that is the effect of the motion.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Aron,	Gelder,	Owlett,	Staudenmeier,
Batchelor,	Graff,	Pierson,	Thompson,
Bean,	Harvey,	Prince,	(Westmoreland)
Buckman,	Homsher,	Reed,	Trainer,
Chapman,	Howell,	(Dauphin)	Woodward,
Coyne,	Mallery,	Salus,	Ziegenheim,
Ealy,	McClure,	Scott,

NAYS—19

Cavalcante,	Law,	Rankin,	Rupp,
Frey,	McCreesh,	Reed,	Ruth,
Harris,	McGinnis,	(Washington)	Shapiro,
Kahle,	Miller,	Roberts,	Sones,
Lanius,	Pytko,	Rodgers,	Thompson, (Centre)

So the question was determined in the affirmation.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HARVEY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 64 (House Bill No. 109), entitled:

An Act to authorize and empoyer municipalities and townships separately or jointly to erect and construct flood control works and improvements within or without their territorial limits and to expend moneys and incur indebtedness for such purposes, be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. HOWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 66 (House Bill No. 83), as follows:

An Act relating to the keeping of animals wild by nature in captivity upon any street or highway or upon land adjoining any street or highway or in vicinity of any commercial establishment for the evident purpose of attracting trade preventing cruel improper and inhuman treatment of such animals and protecting the public from injuries thereby providing for the granting of permits for roadside menageries as herein defined conferring powers and imposing duties on the Board of Game Commissioners and prescribing penalties

Section 10 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 67, entitled:

An Act to provide for the public sale by cities of the first class of negotiable tax anticipation certificates representing registered delinquent taxes and authorizing the appropriation for current or other purposes funds realized or estimated to be collectible from the sale thereof

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That any city of the first class may when authorized by ordinance duly adopted by the council of such city sell from time to time at public sale delinquent registered tax anticipation certificates representing all or such parts of the registered delinquent taxes due to such city as may be determined in such ordinance The said certificates shall be negotiable in form and in such denominations as shall be prescribed by said ordinance and may be for an undivided interest in the delinquent registered taxes due such city or for designated parts or units thereof Such parts or units shall be listed in separate schedules which same shall include a statement of the locations of the properties and the years and amounts of delinquent registered taxes due upon each of said properties and the moneys realized from the parts or units of the registered delinquent taxes shall be segregated for the retirement of the certificate or certificates issued against said parts of units The said certificates shall be executed and signed by the mayor of said city and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum until they shall be paid to the holder or holders thereof as hereinafter provided Any such city issuing said certificates shall proceed to collect the said delinquent registered taxes as in other cases The proceeds of the collection of the delinquent registered taxes against which such certificates may be drawn shall be set apart in the city treasury as a special fund for the retirement of such certificates and may be invested in bonds of the said city the Government of the United States or the State of Pennsylvania as directed by ordinance and neither the amounts of delinquent taxes so collected nor the interest nor principal of such investments shall be used for any other purpose until a sufficient amount thereof has been collected to retire all of the certificates sold which are based on said delinquent registered taxes or such designated part or unit thereof When and as the receipts of delinquent taxes contained in the schedule against which such certificates shall have been issued shall together with the accretions thereon aggregate the total amount of such certificates together with any unpaid interest thereon said certificates shall be paid in full and surrendered to the city At the option of any such city appropriations from current or other funds except for debt service may be utilized for the purpose of aiding in or hastening the retirement of such certificates or any of them

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move to amend section 1, page 1, line 10, by striking out the word "negotiable"; also page 1, line 10, by inserting after the word "in" and before the word "form" the word "such"; also page 2, line 14, by striking out the words "as in other cases" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "As now provided by law"

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, for the information of the Senate, and particularly the members from Philadelphia, this being a bill for first class cities, I should like to state that the purpose of these amendments is to carry out the intent of the bill, to permit the negotiation, or rather sale, of anticipation certificates against delinquent taxes. The purpose was to keep within the law by providing that this shall not be an increase of indebtedness. In order to conform to that thought the negotiability of security certificates has been removed from the bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second, third and fourth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 2 Upon the authorization by ordinance of the sale of delinquent registered tax anticipation certificates as hereinabove provided the mayor the city solicitor and the city controller or any two of them may make and transmit to the city council an estimate of the amount which may reasonably be expected to be realized from the sale thereof during the current calendar year and the council of such city shall thereupon have authority to appropriate for the current or other purposes of said city in addition to other appropriations the amount so estimated as reasonably expected to be realizable therefrom during such year Should the actual receipts from such sale or sales be greater than the sum or sums so estimated the excess sums so realized may alo be made the subject of additional appropriation Provided however That the power to make such additional appropriations as herein conferred shall extend only to the excess of such estimates or actual receipts above the amount of estimated receipts from delinquent taxes which shall have theretofore been made a basis for the current appropriations in the financial program of such city for such year

Section 3 The council in passing such authorization ordinance shall have the power to regulate and prescribe the method of public sale of such delinquent registered tax anticipation certificates the amount thereof which shall be offered for sale the minimum or upset price or prices which are to be accepted therefor the times and methods of public advertisement of such sales the registered delinquent taxes on the specific property or properties which shall form the basis for the issuing of the particular certificates so authorized to be sold the form of such certificates and the authorization of re-sale of any portion of any issue which may not be fully sold at the original sale thereof and such other incidental matters details and requirements as may be deemed by the said council proper adequate and desirable for that purpose

Section 4 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith to the extent of such inconsistency be and the same are hereby repealed

The title of the bill was read as follows:

An Act to provide for the public sale by cities of the first class of negotiable tax anticipation certificates representing registered delinquent taxes and authorizing the appropriation for current or other purposes funds realized or estimated to be collectible from the sale thereof

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move to amend title, line 2, by striking out the word "negotiable"

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MOTION TO READ BILLS THE FIRST TIME

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I move that all bills reported from committee at today's session be read the first time.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

Mr. SONES. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. ROBERTS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, last week on a question of personal privilege, I invaded the serenity of this Senate, by threatening to call a spade, a spade.

In the course of my address, the attention of this House was called to the provision of the Constitution that requires the members of this Senate to disclose their private or personal interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the House and to refrain from voting on the same.

A resolution was offered calling upon all the members of this House to give vitality to this provision of the Constitution. The majority, including the gentleman from Cumberland and the gentleman from Delaware, saw fit to vote negatively upon the question involving the immediate consideration of the resolution.

Like birds of a feather, the majority of this Senate, including the gentlemen from Cumberland and Delaware, flocked like herded sheep to prevent the fruition of the moral objective of the resolution. The killing of the resolution grieves me not. I am consoled in the fact that the resolution and its moral objective is destined for burial along the side of another resolution and its moral objective once so dear to the heart of the gentleman from Cumberland when he and the gentleman from Delaware were on opposite sides of the question.

Although the Journal of last Monday does not so show the gentleman from Cumberland, nevertheless on a question of personal privilege, he called the gentleman from Centre and Fayette bloodthirsty individuals and that the gentleman from Fayette is the more bloodthirsty of the two.

I trust the gentleman from Cumberland does not mean that the gentlemen from Centre and Fayette have at any time thirsted for the blood of the inveigled victims of that moral transgression against which the gentleman from Cumberland once raised his eloquent tongue and vainly sought the help of his Republican colleagues to mete out the moral penalty he so strenuously urged. Politics make strange bedfellows indeed.

It is well that we state this as a maxim.

For, were this not true, what evil spirit doth dare divert from moral line and rectitude the tongue and mind of my master from Cumberland, at whose feet I once sat and still would sit to drink deep draughts of pure and wholesome thoughts?

Let not the gentleman from Cumberland deny his part in the creation of the stupid Republican attitude that now enmeshes the lawful procedures of this Senate and against which the gentlemen from Centre and Fayette hurl their bloodthirsty appeals in vain, but with faith and hope.

We have served our country as soldiers, and, we have poured into the cauldron of war our bodies' blood in defense of our flag, our Constitution and our laws. And because of this we admit that now we thirst for the blood of those who trample under feet that same flag, same Constitution and same laws for no other reason that to make more abundant the streams of slimy gold and egg them to flow with greater ease into their pockets and those of their special masters.

It is admitted that we thirst for the blood of those who arbitrarily and despotically commit one monstrosity after another upon the lawful rules and procedures of this Senate for no other reason than to make the gentleman from Bucks the acceptable apple of Mr. Grundy's eye.

It is admitted that we thirst for the blood of those who prostitute their official duties for no other reason than to be of more service to their political and industrial masters than to the general welfare of all the people.

It is admitted that we thirst for the blood of those who without just and moral cause defame the chosen executives of our State and Nation for no other reason than to be better able to cherish the wishes of their political and industrial masters.

If thirst for this kind of blood is blameworthy in the eyes of the gentleman from Cumberland and his Republican colleagues, then let them make the most of it.

If the gentleman from Cumberland desires to satiate our bloodthirsty tongues let him call upon his Republican colleagues to dispatch the affairs of this Senate with a due regard for the Constitution, the laws and the rules and procedures of this Senate. Let the gentleman from Cumberland call upon his Republican colleagues to abandon their stupid political loyalties and come to grips with the problems before us. Let the gentleman from Cumberland call upon his Republican colleagues to abandon their hymns of hate and render unto the lawful executives of our State and Nation the degree of respect due them as such, and, finally, let the gentleman from Cumberland call upon the Republican committees of this Senate to disgorge for our consideration the many bills and resolutions to which his colleague from Bucks, like a Roman emperor, has turned thumbs down in order to appease his Grundy's appetite.

It is impossible, Mr. President, to agree with the gentleman from Cumberland that it is a "racket" for this Commonwealth to give bread, clothing, medicine and shelter to its needy citizens. The care of the needy has been acknowledged by all civilized States to be the duty of the Government whose flag, Constitution and institutions the citizen is called upon to defend with his blood in war and in peace.

If this were not true, the deeds of the soldier, the farmer, the laborer, the poet, the G-man and others who today and tomorrow pay with their blood to preserve their government and society that the gentleman from Cumberland now enjoys, would be in vain and the inspiration that nurtures patriotism, would become fossilized and dead forever.

Let us not be blinded. The duty to preserve the health and life of the unemployed citizen rests more heavily upon this government today than ever before. This is true, because, in years past, the Republican colleagues of the gentleman from Cumberland succeeded in reducing many agencies of government to the level of "rackets" and utilized them to subserve the greed and lust of privileged individuals.

The gentleman from Cumberland is justly aroused that somewhere in the relief set-up we will find a well-groomed and well-oiled "racket." This "racket" consists of an army of newly self-created professionals who maintain that a man must hold body and soul together on a weekly relief order of $3.00 while the professional himself requires an approximate weekly stipend of $25.00, and then growls like a beaten dog that it is not enough. It is this army of newly propagated social welfare worker that constitutes the "racket" in the relief set-up of this Commonwealth. It is the army of nearly 17,000 workers that have devised the argument that the citizens and taxpayers of our local communities do not possess the intelligence and ability to administer the relief problems of their own community.

Neither the gentleman from Cumberland nor any other member of this Senate, can, with reason, say that our local citizens and taxpayers are not equipped to justly and economically administer all relief moneys allocated to them by this Commonwealth. We must now, and not later inaugurate the movement that will make our local citizen and taxpayer relief-conscious.

No time is better than the present to move some portion of the cost of administering and the administration of relief itself to the local citizen and taxpayer. The time is not ripe and the local communities are not at present financially capable of providing the funds for the direct relief itself. The communities are capable and should be asked to furnish the manpower and costs of administration.

If the gentleman from Cumberland agrees on the latter proposition, I trust he will call upon his Republican colleagues to see to it that no relief appropriation bill leaves this Senate without it containing a provision creating a Public Assistance Board in each county of this Commonwealth. If this is done, these Boards can prepare the way for the next General Assembly to transfer to them the administration of all other public relief funds including the grants that will hereafter accrue to our citizens under the provisions of the Federal Social Security Act.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, fittingly answered the gentleman from Cumberland, on the proposition that the Federal Government is indebted to this Commonwealth in the sum of $15,000,000 for direct relief. A careful inspection of the Journal of the last General Session would have warned the gentleman from Cumberland of the inaccuracy of that proposition.

Let us do something! Let us drive this "racket" out of our relief set-up. As for me, my mind is set. It is no strain on my conscience to vote for $100,000,000 for relief if this Senate will allocate the money to our local communities and there administered by the local citizen and taxpayer by an administration of his own choosing and maintained with his money.

If this is done, the relief will at last be regarded a permanent problem and will be administered in a way consistent with the living standards of the citizen and taxpayer of each particular community.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I rise now not to protect the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, because every man in this room knows that I have agreed with that gentleman more times than any member here; nor do I rise to protect the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, because I joined with three other Republicans in asking him to resign from this Senate; but I do rise in my place to protect the Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Prince. I never knew in all my life a finer gentleman than the Senator Prince. No man does his work more conscientiously and earnestly than this splendid gentleman, and I protest with all the manhood within me, and I want to say to this man from Fayette, as he sits there in his seat with his scowling countenance and blazing eyes, that patience ceases to be a virtue, and I, for one, do not intend to stand for the insults to this gentleman. He has not attacked me personally, but for the five long months of the last regular session this man rose week after week and made personal attacks on the members of this body, and the complaints do not come from our Republican members on our left here, gentlemen whom we all respect, fine, splendid gentlemen with whom we differ at times in politics, and time and time again they have criticized this man privately for his actions. They have said that his actions are not those of a gentleman. I know that time and time again we have had altercations on this floor, but never bitter personalities.

During the last Session we all felt that he was doing this because of the inexperience of the man from the fact that he was doing this because he did not have a proper conception of the ethics and the courtesies of this body; but with the experience of the last Session, which did not teach him a lesson, he starts again, and week after week, day after day, time after time, he fills the pages of the Journal with vicious and vile attacks, personal attacks on the members of this body. Why only tonight we heard the Governor of Pennsylvania ask that we discontinue these personal attacks and not fill the Journal at a great cost to the State, and I want to say to the man from Fayette that he must cease these bitter attacks or answer the consequence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, wil state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I have sat on the floor of this Senate too long to be worried by an attack such as has been made upon me or other members of this Senate here tonight. I always consider the source of these attacks. I have sat here and seen these young verdant Senators come down to this Senate body like Atlas holding all the world on his shoulders—comrades we call them—and after their term is over be called home by their constituents never to return. Some of these Senators are now in this body, some of whom are moist mastoids so far as being Senators are concerned. We are willing to grant them a short period of probation, but after they are here a little while we expect them to act as gentlemen, whether they are Republicans or whether they are Democrats; consequently, I say to you, Mr. President, that I join with the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, in his statement that this sort of thing should stop, it must stop, and means will be found to stop it.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I have been a Democrat all my life and I used to think that Republicans had horns, but as the years have gone by I realize that the rank and file of the Republican Party is just as good as the rank and file of the Democratic Party. I am willing to admit that even the leaders of the Republican Party are perhaps as good citizens as the leaders of the Democratic Party, but I am convinced of this; that the longer you leave any party in power, the more corrupt they will get. I am as certain as I stand here that if you leave a party in power long enough there will be a partnership between what we call "big business" and that party, whether it be Democratic or Republican.

In this State, the utilities, to my mind, have been favored by legislation. To my mind the utilities of this State pay a lower tax than any State in this Union. In the State of Pennsylvania, I declare that we pay higher street car fares, higher telephone rates, higher gas rates, higher electric light rates and higher taxicab fares than any State in this Union. You can step outside of this Chamber and get into a taxicab and they soak you twenty-five cents before they start, and you can go down to Washington, D. C., and ride from one end of the city to the other for twenty cents.

As a result of the fifty-year Republican rule in Pennsylvania, the real estate owners pay ninety per cent of the taxes, and the real estate amounts to only forty per cent of the wealth; in other words, sixty per cent of the wealth pay only ten per cent of the taxes.

There was offered a resolution in the House on May 12th which was adopted May 18th, requesting the Public Service Commission to investigate the possibility of issuing street railway tickets to the school children of Allegheny County at a reduced rate. That resolution was referred to the Committee on State Government in this Senate on May 18th, where it still reposes.

MOTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I therefore offer the following motion: I move that the Committee on State Government in this Senate be discharged from further consideration of House Concurrent Resolution (Senate Serial No. 202), so that the same may be returned to the floor of this Senate for constitutional consideration.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair suggests that the Rule agreed to at the last Session may be read apropos to this motion, so that you may understand it.

The Rule was read as follows:

"No Committee shall be discharged from consideration of any measure within ten calendar days of its reference without unanimous consent of the Senate, or after said ten-day period, except by a majority vote of the members elected to the Senate."

Mr. REED, (Dauphin). Mr. President, complaints which have been made by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, are correct as to the time when that resolution was referred to the Committee on State Government. Since that time the Committee has had at least three sessions. We have had very important bills within that Committee, several of which have been reported out this evening, and we have not reached that resolution for consideration.

Personally I do not think the resolution is of very much consequence one way or the other, but at the next opportunity that we have to have a meeting of the Committee of State Government, I assure the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, that it will have consideration, and I make this statement tonight exactly as I made it a few hours ago to the gentleman, a member of the House, who is the sponsor of the resolution.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, at a meeting of the Committee on State Government tonight, I requested the Chairman to take action on this resolution. He was most courteous and explained to me that after an hour or two of debate on some other bills, we were needed in the Senate to proceed with the consideration of the calendar. He then told me that tomorrow he would hold a meeting, and I have no doubt at all that the resolution will be reported out. I say this, in justice to the Senator from Dauphin, that I asked him about the resolution and requested action. He was very willing to do it, but the time would not permit, and knowing the courtesy of the Senator from Allegheny, I would ask him to withdraw the motion, with the assurance from Senator Reed that action will be taken tomorrow.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I will do that, I withdraw the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Does the seconder, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McCreesh, agree to withdraw his second?

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I do.

The PRESIDENT. The motion is withdrawn.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, while there has been so much excitement here tonight I hesitate, but, nevertheless, I do rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to join in expressing my regrets that we have to come to the point where we must engage in personalities before we can engage in a task of such vast importance to others. We, ourselves, are insignificant. We are here to do a job, and the fewer the personalities the greater the likelihood of our doing the job.

I am trying to find out something about the situation, and I think by delving into the facts we can get some information that will help us to a conclusion; and I rise again tonight for the purpose of exercising my rights on the question of personal privilege.

I think the members of the Senate will remember that last week I made a statement with regard to certain figures and facts regarding the operations of certain industries in Pennsylvania, especially in connection with profits and regarding whether taxes could be paid by those industries. Subsequent to my remarks several gentleman came to my desk and suggested that I did not tell the whole truth. I accepted the suggestion in a friendly spirit, and not according to the literal meaning of the words.

It has been suggested to me that when I referred to one of the companies—and I assure the members of the Senate that my references to the companies were not made for the purpose of directing attention to them nor for the disclosing of secrets, because I am reading from the published reports which were sent by those companies to their stockholders,—I was told first I did not take into consideration the taxes paid by the Standard Oil Company. I said that last year they earned $68,111,000, and I was told that taxes were not taken into consideration.

I refer to the report now—I have the report here for the benefit of those members who require it; it indicates that this sum of $68,111,000 was arrived at after deduction of $51,253,000 for taxes.

Also I want to call the attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that in taking these figures for this particular Company I did not include what are referred to in the report as items of non-operating income. I assume, from examination of the report, that income arising from their investments in securities in which they have funds would be included in non-operating income. It might interest the Senate to know that it amounted to $26,288,000. It also might be interesting to the members of the Senate to know that I did not include, in arriving at that profit of $68,111,000 an item of $92,512,000 was charged off for depreciation. If you look at this report you will find that the total profit aggregates $202,000,000 —against a capital investment of $1,800,000,000, or more than 10% on the capital.

I am making these statements not for the purpose of criticising the companies, because I don't hold any particular grudge against corporations; I hope they live long and prosper, so we will have plenty of employment through them, and, by means of their activities, reduce unemployment; but I do criticise their attitude toward and their approach to the tax problem. For instance, this company made the statement that the amount of taxes paid by them amounted to $3.20 per share as against $2.90 per share profit. Now let me read from the report, to show you how that tax of $3.20 per share is arrived at by this Company, and why I do not consider it an important matter because it is an utter misstatement of fact. The report states "In the United States, in 1935 our companies paid direct taxes of $40,417,813 and collected and paid $42,395,653 in consumer taxes on sales. This made a tax bill on the domestic business alone of $82,813,466, which is equivalent to $3.20 per share on this company's outstanding stock."

Of course, you cannot take into consideration taxes you do not pay, when stating what taxes will be paid on your dividend stock.

I think I have answered the two questions that have been raised. I want now to quote a somewhat more important and particular phase of the tax problem, and call particular attention of the Senator from Delaware, who is the Chairman of the Committee on Finance.

I understand that last week a meeting was held, of that Committee, and they considered the bill for a net corporate income tax increase from 6% to 10%. If the papers reported correctly, there were two gentlemen who objected to it, and made the statement that if these taxes were passed their companies would have to move from Pennsylvania. Now, that is the kind of argument which I think should be answered—in the discussion in which we are involved at this time. Here is a company—one of these two companies—which began in 1930, or, in 1930, had a profit of $986,000,—which were reduced to $818,000, and later—in 1935—increased to $935,000. This company has a surplus of over $4,000,000. I ask the question if this company would move out of Pennsylvania is obliged to pay a 4% increase in its taxes on profits, or, $36,000. I think it is un-American and unbelievable to think they would do such a thing.

I call the attention of the Senate to the other company whose representative said they would move out of Pennsylvania. They made a profit of $5,000,000 last year; and I think it just as unlikely that they would move if 4% more were taken from their profits.

This tax bill should not be retarded by arguments of that kind, and for that reason I am asking the privilege of interrogating the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I will be glad to.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, state whether or not any action has been taken by the Committee on Finance with regard to the corporate net income tax bill.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, in answer to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, I will state that I had announced that a meeting would be called this Wednesday at three o'clock to consider the bills before the Committee, but I now state that that meeting has been changed to next Monday at two o'clock, and at that meeting every bill before the Committee will be considered.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does that mean that this particular bill will be considered?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, all the bills in Committee will be considered at the meeting to be held next Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. PIERSON, from the Committee on State Government, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 55 (House Bill No. 59), entitled:

An Act to amend sections one three four seven nine ten fourteen fifteen sixteen and eighteen and to repeal section two of the act approved the tenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred ninety-three) entitled "An act providing for assistance to certain mothers providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth and for the appointment of a State supervisor and assistants and fixing the salaries of such State supervisor and assistants defining the powers and duties of boards and trustees including the power of appointing assistants and investigators and the distribution of funds at their disposal providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties and requiring counties coming under the provisions of the act to appropriate certain moneys and providing penalties" by providing for the appointment of a board of trustees for each county changing the qualifications of mothers eligible for assistance requiring all counties to appropriate moneys for mothers assistance except under certain circumstances providing for additional grants of State moneys in lieu of appropriations by counties unable to meet State appropriations providing for cooperation by the Department of Welfare with the Federal Social Security Board and authorizing the Department of Welfare to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States government for aid to dependent children providing substitute provisions in case Federal grants for aid to dependent children shall fail for any reason.

Which was committed to the Committee on Military Affairs.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:59 P. M. until tomorrow morning, June 16, 1936, at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, June 15, 1936

The House met at 9:00 P. M.

The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend BERNARD T. McCONVILLE, O. S. A., of Villanova College, Villanova, Pa., offered the following prayer:

Direct, O Lord, we beseech Thee, all our actions and carry them on by Thy gracious assistance that every prayer and good work may begin from Thee and by Thee be happily ended. Through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Tuesday, June 9, 1936.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Tuesday, June 9, 1936, when, on motion of Mr. FLANAGAN the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

COMMUNICATIONS AND PETITIONS

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communications and petitions which were read by the Clerk:

PACKAGE BEER DEALERS

Petitions (9) numerously signed urging passage of legislation providing for a classification to be known as Package Beer Dealers.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

GASOLINE TAX AND TRUCK LICENSE FEES

A resolution from the Washington and Greene County Chapters of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, Inc. protesting increase in gasoline tax and motor truck license fees.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which were read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 1

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, June 4, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 1, Printer's No. 102, entitled, "An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof."

GEORGE H. EARLE

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 3

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, June 10, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 3, Printer's No. 89, entitled, "An Act abolishing the office of collector of delinquent county taxes where the same now exists in counties of the second class providing for the collection of such taxes by the county treasurer and deputies and the payment of compensation and expenses therefor transferring employes from the office of the delinquent tax collector to the county treasurer's office and making said employes eligible to join and granting them certain credits upon joining the county retirement system," to which I have appended the following statement:

"I have been abvised by the Attorney General that there is a most serious question as to whether this bill is within the scope of my proclamation convening the General Assembly in special session, and that consequently it may be held unconstitutional.

"The bill accomplishes a great saving to the taxpayers of Allegheny County. It wipes out an unnecessary office and an abuse of long standing. Because of these most meritorious features, I hereby approve it, leaving the question of its validity to be passed upon by the courts."

GEORGE H. EARLE

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 22

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, June 9, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 22, Printer's No. 117, entitled, "An Act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collecton and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 17

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, June 10, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed a resolution of the House of Representatives and Senate, recalling from the Governor House Bill No. 17, Printer's No. 90, for the purpose of amendment.

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 17, Printer's No. 90 passed finally to be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend page 1, line 8 of the title, by striking out after "ing" and before the word "available" the word: "[moneys]" and inserting in lieu thereof the word: "monies"

Amend section 1, page 1, line 4 by striking out after "($11,000,000)]" the following: "[three mil-]"

Amend section 1, page 1 by striking out line 5 and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "seven million seven hundred sixteen thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($7,716,211) and any monies heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief purposes that remained unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six are"

Amend section 1, page 2 by striking out lines 2 and 3.

Amend section 6, page 4, line 11 by striking out after the word "making" and before the word "sum" the word: "[said]" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "(1) the"

Amend section 6, page 4, line 17 by inserting after the word "thirty-six" and before the word "is" the following: "and (2) the sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211) and any monies previously appropriated for unemployment relief purposes that remained unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six available for expenditure for unemployment relief by the State Emergency Relief Board prior to the effective date of this act in accordance with Concurrent Resolution Serial number eighteen approved by the Governor June second one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments. Is there objection?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not arise to object to the granting of unanimous consent, but I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, to please explain the purpose of these amendments to the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, explain to the House the purpose of these amendments?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, these amendments are for the purpose of taking care of relief for the month of May and also for part of the month of June, as long as the monies will last. This bill was originally passed to take care of the relief necessary only for the month of May. Afterwards, by resolution, the House and Senate appropriated an additional amount of money to take care of a part of the month of June. This bill was recalled from the Governor simply for the purpose of combining the purposes of the two resolutions and the act which had previously been passed into this one act.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the figures that have now been inserted are a combination of the figures that have already been appropriated for the months of May and June, and only that combination?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, there was no appropriation by an act of Assembly as I understand, for the month of June. There was simply a resolution passed, but the amount in the bill now will be the total of the original act passed to cover the month of May and the resolution as passed to cover part of the month of June.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, in addition to that, is that eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars added, or is that eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars excluded from this bill, as the gentleman has amended it?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, the amendments provide for any unexpended sum, which will include the eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars or thereabouts. That is in the language of the bill, namely, "and any unexpended sum heretofore appropriated."

Mr. WITKIN. The eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars, Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, ordinarily would have lapsed into the General Fund?

Mr. EBERHARTER. This is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Now, Mr. Speaker, is it the purpose of these amendments to add the amount of money asked by resolution of this House for May and the amount of money passed for June and, in addition thereto to add the eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars that would have lapsed if the gentleman had not amended this bill; is that correct?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

REQUEST TO ADDRESS GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, June 15, 1936.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, June 15, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a committee of three on the part of the Senate be appointed to act with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House shall appoint such committee) to escort his Excellency the Governor to the Hall of the House to address the members of the General Assembly in Joint Session, Monday evening, June 15, 1936, at 10:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, pursuant to a resolution already adopted by the Senate and House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

APPOINTMENT ON COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee on the part of the House to act in conjunction with a similar Committee on the part of the Senate to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House, Messrs. LaRue, Peters and Achterman.

REPORT AND DISCHARGE OF COMMITTEE

Mr. GERARD. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to escort the members of the Senate to the Hall of the House for the purpose of attending a Joint Session has performed that duty and the members of the Senate are now in attendance.

The SPEAKER. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the House. The President of the Senate is invited to preside over the Joint Session of the General Assembly; the President Pro Tempore is invited to a seat on the rostrum and the members of the Senate will be seated in the chairs provided for them in the front of the House.

JOINT SESSION

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR THOMAS KENNEDY PRESIDING

The SERGEANT AT ARMS. Mr. President, I present the Committee appointed to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House.

SENATOR ROBERTS. Mr. President, I have the honor to present His Excellency the Governor of Pennsylvania.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR KENNEDY. It is my privilege and pleasure at this time to present His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Honorable George H. Earle, who will now address you.

GOVERNOR GEORGE H. EARLE. Ladies and Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

I have requested the privilege of addressing your honorable body on this occasion for two reasons.

The first is to acquaint you with the most encouraging changes which have taken place in the emergency relief situation since you convened here seven weeks ago.

The second is to discuss the most pressing problem of social security, as it relates to our cooperation with the Federal Government.

The other items in my Call, I am sure, have received your serious consideration and will in due course be met by appropriate legislation. Although important in themselves, they are not essentially controversial.

I am deeply disappointed that of the forty-three bills passed by the House and sent to the Senate for concurrence during the past six weeks, only five have been passed by the Senate and sent to my desk. I am even more disappointed by the fact that of these five only two, the tax abatement bill and the liquor tax bill, are designed to carry out the primary purposes of my Call for this extraordinary session.

I will say, however, that I have nothing but praise for those members of the House who have secured prompt passage of the bills before them, and for those members of the Senate who have sincerely attempted to expedite the work of this Special Session.

Your deliberations have been prolonged chiefly by differences of opinion over the question of relief needs. The greater part of this debate has been political speechmaking, which is understandable if not excusable. I feel, however, that the Commonwealth has now spent sufficient money in printing addresses and reports and resolutions on subjects outside the purposes of the Call. I now feel that after six weeks it is only reasonable to ask your honorable body to return to the business of this Session.

I am very happy to inform you that during these past six weeks the recovery policies of the national Administration have resulted in business and employment gains which exceed even the most optimistic expectations.

Our major industries are thriving. Corporation profits and dividends are increasing. Employment is steadily rising. The rapid recovery of steel is bringing substantial prosperity to Western Pennsylvania. Our great mills and factories in the eastern part of the State are showing corresponding gains.

This industrial and commercial revival is rapidly lightening our own burdens. It has averted the unemployment and distress which we had anticipated as a result of the disastrous floods of last March. This in turn means that our relief agencies have not been obliged to expand their rolls.

Our consistant gains in employment and business activity indicate that we are enjoying a real return to prosperity, and not merely a seasonal upturn. Thousands on relief rolls and on work relief projects have gone back into private industry. A substantial portion of our relief administration has been liquidated.

In addition to all this, United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey and I, after a conference last Friday with Edward N. Jones, State Works Progress Administrator, and Aubrey Williams, Acting Works Progress Administrator of the United States, secured concessions from the Federal Government which will permit employment of 30,000 persons now on our relief rolls. By extending the period of eligibility for six months, the Works Progress Administration is accepting these workers on current projects. This will mean a drop of more than 100,000 in the number of persons on relief.

In view of these most encouraging circumstances I have asked Karl de Schweinitz, State relief director, to submit estimates of relief needs which will take these factors into consideration. He has advised me that $55,000,000 will now suffice for the period to January 31, and recommends that this amount be appropriated by your honorable body. He further suggests that provision be made for the use of any balances unexpended by that date, indicating that if recovery continues at the same rapid pace the $55,000,000 may last until the end of the biennium. I therefore strongly urge that you appropriate this amount in order to repay the money we have borrowed for relief up to this time and to care for relief from now until January 31.

I am happy to have underestimated rather than overestimated the improvement in business conditions, and I am more than pleased that through the whole-hearted cooperation of Pennsylvania's Works Progress Administrator, Edward N. Jones, we have been able to slash our relief rolls to a minimum.

The reduction of our relief needs by nearly $16,000,000 from $70,991,000 to $55,000,000 makes possible a substantial reduction in our estimates for total needs. Our estimate of the amounts needed for social security, State institutions, deficiencies and the like, is $9,627,592. This, added to our revised relief figure, gives us a grand total of $64,627,592. Since the House has passed revenue-raising measures to yield substantially this amount, the major problem of revenue now rests with the Senate.

I must remind you that in your consideration of relief and all other problems before this Session you must be guided by the fact that the primary function of all government is to promote the general welfare. To maintain our cherished democratic form of government, and to perpetuate the principles which inspired its founders, we must ever remember that fundamental function.

A solemn realization that we are our brother's keeper must at all times guide us in our deliberations and our actions.

Civilization has progressed only as knowledge has come that the individual man is not an isolated physical, moral, or economic unit.

Every civilized community provides for public health, because the citizens of those communities realize that their own health depends upon the health of their fellow men. They know perfectly well that they cannot maintain a complacent indifference to contagious disease in their midst without suffering the consequences of that indifference.

We require compulsory education for our children because we know that a low standard of education in any substantial group of our citizens lowers our own level of civilization, while a high standard is beneficial to the entire community.

In the same way we have come to realize during the last few years that we must be just as careful of the economic health of our fellow citizens as we are of their physical health.

We recognize that widespread poverty in any group quickly affects the more fortunate, and in the end brings disaster to rich and poor alike by decreasing mass purchasing power. We have grown more civilized in our attitude toward those unfortunates who, because of the viscissitudes of life, have become dependent upon the community.

We no longer say "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse" to our impoverished aged, our blind and our widowed mothers.

We recognize the fact that the veterans of industry and agriculture are entitled to consideration as are the veterans of our wars.

We know perfectly well that enlightened self-interest, as well as every humane consideration, requires that we make provision for the sick, the lame, the halt and the blind.

Only the accident of birth, in many cases, enables those of us who are blessed with good health, adequate financial resources, or profitable employment, to escape inclusion in the ranks of those who today are dependent upon public aid. There is no one among us who might not point to the poor unfortunate on relief and say—"There, but for the grace of God, go I."

Because of the crisis which confronts our needy unemployed men, women and children, I ask that you keep these thoughts in mind as you consider the problems before us.

Private charity is totally unequal to the task of carrying any substantial part of the unemployment relief load. Local governments likewise are unable to provide additional funds. There has been a heavy increase in their indebtedness, and tax delinquencies have risen until today they comprise more than a quarter of all the local taxes levied in any one year.

I am aware that the recent cessation of relief activities by our neighbor State of New Jersey has led many of you to question whether such a policy is not feasible here.

Because of the importance of the question involved, I have made inquiry into this matter, and at my request the Works Progress Administration has presented to me a report of preliminary findings in New Jersey, based upon a study of 1200 cases, 100 in each of twelve communities of that State. The communities studied were Atlantic City, Camden, Commercial Township, New Brunswick, Orange, Paterson, Trenton Millville, Buena Vista, and Linden. Studies were made also in Hamilton Township and Ewing.

The cases were selected at random, and the persons involved were questioned by a carefully trained staff under the supervision of agents of the Washington office of the Works Progress Administration.

The variety of relief methods adopted by the more than 550 seperate relief jurisdictions now set up in New Jersey is so great that few generalizations are possible. A few salient facts, however, stand out. One is that there were very few chiselers on New Jersey's relief rolls. Another is that many now without relief would have been stricken from the rolls anyway, because of an unprecedented boom in seasonal employment, particularly in seashore resorts. During the month just before relief ended, New Jersey authorities cut their rolls from 83,000 to 74,000 and even greater slashes would have been made in succeeding months because of this seasonal trend. The third is that those who have not been absorbed by private enterprise are not providing for themselves, but are simply starving to death.

I am submitting as a part of this Message not only my correspondence with the Pennsylvania relief director relative to our own situation, but also the complete report and attached case histories relating to New Jersey. You will note in these case histories the story of an infant who died for lack of milk. You will be interested in the story of the man who pushes chairs along the Boardwalk and is slowly dying of tuberculosis.

You may find some significance in the report of a poor board official that it is cheaper to feed the hungry than to bury them. The names listed are fictitious, but the facts are not.

You will be interested to know that Ewing Township in New Jersey has actually licensed its unemployed to beg. Their licenses permit them to go from door to door begging for food, which is collected at a central point and distributed to the needy. They ask for bread and they are given a license to beg. I need not point out that such a procedure is both degrading to the unfortunate and a disgrace to the community.

Consider some of the New Jersey case histories.

Frank Hill, 64, partially paralyzed and suffering from fainting spells, and his wife, who has just enough strength to walk a half-mile from their broken-down two-room shack each day for drinking water, are living on $1.50 a week.

Barry Fuller, 56 and unable to work, had had nothing but bread and coffee for three days and was obviously starving when investigators found him. He gets no relief because he is single.

Mrs. Alice Jenkins, 66, her son John, 44, and her granddaughter, Lily, 11, live in one room. They have had no relief since State relief ended in April. She has tuberculosis. Her son has a serious illness and makes a dollar now and then picking berries. He is now trying to pick peas to keep the family alive.

Albert Fontella and his family of six are to be evicted June 20, and he is going to seek shelter in the local jail. They have no relief and little resources.

Mrs. Eva Amando is about 80. She gets no relief because the overseers of the poor insist that her children, who were themselves on relief, should support her.

Mr. Ratchesky, a plumber, receives seven loaves of moldy bread to feed his family of nine for five days.

In Atlantic County a mother and six children live on $3.00 a week. When neighbors are unable to give them food they live on bread and water.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Esti, of Atlantic County, are starving to death.

In Mercer County the Downing family of 13 lives chiefly on bread. Their baby died two weeks ago from lack of milk, and their 15 month-old child now has whooping cough. Mrs. Downing has heart disease.

In Pennsauken Township the Tomara family of six gets $4.00 a week and some canned goods. The boys beg, and when that fails they steal.

Boris Hanson, 78, is crippled. An aged neighbor on old age pension shares part of the pension with him occasionally. Another friend gives him a fish from time to time. He gets no relief.

Allen Black, a diabetic who is the head of a Burlington County family of six, has had to discontinue the use of insulin, which is essential to his life. One son in the Youth Program supports the family. They receive no relief.

Mrs. Jennie Jenkins lives in a crude houseboat within sight of the Atlantic City boardwalk. She begs and collects food from garbage dumps.

Mr. Desoto, 76, Atlantic County, is so thin and emaciated that he is barely able to cultivate his small vegetable garden. He is the sole support of his 55 year-old wife, who is a hopeless cripple. Both are slowly starving.

I submit to your honorable body that the New Jersey situation is not a pretty picture. To me it is revolting and barbarous. If a brief survey of 1200 cases produces such samples as these, God help the poor in New Jersey.

When communities not only permit but compel wholesale beggary, when the aged rummage in garbage cans for food, when infants die for lack of milk, when bread and water is standard diet—all this in one of our great sovereign Commonwealths—then human compassion is at a low ebb indeed.

These terrible reports of starvation, death, pauperism—these pathetic and heartbreaking accounts of human misery and despair in a great State—are an ominous warning.

We are justly proud of the greatness of our own sovereign Commonwealth. I believe we are all determined that no one shall starve. I warn you, then, to think twice before you even dream of forcing this Commonwealth into the path taken by our neighbor.

You will note in the New Jersey case histories a number of tragic situations involving aged persons, unable to work even if work could be found—many of them slowly dying for lack of proper food and shelter. These and many other cases of similar nature bring us to a consideration of another major problem, affecting relief and yet not directly allied to it, which is before your honorable body.

I refer specifically to social security. I do not need to tell you why enabling legislation to permit us to take advantage of the Federal Social Security Act should be passed. All of us recognize the imperative need for such legislation. Only last week the Republican Party, at its Cleveland Convention adopted a social security plank in its 1936 platform, which means that both major political parties are now committed irrevocably to the principle of social security. In addition, as I pointed out in my first message, Pennsylvania citizens will lose approximately $18,000,000 this year, approximately $36,000,000 next year, and approximately $54,000,000, each year thereafter if this legislation is not passed. I will not pursue that point further at this time.

I do wish to point out, however, that immediate action upon the State's social security bills is now urgently needed. June 20 has been established as a deadline, which means that if our bills are not passed by that time Pennsylvania will lose $4,000,000 in Federal security appropriations during the next three months. In other words, unless these bills are enacted into law during the present legislative week we will have deliberately thrown away $4,000,000. I cannot believe that your honorable body, most especially in view of the financial crisis we are now passing through, will permit this to be done.

The Federal Social Security Act provides for unemployment compensation, old age assistance and old age benefits, security for children, aid to the blind, extension of public health services, and vocational rehabilitation.

There can be no question of the value of these measures to the community. Nor can there be any doubt that to a certain extent the establishment of these economic safeguards in the long run will reduce by many millions of dollars our requirements for the needy and unfortunate.

I will tell you frankly that I have viewed with considerable dismay the disposition of some of your members to make political capital of human need. It had seemed to me that in a time like this we might remember that we are all neghbors, all citizens of a great State and a great Nation, all bound together by common ties of mutual interest and mutual need. I know we must have political parties, and we must tolerate a certain amount of political maneuvering in every legislative session. But I had hoped that this would be kept to a minimum. I had hoped, whether wisely or not, that we could meet in a spirit of friendliness, of mutual cooperation and understanding—as, for instance, all of us joined just a short while ago in helping our flood victims.

I still hope that we can be big enough—all of us—to place public welfare first and political expediency second. I think I have been more than conciliatory. I have told you there is nothing in my program for this Special Session that cannot be changed except a few principles of fair dealing with which you have not as yet publicly disagreed. I repeat now that I am willing to cooperate with all of you in meeting this situation. I hope and believe that you will feel your responsibilities as keenly as I feel mine, and be as willing to make every possible concession in the interest of speedy and effective action.

When I addressed you six weeks ago I expressed my willingness to meet with any committee you chose to select, at any time, to discuss ways and means of solving the problems before us. I believe you have now been in session long enough to grasp and understand the many complex problems before you. I believe we are in position now to act. I am therefore not only repeating my invitation at this time, but making it more specific.

It will be impossible to expedite this Session until there is an agreement among the major party groups represented in the Senate and House of Representatives. There is no reason why an agreement cannot be reached.

Therefore I urgently request that you empower the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to appoint a legislative committee, in which each party shall have equal representation, to consider our relief needs and draft a tax program to meet them.

I shall be very glad to meet with such a committee at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, or as soon thereafter as convenient to the committee members.

I warn you, however, that there are certain principles I will not sacrifice under any circumstances. I will not permit anyone in Pennsylvania to go hungry. I will not agree to any tax measures which are not based upon ability to pay. I believe those are reasonable conditions. If you accept them—and I frankly do not see how any of you can refuse—then I am sure we will be able to reach a speedy agreement.

Let us forget politics and political considerations. Let us view the present situation, not in the light of possible political advantage, but in the light of human need. Let us remember that regardless of our political affiliations we are all public servants, entrusted with a solemn obligation to discharge our duties to the Commonwealth with fidelity, honor and consideration for the public welfare.

CORRESPONDENCE

June 13, 1936.

Dr. Karl de Schweinitz,
Director, State Emergency Relief Board,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Dr. de Schweinitz:

The Federal Works Progress Administration has made possible the employment on WPA projects of 30,000 additional persons now on the Commonwealth's direct relief rolls.

It has done so by extending the period of eligibility of direct relief employables for WPA employment from January 15 to June 15.

This action of the Federal Government followed a conference in Washington last Friday with Acting Federal Works Progress Administrator Aubrey Williams and State Works Progress Administrator Edward N. Jones, at which U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey and I presented Pennsylvani's unemployment relief situation.

In March, before the present special session of the Legislature convened, you estimated that $70,991,000 would be required to meet unemployment relief needs until January 31, 1937.

Subsequently, on May 29th, because of the progress of business and industrial recovery, you advised me that the $70,091,000 would probably be sufficient to meet relief requirements until the middle or even the end of March, 1937.

In view of the action of the Federal Works Progress Administration, which will take 30,000 cases from the direct relief rolls, involving more than 100,000 persons, I would appreciate a revised estimate of direct relief requirements until January 31, 1937.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) GEORGE H. EARLE.

June 13, 1936.

The Honorable George H. Earle,
Governor of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

My dear Governor Earle:

With the WPA able to take an additional 30,000 families from the relief rolls, as indicated in your letter of today, the requirements of the State Emergency Relief Board will be substantially reduced. If, also, the present upward trend in business and employment continues $55,000,000 would carry relief through January 31, 1937, and at the same time, would make possible the payment of additional rent and other necessary items, establishing the average grant per person at 35 cents a day instead of the present 31 cents a day.

If there should be an acceleration of business recovery, this fund might carry beyond January 31. On the other hand, to predict accurately what conditions will be seven or eight months from now is impossible and there is always the contingency that the needs of the unemployed may be greater than these more favorable expectations would indicate.

The Relief Administration is making every effort to conserve and prudently to administer its funds. The budget for April was underspent by $345,000. We have expended $700,000 less in May than the amount which the Legislature made available. Our total expenditures for May were $3,000,000 less than they were in December. During this period we have reduced our staff by more than 2,500 persons and our administrative costs by more than $300,000 a month. These reductions are due to the transfer of families to the WPA, to improved business conditions, and to efficiencies which we have introduced into our work.

As an aid, both to a continuation of economical administration, and of considerable assistance to the unemployed, I would suggest that the appropriation act contain a provision making any balances remaining on January 31, 1937, available for unemployment relief after that date.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) KARL DE SCHWEINITZ.

REPORT TO THE GOVERNOR BY A. R. ECKLER, WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE PRESENT NEW JERSEY RELIEF SITUATION

(A Preliminary Report of an Investigation Made by WPA in Twelve New Jersey Communities of Relief Granted during April, May and June, 1936) *

The New Jersey Emergency Relief Administration made its final relief grants during the first two weeks of April, 1936. With the cessation of ERA relief needy cases turned to local public relief agencies for assistance. The sharp reductions in case loads and relief costs which resulted in a considerable number of municipalities have attracted widespread attention and have been freely cited as evidence of the advantages of local administration of relief.

To appraise the results of this return of relief cases to the localities, a study in continuation of earlier studies of relief problems was undertaken by the Division of Social Research of the Works Progress Admnistration during the first two weeks of June. Approximately twelve hundred cases which received April relief grants from ERA were chosen at random from total relief loads during that month, 100 in each of 12 selected communities. A carefully trained staff, supervised by agents of the Washington office of the Works Progress Administration, interviewed each of these cases, obtaining data concerning relief grants and total incomes and the extent of private employment during April, May and the first week in June. The interviewers secured fully authenticated statements of the manner in which these cases were faring under local relief as compared to their situation under ERA. The following pages present a preliminary report of this investigation, together with some case histories showing a number of the extreme situations which now exists.

* The communities studied were: Atlantic City, Camden, Commercial Township, New Brunswick, Orange, Paterson, Trenton, Millville, Buena Vista, Linden. Also Hamilton Township and Ewing.

One outstanding conclusion obtained from this series of studies is that the variety of practices under the local administrations is so great as to make generalizations almost impossible. At present there are more than 550 separate relief jurisdictions in New Jersey. These have adopted almost every conceivable system for distributing relief funds. The care which relief cases receive depends on the amount of funds available for distribution in the locality, the attitude of the community toward the relief problem, and the point of view of the local overseer or of the director of the local agency giving general relief.

Reports indicate that a number of communities are following closely the relief standards and practices of the ERA, have accepted a very large percentage of the former ERA cases, and are granting relief in substantially the same amounts formerly granted by ERA. For example, in Paterson some 87 per cent of the April ERA cases were accepted by the local overseer, and the average grant for relief cases (without non-relief income), was $32.00 in May as compared with $36.50 in March. In Orange about 90 per cent of ERA cases have continued to receive relief, and the average relief grant for cases without non-relief income declined from $30.50 in March to $21.00 in May.

At the other extreme, some communities ceased almost entirely to give relief after the dissolution of the ERA. For example, in Commercial Township, only one case out of more than two hundred which received relief in April was granted cash relief in May. In Buena Vista only some 30 per cent of the April ERA cases received assistance from the local overseer in May. Most communities report sharp reductions both in the number of cases assisted and in the amounts expended for relief during the period of local aid as compared to the ERA period; these reductions varied between the extremes presented above.

Although it is difficult to generalize, the following observations may be advanced concerning the present relief situation:

I. A sharp increase in private employment normally takes place in many New Jersey communities in April, May and June. Opportunities for seasonal work in fishing and oystering industries, in agriculture (including truck farming), and in caring for the summer resort trade contribute to this usual increase. Evidence of this normal movement is to be found in the April-June movement of case loads in 1935 in a number of the communities studied. During this period last year the case load in Atlantic City declined about 15 per cent; Commercial Township more than 40 per cent; and in Linden about 13 per cent.

Confirmation of this normal seasonal movement is to be found in the data on private employment in these communities obtained from this study. In Atlantic City about 50 per cent of the cases reported private employment in May, as against 33 per cent in April. In Commercial Township 83 per cent of the cases had private employment in May as against 25 per cent in April; in Linden the corresponding percentages were about 43 per cent and 31 per cent.

II. Decreases in case loads and relief expenditures due to the advent of summer weather also effected a reduction in the needs for relief between April and June; this influence is reflected not only in the communities cited above, but in a number of other localities as well.

III. In many communities overseers of the poor or other agents are granting little more than the cheapest types of staple groceries together with small amounts of milk and kerosene or similar cooking fuel. In most cases no provision is being made to meet rent, medical care, clothing and other family needs.

The attached case histories indicate some of the serious situations which are arising due to the absence of provision for these items; particularly serious is the lack of medical care. For ten of the communities surveyed for which complete data are available on this point, the average relief grant (for cases without private income) which received assistance in May declined about 40 per cent below the March level. Great variation existed among the communities however; in Paterson average May grants by overseers were only about 11 per cent below March ERA grants, probably little more than the usual change between these months. At the other extreme, in Trenton and New Brunswick the percentage reductions were as high as 68 and 63.

Some of the results of this policy are not yet apparent. Landlords may allow rent to accumulate for a few months but cannot be expected to continue this practice indefinitely. A number of evictions were reported to the investigators during the period April 15th to June 1st.

Needed medical care may, in some cases, also be deferred but the results may be permanent injury or even death. A number of deaths caused directly by lack of medical attention or by malnutrition have been reported; one or two of these are described in the attached case records. Lack of sufficient food and clothing was reported by a great many of the cases visited by federal interviewers. In some instances children were unable to attend school because of lack of clothing, and some of the housing was far below any civilized standard.

IV. In a number of the communities surveyed local officials refused to give relief to many cases in serious need, and even in dire distress. Some communities have refused all assistance to single persons regardless of need. Others have eliminated from the relief rolls all cases with any private employment, regardless of the amount of income from such employment. Cases were reported in which large families with incomes of less than $1.00 per week were refused all aid because the case possessed private employment. Some communities have put into effect the provision of the poor law requiring five years residence before acceptance for relief.

In justice to local overseers of the poor, it should be stated that many of these officials recognize the inadequacy of the relief now being distributed in their communities; they commented freely to this effect to the investigators. Many of these officials have stated that they realize that relief cannot be continued at present levels without the most acute distress to needy families. One of numerous statements on this point made by overseers to the investigators is appended.

Careful investigation failed to discover any considerable number of "chiselers" in communities surveyed. In some of the communities no cases were found which could properly be accused of "chiseling," in others, isolated cases were discovered. It cannot properly be said, however, that the elimination of "chiseling" made possible any considerable reduction in the relief loads of any of the communities surveyed. Some of the so-called "chiselers" were cases which, because of the upturn in employment had been able to secure private jobs after they had received their last ERA grant. Most of the cases charged with "chiseling," however, were those with small amounts of private employment yielding an income clearly inadequate for their support.

Certain other observations reported by the investigators concerning the local distribution of relief, should be mentioned. In many communities it appears that application for relief was intentionally made repulsive to persons with self respect. In one community, as indicated in an attached statement, grocery orders bear the statement across the top, "I have declared myself a pauper." In some communities relief applicants were required to take a "pauper's oath;" and in others they were required to stand in line in public places in order to receive their relief grant.

Reports show that in many places relief is being distributed by untrained workers who do not make proper investigation of the needs of the families.

The attached case histories indicate some of the more serious situations which now exist in the New Jersey localities studied:

D-2

The baby in the Downing family died two weeks ago from lack of milk. Their fifteen-month old child has whooping cough now. With a mounting drugstore bill and no money on hand, the Downings don't know where they will get further medical supplies or medical care.

Since ERA relief was shut off, this family of thirteen eats only bread and whatever bulk food the local relief agency supplies. They have no milk. The children can eat the bread, although they complain of being hungry all the time. Mrs. Downing is ill of heart disease, complicated by stomach trouble, and can eat little of the small food allowance received by the family. "I drink a cup of coffee now and then," she said.

For cooking fuel, the family burns anything the boys can collect from dump heaps: old rubber inner tubes and old shoes, for the most part.

This family lives in a dilapidated five-room house in Mercer County. Broken windowpanes have been haphazardly replaced with cardboard and wooden boards, and the place swarms with flies from the nearby swamp. Mr. Downing owns the house, but not the deed. Taxes, which amount to $15 yearly, are in arrears for seven years.

Under ERA, the family received two quarts of milk daily, a $22.50 food order every two weeks, clothing, sheets and pillow cases, and also 16 gallons of kerosene and one-half ton of coal every month.

H-6

Frank Hill is in urgent need of proper and adequate food, milk and medical assistance, but since the termination of the ERA relief, this is no longer possible. He is 64 years old, partially paralyzed as a result of a stroke two years ago, and suffers from continuous fainting spells.

The local relief supplies the Hills with $1.50 a week, and with that they buy a little flour, fat pork, potatoes and beans. This diet aggravates Mr. Hill's condition, and he is growing steadily worse. They live, without relatives or friends, in Atlantic County, occupying a broken-down two-room house that is entirely without modern conveniences. His wife is physically able to do little more than walk the necessary one-half mile to secure drinking water at a neighbor's well.

B-6

Barry Fuller, Middlesex County, is 56 years old but he looks to be nearly 70. Because he is single, the municipal relief agency will give him nothing. When visited in his home-made shack by the river, he was obviously starving. He had lived on nothing but bread and coffee for three days. He said he begged from the grocery store and was sometimes given food, evidently left-over Federal Surplus Commodities.

This man had a WPA job for a short time but was laid off as unable to work. He had been on relief the greater part of the past three years, but had always been marked down as unable to do heavy or even moderate labor. Occasionally he had been able to do some light work for his relief. Sometimes he made a little money selling junk and always when this happened, he did not come for his relief. He is in such poor health now that he has little energy to gather junk and is seldom able to make more than 50 cents a week.

Fuller built his shack out of cast-off pig iron and pans. It stands on a sandy patch only a few feet from the river. He even constructed a bathroom with a bathtub crudely enclosed with pieces of tin. He invited the interviewer into his shack to show how well he had fitted it out from the junk piles. He had covered the bed with ragged layers of something resembling bedding and had made himself some pillow cases out of flour sacks.

When he had employment, Fuller paid his debts to the local grocer. Now he is practically a begger in the community.

A-10

Mrs. Alice Jenkins, 66 years old, her son, John, 44 years old, and her granddaughter, Lily, 11 years old, were found living in one room about 12 by 10 feet in size in a small community located in the oystering section of southern New Jersey. They all ate and slept in this one room, cooking what food they could get on a kerosene stove.

They had received no relief since ERA ended in April. Mrs. Jenkins, who is amaciated and tubercular, had been unable to get a job this summer in the tomato cannery where she worked last year. Her son worked for the past two weeks picking strawberries at 75 cents to $1.20 a day, but he has been unable to put in a full day's work because of a serious intestinal disorder. He is now trying to pick enough peas to keep his family alive. Mrs. Jenkins is afraid he will be unable to find farm work during July and August. About the only regular employment the family ever has is in the fall and winter during the oyster season at Port North.

Both she and her son appeared undernourished. Mrs. Jenkins had never fully recovered from a serious cold she caught last winter when she went out poorly clad. Her son has been ordered by the doctor to drink milk regularly but he is unable to buy milk.

Under ERA Mrs. Jenkins had a special diet and medical care.

Albert Fontella a 36-year-old American-Italian of a small town near Camden, is going to ask the jail for shelter on June 20th, when his family of six is due to be evicted from their house. The family owes $30—two months' rent—and they now receive only $3.50 a week from local relief, in addition to surplus commodities of oatmeal, canned beef and vegetable soup every two weeks.

Before the ERA relief stopped, the family received $11.50 every two weeks, and two quarts of milk daily. The head of this family before the depression was a brakeman on the Pennsylvania Railroad and received $62 per week. Since that time he has had only occasional jobs for a month or more at a time.

Before Fontella cleaned cells in his town's police station last week, he had no idea where he would turn when the family is evicted. Their few relatives were not able to take care of them, and Fontella tried vainly to get help from his church.

Besides their need for food and shelter, the Fontellas have other troubles. Their 13-year-old daughter is growing too rapidly and looks emaciated. The 14-year-old son has an ulcerated tooth which needs immediate attention. The baby daughter, one year old, has no fresh milk.

"We are going to sell our furniture, but that money won't last long," Mr. Fontella told the interviewer. "There is nothing in this world I won't do to keep my wife and children from starving."

A-3

A township in Burlington County, New Jersey, has no money at all, and people formerly dependent on ERA relief are receiving neither money nor food. The Overseer of the Poor in this township went to the Council meeting last week and told its members that some of the former relief people were sick, could not work and were starving.

" I told the Council it was cheaper to feed people than to bury them, and it really is," he told the interviewer. "You can feed them for a couple odd dollars, but the undertaker gets $75 per person. Figure it out for yourself."

E-1

Mrs. Eva Amando, an Italian-American woman nearly 80 years old could not keep from weeping when she was questioned about conditions since ERA was terminated in Atlantic County. The Overseers had given her nothing, telling her that her children should support her. Her children themselves were on relief.

Since she was removed from ERA, she has been living on a most meager diet. All she had in the house when interviewed was potatoes and bread given her by relatives. Her finger was badly infected, and her general health appeared very poor.

In order to keep alive last month she had sold all her little treasures of Italian gold, getting a total of $5 from the sale. She had parted with her earrings and other small pieces of jewelry. All that was left was a plain gold wedding chain which she had had for 62 years. She showed this chain in a little box and wept bitterly. She said she would have to sell it soon.

B-7

A negro family living in Atlantic County was refused help from the township because, according to Mrs. Greene: "He told me I had a cart and a horse. As if we can eat a cart and a horse."

The father and mother of this family are both over 40 and have several daughters. They live in a poorly constructed three-room frame building on what looks like an old wagon trail running through a thickly wooded section of the village. The shack is poorly furnished and has no conveniences except for a dilapidated toilet outside. The walls and roof have been patched with cardboard and pieces of tar paper to prevent leaks. They have absolutely no income at the present time.

In 1928 Mr. Greene was a coal miner in a neighboring state. He was injured in the mines and now one of his legs is partially paralyzed. He can drive a truck but cannot do heavy work or anything that requires standing. His wife has recently developed a serious digestive trouble and has lost 40 pounds. They have had no food except what the grocer allowed them on credit, but now their credit is exhausted. On ERA they received food, milk, kerosene, medical care and clothing. Mrs. Greene told the interviewer: "It's been terrible since the relief closed. If the store man didn't let us have credit we would have starved to death. We ain't had a day's work this year. I might get a chance to drive a person to town and I would get 40 to 50 cents for that. When the relief was in, we got food, medical orders, and some cloths. I have indigestion so bad I have lost 40 pounds. I ought to be in the hospital right now but I ain't got no money."

C-4

"A sin before God Almighty", is what Mrs. Dodge thinks of the conditions in Mercer County since ERA ended. Her family consists of 13 persons, the oldest, her husband, 82 years old, the youngest, a child of three. On ERA they received $24.10 in cash and a food order amounting to $26 every two weeks.

On June 12 the Overseers of the Poor gave her 2 pounds of macaroni, 4 cans of beef, 1 can of corn, 1 can of tomatoes, half a pound of sugar, two cans of peas, two cans of salmon, one box corn flakes, one can of spaghetti, two pounds of flour, one pound of coffee, and a can of pork and beans. This was to be their food for the next five days.

Mrs. Dodge is getting no fresh milk for her children. She dilutes canned milk to put on cereal. The children are rapidly losing weight.

Rent is 12 a month, but the family has been unable to pay it for six months. The only fuel they have is wood picked up at the dump. With this, Mrs. Dodge cooks their food. When the interviewer was there, she was getting ready to fry some fish which a friend had given her. The fish and biscuits would be their dinner. Formerly the family got $14 a month from a son in the C. C. C. but they have not heard from him for four weeks.

The children are developing various ailments, but the county provides no medical care. One member of the family has asthma, another has epileptic fits, and others have had coughs.

When the interviewer asked Mrs. Dodge how county relief compared with state relief, she said, "It was much better when the state had it. We don't need coal now but you don't get medical care. I told the district supervisor about the children's coughs, but he said he couldn't do anything about it. I said because you live in the township you have to die before they do anything."

If Sam Jones, a 50-year old Negro, walks eight miles to a neighbor's pea field, he can make 75 cents for the work he does there. Last week, he cut some wood for another neighbor, who gave him $1.25. That $2.00 was the first money Sam had made in two months.

This Negro is healthy and optimistic, but he can't find work. Even the usual seasonal employment in the district has been very scanty. When the ERA relief was discontinued, he could no longer pay rent for his former dwelling, and was forced to move to a one-room shack. It is made of tin and tar paper, with a floor of slab lumber and dirt, and a ceiling of cardboard. The shack is without windows, and has no ventilation other than the door.

Three food orders of $1.50 each are all this man has had from the local relief agency in the last few weeks. His diet consists of beans, potatoes and bread—and he has very little of those on hand. He had vainly applied for further relief with the local Overseer of the Poor, who has told him that he will have to "make out" as best he can.

C-2

A mother and six young children in Atlantic County were trying to live on $3 a week which they got from the Overseer of the Poor. Mrs. Black's husband left her seven years ago, two months before her youngest girl was born. Her oldest daughter is 14 and the others, all girls, are 7, 9, 10, 11 and 13 years old. Mrs. Black worked as a charwoman for many years in order to support her family. About three years ago she became ill and could not work any more. She had no relatives to help her and went on relief.

On ERA she was able to keep her home together and feed and clothe her children, but the last grant was made in April and since then they have had to exist on a weekly $3 food order with no provision for rent. They expect to be evicted.

The mother had tears in her eyes when she talked to the interviewer. "I expect any day to be put out of my home because I can't pay the rent," she said. "If the neighbors didn't feel so sorry for my little girls and give them food, we would have starved to death."

The previous day she and her six daughters had nothing to eat but bread and water.

C-3

Mr. Ratchesky is a skilled worker, a plumber by trade, who saved enough to buy a house in Mercer County three years ago for $3,000. Since then he has been unemployed much of the time. In order to support his wife and eight children he mortgaged the house and is now about to lose it. He owes $975 on the mortgage which he cannot pay. He had three days work in May and has had three days so far in June.

The day the interviewer visited him he had received seven loaves of bread from the county relief office which was supposed to feed the family of nine for five days. He has a baby two years old and his oldest child is 15.

"The bread is bad and moldy," Mr. Ratchesky said. "The last few weeks it has been bad and went green before we could eat it. Canned food is bad. Some of the cans are rusty and the top is expanded. That's no good."

Evidently this food had been purchased by the Township Committee from damaged or condemned food shipments that had been under water.

"It is like starvation. You eat as though you were taking a dose of poison," Mr. Ratchesky said. "All the milk we get for nine people is two cans of evaporated milk a week. We get no fresh vegetables at all. One of us will be laid up sick sooner or later . It looks pretty bad for the winter with coal to buy and everything."

Mr. Ratchesky said his children's teeth were bothering them since they have been on this meagre diet, but he could not afford to take them to the dentist. Under the ERA the Ratcheskys got a food order of $18, coal, kerosene and three quarts of milk.

C-5

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Esti, an old Italian couple in Atlantic County, are starving to death. Mr. Esti has the distended stomach which is indicative of slow starvation on an almost exclusively starch diet. When questioned, he said he was never able to buy more than a bag of flour, potatoes, beans and olive oil. The only vegetables he had in his garden were lettuce and oninons. Although he had an acre of land, he was too feeble from old age and illness to do much work in it this year.

Mrs. Esti was walking around barefooted. She showed the interviewer the only shoes she had, a pair of sneakers full of holes. Both she and her husband were wearing clothes given them by the ERA.

The couple lived in a small dilapidated three-room house which Mr. Esti built more than 30 years ago.

"Me and my wife have lived together nearly 50 years but it would be better if we both died right now the way we have to live," the old man said, "especially when I got to see my wife barefoot all the time. The first time in her life that she ain't got clothes and something to eat. Look what we're cooking. We eat beans and doughballs and potatoes nearly all the time. Sometimes I think my belly is going to burst, and I will die. These relief people around here think we can live on nothing, but we can't. I hope the state takes it again."

A-11

When the interviewer stopped in to see the Tomara family in Pennsauken Township, New Jersey, Victor, his wife and four sons were sitting down to a thin supper of spinach and bread. They are on local relief, and the 12-year old boy who did most of the talking because his parents spoke poor English kept insisting that they were always hungry. Four dollars a week and some canned goods (Federal Surplus Commodities) constitute their relief allotment. The oldest boy is sixteen; the youngest of eight, a sickly-looking boy, can scarcely walk, because he doesn't get food.

Under ERA the family received $15 a month toward rent, a $19 food order every two weeks, and two quarts of milk a day. Now their garden has failed on account of the drought, and their chickens are laying only one or two eggs a day, so that their attempts at supplementing the slim relief which they get from local authorities have been frustrated. They are very discouraged; the boys have become so rebellious that they have been stealing food when begging failed.

All the boys were barefooted, and Mrs. Tomara was ashamed of their lack of adequate clothing. They have been on relief since the beginning of ERA because her husband, a stone mason, has not been able to find work. The son said that his father spent most of his time walking from place to place in search of work.

The Tomaras live in a double house belonging to an acquaintance who threatens to throw them out if they don't pay rent. The other half of the house is a beer parlor, and there are drunken men around the neighborhood most of the time.

The very evident effect of suffering on the Tomara boys points up all too well the social results of starvation.

B-2

Families are now forced to sign the paper's oath in order to get poor relief in one township in Morris County. The manager of the American store reported to the visitor from the ERA that all food orders now had printed across the top, "I have declared myself a pauper."

B-8

Boris Hanson is 78 years old (badly ruptured and with a wounded leg which pains him constantly) and alone in the world. He has not had a cent of income since ERA was discontinued in April. His one-room shack stands in a small community in the oystering section along the southern coast of new Jersey. The shack is about two city blocks from his nearest neighbor, and Mr. Hanson with his rupture, his advanced age, and his wounded leg can walk only a few steps. An old neighbor gives him small amounts from his old age persion and a Negro friend gives him fish from time to time. He has no other food. Recently a friend gave him some jam but he had no bread to eat it on.

The county overseers are doing nothing to help this man. "I would have died," he said, "if it hadn't been for my good neighbors who have gone without food themselves to keep me alive."

A-2

Allen Black, an elderly man and head of a family of six, of Burlington County, New Jersey, has for many months been totally dependent upon relief money for food fuel and shelter, and medical treatment from the State Emergency Relief Administration.

The head of the family has an advanced case of diabetes, and for many months has been undergoing a cure at a local hospital. His ERA relief made this medical care possible.

Since the ERA relief was discontinued, Mr. Black has had to leave the hospital and return home, as the city does not supply medical care.

The last food orders this family received were on April 16, when a $7 order was given, and on April 23, when a $3 order was given. At that time the family was told that there would be no further relief, as the city has no funds.

Since the ERA stopped, the family has been dependent upon a minor son, who is on the Youth Program. The boy's entire wage has barely paid for rent and for the plainest food. These expenditures have left no money to buy insulin, with which his father's diabetic treatment might be continued at home. The insulin, naturally, is essential to the man's life.

This is only one case where abandonment of ERA relief has not only deprived a family of its sustenance, but has made impossible continuance of vitally necessary medical care.

A-8

Annie Hunter, an elderly woman living in the berry and oystering section of New Jersey without family or friends is now totally dependent for her livelihood on the small wages she receives for picking strawberries. When the interviewer saw her, she had just made $3 for three days work.

After ERA relief stopped, she had neither money for food and shelter, or her medical supplies. This woman has heart trouble complicated by high blood pressure.

Because of her illness, she finds picking strawberries difficult, for this work involves working in the sun. She is not equipped to do any other kind of work and, besides, she is sick half the time from not eating sufficiently.

Frightened of her future, she said to the interviewer: "I think I would be better off dead."

B-9

The interviewer found an Italian, 83 years of age and blind in one eye, living alone in an old house in Atlantic County. The old man had been eating his lunch from a garden and was chewing a lettuce leaf as the interviewer approached. He looked tired and wan, and as the interviewer explained why he was there, he began to tremble.

"I thought you were bringing me something from the relief people," he said. "I asked for relief lots of times but they say 'Wait a little longer,' but I can't wait too long. I feel weak and dizzy. Today I could hardly get up from my chair. I know I'm going to die soon. In a few more days you wouldn't have found me here. The state took good care of me," he said. "I hope they do something soon before it's too late."

The man had no fuel to cook his garden vegetables. He needed clothes and medical attention. Obviously he did not have enough food.

S-3

Sidney Clarke is a 48-year old Negro living in Atlantic City. A native of New Jersey, he has worked in the shipyards at Camden trucking coke, in a brickyard, and since 1909 as a cementworker in Atlantic City until he contracted tuberculosis and become too ill to work.

On ERA he received about $11. a month. The last grant was made on April 7. A week later he got his first grant from the Overseers of the Poor, amounting to $4.50 twice a month. No rent is included and Clarke has to live in a filthy room in a tumbled down shack which has been condemned as unfit for human habitation. The room has only one window, and the house has no sanitary facilities. No gas or light are furnished. To pay for this hole-in-the-wall, Clarke has to take $1 from his meagre food allowance. He is no longer able to get the milk which he had while on ERA.

Clarke goes to a clinic once a week for chest treatment, but he really needs institutional care as well as medical attention, and a special milk allowance which the doctor has prescribed. His tubercular condition has been seriously aggravated by the unsanitary living quarters he occupies as well as by his poor diet.

J-10

In sight of the impressive Atlantic City Boardwalk is a crude houseboat, the home of Mrs. Jennie Jenkins. The home amounts to little more than a water-front shack approached by a primitive bridge of boards wide enough to enable one person to pass. Mrs. Jenkins, a native-born American citizen, has resided in Atlantic City for fifteen years, but she owes her present shelter to the generosity of a 78-year old friend, who makes a meager living by junking. She frankly admits begging and picking up food from dumps, and claims that her destitution has driven her to this.

Until the recent discontinuance of ERA relief in April, this woman received $8.80 per month. For a while the Overseer of the Poor continued giving her this relief, with the exception of milk and kerosene grants, but in May she, along with the closing of all other single employable cases, was barred from the relief rolls.

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been separated from her husband since 1910, was formerly a maid in one of the large Atlantic City hotels, but is now unable to find work.

D-1

Mr. Desoto of Atlantic County is 76 years old, pitifully thin and emaciated, and it takes great effort for him to hobble about the yard to tend his small vegetable garden. Old and infirm as he is, he is the sole support of his 77 year old wife, who is a hopeless cripple, and unable to leave her chair without asistance.

Coffee constitutes their breakfast, and for lunch they have only a dry meal of bread. At night, they eat beans and potatoes from the garden, provided they have fuel to cook with. The ERA relief supplies them with kerosene for cooking, in addition to food, milk, medical assistance and clothing. But since the kerosene and the other state aid have stopped coming, they are on some days unable to prepare what little food they have because Mr. Desoto is physically unable to chop wood.

The garden produces a few onions, but Mr. Desoto said, "I am so tired of eating them." Recently someone gave them an old goat, which Mr. Desoto traded for a kid. This supplies a pint of milk daily, which is used by his wife, whose condition, he says, is more serious than his.

When the interviewer called, Mrs. Desoto could not move from her chair to be photographed, for her dress consisted only of a shirtwaist, and a ragged petticoat made of flour sacks.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Desoto began to weep hysterically when the interviewer explained the purpose of his visit.

"Thank God that the government is going to help us again," the old gentleman said. "I hope so, for we can't go on much longer living like this. I am getting so thin I have trouble helping her to move around. And sometimes I think it would be better if, when we go to sleep at night, God will never let us wake up again. Then we would be out of our misery and would never bother anybody anymore"

S-4

Sam Lozowick has been pushing chairs on the Atlantic City boardwalk this month. During the week of May 31 to June 6 he made $1 in tips. The Overseers of the Poor gave him $1.80 and with this $2.80 he had to get enough food to keep up his strength to push tourists along the walk. He owes $24 for rent which he has not paid and his shoes and clothes are in such bad condition that it is doubtful if he can continue this type of work long at his present income. His heart and lungs are impaired and he is in serious need of medical care.

Before ERA was cut off in April, he got about $8 a month for food besides Federal Surplus Commodities. Altogether in March his relief under ERA amounted to $8.05. He had been on ERA for two years.

Lozowick immigrated here from Russia in 1914. He has worked as a laborer in shipyards, construction companies, and in a salt factory where his lungs became infected and he was forced to quit. He worked as a dishwasher in Atlantic City for ten years until three years ago when heart trouble set in. Although he never earned more than $15 or $20 a week, he took out two insurance policies, one for life insurance valued at $300 and a $1,000 endowment policy. He had to drop both when he became unemployed.

S-6

Saul Franklin, his wife and three children, one a crippled boy, were evicted from their home in New Brunswick April 15, after ERA stopped. The family was broken up. Mr. Franklin went to live with his father and mother, both past sixty, and his sister. All of them are unemployed.

Mrs. Franklin and the children went to live with her parents, and her sister and brother whose only income is what they get from the Overseer of the Poor. This amounted to $9.00 twice a month from April 18 to June 1.

Mrs. Franklin tried to get extra money for the crippled boy who is supposed to be getting fresh vegetables, fruit and milk. He had this diet while on ERA. The overseers refused to grant the extra amount.

A-9

A man who has been operated on for appendicitis and gallstones should have milk and certain other special foods. But since the close of the ERA relief, Irving Arkwright, of Cumberland County, has been living almost entirely on the peas and greens from his garden.

Knowing that he needed other food, he tried to dredge for clams, but was physically unable to continue. One day recently his wife earned $1.20 picking peas on a neighbor's farm, and with that they bought the first milk, eggs and bread they had had for some time. A doctor has told Mr. Arkwright that he should stop work altogether, but the need for food drives him to pick up what odd jobs he can.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR KENNEDY. The Chair wishes to express the thanks of the General Assembly to His Excellency, The Governor, for the splendid message delivered to us this evening. I express the hope that as a result of his suggestion we may have enacted a prompt legislative program that will meet the needs of the situation. Thank you very much.

ADJOURNMENT OF JOINT SESSION

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR KENNEDY. The business for which the Joint Session of the General Assembly was convened having been transacted, the Joint Session is adjourned. The Senators will immediately assemble in the Senate Chamber.

The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

STATEMENT BY MR. WOODSIDE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent) make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, We have been ssembled in this extraordinary session to deal primarily ith the problem of relief. For me to discuss the factors hich made this session necessary might lead to partisan ebate which I desire to avoid at this time.

Allow me to make clear from the beginning that I am ot presuming to speak for the Republican Party or any f its leaders. What I say is my opinion and must be laid) my doorstep and to mine alone.

We are told that we must feed the starving, that if we) not appropriate vast sums for Relief we face revolution, ie implication being, of course, if we do not appropriate iese vast sums, we are not only inhuman but also fools. nd so we all rise in our turn and repeat, "the poor must e fed."

Neither we nor the taxpayers should be misled by the ppealing phrases of the theorists. Unemployment relief as advanced far beyond the point of "feeding the poor." he NRA established a minimum wage, but the SERB ent far beyond that. It established a minimum income, nd a standard of living—in many instances the best that as ever known to the beneficiaries.

Thus arose the situation such as recently told me by a ilkman, who served a territory in which employment as more or less irregular. During the time the people re working they make good wages, a minimum of approximately five dollars a day. As soon as industry shuts own, large numbers of them find their way to the relief olls. While the Government is taking care of them, this ilkman delivers to their door, at the expense of the tate, two, three, four and five quarts of milk a day, but s soon as the head of the family goes back to work at ve dollars or more a day, he delivers to that same house- old one or none.

We have heard tonight a considerable number of exmples of the relief situation in New Jersey. We might ite any number of examples of relief situations in Pennylvania, which are just as serious. I might call to your ttention the fact that the WPA workers in this county f Dauphin, who had worked, some of them, as many as ix weeks, were faced on Thanksgiving Day with not a bite) eat, because they did not get their checks, and it was ie Dauphin County Poor Board that went into their omes and gave them their Thanksgiving dinners.

But why take up time to cite specific instances? Anyne of you can cite any number of specific instances, which ill prove that relief is not being handled as it ought to e handled. In my opinion it is time to call a halt long nough to apprize ourselves of the place from which we ame, the spot on which we stand, and the destination to hich we are being hurled.

Tonight the Governor said in his speech:

"Our major industries are thriving. Corporation profits nd dividends are increasing. Employment is steadily ising. The rapid recovery of steel is bringing substantial prosperity to Western Pennsylvania. Our great mills and factories in the eastern part of the State are showing corresponding gains."

In his speech made to the Democratic Committee the Governor spoke of the depression in the past tense. The "emergency," as we call it in the unemployment relief law, is over, according to his remarks. The Patriot and The Evening News, the outstanding Democratic newspapers of this part of the State, for some purpose have taken upon themselves, by articles and editorials, to point out that employment, at least in Dauphin County, is practically up to the 1927 level, the year taken as normal. That is true of Dauphin County.

There is no necessity to argue whether there is a depression now or not. In 1932 there was. We spent two million dollars in Pennsylvania for direct relief, and no one starved. In 1933, you will recall that the banks were closed, and there was a depression. We spent less than seven million dollars for relief and no one starved. During this period we did not have the assistance of the WPA, PWA, CCC, NYA, Rural Rehabilitation, Old Age Pension, Blind Pension and many other similar funds.

Then came 1935, with all these agencies and funds and aids. And with them all, and in addition to them all, we spent for direct relief in Pennsylvania that one year over two hundred and three million dollars. Mr. Speaker, that is not priming the pump; that is diverting a river into our well and polluting our economic waters.

Now, after three long years, it is 1936. Our alphabetical agencies are working, the depression is over, says the Governor, employment is nearly normal, says the former Democratic National Chairman, and yet we are asked to appropriate for direct relief approximately seven million dollars a month, to be added to the twelve million to twenty million being spent by WPA, not to mention many other millions being spent by numerous other Governmental agencies. What price relief?

We are burdening industry with new taxes. To the cheers of radicals, we are throwing the fear of God into business, making expansion by it too perilous to attempt. That is not all.

Before the change of administration in Pennsylvania, and before the vast relief expenditures, practically all the taxes necessary to run or maintain the General Fund of the State Government were obtained from corporations and large estates. The average man never paid a red copper direct into the General Fund unless he happened to have a rich uncle who died and left him some money. Now what? Every cigarette smoker pays his tribute. Every day a farmer runs his tractor, he buys with his gas tax a bushel of coal for some non-worker. Every time a mother takes her children to the community movies, she helps fill the relief coffers. Every time the farmer goes to market, the family auto runs out of the garage, or the working man rides to his employment, the State collects. When the home owner mortgages his property to keep going, he pays his tribute. Since early in 1935 the poor man is beginning to feel the pinch of relief taxes, both directly and indirectly. Those taxes are destined to become more and more severe, unless we here and now call a halt.

It is the line of least resistance to carry on with relief in the present manner. We should be industrious enough and courageous enough to meet the issue to which we all know the answer. The solution and the only solution is to give relief back to the local governments to administer.

In my determination that the present system of administration of relief must go, I am uncompromising. This position I take for three reasons. First, we cannot afford to continue the system; second, its effect on the morale of the people is degrading; and third, it is a system which can and will be used to set up an economic socialism and political dictatorship.

As to the detailed method of carrying on relief and its administration by local units, I am willing to compromise. There are many ways which would be a marked improvement over the present expensive and dangerous system of carrying it on.

Mr. PFAFF. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no second to the motion for the previous question. The gentleman from Dauphin will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as to the detailed method of carrying on relief I am willing to compromise. As I have said, there is more than one method which would be satisfactory, and many which would be an improvement over the present dangerous and expensive method.

My suggestion is that we enact a bill similar to the first Talbot Act, appropriating sixteen million dollars, or two million dollars a month, for the period from July 1, 1936 to March 1, 1937.

I know whereof I speak when I say to you, give the Dauphin County Poor Board their pro rata share of the two million dollars per month, and the worthy poor and needy of this County will be provided for. The Poor Board having done this when we were worse off than now, are willing to assume the responsibility of doing it again. Of course, they would not import people from other states to administer the funds. The number of employees would be substantially cut. Many now on relief will not apply, and many others will be known to be unworthy and removed.

We recently saw where the relief list in a certain New Jersey community dropped from three thousand to ninety, when the administration was taken over by local officials.

As to the cost of administration, it might be interesting to review the period when in 1932 the Dauphin County Poor Board was administering the relief fund with ten investigators, four of whom were regular employees and six of whom were extras employed to assist in the administration of the Talbot funds. They were investigators who knew the people of the community in which they were working; they were operating under a system that was more interested in relieving need and want than in preparing reports and case histories. The day that relief was taken over by the local division of the SERB, the employees increased, I am told, from six to sixty, and within one month they had increased to approximately one hundred. These employees were under the supervision of a succession of directors, all imported from other states. I make no attack upon relief officials or employees. Many are fine, high type, sincere people. It is the system which is destroying the beneficiary and the benefactor alike.

Of course, it would not be necessary for the State to appropriate even sixteen million dollars for unemployment relief at this time, if the Federal Government would keep its promise made by the President himself, to take care of all employables. But evidently there is no intention to keep that promise, and through the failure of the Federal Government to do so, I presume that the duty of making these provisions falls upon us.

The money I would attempt to raise, first, by the method provided in the resolution of the Honorable Elwood J. Turner, calling upon the WPA to return to the State the money spent by us to "relieve" Federal employees. Secondly, a substantial part of this sum could be raised by economies in the State Government. For months we have noticed in the papers almost daily, articles of a few dismissals and many hirings on Capitol Hill.

Not until there has been an honest effort to balance the budget by economies and by obtaining from the Federal Government that to which we are entitled, will I consider voting for an additional tax burden on the people of my County and my State. My colleague, Mr. Habbyshaw, and I have constantly during this session voted against every tax bill. We did not do that capriciously. We did it because we are not convinced that new taxes are necessary at this time. We believe that if a program similar to that I am suggesting would be adopted, these vast burdens could be avoided.

The enactment of a bill at this session similar to the first Talbot Act is not suggested as the ultimate solution of our relief problem. In my opinion a committee should be appointed by the Legislature to determine the best method of decentralizing the administration of relief, and to recommend to the regular session what legislation is necessary to carry out this program of decentralization. In my opinion a fair share of the cost of relief should eventually be handed back to the local government. This does not mean an additional burden on real estate for we should at the same time lift from local government some of their present burdens by further subsidizing schools, taking over additional roads, assisting in police protection, and in other ways aiding them financially. In addition to this, it probably will be necessary for a time at least to create a fund somewhat similar to our fund for relief of destitute school districts, whereby the Department of Welfare could assist certain districts which are extremely hard hit due to the complete collapse of their chief or only industry.

I know that there are some on this side of the House who do not agree with my proposal. I know there are some on the other side of the House who will not agree with my proposal, but I am confident that a majority of this House are of the opinion that the proposal which I recommend is the only solution.

At the beginning of this session the Governor asked for a political holiday. I assume that he was sincere. I assume that he was referring to the Democrats as well as the Republicans. I further assume that this is a deliberative body, the House calling, the Marx loving gentleman from Berks to the contrary notwithstanding. I would like to assume that the Legislature still has not only the legal right but also the actual privilege of "making" laws. Therefore, my Democratic friends, if my assumptions are correct, if the political holiday was sincerely declared, you are free to vote your own opinions and to do what I am confident the majority of you consider to be correct, and that is, get back to earth with the problem of relief and carry out the suggestions which I have made.

COMMITTEE TO CONFER WITH GOVERNOR

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that a committee of six be appointed to represent the House in conference with the Governor tomorrow morning.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I shall ask the membership of this House to vote in favor of this motion. However, I want to say but a few words with respect to the address made by His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, just a short while ago. I accept the apology of His Excellency, the Governor, for having submitted to this Legislature six weeks ago a grossly exaggerated figure necessary for relief, $70,991,000. I accept that apology because, coupled with it, he admitted he was in gross error, and has reduced his figure by the sum of $16,000,000. Thanks to the Senate for not having swallowed his figure forthwith, else we could have needlessly, according to his own admission, burdened the taxpayers of Pennsylvania with at least sixteen million dollars too much in taxes. The delay complained of has saved the taxpayers sixteen million dollars, and no one has starved in the interim. The excuse that in six weeks conditions have changed, is feeble, to say the least.

I note with a great deal of interest that his Excellency, the Governor, in investigating relief conditions in New Jersey, called upon the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania or in the Nation to investigate direct relief in New Jersey. But he refuses, and is part and parcel of those who refuse to permit direct relif to investigate WPA in Pennsylvania. I call upon his Excellency, the Governor to permit us to investigate the WPA administration in Pennsylvania and I ask him to confer with Washington and requst them that we be permitted so to do.

The motion made by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, is a proper motion. A committee ought to sit down and I have no objection to their sitting down with the Governor in an endeavor to iron out any disagreements. But, as we sit down, I say to the membership of this House, the very first thing that I intend to ask him to do is to lift the mystery from WPA, and let us investigate it here, because if we can use it to investigate direct relief in New Jersey he ought to permit us to investigate WPA in Pennsylvania.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to ask the membership of this House to support the motion, and in so doing I wish to make a few passing comments on the remarks of the minority leader.

His remarks are both incorrect and in bad taste. This House just had the opportunity to hear an address from His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania. Those remarks were not made with any attempt to indict or incriminate any particular group or branch of this House. They were given to the membership of this House with all sincerity. He had an outstretching hand in an effort to compromise the solution of the problem. I say that the minority membership of this House, through their leader, attempts to prostitute that particular endeavor and to convert it into a political chicanery.

We are here confronted with a problem of solving the relief requirements for the balance of the biennium, if possible. The figures given at the inception of the meeting of this House did not indicate that these figures would last for the entire biennium, but it was clearly indicated that had we appropriated the sum of seventy million dollars or more for relief that these monies could be utilized up until the end the the biennium, and were not limited by necessity to the end of January 31, 1937. The reduction of sixteen million dollars has been adequately explained by the Governor. I feel that this House was paying attention to those remarks of His Excellency, the Governor, but I will take this opportunity to enumerate them again for the benefit of the minority membership of this House. In the first place, the ravaging flood, rather than having a deterrent effect upon our relief rolls, apparently had no effect whatsoever. Secondly, the Governor has here indicated that through the co-operation of the Works Progress Administration we have been able to secure employment for thirty thousand additional workers, each worker representing three and one-half people or more on direct relief. Further, in addition, since the inception of this session and for some time before, industrial employment has been on a steady increase, which again indicates a lower relief roll.

To the gentleman from Philadelphia and to the minority membership of this House I say that in order to pervert the extended arm of His Excellency, the Governor, whereby the possibility is presentd to this House of solving the problem of taxation or relief, and to convert it into political fodder is a disgrace to the conscience of this House. We are here as deliberative body; we are here in an effort to solve the problem and not to put oil on it. If that is the extent to which the committee will cooperate, I feel there is no necessity so to do. But I still feel that the Republican leadership, I still feel that the minority members of this House, are not willing to strike at the hand of compromise. I feel that they are willing to sit down, as any deliberative group, and solve the problem with which we are confronted.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there is only one remark of the gentleman from York that I believe ought to be given the dignity of a reply. That is the remark dealing with thirty thousand persons with respect to the WPA. I think it is high time that we do not merely have to take utterances of people. We want the facts, and I want proof of the thirty thousand persons with respect to the WPA. I challenge the gentleman from York to give me the proof, because everybody, high and low, in the Democratic party in the State of Pennsylvania, including his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, refused to give us proof. We want facts, not words. When they tell me something, they ought to be able to prove it or forever hold their tongue. I say that if an attempt is made to call my talk political, it is political in the sense that I am going to continue to shout that the Democrats are hiding the facts because they are afraid of the facts, because no man ever refused to state that which he knows or to divulge that which is in his possession, unless he is hiding something, and if he is hiding something then there is something crooked in Denmark.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Phladelphia seems quite insistent on having an answer. I point out to the gentleman from Philadelphia that only a short time ago a Republican judge, Judge McDevitt, I believe of Philadelphia, gave him the answer. He told him in no uncertain words and in no uncertain terms that the Federal agencies in Pennsylvania could not be investigated by either the Senate or this House. He apparently is not satisfied with the statement of law laid down by his own judge. Might I suggest that if he wishes WPA to be investigated that he go to the fountain seat where it should be investigated, that is in the Congress of the United States and not this House. I believe he has received his answer from a member of his own party.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. In accordance with the motion just agreed to, the Chair appoints the following committee: Messrs. Burke, Eberharter, Achterman, Peters, Roan and Witkin.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 88 as follows:

An Act imposing and providing for the collection of a tax for State purposes on the gross receipts of fines and penalties of persons co-partnerships associations and corporations derived from the collection of fines and penalties imposed upon delinquent accounts incident to the business of supplying water electric current and natural or artificial gas for domestic and industrial purposes

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the word "company" as used in this act shall be construed to include persons copartnerships associations and corporations but shall not include municipal and quasi-municipal corporations.

Section 2 Every company engaged in the business of supplying water electric current natural or artificial gas or any admixture of natural and artificial gas which imposes and collects a fine or penalty upon delinquent accounts shall be assessed and be liable to pay a tax for State purposes of fifty per centum upon each dollar of the gross receipts of such fines and penalties received by said company upon the business done wholly within this State

Section 3 For the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the tax it shall be the duty of every person or the treasurer or other proper officer or member of every copartnership association and corporation to transmit to the Department of Revenue on or before the first days of January and July of each year a report under oath or affirmation of the amount of gross receipts of the said company derived from fines and penalties imposed and collected by said company upon the business done wholly within this State during the period of six months immediately preceding the first days of December and June of each year.

The time for filing reports may be extended by the Department of Revenue as is now provided for by the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws three hundred forty-three) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commnwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" (Commonly known as "The Fiscal Code") and its amendments in the case of taxes on gross receipts of corporations associations copartnerships and individuals from business done wholly within this Commonwealth

Section 4 The taxes imposed by this act shall be settled by the Department of Revenue on reports filed and shall be collected in the same manner and subject to the same procedure in all respects as is provided by the said Fiscal Code for the settlement and collection of taxes on gross receipts from business done wholly within this Commonwealth Promptly after the date of any settlement the Department of Revenue shall send by mail or otherwise a copy thereof to the company with which the settlement was made

Section 5 If the Department of Revenue is not satisfied with the report filed by any company it is hereby authorized to make a settlement and determine the tax due based upon facts contained in the report or upon any information within its possession or that shall come into its possession and send such settlement promptly as hereinbefore required

Section 6 If no report has been filed as required by this act within the time prescribed by law or any extension thereof granted by the Department of Revenue then after demand by the Department of Revenue to file any report necessary to enable the department to settle any tax against the company if the department should deem it more conducive to the public interest because of the supposed smallness of the tax or for any other reason not to proceed to compel the exhibition of the taxpayers account it may make an estimated settlement from any previous account or from any other reasonable data of the probable amount of the account of the delinquent but in every such case it shall add to every such estimated settlement an amount not exceeding fifty per centum to include any losses which might otherwise accrue to the Commonwealth from such neglect or refusal to furnish accounts and the Department of Revenue shall proceed to recover the amount so due the Commonwealth as in other cases of tax accounts

From any estimated settlement there shall be no right to file a petition for review or to appeal but the Department of Revenue with the approval of the Department of the Auditor General may upon petition permit the required report to be filed and thereupon make a settlement based upon such report and cancel the estimated settlement From the department's refusal to permit the filing of a report in such cases there shall however be no right to file a petition for review or to appeal

Section 7 The tax imposed by this act shall become due and payable sixty days after the date of settlement unless there shall be a resettlement in which case the amount of the resettlement shall become due and payable sixty days after the date of the resettlement All such taxes shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from sixty days after the date of settlement until the same is paid except where appeals have been taken from settlements made by the Department of Revenue or by the Board of Finance and Revenue Any judgment recovered on such tax except where appeals have been taken as aforesaid shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum until paid and where resettlement has been made the balances finally found to be due the Commonwealth shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from sixty days after the date of the first or original settlement

Section 8 Any company aggrieved by a settlement made by the Department of Revenue may petition the department for a resettlement request by petition the Board of Finance and Revenue for a review of any resettlement made and appeal from the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue or in case of its failure to act in the same manner and within the same periods of time in all respects as is provided in the said Fiscal Code approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws three hundred forty-three) in the case of taxes on gross receipts of individuals done wholly within the State

Section 9 This act shall become effective

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 95, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act, approved the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred eighty-five (P. L. 193), entitled "A further supplement to an act, entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," by requiring all corporations incorporated by or under the laws of any other State, or of the United States, and doing business in this Commonwealth to designate a resident treasurer for certain purposes.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 85, as follows:

An Act to safeguard persons receiving or entitled to public relief or working in private employment from political coercion and to prevent political promises in return for public relief or a position of private employment and prescribing penalties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be unlawful for any person directly or indirectly to deny relief or a position of private employment or to take away or procure the taking away or to threaten to take away or threaten to procure the taking away any grant of relief or a position of private employment to or from any person who is lawfully entitled thereto for the reason that such person registered or refused to register in a certain political party or voted or refused to vote for the candidate or candidates of a certain political party or directly or indirectly to promise to grant or to promise to secure a grant of relief or a position of private employment for any person whether or not lawfully entitled thereto if such person promises or agrees directly or indirectly to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party It shall be unlawful for any person whether or not lawfully entitled to relief directly or indirectly to promise or agree to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party in order to procure or aid in procuring or to prevent the taking away of any relief or a position of private employment or to solicit relief or a position of private employment by directly or indirectly promising to register in a certain political party or to vote the candidate or candidates of a certain political party Any person violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) or to suffer imprisonment not exceeding one year or both

The word "relief" as used in this act shall mean any cash or check or any relief order redeemable in merchandise or any merchandise in kind paid for paid or payable out of public moneys appropriated or made available for the support of residents of this Commonwealth who are unemployed and without means of support.

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to make a few remarks with regard to this bill, with respect to its intentions and purposes and especially pertaining to the amendment.

In the section of the State where I come from, coercion and intimidation of our people has reached very serious proportions, and it would appear at this time that we ought to go along with this bill and its amendment, so that we may correct a serious evil.

In the big industrial towns and especially those that are dominated by the steel interests, our people are not permitted to exercise their citizenship, as guaranteed to them by the Constitution. I know of cases, not only a few but hundreds—yes, I would say thousands of them where men's jobs are dependent entirely on how they are registered, how they are lined up to vote, and they are checked closely. They have even got to the point where they check the records to find out how the wife and the members of the family, of voting age, are registered, the requirement being that they register in accordance with the desires of the employer, so that the bread-winner may hold his position.

I can show coercion in political matters in our distrct, can prove it beyond any reasonable doubt. We have a town called Aliquippa, where in 1934 there was approximately one hundred and fifty registered Democrats and there were nearly twelve thousand registered Republicans. The general election, however, brought forth approximately five thousand votes for the Democratic candidate, while it brought forth only three thousand votes for the Republican candidate. Where conditions of that kind exist, it is quite evident, it is self-evident that intimidation and coercion are carried into the workship, and private employers have gone far beyond their rights under the Constitution, and they are telling them if they don't like it to go on relief. They are really forcing men to sacrifice their rights as Americans and citizens and the right to vote and register as they please, and the right of the franchise, the right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness in this state and in this nation. In these industrial towns, I want to say that it is a sad plight. I hope that the membership of this House will take advantage of the opportunity by voting for this bill and its amendments, in order that we may be able to correct something that is serious in various sections, especially in Beaver County.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I cannot help but express my deep sense of appreciation, that we shall have reached the stage in this House where a Democrat speaks in behalf of a bill introduced by myself, and I thank him from the bottom of my heart.

Mr. SHUGARTS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I, too, would like to make a few remarks on the bill of my good friend, Mr. Witkin.

Well do I remember the year of 1932 when I was first a candidate for the Legislature, and the many ways in which an attempt was made by certain Republican leaders in my district to coerce the voters. Relief at that time, you will remember, was being handled by local boards supposed to be appointed without regards to politics. Somehow or other, the boards invariably had a ratio of approximately five Republicans to two Democrats. In many cases, six Republicans and one Democrat and then somehow the most active Republicans were placed on the different boards.

In the month of October, 1932, the following letter was sent to the different boards in my district: "The allocation for relief in your district for the month of November is so much (the amount being named). However, this money will not be available until you have used your October allowance. You will, therefore, upon receipt of this letter, proceed to distribute any excess funds you may have on hand in order to receive your November allowance promptly." What happened? The remaining funds were doled out with the following admonition, "This is good Republican money and there will be more forthcoming. If you appreciate it and desire to continue receiving relief funds, you should support the straight Republican ticket." At Woodland, Pennsylvania, Bradford Township, Clearfield County, the relief funds were distributed from the office of the Harbison Walker Refractories Company, Hope Plant. Ordinarily, the relief was given out on Saturday of each week starting at about 8:00 a. m. and continuing until all relief recipients in that district had been taken care of. On the Saturday before the general election in 1932, when the recipients of relief appeared at this office, the office was locked. At about 9:00 a. m., when practically all of the recipients had gathered there the bookkeeper appeared saying, "I am sorry to have kept you waiting but Mr. Stewart (who was assemblyman from that district) was to be here to address you. However, as he is ill, Mr. McClure will speak to you. Mr. McClure was and is, Superintendent of the Harbison Walker Refractories in that place. Whereupon, Mr. McClure proceeded to deliver a lecture on the necessity of supporting the Republican ticket. On election day, 1932, men were stationed at or near many of the polling places "buttonholeing" especially those on relief and promising additional flour or additional relief for a vote for the Republican ticket. Later, under our former "Governor", Mrs. Pinchot, our present relief set up was inaugurated and how was the personnel of that set-up selected? It has never been denied in my district, that the personnel including the investigators, were selected by the followers of our former governor and in the majority of cases were not selected upon ability to do the work but upon the ability to control votes. To be sure, about 5% of the personnel were Democrats in order that the set-up didn't smell too bad. In 1934 when our present governor was elected, or 1935 rather, when he took office, the relief situation in my county was very bad. Our governor appointed a relief director whom the most of you remember, Mr. Johnson. Having been pestered nearly to death by relief recipients and others in my district in regards to the coercive methods being used by our dis- Mr. Edward Jackson Thompson, held a conference with Mr. Johnson laying our complaints before him. Mr. Johnson very sauvely asked us if we would be willing to face the director of our district with our accusations to which we all agreed and a conference was arranged for the following day in Mr. Johnson's office. But what happened? Mr. Johnson happened to make a speech in Philadelphia that same evening and in his remarks used the following words: I quote: "Three politicians visited me in my office today threatening to murder a certain relief director unless he was immediately removed. As far as I am concerned, they will get exactly nowhere." Needless to say, we held no conference with Mr. Johnson as he had already passed judgment before the case was tried and he was told in language not any too polite, just where to go and how to get there. Having read his articles in the Saturday Evening Post some time ago, I was very highly amused at some of his statements how he endeavored to keep politics out of relief and called in the members of the Legislature from the different districts to talk over the qualifications of the personnel of the different boards to be established. So far he is correct in my case but what he did not tell reveals more truly the type of a relief director he was. One name submitted from my district was the name of a man who is his own worst enemy, if you know what I mean. In plain language, a man given to imbibe not wisely but too much. This happens very often and when his name was mentioned by Mr. Johnson as a good Democrat, I was forced by all rules of common sense and decency to object and tell Mr. Johnson why I objected. Before my colleague Mr. Hamilton and myself left Mr. Johnson's office he made the following remark, "I wish you would agree to the name of this man as a member of the board in your district as he is recommended to me as a very good Democrat." Now, I have since wondered whether or not Mr. Johnson was interested in making a success out of his work or in trying to blacken the Democratic administration of which he was a part, although by registration, a Republican.

I have always been opposed to any attempt to influence voters by coercive methods. I have been opposed to the making of political gestures to those who are in need or to making false promises to the needy or aged in return for their votes. I have seen in my district, men and women penalized both in relief and industry for the reason they were registered other than with the Republican Party. I have consistently refused to use my influence in relief matters except to see that all were given fair treatment regardless of party affiliation and ladies and gentlemen, our relief set-up in my district shows little change from the set-up originated during the Pinchot regime except a reduction in personnel and I can truthfully say to the membership of this House and the State as a whole, that I have never had aught to do with the selection of any of our relief personnel and investigators despite the fact that I am accused in my district by the editor of our daily paper of dipping my fingers in the precious patronage oils and of basking in the light of our Governor and state chairman of our party. Therefore, ladies and gentlemen of this House, I ask your support for this bill in its entirety in order to guarantee the right of free speech and the right of franchise that is promised us by our Constitution.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am arising in support of House Bill No. 85, because I think it is one of the finest pieces of legislation that has been introduced into this House for some time. It represents a new emancipation of thousands and thousands of my constituents and virtually reassures my relection to this House, because many of my friends have said to me "I would like to register and vote Democratic and support you and your party but my boss tells me, even though I am but a cook or maid in his house, I must register and vote Republican."

This bill releases them from all those restrictions, and I want to thank the minority leader of this House for his contribution to my campaign.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I want to thank the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, and I also want to be equally frank with him and tell him that I did not introduce this bill in order that he might be reelected. The reason I introduced it was that when I walked down the street in any part of the city of Philadelphia, in every corner of the city of Philadelphia and talked to anybody who is politically minded and particularly the WPA-ers and the recipients of relief, I want them to be in a position where they will be able to say to me in the future, and not as they have in the past, "we are glad you put that bill over, because even though we are getting relief, and even though we are working on the WPA and getting paid for our work, we still want to vote for the best party for the Commonwealth and for the country, the Republican party."

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in rising to support this bill I am reminded of an Irish funeral. Casey was dead and comfortably placed in his coffin.

The friends and members of the family had assembled for the usual Irish wake and sat around the corpse exchanging familiar and complimentary reminiscences of their deceased friend. The widow sat in silence.

The friends knew Pat was not a good husband, he had beaten his wife, he had abused the children and he had very meagerly supported his family when sober and not at all when drunk.

At last in characteristic Irish loyalty the widow broke her silence with a sigh. "Poor Pat" she said, "he sure was a foine husband. Every Saturday night he came home and gave me his pay envelope, just as regular as Saturday night came around. Of course there was never anything in it but it was the principle of the thing that counted!"

This is exactly why I am for this bill.

We know the record of the Republican party in Pennsylvania. Never since the days of Abraham Lincoln has it presented a measure to protect the voters from coercion, intimidation, nor bribery.

So now with charactertistic Democratic loyalty to our deceased and departed political brother, we must forget the abuses, contempt and bedeviled memories of the past and pay our compliments meagerly and solely upon the principle of the thing.

For forty-four years the Democrats of Pennsylvania have "taken it on the chin" and have come up smiling. This meaningless and empty duplication of the Act of 1860 is a clear demonstration that the languishing and demoralized Republicans are smarting under the lash of conscience and defeat and "cannot take it."

But why should the gentleman of Philadelphia feel so excited about the possibilities of relief as an inquisition of coercion and abuse? Does the gentleman from Philadelphia know from party tradition or history the very possibilities of political coercion among relief recipients?

In the vast experience of the Republican party in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, does he have some precedent to arouse his suspicions and excite his curiosity?

Verily "out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh." I take it for granted that the gentleman knows whereof he speaks and I accept his judgment in supporting this bill.

But we are not without sustaining facts in supporting the principle of the bill. On the very eve of the election that swept the Republican party from power, we participated in the arrest of an assistant highway superintendent who allegedly bribed, coerced, or threatened workmen for political support. The case was listed for trial in the Federal Courts of the Middle District of Pennsylvania but has never, to my knowledge been brought before the court.

The accused was not dismissed until the Administration changed and has recently been employed by one of the fiscal officers of this Commonwealth which now supports the party that sponsors this legislation.

I say if this bill is necessary to arouse the Republican party to the consummation of this case, we Democrats should be for it.

trict emergency relief director and his staff of investigators, I together with my colleague of Center County, Mr. John W. Decker and the Senator from our district,

In the same election reports were brought to me of offers of food orders for votes for the Republican candidates from within a stones throw of my home. In my investigations of relief conditions in my county I found that food orders were cashed at certain stores by political domination until one elderly relief worker exclaimed in vehemence "this is worse than Russia." I myself saw relief slips in a cross roads community which showed seventeen relief recipients regimented to patronize the store of the political leader of the Republican party of that community.

In the findings of the legislative committee to investigate Area 4 it was shown that the political complexion of the relief workers was preponderantly Republican.

In Cumberland County a poll of Relief Administrative employees showed 33 Republicans, 5 Democrats, and 5 not registered.

In our first CWA set-up we found 16 Republicans, 5 Democrats, and 4 not registered.

We found in the Works Division, 8 Republicans and 1 Democrat.

In Butler County I am reliably informed that the force of investigators contained one Democrat to 18 Republicans.

When recent orders were issued from Harrisburg to curtail the force the one Democrat was dismissed. If this legislation will serve to assure the Democrats a prorated representation in the personnel of the State Emergency Relief Administration we would be extremely thankful for a genuine application of the law of averages. But the purpose of this bill is not to provide safeguards to the voters of Pennsylvania. Neither is it presented to protect the relief recipients of the State. Genuine relief is not in the category of the legislative attainments of the Republican party. Even in providing funds for relief the policy of borrowing and raiding in the past is equalled now by evading and quibbling today.

The whole relief scheme is not ours "either in person nor in thought. It is the foundling which was laid at the doorstep of this Administration without food nor rainment except that which was snatched from the firemen, the highways and schools and hospitals of the State.

With an empty treasury we assumed parentage for your baby and without as much as washing its dirty face we accepted the responsibility of nurturing an infant which was conceived in iniquity and dedicated to the proposition that politicians must first be served.

If this bill serves us in the exposition of the evils of the present system I am for this bill.

In the report of the legislative investigating committee of Lawrence County recommendation No. 1, reads "The present method of employing administration employees including foremen and timekeepers on projects is an ideal set-up for either party or office politics as it is possible to give positions to those not in need of relief."

In an editorial in the Johnstown Democrat more than a year ago, we find this statement, "Robert L. Johnson, executive director, State Emergency Relief Administration and members of his Biddleized staff have been literally thumbing their fingers at the various pending efforts being made to investigate relief activities in particular local areas.

Johnson and members of his executive staff, composed of men and women whom Eric Biddle created in his own image, when confronted with evidences of graft, incompetency, favoritism, political bias, prejudice, personal politics and lack of moral qualifications enter only one defense. They say "It isn't so" We know better."

This arbitrary power of the SERB is most clearly emphasized in the report of the Committee to investigate Relief in Allegheny County in which relief officials are termed as both "judge and jury" in all disputes with clients. Commenting on the political control of the SERB as conceived and nurtured by its Republican parentage, Ed. Jones in a speech at Wilkes-Barre last December made these unchallenged remarks:

"I don't need to tell you—because you know—that there is not a single administrative member of the relief staff in Luzerne County who does not owe his job either to Judge Fine, Ambrose Langan, "Tug" Burns or Morgan Bird, every one of them political lieutenants of Gifford Pinchot."

That's Mr. Guyler—the gentleman who was Chief Lieutenant of Dole Dispenser Biddle through whom Dole Dispenser Biddle has continued to operate the State Emergency Relief Administration of Pennsylvania." If the bill of the gentleman from Philadelphia will cure the political defects and infections of our unruly and expensive foundling, I am for the bill.

We are now told that relief belongs to the counties. I am inclined to believe it. I sincerely regret that my bill 37 cannot be reported out of committee because it is not within the scope of the Governor's call.

I am convinced that we should have both local responsibility and local participation in relief disbursements not by sudden transition which will disrupt the orderly processes of transfer but by gradual assumption of the administration by agencies of local concern and local understanding.

But who created this bureaucratic system and why? We had local control and local participation under the Talbot acts. The system was faulty to be sure but not hopelessly so. Why then was it abandoned?

From the history and depredations of the SERB we must judge for two reasons, namely,

1. To provide a medium for playing "politics with human misery" and

2. To create a paradise for the social service graduate by stilted government subsidy rather than the effective functioning of theory in practical application and service.

In the splendid report of the Allegheny Committee this important statement stands in bold relief. "The necessity for less State control and more local control cannot be over emphacized. The SERB should be retained, for the purpose of determining allotments to various counties and with power to correct local conditions when necessary, but, subject to this, the manner, organization, distribution and planning of relief is a local problem." From the very beginning we have drifted farther and farther from local control. Dr. Wilbur F. Norcross, head of the Department of Psychology of Dickinson College resigned from the Chairmanship of the Relief Committee when the corroding and sinister hand of politics reached out under the former Administration to strangle free thought and local control.

His successor testified that most willingly did the Harrisburg office accept the resignation of local board members until all control was centered in Harrisburg. The bill under consideration does not strike at the heart of the situation.

It is not intended to. It is merely a vehicle for a play to the gallery. It is a cheap trick in political magic to divert the mind of the voter and taxpayer from the real issues before us. It is a bauble of morbid desire to be heard in political diatribes—empty and meaningless repetitions of stale and assinine arguments comparable only to the recordings of a cracked and battered phonograph record.

I am for this bill because it is in keeping wit hthe traditions of the Democratic minority in this house for generatons.

I am for this bill because it is in keeping with the tradiposes the apprehensions of the Republican minority when control passes from their counsels but I am for it most of all because we have clean hands and because the abuses and political chicanery of the SERB fall on the personnel collected and installed by the former administration and as yet undisturbed by the present Administration.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think if I speak from down here.—I know you all want to go down town—

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if in order to prevent my bill getting licked it is necessary for me to move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no second. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I know that you all want to get down town, and I don't want to delay you after that marvelous address by the gentleman from Cumberland. The gentleman from Philadelphia was correct when he attempted to move the previous question to prevent his bill from getting licked because I was for this bill up until the time the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Reising and Mr. Shugarts and Mr. Mr. Smith and the others got on this floor and started to talk for this bill. I am now against it.

Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, very seriously speaking I feel—I don't make many speeches in this House—the trouble with the gentleman from Cumberland is that he is talking about something that happened in the past, while the gentleman from Philadelphia intends this bill to correct present abuses. Now, I was with him on that. I thought after seeing the fancy way in which these votes have been mustered, I was absolutely for this bill but when Mr. Reising arises on this floor and tells us that he knows of a thousand cases out in his county and out in his district, and I hear these others tell me of the things that we have been trying to do in our own county,—I have been trying to get the manufacturers to do the things that you fellows have been talking about, and we can't get it done. Therefore, I don't want to do anything to discourage them at the present time.

Very seriously I have been sitting over on the other side of this hall among those distinguished men, excluding the gentleman from Philadelphia.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Welsh, will state his point of order.

Mr. WELSH. The gentleman is not talking on the bill, Mr. Speaker. He is telling where he has been sitting, and one thing and another.

The SPEAKER. The point of order of the gentleman from Fayette is well taken.

Mr. WELSH. He is taking up too much time.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order. The gentleman has already stated his point of order and now he is talking again.

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, if I may permitted to do so, I would like to make an announcement.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be permitted to do so.

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there will be a meeting of the Republicans at the Penn-Harris Hotel at midnight, June 15, for the purpose of joint debate, and I hope you will soon call the roll.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I hope this House will be in order when the gentleman is speaking, because I realize that in that white suit he ought to have a chance to be heard and seen both when he is speaking.

I covered about the first hour of my speech, but unfortunately Mort Witkin took my notes and gave them to Herb Cohen. If you fellows will take me seriously for a moment, I want to say, Mr. Welsh, that I sat with you on this side of the House — — —

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Northampton, Mr. VanSickle will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. VANSICKLE. Mr. Speaker, should not the gentleman be at his seat that he is talking about under Rule 62?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Northampton is correct, inasmuch as the gentleman from Delaware is not speaking from his own seat.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The Speaker. The Chair hears no second to the motion. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in the second episode where Marjory returns to her mother—

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the roll.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. I rise to a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I heard no motion and I heard no count from the Chair. Therefore, there has been no previous motion made or seconded. I ask for the privilege of proceeding. I demand my constitutional rights.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner will proceed.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I renew my motion for the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks renews his previous motion. Are there any seconders to the motion? The Chair does not hear enough seconders. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in the third episode, where Herman returns in time to save the mortgaged premises and father is allowed to vote as he pleases—I merely want to say this in conclusion, that I felt I would vote for this bill, but when so many of the Democrats are in favor of this bill I cannot break the custom of this session in the midst of the session,—I shall not swap horses in mid-stream I shall continue to vote "No" against any bill that this Democratic side feels is such a wonderful piece of legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the years and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Turner,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time, House Bill No. 61, Printer's No. 114, on page 4, of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. REISING.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 61, entitled:

An Act imposing an income tax for State purposes on residents of Pennsylvania including fiduciaries and on income of non-residents derived from property or business in Pennsylvania defining taxable income and requiring filing of returns thereof providing for the assessment collection and lien of said tax providing for administration and enforcement of the act by the Department of Revenue conferring powers and imposing duties on certain persons partnerships associations corporations State officers employes and departments making an appropriation and imposing penalties.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for the purpose of further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. REISING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to rise to oppose this motion. To my mind the time is here now that we should carry this bill forward because it plays a vital part in helping our real estate taxpayers. After hearing what we have heard here tonight it is self-evident that there is no need to longer hold this bill on the calendar for any purpose other than that which the bill calls for at this time. I would ask the members of this House to vote the motion down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. WICKERSHAM.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The Committee on State Government will meet tomorrow at 11:45 a. m. in Room 324.

The Committee on Ways and Means will hold a public hearing on House Bill No. 130 tomorrow at 2:00 P. M. in the House Caucus Room.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

Mr. LARUE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, tomorrow afternoon, at three o'clock, is the hour and day set for the memorial services of the four deceased members of this House.

We would ask as many members of the House as possible to be present at that hour, to try and make this program a success.

RESOLUTION

Mr. MURRIN offered a resolution which was filed with the Clerk under the rules.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. CHERVENAK. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until 12:00 o'clock noon.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 12:42 A. M.) the House adjourned until Tuesday, June 16, 1936, at 12:00 o'clock noon.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JUNE 16, 1936. No. 20.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JUNE 16, 1936.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Our Father and our God, in moments of thoughtfulness we stand amazed before the accomplishments of man's intellect, ingenuity and inventive power. These have wrought wonders and have revolutionized the earth. They have benignly touched every department of our being, radiating light, lifting burdens, relieving pain, preserving life and conquering space.

We would lay all these miracles at Thy feet, O God, because the men who have performed them are Thy children and have inherited their genius from Thee. As we enjoy the wonderful world in which we live, tune our life to sing Thy praise—gird us to fight to keep our earthly abode beautiful, so that it may increasingly express Thy glory and Thy creative power. May the actions of this Senate help unveil the face of God to a beholding humanity.

We ask these favors in the name of our Master. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. EALY, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITION

COMMITTEE TO DRAFT RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF THE LATE SENATOR FROM BERKS HONORABLE JAMES E. NORTON

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has appointed the following committee to arrange for the memorial services for the late Senator from Berks Honorable James E. Norton.

The Senator from Berks, Mr. Ruth, the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Staudenmeier, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris and the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Roberts.

RECESS

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for fifteen minutes.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, will state his question of personal privilege.

The Committee on State Government, of which I have the honor to be Chairman, had committed to it at various times the following measures:

House Bill No. 49 (Senate Bill No. 39), which is an amendment to certain sections of the Mothers' Assistance Law.

House Bill No. 59 (Senate Bill No. 55), which broadens the scope of the Mothers' Assistance Law, and Senate Bill No. 14, relating to Old Age Assistance.

Nothing has been introduced in the Senate, nor come to us from the House, suggesting any statutory changes in the Pennsylvania system of Pensions for the Blind, and it is assumed therefore that none is necessary.

It is appropriate to group these measures as being the measures necessary to bring the existing Pennsylvania pension systems into conformity with the Federal Social Security Law.

With the exception of Senate Bill No. 14, these measures are of Democratic sponsorship in the lower House, which passed them with the general understanding that they were administration measures and in such form as to meet with the approval of the Attorney General's office. Certainly we have the right to assume as much, because I have not heard of any expressions to the contrary, and as Chairman of the Committee on State Government, there has been no communication to me from the Attorney General's office of disapproval or criticism.

Senate Bill No. 14, is sponsored by our able Democratic colleague, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Frey, and I am certain that in a matter of such importance, he would not offer to this Senate the bill now before us unless it had the approval of the distinguished Attorney General.

What is intended to be accomplished by these measures is not the establishment of a system of pensions embracing assistance to mothers with dependent children, and old age assistance to the indigent, but the intent is to change the Pennsylvania statutes placed upon our books years previously by Republican Administrations so as to procure from the Federal government additional sums for these purposes. It should be remembered that before the present so-called Social Security was born in Washington, with the Townsend Plan as its father, and the Huey Long Share-the-Wealth as its mother, Pennsylvania had established and in operation, and made actual by millions of dollars of state money appropriated, plans to help those who needed it. The Republican Party, therefore, has by concrete works, evidenced a sincere desire to solve these questions. What I do wish to make clear is that while the interest of the Republican Party is emphatically continued, as legislators we must not be held responsible for any failure that may arise out of the incompetent and hasty legislative treatment of the subjects as they are now before us.

To this end, the Committee on State Government feels the necessity of preserving the Pennsylvania systems as they presently exist against future collapse, which may occur either by reason of the unconstitutionality of the Federal act, or the discontinuance of Federal grants. That the latter contingency is not far-fetched is evidenced by the Federal government's arbitrary and unexpected treatment of Pennsylvania in the matter of unemployment relief, when the President by decree stopped unemployment relief grants and left Pennsylvania with an account receivable which has not yet been paid, amounting to over $15,000,000 as the distinguished Senator from Cumberland, Dr. Prince, has recently demonstrated upon the floor of this Senate.

In order that we may not again be left holding an empty bag, automatic repeals have been attached to these measures so that insofar as it is legislatively possible, if Washington should suddenly issue another mandate or decree, Pennsylvania will surely return to its Republican-created plans of pension without loss or detriment to those who have been the beneficiaries of them.

The Committee found it impossible in the matter of mothers' assistance to change the elective system to a compulsory system, which the Federal law requires as compliance with it, without violence to our Constitution. That fundamental question has been hurdled in these bills by the provision that the counties which have refused to comply with the provisions of the law as to organize mothers' assistance, will be able to receive, without the expenditure of a dollar by them, as much in one year as the complying counties have received over a two-year period by matching with county funds the sum contributed by the State.

There was appropriated at the 1935 session $4,115,000 for mothers' assistance. According to the provisions of existing law, $4,082,072 was ear-marked for distribution to sixty-two counties, with mothers' assistance boards organized, the money to be distributed pro rata according to population. This meant that an equal sum contributed by these sixty-two counties would be available for the same purpose. The following counties were not at the time of the enactment of the appropriation measures, and have not since organized mothers' assistance boards; consequently, the State Treasurer, in accordance with law, has set aside for their use the sums hereafter indicated, contingent upon organization:

Elk County	$14,284
Forest County	2,214
Fulton County	3,944
Perry County	9,290
Pike County	3,196
	$32,928

In addition thereto, the following three counties, which have organized Mothers' Assistance Boards, have failed to certify that they have appropriated county money to meet the requirements of the Mothers' Assistance Law, and consequently no funds have been paid from the State Treasury upon the allocation made under the existing law.

These counties, with the amount allocated for the biennium, are as follows:

Beaver County	$68,644
Clearfield County	37,200
Fayette County	85,542
Total	$191,386

After a careful study of this question, we are of the opinion that the amendments to State Law now proposed will make the total sums set aside for these counties available to them for the second year of the biennial period, without contribution by them for the first year, to the discrimination of the fifty-nine counties that are matching the State funds. I submit that this raises a grave question, and further would seem to be an encouragement to other counties to discontinue their contributions.

When political sub-divisions, not contributing, may receive equally generous treatment, how long will the county contribution or matching system continue under these circumstances? If the system so carefully set up as to equal responsibility is to be destroyed, then our Democratic friends must assume the responsibility for it.

There is another glaring inconsistency in the treatment of the subject. Pennsylvania has accorded assistance to mothers because they have had dependent children. The Federal act contemplates care of dependent children regardless of whether they are in the custody of the mother or otherwise. The fundamental thought underlying Pennsylvania's treatment of the subject is the preservation of the home and the retention of the child under maternal care. These measures complacently ignore this entire subject of variance of treatment, even to the point of failing to define what is a dependent child.

The Republican platform, adopted at Cleveland last Thursday, declares that:

"Society has had an obligation to promote the security of the people, by affording some measure of protection against involuntary unemployment and dependency in old age security."

One of the principles upon which this policy is based, is stated in the platform to be:

"Each state and territory, upon complying with simple and general minimum standards, should receive from the Federal Government a graduated contribution in proportion to its own, up to a fixed maximum."

The Federal "Social Security Act," while admirable in its purposes of enabling the several states to make more adequate provision for aged persons, blind persons, dependent and crippled children, maternal and child welfare, public health, and unemployment compensation, nevertheless places drastic restrictions upon the several states. It prescribes the legislative discretion of Pennsylvania and of every other State, by forcing the state to comply with the Federal plan, even though the Federal plan may be in defiance of the mandates of the Constitution of the state. The Federal act, therefore, in its restrictive features, is not in harmony with the policy of the Republican party which demands that grants shall come from Washington to the several states upon simple and general minimum standards. As contrasted with New Deal policy, the Republican party concedes that the right of the state to pass laws upon subjects reserved to the state, a right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, shall remain inviolate.

Hence Republican members of the Senate are confronted with a dilemma; whether to support bills we believe to be hastily drawn, uncertain as to interpretation; inequitable in operation, and of doubtful constitutionality; or to amend them in vital features, thereby risking Washington's refusal to make grants.

Under these conditions, we dare not amend them, as we would, were it possible to exercise freely our discretion as legislators. We are at the mercy of a bureaucracy at Washington, which may withhold grants unless we abdicate our Legislative discretion and bow in submission to the will of the Social Security Board. Whatever our views may be as to the wisdom of certain provisions in the three bills which are today on our third reading calendar, we must pass them in their present form, lest by any further act of ours in perfecting these bills by amendment, the Federal Social Security Board may find it advantageous for political reasons to further withhold grants provided for under the Social Security Act, which grants are imperatively needed by Pennsylvania's aged, and by Pennsylvania mothers with dependent children.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 39 (House Bill No. 49), as follows:

An Act to amend sections four and five of the Act approved the nineteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one thousand three hundred fifty-one) entitled "An act making appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of an act approved the tenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred ninety-three) entitled 'An act providing for assistance to certain mothers providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth and for the appointment of a State Supervisor and assistants and fixing the salaries of such State Supervisor and assistants defining the powers and duties of boards of trustees including the power of appointing assistants and investigators and the distribution of funds at their disposal providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties and requiring counties coming under the provisions of the act to appropriate certain moneys and providing penalties' as amended" by providing for the payment in newly organized counties of amounts set aside for unorganized counties for both the first and second fiscal years of the current biennium and suspending certain provisions of this act in case Federal aid for dependent children shall fail for any reason

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section four and five of the Act approved the nineteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one thousand three hundred fifty-one) entitled "An act making appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of an act approved the tenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred ninety-three) entitled 'An act providing for assistance to certain mothers providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth and for the appointment of a State Supervisor and assistants and fixing the salaries of such State Supervisor and assistants defining the powers and duties of boards of trustees including the power of appointing assistants and investigators and the distribution of funds at their disposal providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties and requiring counties coming under the provisions of the act to appropriate certain moneys and providing penalties' as amended" are hereby amended to read as follows

Section 4 No county shall receive its allotment of the State appropriation available for any year under the method of distribution provided by this act unless such county [has accepted the provisions of the act approved the tenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred ninety-three) as amended and] has placed at the disposal of the board of trustees a sum equal to the amount available from the State appropriation for such year [No county shall receive any sum from the State under sections two and three of this act unless such county shall appropriate a like sum for the same purpose] or such other amount if any as the Department of Welfare shall determine in the manner provided by law

Section 5 Out of the amount hereinbefore appropriated there shall be set apart for the counties not organized under the Mothers' Assistance System on the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four a sum equal to the amount that would be their allocation if the amount available for Mothers' Assistance were allocated to counties on the basis of population The amount thus allocated to any unorganized county shall be [divided by the State Treasurer into two equal parts and one such part shall be available for each] available during the second fiscal year of the biennium to such county after it becomes organized as required by law Any unorganized county organizing during the [first or] second fiscal year of the biennium shall be required to match only such portion as would have been available for the [months of] [the year or] second fiscal [period remaining after such acceptance] year had such county been organized at the beginning of the fiscal period

Section 2 The purpose of this act is to qualify all counties of this Commonwealth under the Mothers' Assistance Law and thus to enable the Commonwealth to receive Federal grants for aid to dependent children under Title four of the Social Security Act

In the event that Title four of the Social Security Act shall be held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States or shall be repealed and Federal grants for aid to dependent children shall fail for such or for any other reason whatever then so long as Federal grants for aid to dependent children shall not be available to this Commonwealth no county shall receive any sum from the State under sections two and three of this act unless such county shall appropriate a like sum for such purpose The Department of Welfare shall have no power to determine that any county may appropriate any other amount in order to receive its allotment of the State appropriation To the extent of any inconsistency the foregoing provisions of this act shall in such cases be suspended so long as Federal aid for dependent children shall not be available to this Commonwealth and the provisions of this section shall be in force

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, last night when this bill was on the calendar, there were amendments offered, and having listened to the amendments as they were read from the desk, I was of the opinion that the amendments would have the effect of possibly destroying the bill and delaying this procedure. This morning I have read the amendments carefully and I have discussed the matter with the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, and I am of the opinion that the amendments are proper and will not affect the bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:
